Gloves Come Off As U.S. Campaign Enters Stretch

Kennedy Seeks Debate, 'Bring Ike Along', Taunt

NEW YORK (CP)—It looks as though the gloves are coming off as the campaign for the United States presidential election heads into the stretch.

Both Democratic Senator John Kennedy and Republican Vice-President Richard Nixon traded increasingly sharper shafts Monday as campaigning entered the last week before the Nov. 8 voting day.

Kennedy, swinging through the Philadelphia area, again issued a challenge to Nixon to hold a fifth television debate before the election. He said Nixon could bring President Eisenhower along if he was afraid to appear alone.

Appearing with his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, at a night rally in Ridgewood, N.J., Nixon called Kennedy's suggestion "juvenile."

Nixon also took a slam at Kennedy's vice-presidential partner, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson. The Democratic vice-presidential hopeful has been taking opposite sides on civil rights issues depending on what part of the country they were in, Nixon said.

"What the country really needs is a debate between Jack and Lyndon."

Nixon issued a statement in Philadelphia calling for a doubling of the present authorization for admission of 154,000 immigrants yearly. He proposed that largely unused quotas such as that for British Isles be distributed to other countries.

INTENSIFIED DRIVE

Kennedy flew to Los Angeles overnight, opening an intensified drive that will carry him to 17 states in the final week of the campaign.

Nixon went to Ridgewood Monday after a two-hour luncheon conference with President Eisenhower, although it was not officially announced by the White House after the meeting. It was expected the president will speak this weekend in Cleveland and Pittsburgh in an increased effort to help the campaign.

Nixon meanwhile campaigned in Pennsylvania and New York State.

LODGE UNDISMAYED

Lodge told audiences in New Jersey Monday he is not disheartened by recent indications the Democrats are leading in some key states.

"The voters will predict what's going to happen. The most you can expect is that I will show you how it was the day the poll was taken."

In his speech at Springfield, Mo., generally agreed to be anti-Roman Catholic, Senator Johnson said that if people vote "solely for a Democrat because a Catholic it would mean telling all U.S. Catholics they could not hold the presidency.

"As the pendulum swings back and forth, it is high time to call a tame thing to the Baptists or the Methodists and extend it so on through all the religions."

Canada to Seek To Rally UN Small Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Canada was expected to raise a rallying cry for the middle and smaller powers today in an effort to crack the disarmament impasse between East and West.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green was scheduled to present a formal resolution saying, in effect, that non-nuclear powers should try to introduce an agreement into disarmament negotiations.

Debate resumes in the 99-member political committee with this speaking list: New Zealand, Ethiopia, Cuba, Canada, Hungary, Burma and Morocco.

In the third week of disarmament debate, the committee is in a deadlock, with commentators calling "filibuster" terms to describe the discussion.

BOYCOTT THREATENED

Soviet Premier Khrushchev, before leaving the 15th General Assembly, said his country would boycott the committee unless his disarmament formula—including a drastic revision of the UN secretariat itself—were used as the basis of negotiation. The threat has been repeated by Soviet spokesmen.

Green outlined the Canadian government's view on disarmament Oct. 19 before the political committee, his first chance for a formal presentation of a resolution scheduled until today.

Queen Promises Britons More Time in Pubs

LONDON (CP) — The speech from the throne by the Queen, opening a new session of Parliament, has promised Britons more beer-drinking time.

The speech, written by cabinet ministers, said that the government plans "to reform licensing laws."

To Britons accustomed to being tipped out of their pubs at 10:30 p.m. every night, the promise is music to the drinking ear. It constituted the best news in the outline of the legislative program for government business to be dealt in the coming year.

Home Secretary R. A. Butler intends to increase the drinking hours and also unify them under the regulations. With the tourist trade in mind he thinks it should also be possible to buy beer with supper up to 2 a.m. all over the country, instead of just in London as at present.

WILL APPLY TO ALL

His new rules will apply to all types of alcoholic drinks but for Britons, consuming beer is the basic public activity.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: In contrast to the fine autumn weather during late October the weather over Ontario on this first day of November is dull and wet. A disturbance near Lake Superior is causing brisk winds and showers over Southern Ontario and more general rain over Northern Ontario. Some snow and freezing rain is reported in northwestern sections of the province. As the disturbance moves into Hudson Bay Wednesday, colder temperatures with rain or snow are forecast in Northern Ontario. Variable cloudiness and cooler temperatures are expected in southern regions.

ONTARIO'S NET CAPITAL DEBT UP $93,022,661

Increase Last Year Greatest In History

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's net capital debt soared $93,022,661 to $993,554,661 in the last fiscal year, Provincial Treasurer James N. Allan disclosed Monday.

Commenting on the abridged public accounts statement, Premier Frost said Monday night it shows he was not "crying wolf" when he asked Ottawa five years ago for a new tax-sharing deal, and asked again at the two federal-provincial fiscal conferences this year.

The increase was the greatest in the province's history. In the previous fiscal year the debt rose $81,926,000, a figure $21,- 508,000 higher than 1958.

Mr. Allan said the increase for the fiscal year which ended March 31, was $30,000,000 less than estimated in the 1960-61 budget.

LESS PER CAPITA

During the last three years the net debt has risen more than in the five previous years combined. But Mr. Allen said the burden per capita is not as great now as when the debt was 29 per cent of the gross domestic income of Ontario citizens. Today it was only 9.7 per cent.

Capital expenditures on highways and public buildings such as mental hospitals caused the major part of the increase. But the cost of the debt itself, in interest, exchange, discount and other factors amounted to $37,- 156,000 compared with $27,345,- 999 in 1958-59.

When he presented his budget last February, Mr. Allan said the net capital debt increased by $528,000,000 in the last 15 years, but physical assets estimated at $1,500,000,000 were created.

USED ORDINARY REVENUE

In the last fiscal year Ontario used $30,000,000 worth of ordinary revenue to help finance capital disbursements out of ordinary revenue.

Liquor revenue set a record— $130,300,000. This was $370,000 more than the previous year and $200,000 more than estimated.

Total ordinary revenue for the year was $767,459,392 compared with $642,374,227 in the previous year. Net ordinary expenditure was $701,606,902, and in 1958-59, it was $542,070,152.

Lesage Pledges Investigation Of Nazi Party

MONTREAL (CP)—There will be no beer-hall putsch or other Nazi uprising subsequent to Quebec "if I can help it," Premier Lesage said Monday night.

He gave this assurance to the biennial convention of the Zionist Organization of Canada and promised a full investigation of Nazi activities in the province if he closed Sunday night on the CBC television program Newsmagazine.

The program was a filmed report on Adrien Arcand (Exhibit 40, of Sorel, Que., self-styled leader of the Canadian Nazi party.

Archbishop of Canterbury to Meet Pope, First Time Since Henry VIII

LONDON (AP)—An archbishop of Canterbury will meet the Roman Catholic pope next month for the first time since Henry VIII broke with the pope in 1534 over the royal divorce and set up the Church of England.

Archbishop Geoffrey Fisher, spiritual leader of the Church of England, announced today he will make a "courtesy visit" to Pope John XXIII at the Vatican Dec. 2 or Dec. 1-3 stopover on his way from Rome to Jerusalem and Istanbul.

While in the Middle East, Dr. Fisher will meet with prelates of the Eastern Orthodox Church in Jerusalem and Istanbul.

Vatican sources hailed the visit as a step toward unity, but warned against expecting any immediate or dramatic development.

The archbishop's decision apparently resulted from this year's conference of the Protestant World Council of Churches in Geneva, which the Catholic monsignors attended as observers. Word was passed their visit to Pope John would be glad to receive Dr. Fisher.

The main obstacle to rejoining the two churches remains the Roman Catholic claim that the pope is the successor of St. Peter, first bishop of Rome, and therefore supreme head of the church.

Archbishop Fisher recently in his diocesan magazine said that Britain's attitude toward closer relations between the varied Christian churches "is changing rapidly" and "we must enter into the unity of spirit with . . . Christians of other families."

The Pope has called an ecumenical council — probably for 1962—as a step toward bringing the various Christian faiths together.

Of all the Protestant churches whose creation ended the unity of faith in Europe, the Church of England has remained closest to Roman Catholicism in ritual and belief.

New Party Shows Unexpected Strength in Peterborough

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Party commanded new respect from Canada's old-line Conservative and Liberal parties Monday.

The yet-to-be - completed alliance of the CCF and Canadian Labor Congress gave notice by its electoral baptism of fire in two of four federal byelections Monday that it could become a more potent voice-winning force in some districts areas than the CCF it is replacing.

The New Party showed unexpected muscle in capturing the traditionally - Conservative seat in Peterborough, where the CCF had never shown much strength. Although the candidate ran third in Niagara Falls, he polled a much larger vote than the CCF entry there in the last federal general election.

Although the New Party won't formally come into being until it's constitution is approved, it has entered candidates in the two Ontario constituencies. It didn't contest the two Quebec seats or those in New Brunswick. A straight CCF candidate wound up a poor third behind Conservative and Liberal entries in the latter constituency.

The victory in Peterborough represented a 10,000-vote swing over from the 1958 general election when the late Gordon K. Fraser, who had held the seat for the Conservatives since 1940, polled 19,032 votes against a combined total of 9,467 for three opponents. In that election the CCF candidate got 6.6 per cent of the votes cast. Monday, the New Party entry received about 40 per cent.

The four byelections Monday brought to 10 the number called since the Conservatives accepted their smashing election victory March 31, 1958, capturing 208 of 265 House of Commons seats against 49 Liberals and eight CCF.

The Conservatives have won five of the 10 byelections, retaining six seats they previously held from the Liberals. Two of the four Liberal victories were in Liberal seats and the other two were at the expense of the Conservatives. The Conservatives have suffered a net loss of two seats while the Liberals and New Party registered a net gain of two apiece.

The CCF entered candidates in each of the preceding nine byelections and all ran behind Conservative and Liberal entries.

The Conservatives held the Ontario capital says that byelection vic-

Goodfellow Says Advertising Could Increase Sales to U.K.

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Goodfellow said Monday that Canada's marketing boards are up a committee to advertise farm products in the United Kingdom, the "safest and surest" market for Canadian farm products.

He replied to questions during farm advertising efforts of Ontario Federation of Agriculture annual meeting here, attended by 400 delegates.

Mr. Goodfellow said a promotion committee would encourage export of cheddar cheese, canned fruits and vegetables, and durum wheat. The U.K. would be the "safest market" if "quality was right" and only if quality continued to improve, he warned.

Vice-president and secretary of federation meeting discussed Canadian and United States farm competition and urged greater co-operation.

Dr. John F. Brown of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association said the Canadian government some times turns down growers' requests for protection against foreign farm products for fear of retaliation.

F. J. Rissler, U.S. agricultural attache to Canada, said the U.S. purchased $205,000,000 worth of livestock, pork and wheat from Canada in the last three years and was one of her best customers.

Dr. W. C. Hopper said Canadians were even better customers for U.S. food products, buying per capita $40 a year, while Americans bought only $1.25 worth.

Mr. Goodfellow announced later at a press conference a new national meeting here, attended by 600 delegates.

ARMED FORCES' PAY, ALLOWANCES ARE INCREASED

Boosts Also Apply To Reserve Forces

OTTAWA (CP)—The government on Hallowe'en night unmasked increases in pay and subsistence allowances for most of the 120,000-odd members of Canada's three armed forces. They affect just about every rank from private to rear admiral.

Associate Defence Minister Sevigny said the increases, ranging from $90 for a private, ordinary seamen or aircraftsman second class to $1,606 for a rear admiral, major-general or air commodore, will be retroactive to Oct. 1.

All increases apply to the reserve as well as regular forces.

Officials said it may take some time to figure out the exact costs to the government.

SERVICE CONSIDERED

Boosts in basic pay go to all non-commissioned officers and men, with the largest increases directed at experienced servicemen with six or more years service and to skilled tradesmen.

An increase of $106 a year, for example, goes to "a number" of privates in the Group 1 level and $216 for some in Group 4.

Mr. Sevigny in a statement that initially about 17,000 men at the Group 3 level and Group 4 will qualify for the special increases "and following further review others may qualify."

He said the increases, which follow by some months salary increases for the civil service and members of the RCMP, give "special" attention to improving the position of married members of the forces who are not provided with living accommodation by the department.

STEP UP ALLOWANCES

Subsistence allowances have been stepped up for the first time since 1953. The last pay increases were in 1957.

Boosts in special allowances for medical and dental officers were also made for the first time since 1941. They range from $480 a year for dentists of the rank of captain to $1,140 to colonel.

The lowest increase of $48 in pay and $48 in subsistence allowance for a total of $96 a year goes to unmarried army privates. Sergeants' gains are $180 in second class.

Married men of the same rank receive an additional boost of $48 in living allowance, since the money paid servicemen living in barracks or government-provided homes.

Constitutional Reform Will Be Subject of Discussion

OTTAWA (CP)—Provincial attorneys-general meet here Wednesday with Justice Minister Fulton and leading law experts in the federal government for stage two of talks on constitutional reform.

The first meeting between provincial and federal law officers chiefs was held here Oct. 5-7.

The meeting has a specific purpose: To find a way to bring the British North America Act into purely Canadian jurisdiction and to find a way to make constitutional amendments to the BNA Act in Canada.

The BNA Act, the basic written constitution of the country, is a statute originally passed by the United Kingdom Parliament in 1837 and still controlled by Westminster. The Canadian Parliament has asked the Queen to have BNA Act amendments passed only by approval to the U.K. Parliament.

The main problem is to find a way to make constitutional amendments in Canada protecting the rights of both the federal and provincial Parliaments and at the same time safeguarding principles of parliamentary government and allowing for flexibility to meet changing times.

A series of conferences in 1950 failed to unite the two.

The October conference this year agreed that a way should be found "as soon as possible" to transfer the power to amend the Canadian constitution from Britain to Canada.

Quebec Minister of Youth Paul Gerin-Lajoie, a constitutional expert who was his province's delegate to the October conference, expressed for immediate transfer of the power to Canada. He said the conference could decide later how to exercise the power once it was vested in Canada.

Other delegates said the conference must first find a way to amend the constitution before getting power to do so.

After the October conference, federal and provincial legal experts were given the task of devising formulas that might be employed.

French on Guard As Revolt Goes Into 7th Year

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Algeria's bloody nationalist rebellion entered its seventh year today amid growing international support and a promise by rebel leader Ferhat Abbas to "fight on to victory."

French troops reinforced security precautions in Algiers and the Algerian-Tunisian and Moroccan frontiers to guard against any insurgent attempt to make the country run by a bloodbath.

Neighboring Morocco and Tunisia both decreed a national day of solidarity with Algeria to mark the anniversary.

Liberals Take 2, New Party Wins In Peterborough

Conservatives Hold N.B. Seat With Small Majority

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The House of Commons got its first New Party member and a fourth woman MP Monday as the Progressive Conservatives lost three of four federal byelections, yielding two seats in the process.

In nutshell, the Conservatives lost the Ontario seat of Peterborough to the New Party and Quebec's Labelle to the Liberals while retaining the New Brunswick seat of Royal and the Liberals held onto Niagara Falls.

Liberal and New Party spokesmen saw the over-all results as an indication of a lack of confidence in the Conservative government. The Conservatives, while disappointed, said it was not unusual for a government with a very large majority to suffer such byelection losses.

The New Party, its label on a federal ballot for the first time, scored an amazing triumph in Peterborough, where the Conservatives had held sway for 20 years and won in the 1958 general election by 11,778 votes.

SHOOK HANDS AT CLOTHES

Walter Pitman, 31-year-old civic legiate teacher who conducted a personalized campaign with 15 minutes of hand-shaking each morning at factory gates before going to his classes, won with 9,938 votes.

Second in the candidate there of the CCF, which with the Canadian Labor Congress is fostering the New Party, polled only 1,837 of the 28,499 votes cast.

The other byelection winners were Judy Lamarsh, 35-year-old lawyer, in Niagara Falls; Hugh John Flemming, 61, new federal forestry minister and former New Brunswick premier in Royal; and Gaston Clermont, 46-year-old Trudeau businessman, in Labelle.

The new standing in the 265-member House of Commons: Conservative 205; Liberal 50; CCF 8; New Party 1; Vacant 1. The vacancy is Jacques-Cartier in Montreal, Quebec, represented by former defence minister Pickersgill until his appointment as B.C. lieutenant-governor in early October.

In Peterborough, Mr. Pitman had 13,208 votes to 10,240 for Con-

Canadian Beef Boom Appears To Be Declining

OTTAWA (CP)—The bloom of the Canadian beef boom is some gravy remains, latest figures show.

As expected, exports to the United States this year are running behind 1959 when 1,000,000 head were valued at $60,000,000 in live cattle and meat products.

But no serious price break is expected in Canada, marketing officials say.

The Canadian cattle population at June 1 was a record 11,500,000 head, chiefly due to a continued build-up in beef cows. But domestic demand is good.

The boom began in 1957 when live cattle exports hit 1,000,000 compared with 49,000 head in 1956. Meat-packing of U.S. origin was under way then. Now U.S. beef has built up to a record level expected to reach 100,- 000,000 Jan. 1, indicating continued lower prices there which in turn will affect price levels in Canada.

Is Given Life For Killing 26 Jews in Camp

HAGEN, West Germany (Reuters)—Paul Thomanek, 51 - year - old former concentration camp official, was sentenced Monday to hard labor for life for his part in the murder of 26 Jews during the Second World War.

He was found guilty on 26 counts of murder and other charges of attempted murder aiding murder and manslaughter.

Was Not Fleeing, Just Got Drunk On Prison Brew

KINGSTON (CP)—James Pike, charged with escaping from a medium - security Joyceville institution last August, was acquitted Monday by a jury which he became drunk on "homebrew" prison beer he had smuggled and passed out.

Pike was sentenced to three months on a charge of being at large unlawfully. Pike said he bought "homebrew" from guards for four gallons of the brew in the penitentiary kitchen.

Transplant Kidney

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—Doctors at Edinburgh Royal Infirmary disclosed Monday they had made British medical history by transplanting a kidney taken from a man to his identical twin brother in a six-hour operation.

The twin, Lewis Abbot, 49, was in hospital with a kidney disease.

His brother, Martin, agreed to donate one of his kidneys.

One Death and Several Accidents Mar Trick-or-Treat Celebrations

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Trick-or-treat youngsters announced on everyone from their own brothers to the Governor-General Monday night in traditional Hallowe'en celebrations laced with false fire alarms, gushing hydrants and soapy windows.

But amid the fun one child died and several others were injured in accidents across Canada. Dozens of arrests were reported.

Children besieged the Diefenbaker family home in Ottawa. The prime minister, waiting for federal byelection results, gave the kids precedence.

"They just walked in" he said. "That's how it should be."

In Newcastle, Ont., Nancy Martin, 13, was struck and killed by a car.

In Halifax, six-year-old twin girls were in hospital in serious condition after sparklers ignited their paper costumes. Two other Halifax children, aged about seven and nine, were struck and was taken to hospital with multiple injuries.

Many Ontario children didn't even get out of their own houses. A record number of kids came to the door much of the province.

Toronto police said that 1,000 children were injured when hit by a car in the city outskirts.

Hamilton police said that about six children were robbed of UNICEF collection tins containing pennies. The culprits, believed to be teen-aged boys, were not found.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

DOOR - TO - DOOR BLITZ FOR UNITED APPEAL ON TONIGHT

Tonight is the night when an army of volunteers will call on city homes seeking donations to the Belleville United Appeal. The door-to-door blitz will be held tonight only.

United Appeal headquarters reported yesterday that so far a total of $20,204.41 has been collected from sources other than direct house-to-house canvassing. Another $10,000 is needed, but campaign officials are optimistic that this city's fine citizens will come through with the difference tonight and help the 11 agencies participating in the United Appeal.

Remember to leave your porch light on tonight and welcome the United Appeal canvasser with a generous contribution.

SAVINGS BOND SALES ARE GOING WELL

Employees of four district firms, Canadian Cement Co., Rice Register, Hinde and Dauch and Simpson-Sears, have exceeded their last year's total by the purchase of Canada Savings Bonds. Five other firms, International Hardware, Northern Electric, Stephens-Adamson, Trent Cotton, Union Carbide and Wire Products (Bakelite) and P. W. Woolworth, are close to achieving this mark. To date sales have amounted to $2,104,000 with the objective being $2,700,000.

Bruce H. Smith Special Speaker At Conference

Bruce H. Smith, chairman of the Moira River Conservation Authority, today is addressing the Conservation Authorities' Conference at Preston.

The topic of Mr. Smith's talk was "Modernizing an Old Dam" and dealt specifically with the current program of the local Authority in repairing and modernizing the Langhan Lake Dam in Grimsthorpe township on the upper reaches of the Black River.

The Moira Authority several years ago took over the operation of the dam, built by the Ontario Department of Public Works, and this summer undertook to install a bottom gate valve to allow for more efficient operation.

Figures Show 'Fine' October Just Average

Belleville and district residents have been commenting on the fine weather during the month of October.

But it has come as no surprise to city water filtration plant officials who say the weather was just "average" for the month.

High temperature during October was 71 degrees and the low 29 with the mean temperature being 49.4.

A year ago the high was 73; low 34 and the mean 48.2.

Rainfall for the month was 2.4h inches and for October a year ago 3.53 inches.

The ten year average mean temperature for October is 49.6 degrees and the ten year average rainfall 3.03 inches.

Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham Returns to Practice of Law, Retains Assoc. Presidency

TORONTO (CP) — Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham, 59-year-old former Canadian army chief of staff, has returned to the practice of law 21 years after leaving it for a distinguished tour of military service.

Gen. Graham, who retired from the army two years ago and has for the past year been president of the Great Lakes Waterways Development Association, devoted to ridding the Welland Canal of tolls, joined the Toronto firm of McCarthy and McCarthy on October.

"We have to convince the public, the government and the (St. Lawrence Seaway Authority) that the principle of tolls on the Welland Canal is unwise and dangerous to the economy of the whole country," he said, explaining that he plans to continue in his role of association president while practising law.

Born in Buffalo, N.Y., to parents who were on holiday from Ont., Howard Douglas Graham joined the army at 17 and served in the Canadian Corps in the First World War. He was commissioned in 1918 and served after being called to the bar.

MILITARY CAREER

His law practice in Trenton was interrupted in 1929 when the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment was mobilized for Second World War service. At that time he was second in command and a year later was given command.

In 1942 he was in command of the Seventh Infantry Brigade and led the First Canadian Light Infantry Brigade during the Sicilian campaign and part of the Italian campaign. He was later awarded the Distinguished Service Order for gallantry.

He became chief of staff in charge of training in 1944 and was vice-chief of the general staff from 1948 to 1951. He was chief of staff from 1955 until his retirement.

Last year he took time out from his anti-toll campaign to direct evacuation operations in week Royal Tour.

TOLLS SUPPORT

Though Gen. Graham's campaign against tolls has the backing of such business figures as V. W. Scully of Sicloo, A. A. Schmons of the Ontario Paper Company, T. R. McLagan in Canada Steamships and F. H. Sherman of Dominion Foundries, he feels it needs more support from the public and business.

He maintains the government decision to impose tolls on Canal shipping was influenced by the U.S. Congress.

The Welland is carrying far less traffic than the Seaway expects predicted when they made the toll schedule, he said. Sooner or later tolls would have to be decided on and the policy would have to be abandoned. The Canadian Canadian waterway has had been free of tolls from its opening in 1829 and Gen. Graham can see no reason why charges should have been imposed.

WILLIAM EARL McMASTER
(Trenton)

General store keeper at Ivanhoe, William Earl McMaster died Sunday in Belleville General Hospital following a brief illness. He was in his 40th year.

Mr. McMaster took ill two weeks ago and had undergone an operation. He was apparently on his way toward recovery when he suddenly worsened.

Born in Rawdon he was the son of John George McMaster and his wife, the former Alice Bateman. The deceased moved to Ivanhoe where he was employed at the store. He had been in business for the past 15 years where he was a member of the Ivanhoe United Church. He was secretary of the Church Board and was a member of Tanner LOL, No. 509.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gertrude Sharpe and four children, Susan, Larry, upon whom he doted, and Judy. A daughter Ruth died eight years ago as a result of an accident.

Two sisters, Mrs. Harry Hallowday of Marmora and Mrs. Harold (Nellie) Bateman of Rawdon, also survive.

Resting at his late residence; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. WESLEY WEYMARK

A patient in the Belleville General Hospital for the past three weeks and in failing health for the past year, Mrs. Wesley Weymark of 187 Herchimer Ave. died in the hospital early this Tuesday morning. She was born in Toledo, Ohio, 68 years ago, the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Symons. She was a resident of this community for the past nineteen years, the family having resided in Shannonville and in both communities she was well-known and highly respected.

Mrs. Weymark was a member of St. Margaret's Anglican Church and in early life was particularly active in the women's branches of the church. She was a splendid neighbor and friend to a large circle of friends, who will sincerely regret her death.

Surviving are her husband, Wesley Weymark, seven daughters, Mrs. Mona Gordon, Port California, Mrs. Marjory Clarke of Toronto, Mrs. Ina McFarlane, Mrs. Ada Lewis, Mrs. Jennie Reid and Mrs. Hilary Elliott of this city, Mrs. L. Baptiste of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and two sons, Gordon of Toronto and Wesley of this city. All the children are by the first marriage.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home, North Front Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

G. EDWARD WHITE
Trenton

A funeral service was held Monday at the Weaver Funeral Home for G. Edward White, 10 South Charles Street, Trenton.

The service was conducted by Rev. G. A. Puttenham of Trenton.

Bearers were James William-son, George Williamson, Ralph Coon, Bill Latour, Ralph Waddell and Ross Burt.

Mr. White died suddenly at Trenton Memorial Hospital last Friday. He was 62. Born at Kent, England, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles White.

Mr. White served overseas with the 139th Battalion in the First World War and the Canadian Corps. He was a member of Canadian Legion and a member of the C.N.R., Dr. Trenton.

Mr. White was a CNR locomotive engineer and was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, No. 182 Deseret Lodge and Grace United Church, Trenton.

Surviving are his widow, the former Beryl Young; one daughter, Mrs. William (Audrey) Hallowday of Marmora; a sister, Austin of Belleville, Robert of Oshawa and Kenneth of Toronto, and eight grandchildren.

ARCHIBALD R. CUMMING

MARMORA — Archibald Robert Cummings of R.R. 1, Havelock, Peterborough County, died October 26 after a lengthy illness. He was in his 68th year. He was born at Campbellford, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Cumming. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Ivan (Ruth) Hall phone (Norma Lorraine) Rachan and Mrs. Lloyd (Mary Ann) Arthur (Jean Elizabeth) Price, of Quebec City, and Herbert Archibald, Marmora; two brothers, James D. Cumming, Belleville and Lloyd Henry W. Cumming, Toronto and one sister, Mrs. E. (Jean) Hart, Victoria, B.C.

Mr. Cumming was a veteran of both wars. In World War I he was a member of the artillery, serving as a captain. In World War II he was a Wing Commander in the RCAF. He was employed for many years but for the last 20 years had made his home at Belmont Lake where he had operated a tourist home since his retirement from war service.

Mr. Cumming died at Saturday from the Kaye Funeral Home, Peterborough. The Rev. Dr. N. D. Patterson of Mark Street United Church officiated.

Burial was in Rosemount Memorial Gardens.

MRS. F. J. GILLEN

MARMORA — The death occurred at her home in Oshawa on Wednesday, October 26th, following a long illness.

Born 84 years ago her maiden name was Ellen Reddick. She was the widow of Patrick J. Gillen, who predeceased her in 1942. They had lived in Marmora for many years until moving to Oshawa in 1920.

Mrs. Gillen is survived by four daughters, Mrs. J. (Mary) Reid, Mrs. S. (Elizabeth) Cowden, Miss Jessie and Mrs. Oshawa and Mrs. R. L. Lunday of Toronto, and three sons, Michael of Oshawa, Frank of New Westminster, B.C., and Joseph of Calgary. There are 13 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held from St. Gregory's Church, where requiem high mass was sung by the Catholic Women's League Choir.

Rev. J. Whitman.

Requiem High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Dean Dwyer at 9 a.m. Friday, Oct. 21.

Interment was in St. Gregory's cemetery.

MRS. M. BELLYOU
R.R. 2, Trenton

A funeral service was held on Monday at the Weaver Funeral Home for Mrs. Marion E. Bellyou, R.R. 2, Trenton, who died in Kingston General Hospital on Friday at the age of 49.

The service was conducted by Rev. K. F. Blachford, of St. George's Anglican Church.

Bearers were Frederick Coulton, Richard Boulton, Fred Morgan, Ted Little, Gordon Little and Doug McMaster.

Interment was in St. George's cemetery.

Mrs. Bellyou was born at Consecon, a daughter of the late Enna Cofell and the late Mr. Cofell.

She had lived at R.R. 4, Trenton, for the past ten years, previously living at Consecon.

Mrs. Bellyou was a member of St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton and a member of the Chatham General Hospital Nurses' Alumni.

Surviving are her husband, Ernest, and one sister, Mrs. Reid (Alma) Kennedy of Stratford.

History of Deloro Smelting Firm Outlined to Rotarians

Local Rotarians were given a history of the development of the Deloro Mining and Smelting firm and of the importance and use of cobalt in the use of speciel metal alloys, even in the missile, by J. C. "Pat" Houston, manager of the Deloro Smelting plant, at their weekly dinner meeting yesterday afternoon.

The Queen's - University graduate's talk was received by listeners with the initiative and enterprise of the local firm, which has recently been developing its commercial production. The plant which was originally geared for 89 per cent defence production, was seriously affected by the recent aircraft production cuts by the government.

Since that time, however, Deloro Stellite has concentrated upon commercial lines and development to the point where, by the end of the year, 90 per cent of its output will be commercial. The cobalt ore, coming from the factory, which has the latest in foundry and refining equipment, is mined by adopting the newest processes and improvements into the production procedures, the speaker added.

He indicated that the local products were now making inroads in the United States market and the prospects of serving which are very promising and quite promising.

The rapid development of the use of cobalt, an element not found free in nature as yet, Mr. Houston pointed out, is a great deal of the history of mining in Eastings County. Mining originally started with the discovery of gold in the area around Deloro Township (Deloro actually means valley of gold), however, ore, from which cobalt was obtainable, was also mined.

OPERATIONS PEEK OUT

The speaker's talk gradually peered out due to the high costs of operation and processing, his speaker said. Due to the large scale production of cobalt in Keithsy at a very reasonable price the district cobalt mining and smelting operation will be completely shut down in the near future.

Although this side of the Deloro firm's activities will be closing for good such is not the case with the local stellite plant's operation which is expected to expand as the Canadian firm strives to serve more and more customers throughout the markets of the world.

Of interest to the Rotarians were a number of samples of products which the local plant is producing, some of which ranged from jet engine turbine blades through machine gun barrels to the hard facing material for bustior engines.

Rotary Lansing expressed the thanks of the club to Mr. Houston, who was introduced by Freeman Burrowes. President Bill Hurst presided over the meeting which saw a number of members fined for failure to attend the Rotary meeting held in honor of the late Enos David being doubly assessed for having preferred the French cuisine in Paris during the past week.

Winter Works Group Appeals To Plan Now to Give Jobs

Plan now to provide for work which will keep local labor busy during the winter months ahead.

That is the appeal of members of the city Winter Works Committee now completing a survey of possible angle to keep men busy during the winter months when employment normally is at a minimum.

And this year, with almost record numbers of persons at present employed, the need for winter employment is more important than before.

Currently in the Hastings county area served by the Belleville employment office there are 1325 men and women registered as looking for work and these 1045 are men and 482 women.

A year ago at this time there were 2,284 persons in the district looking for work.

Despite the increase in unemployment of nearly 45 per cent.

Cecil Hulser, manager of the Belleville employment office, states that if the trend continues, and unless some action is taken to offset the condition, the number seeking employment this year be considerably greater.

Winter construction, repairs and renovations, as well as municipal winter works program, were cited by Mr. Hulser as two possible ways through which jobs can be provided.

He said that in some instances winter construction can be more economical and ordinary labor is more readily available.

Plan to Discuss Permanent Location for Plowing Match

The value of 4-leaf location for the International Plowing Match, as compared with the present policy of holding the match at a different place each year, will be one of the matters up for discussion at a meeting of directors with various of the aspects of the match will be discussed.

Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, will attend the meeting which will be attended by approximately 30 representatives of the many groups and individuals having an interest in the big plowing match.

During the plowing match which was held in Western, Ontario implement dealers, who form one of the largest exhibiting groups, say they would prefer the match to be held each year at a fixed location and also wanted an earlier date for the match. Their argument was that farmers would be more interested in purchasing new machinery in the spring than in the fall.

Both of the above two aspects of the match will be on the agenda of the meeting called for November 4th, while also on the agenda will be match administration problems, public contact, financial versus non-financial features of the organization.

The big international Plowing Match is scheduled to be held in the Belleville area next year and assurances have been given that the match will go on as scheduled.

Hastings County will be represented at the meeting by chairman Dr. J. Russell Scott.

Hallowe'en Celebrations Cut Short by Heavy Rain

Hallowe'en celebrations, especially the out of doors kind were cut short last night as heavy rain settled over the city driving would-be pranksters from the streets.

Police Inspector J. Clair Hayes said that on the whole Hallowe'en was quiet with celebrants for the most part being well behaved.

Three cars were reported stolen as a result of which recovered one in charge of a juvenile. On Bridge Street two Bell Telephone flasher lights were reported disappeared from the street.

But during the youthful exuberance was dispelled at the Hallowe'en party at Club 49 Canara where well over 500 attended the party sponsored by high school students' council, the recreation commission and the city police association.

31 Permits Issued During October Total $362,177

The issuing of a building permit for the new Harry Clarke Public School marked the October building list to well over $300,000 it was noted today by city building inspector Harold Sickle.

Total for the month was $362,177 with a total of 31 permits being issued, two of which were for new dwellings.

New residential construction totalled $121,000 with the new public school adding $229,777.

Construction of the new school in the northeast end of the city is already commenced by general contractors Lundrs and Son Sons of Kingston with footings in place and the foundation well underway.

IN MEMORIAM

COOK. — In loving memory of a dear father, Sergeant Clifford Cook, killed in Italy, November 1st, 1944.
Though his smile is gone forever,
And his face we shall not see,
There is a memory left us,
Of the one we loved so much.
Sadly missed by daughter Ruth, Who wish we'd never part;
God took him in His own time,
We have him in our hearts.
—Ever remembered by Mom, Ruth and Jim.

HOWARD. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Corah Howard, who died one cold winter's night, Nov. 1, 1952.
Dear husband Corah, gone forever;
Now I must pursue smiling face:
Trials I've had, but no tears to remove,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home I once enjoyed,
Now sweet the memory still;
Though I'm left with a loneliness,
The world can never fill.
—Sadly remembered by wife Ruth.

HOWARD. — In loving memory of a dear father, Corah Howard, who passed away November 1st, 1952.
What I would give if I could say,
Dad, I'm back, the time is over,
To hear your voice, see you smile,
Or walk with you a little while,
Or sit with you and chat,
Cherish him with care;
Or to hear you call me a heartache,
Tell me his vacant chair.
—Ever remembered by Barbara.

HOWARD. — In loving memory of my dear brother, who passed away November 1st, 1959.
Dear brother, you left us suddenly,
Just as you were,
Without a word to say good-bye,
Or even a parting word.
Your memory is our keepsake,
With which we will never part;
God took you in His own time,
He gave him in our hearts.
—Sadly missed by sister Ethel.

HOWARD. — In loving memory of my dear brother, who passed away November 1st, 1959.
Dear brother, you left us suddenly,
Just as you were,
Without a word to say good-bye,
Or even a parting word.
That grief can call its own.
—Sadly remembered by his sister Ethel Hogg.

LANE. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Alfred Lane, who passed away November 1st, 1959.
Our thoughts are with you, dear father,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
Each day we think how we miss her,
But you never will know always.
—Sadly missed by husband Bill and daughter Patsy and son-in-law Bill and granddaughter Patsy and brother Glen.

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market advanced across the board as trading moved at a quiet pace today.

Industrials, on index, were up 1.37 at 486.86, golds .62 at 94.01, base metals .25 at 151.31 and western oils .58 at 81.11.

The 11 a.m. volume was 581,000 shares compared with Monday's 507,000.

Canada Malting, Imperial Oil and Royal Bank paced industrials higher, up ¼ each.

Golds improved on Monday's gains, with Dome and Giant-Yellowknife up ⅛ each at 26 and 13⅛.

Falconbridge influenced the base metals index with a half-point gain at 33⅛.

Western oils opened on a strong note and lined up behind Canadian Devonian with a 25-cent gain at $4.35.

Industrials rallied at the end of trading to lead an altogether stronger board Monday.

On index, industrials jumped 1.94 at 483.44, with golds up 1.06 at 93.39, base metals up 1.20 at 151.06 and western oils up .16 at 80.42.

There were 1,663,000 shares traded compared with 2,067,000 Friday.

Utilities were the strongest group in what appeared to be a mixed industrial section. Papers came under pressure, led by Price Paper with a drop of 2% at 53⅛. Banks and steels were mixed.

Golds were firm throughout the day following the continued higher price of the metal in the London bullion market.

Dome was up ⅛ at 25⅞, with McIntyre - Porcupine up ⅛ at 37⅛, and Giant Yellowknife up ⅛ at 13⅛.

Gold bars closed at $35.75 to $36.25.

Base metals were higher following a strong lead from International Nickel, up 1⅛ at 49⅛.

Western oils moved an unconvincing wis, following Canadian Devonian with a 30-cent gain at $

Deloro Recalls Some Workers

A number of former employees of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company at Deloro, said off some weeks ago when production at the plant slowed down, have been recalled this week, officials of the National Employment office in Belleville say.

The total number now employed at the plant is 89, with about 60 employees still not recalled.

The period of time for which the employees have been recalled was not known in Belleville although announced plans of the company have been to close entirely at the year end. Meetings are being arranged with government officials in Ottawa in an attempt to keep the plant operating.

Streets Made Slippery by Rain Cause Mishaps

Streets made slippery by last night's rainfall were indirectly responsible for several accidents last night and today, one of them a three-car mishap in front of the hospital this morning.

Most serious was the three vehicle pile-up resulting in approximately $900 damage.

Police said that Stanley C. Else, 31 Northwood Crescent, was westbound on Dundas and had stopped to make a left turn into the hospital when his car was struck in the rear by another driven by Lorne Cook of Brighton. Cook's car in turn was struck by one driven by Frank Northrop of Kingston. Damage to the Cook car was about $100 and to the Kingston auto about $100.

Monday night a car driven by Marjory Fyke, R. R. 1 Carrying Place, was in collision with a parked auto on Dundas Street at the intersection of Point Ave.

An on College Street another auto slid into the ditch.

Teaching Staff Visits School At Smiths Falls

The teaching staff of the Belleville School for Retarded Children spent last Friday at the Ontario Hospital School, Smiths Falls, observing the classes conducted there for retarded children.

Comparison with the local classes is somewhat difficult, since at Smiths Falls a rotary system is in effect and each teacher instructs in one subject only, for periods of 45 minutes per classes. It was felt however that academic instruction in the Belleville school was of a comparable standard to that receiving by children in the hospital school. The Hospital school has, of course excellent facilities for vocational and manual training, which are difficult to duplicate in a local day school. The Belleville Association is hoping to advances training in this direction during the coming year.

During the local teachers visited the departments of home economics, occupational therapy, speech therapy, physical training and art, as well as special classes for crested palated and brain injured children. Several children from the Belleville clinic were visited. The teachers viewed a film in the school auditorium and were privileged to listen to the choir rehearsing for the school Christmas concert, which is the outstanding event of the year at the Provincial School. Involving 150 children. It is always booked solid for in advance.

The teachers returned to Belleville very impressed with the program at this beautiful new residential school, which will result in many retarded children being able to return to their own communities fully self-supporting and useful members of society. They will also have lasting memories of the courtesy and helpfulness shown them by the teaching staff at Smiths Falls.

Those attending were Mrs. Doris Durand, Mrs. Leone Gilbert, Mrs. Hilda Hamilton, principal of the school, and Mrs. Ruth Wood, chairman of the Education Committee.

Hillier Man To Compete For Scholarship

Kenneth Wright of Hillier, has been chosen to represent Ontario for the Nuffield Foundation Scholarship. The selection committee of Ontario Federation of Agriculture chose Mr. Wright from six applicants. Mr. Wright will receive facilities for observation men or women from Eastern Canada for the Scholarship.

The Nuffield Scholarship is a nine months' travelling scholarship awarded annually to one person from the western section of Canada and one person from the eastern section to study agricultural techniques and conditions in Great Britain. National selection is made by a committee of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, and will likely be made before Christmas. The scholarship winners leave Canada in February for their six months study in England.

While at home Mr. Wright will be making money. He's had 21 funerals in 20 days.

"Funerals don't have anything to do with ambulance service," replied Councillor Lange.

"Nobody asked him to buy an ambulance," said Councillor McNair. "I started the first ambulance in Trenton in 1933. Later, we had three ambulances in town. We're still a town. Mr. Weaver hasn't quit yet; he just said he was going to quit. We shouldn't

Ambulance Problem Becomes Election Issue; Can't Pay Weaver His $1,800 Subsidy

TRENTON — Local voters will be asked to answer "Yes" or "No" to the question "Do you favor the town of Trenton maintaining an ambulance service?" when they cast their votes December 5th, in the municipal elections.

Yesterday afternoon, council met to pass a by-law enabling the corporation to obtain the opinion of the qualified electors on this question which has been a bone of contention with council for the past few months.

Two months ago council voted to pay the Weaver Ambulance Service a yearly sum of $1,800 for the continuance of the service but this was not included in the 1960 budget. To date, the subsidy has not been paid and council faced with finding some legal method of providing the $1,800 from some department or other. As this sum was not budgeted for in the estimates for 1960, Mr. Weaver notified council in the spring that unless a subsidy was paid, he would discontinue the service on August 1. Faced with the prospect of no ambulance service for the town, or providing it as far greater cost to the town than the subsidy asked by the Weaver Company, council, with the exception of Councillor N. J. McNair, voted to provide the subsidy for the six months period, and to present it to the voters in the December elections.

At yesterday's meeting, council took some time to decide on the exact wording of the appeal to the voters for a decision on their wishes regarding the question. Council agreed to a manner of voting that would be such that no voter would presume that the town meant to provide free ambulance service.

Advertisements will be run in the newspapers and over the radio advising the public that by "maintaining" is meant by means:

(1) Running a municipal ambulance, the operators being members of the police or fire department, or by hiring for the purpose;

(2) Subsidizing a privately-owned ambulance service.

BIG MISTAKE

Councillor McNair said council had made the "biggest mistake they had ever made" by agreeing to subsidize Weaver.

Mayor MacDonald and Councillors Lange, Aziz, Fraser and Cowell voted to pay the subsidy for a Toronto paper, many municipalities were faced with the same problem. Owners of private services are going out of business, he said, and it is not a profitable business.

"Mr. Weaver has been the president of the Ambulance Service Association for a number of years," said Councillor McNair. "The question is, how much is affecting the whole country by our action in subsidizing him?"

Mr. McNair added that "Weaver is making money. He's had 21 funerals in 20 days."

"Funerals don't have anything to do with ambulance service," replied Councillor Lange.

"Nobody asked him to buy an ambulance," said Councillor McNair. "I started the first ambulance in Trenton in 1933. Later, we had three ambulances in town. We're still a town. Mr. Weaver hasn't quit yet; he just said he was going to quit. We shouldn't

Music Teachers Hold Meeting At Trenton

TRENTON — A workshop meeting of the Ontario Music Educators' Association was held Saturday at the Elizabeth Ross School. Music teachers from eastern County attended.

Pupils from the Ontario School for the Deaf, under the direction of S. Alec Gordon, assisted by Kenneth Graham, demonstrated their singing ability and knowledge of rhythm. Mr. Gordon explained that the children "feel" rhythm by means of vibrations.

Mrs. Jane Rathbun, supervisor of music in Trenton public school, had students from grades 7 and 8 sing several choral selections. Students from grades 5 and 6 at Trenton also sang under the direction of Mrs. Colborne Sicklis.

Andrew A. Benvie of Trenton was the chairman and critical comments were made by Eldon Brebner.

V. P. Carswell, supervising principal of Trenton public schools and secretary of the Board of Education, welcomed the delegates in the absence of T. S. Kelcheson, chairman of the board.

Rotarians Hear Talk on RCAF By Group Capt.

TRENTON — Guest speaker at the Rotary Club last night was Group Capt. "Wop" Schroeder, chief administrative officer at Air Transport Command Headquarters, who spoke on the administration aspects of his department.

He said that the running of the RCAF could be likened to the running of any business on "civvy street". He said that "wops" must be planned, organized, co-ordinated, directed and controlled by heads of departments.

He said that responsibility without proper backing or authority, was worse than nothing at all, because no one could accept responsibility if he were not given the proper authority to execute his wish.

He explained that his department tried to delegate authority to persons capable of handling the job, then backed them to the hilt.

Group Capt. Schroeder discussed the various facets of air force life as it applied to the personnel, including career planning, discipline, pay, finances, financing, flight operations and the administrative duties.

The speaker was introduced by Arthur Collette and thanked by Group Capt. T. A. G. Spruston, president of the club and commanding officer of the RCAF station.

Bob Patrick introduced Rotarian Bruce Graham, a guest from the Belleville club, and Bill House from Picton. Mr. Graham with a rose.

Mr. Patrick asked the club to donate blood for the next Rotary Red Cross clinic.

Ken Couch urged members to make a good showing next week as a Rotary Club Week during Education Week.

President Spruston announced that Peter McLelland of Cobourg, a student studying at Queen's University on a Rotary Foundation scholarship, would speak to the club Dec. 5 during Rotary Education Week.

100 YOUNG, TITLE LOST

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP)— The curvaceous girl who won the Miss United States title here two weeks ago was ruled ineligible Monday. Contest officials said Annette Driggers of Freeport, N.Y. is only 15 as of last May 1, and must be 18 or older to be eligible. The contest rules require a contestant to be between 18 and 28.

Accept 4 Lots As Required Park Lands

TRENTON — Town council agreed yesterday to accept lots 33, 34, 35 and 36 in the R.E.F. subdivision off Byron Street as the required park land designated by the official town plan with the stipulation that the town could seek the approval of the Department of Planning and Development to sell the lots at a future date. Some time ago council asked the company to pay the cash equivalent of the lots but the company would not agree to this.

They've given us lots in a dismo hole", said Councillor Whitley.

Mr. Whitley said that he objected to the town engineer setting levels for sewer construction in this, or any subdivision.

"Let them hire their own engineers and let our engineer check their work", he said.

"We should have a standard agreement for all subdividers", said Councillor Fraser.

Council agreed this would be the best idea.

Voters' List Out

TRENTON— Voters' lists have been prepared by the office staff at the municipal hall. The lists were printed yesterday and will be placed in public places, such as the town hall, the post office and the new municipal office today or tomorrow.

Nomination day is Nov. 24. This year, it will be asked also to vote for three councillors and eight members of the Board of Education.

Election day is Monday, Dec. 5th.

SMALL FRY STAMP CLUB — Jim Marchese, president of the boys' stamp club; Karen Copeland, five years-old, youngest member of the club, and Isobel Marchese, founder of the girls' club.

Young Fry Enjoy Being Members Of Stamp Club

TRENTON — A few months ago, a handful of boys under the direction of S. D. Copeland formed the Small Fry Stamp Club. Its object was to provide boys with a healthy educational hobby.

Mr. Copeland and Carl Wesse, co-sponsors of the club, laid down one stipulation for membership. Boys must prove wide proof that their school work is progressing from month to month. The penalty for failure in this department being the cancellation of their membership in the club.

Mr. Copeland is hoping youthful collectors have come up with an improvement in their academic work at school.

On Saturday morning the young philatelists met in the Copeland home party in the recreation commission's club room on Dundas St.

Mayor James MacDonald spoke briefly to the boys, commending them on their interest in stamps.

President of the boys club is Jimmy Marchese. Secretary is Kerry Young.

Isobel Marchese has started a girls stamp club and reports that five girls have joined to date.

Five-year-old Karen Copeland claims the honor of being the youngest member of any stamp club in the area. Karen has more than 200 stamps in her collection.

Following a lunch, members of both clubs proved that they are philanthropists as well as philatelists by delivering an abundant supply of sandwiches and pie to Dads's Villa Nursing Home as a treat for the elderly residents.

Mr. Copeland is at present working on a plan to provide a clubroom for the use of both clubs.

This week, one of the downtown stores in Trenton is featuring a display of the club's collections in its window. The display has given rise to many comments. Willis Reid of Ericsleigh, C. F. Theme of the conference, which was held Friday and Saturday at the Royal York Hotel, was "Right-To Manage."

Guest speakers were Donald K. Grant of the HRI and Labor Minister Starr.

Council Agrees To Extend Bank Overdraft

TRENTON — Town council meeting in special session yesterday, voted to extend Community Gardens' overdraft with the Royal Bank of Canada to $3,000 until December 31.

Councillor Lange, chairman of the Gardens' commission, and Councillor Howard Aziz, commission member, explained the revenue at the Gardens and why it goes down during October when the ice is being put in. It is expected that the revenue will go up now that the ice has been rented for every night in the next two months.

"We're always getting money for these overdrafts", asked Councillor R. J. Whitley. "I think that the Gardens is a bugbear to the taxpayer."

The service club is to sponsor minor hockey teams and spend about $4,500 on the ice rental for these teams to which he objects.

"I think the town should match the sum by contributing the ice rental for these teams to clubs involved."

After further discussion, council agreed to allow the overdraft.

Foremen's Club From District Well Represented

Seventeen members of Quinte District Foremen's Club last week attended the two-16th annual conference of Canadian Council of Foremen's Clubs at Toronto.

Local delegates were Frank Goodchild, Hugh Jones, Max Griffiths, Martin Hamelink, William Gander and Jack Sterling all of northern Elecktric; Ken Knapp of Nichols Chemicals; Claude Merrett of Eric Resistor, Trenton; Harold Hall of Ontario Hydro; Doug McKenzie of Canadian Gypsum; Jim Leigish, C. F. Day and H. Jeffers all of the Bridge St. The Tidies of the YMCA: N. Dance and L. Johnston, both of Canfield Cement, and C. Langabeer and Mead Johnson.

When High Principles Are Easy

"Anyone can have high principles when he is well
d," wrote columnist Sydney J. Harris on this page few days ago. "Starvation," he continued, "is the nly true test of an ethical system."

Those are striking sentences, but on analysis they ill be found to be merely the reverse side of a familiar oin. "The poor, in a lump, are bad," we have been old; this is another way of saying that poverty breeds rime. Harris is making the same observation from different angle; the well have no need to steal.

This theory is at one and the same time too widely ccepted and too narrowly translated. We would enture a guess that the incidence of petty theft mongst the poor is no higher than the incidence of ax-cheating amongst the wealthy. Yet essentially hat Harris said is correct; starvation is the only true est of an ethical system. Unfortunately most people efuse to recognize this fact in any but the material ealm. They do not seem to realize that it is easy or the happily-married to take a stand against divorce, or the young and handsome man to sneer at the atrons of the bandello, or the well-to-do citizen
o deplore the backslider, those born to power to conemn rebels, the child-loving parent to look askance
t the father and mother who find juveniles boring, he beautiful woman to curl her lips disdainfully at her sister whom only art can make appealing, the eetotaler to scorn the alcoholic, the gifted to detest tupidity.

Perhaps the world's laws ought to be made by the retched of the earth. (We plead guilty to borrowing hat phrase from the Internationale, but maintain t is here used in a much more moderate manner than n reference to mere material poverty.)

An Old Story This

A wood carver in Communist East Germany has esigned a chess set in which the king becomes an conomic planner, the castle is a factory worker in a efence uniform, the bishop is an athlete and the pawns re workers of various trades.

"People without a spark of humor do things like his," says the Cape Breton Post.

People without a scrap of knowledge write things
ke that.

The origin of chess is lost in the mists of antiquity, ut it is generally considered that the game was born omewhere between the Tigris and the Euphrates, that birthplace of ancient civilizations ("Cheiron" from hich has burst the narrow bounds of chess to win eneral recognition as an English word, is believed to ave come into being as a corruption of "Shah Mat," hich could be literally translated as "Death to the King"). Does anybody believe that the first hess men were fashioned like those in general use oday? Surely it is evident that conventional men oday bear the imprint of mediaeval Europe, where ings, queens, bishops and knights, and castles, or astle owners, were the real powers in the land. But hough the names are older, the forms have been tandardized for less than a century, in the Staunton attern, named after one of the very few Englishmen ho ever won names for themselves in the game. Even oday, variations can be found. There are many old sets set around in which the bishops and queens ear no resemblance to the Staunton pattern. There re fancy sets for sale in which the castles are fashioned s elephants, while the knights are horsemen, instead f just horses' heads.

Making the king an economic planner is not going o ruin the game of chess. Anyway, in the state of the hess world today with the Russians probably having least a half dozen players who can beat anybody else n the world, the Communists seem to have a pretty ood title to make minor changes of this nature.

The kitchen sink is one of the few places where man and his wife can be found in an uninterrupted discussion without much danger of being overheard

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOOD AGE AFTER ALL

A minister announced from the pulpit several weeks ago that a number of that congregation had undergone a severe operation and at forty pints of blood were due to be returned to the blood bank. He appealed for volunteers and the response was favorable and prompt.

The observations need to be made regarding such a situation. The first is that we live in a wonderful age. Poor George Washington died before his time because his physicians insisted on taking eighty ounces of blood of his veins. Today we have learned how to support a sinking patient and keep him from death by transfusions. This, along with other discoveries in modern science makes this age a blessed one in which to live.

The second observation one could make on this situation is that human beings are not so bad after all. They are ready to rush to the hospital and give their blood just as their sturdy forebearers rushed to the battlefield and allowed their blood to be shed in enterprises involving right and wrong.

And it should be said in all fairness that not only people of religious faith, but frequently people of no faith at all have this wonderful spirit of giving to behalf of humanity. Such impulses are the outpouring of a gracious and loving God.

There just must be a good and loving God in the universe to make such fine people!

Miracles of the Universe Some Interesting Stars

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 14

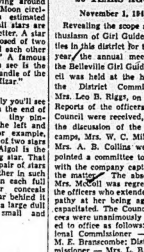
There are said to be over 100,000,000,000,000,000,000 stars in the universe, so, one could well expect, with such a large number, that there would be an infinite variety of stars. But such is not the case.

All the stars that can be seen are composed of very hot gas. They are all shaped like a ball although some may be more elliptical than others.

Our Sun is a common star — a middle-aged, average star. It is nothing more and nothing less. Our Sun has since planetary scientists believe that billions of other stars also have planets revolving around them.

Some stars are said to be as small as 1,000 miles in diameter. Our Sun is 860,000 miles in diameter. Antares is 400,000,000 miles in diameter, but one of the largest stars, Epsilon Aurigae, is roughly 1,600,000,000 miles in diameter. (The Earth is 8,000 miles in diameter).

Some stars are 100,000,000 degrees C in their centre, while some are a few million degrees. The surface temperature of a star may range from 3,000 degrees C to over 35,000 degrees C.



Stars differ in color depending upon their temperature. "Hot" or blue-white (35,000 degrees), white (12,000 degrees), yellow (6,000 degrees), yellow-white (12,000 degrees), orange (4,000 degrees) and red (3,000 degrees) and lower.

Sometimes stars appear alone and in groups. The group is called a cluster. There are open clusters like the Pleiades with 100 or 200 stars, or a globular cluster in which there are up to 50,000 stars which appear to be closely packed together, but there are over 100 globular clusters in the Milky Way galaxy, (the galaxy of which our Sun is but one star, out of the 100 billion stars which compose the Milky Way). The Cluster M 13 in our galaxy has 50,000 stars in it. This M 13 cluster is in the shape of a ball about 500,000,000,000 miles in diameter and it lies about 250,000,000,000,000 miles from the Sun.

A star that may look like a single star, may actually be a star or stars revolving around each other like the Moon circling the Earth. It is estimated that over half of all stars are binaries, triples or better. A star system that is composed of two stars in orbit around each other is called a "binary." A famous double star you can see is the second star in the tail of the Big Dipper called "Mizar."

SECOND STAR

If you look carefully you'll see the second star from the end of the Dipper's tail. Mizar is a very pin-point of a star to the left and above it. Castor, for example, consists of a pair of two stars or six stars in all. Algol is the best known eclipsing star. That is to say Algol is is pair of stars going around each other in such a way, that twice in each 2½ revolution, each star conceals all or part of the other behind it (an eclipse). One is a large dull star, the other is small and bright.

When B is in front of A, the star is much less bright than when A is in front relationship. This eclipsing takes place every 2.9 days (a little less than 3). Like clock work. In fact, these stars are a form of clock.

Some doubles are different colors, for example, Albireo in Cygnus. One star is green and one is yellow, so, if you were on a planet nearby, you would have two suns in the sky, one yellow and one green.

Another type of star is called "A variable". It is a very dramatic star.

The most dramatic variable, varies from its former self by exploding (and when you call "putting everything you had into it"). These exploding stars are called "Supernovae".

No Supernova has been discovered since 1604. The first Supernova on record was one seen in 1054 A.D. which was so far off in space that it took the light from the explosion 5,000 years to reach the Earth. The remains or wreck of that star are still to seen in the sky. It is known as the Crab Nebula. It is 10,000,000,000,000 miles away and the material sent careening through space with the explosion, still travels at 4,000,000 miles per hour.

INFLATE THEN SUBSIDE

Most stars are so compact (so the Supernovae) do not explode; they simply inflate to perhaps 100,000 times their normal size

What's Usual English Garb?

Ottawa Citizen

Just to change the subject, what is distinctive English feminine attire consist of? A tartan kilt and sloppy sweater and Wellington boots? A two-piece tweed costume, felt hat, matching handbag and low-heeled shoes? These are some of the answers received from England by the ladies' auxiliary of the Ottawa Humane Society, when, while preparing a Miss England doll for the Dolls of All Nations display planned by the women's auxiliary of the Ontario Humane Hospital.

Not knowing how to dress the doll suitably, one of the members wrote to a London newspaper, and received 93 letters with 93 different suggestions, some of which have been mentioned here. More suggestions than that have been advanced for a design for a Canadian flag, but $3 is pretty good. Whatever choice the Ottawa women make, they will be unique, but they will be brave.

It would be easier if the doll were male. A bowler hat, black coat and vest, tightly-rolled black umbrella, and tightly-knotted tie would do the trick. Some might argue that a striped blazer and silk scarf knotted carelessly around the neck would be more typical. That's a valid opinion, because nobody is like that. But the bowler hat and umbrella are probably more widely acknowledged.

But the doll is female, and the choice is more difficult. Dressing with having a female doll is that the dress selected should be flattering as well as distinctive. Otherwise the Ottawa people may be charged with insensitivity. That probably inhibits them from choosing tweed suit, felt hat and high-heeled shoes. Their final choice will be awaited with keen interest.

Anyone who has seen what can happen to a baked potato in the United States — removed from the skin, whipped, replaced, salvaged with butter, topped with sour cream, garnished with chives and spices — may think Britain would be better off with the fashioned spud baked in its jacket and seasoned at the table to the diner's individual taste.

Procrastination Is the Foe Of Good

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Time is on the side of evil; what should be done should be done at once, and what is rejected should be rejected at once.

This is not a cheap and easy piece of folk-philosophizing from some complacent sage — for the older we get the more acutely we recognize that while eternity is the Lord's, time belongs to His adversary, the Devil.

Take a common everyday example: the repugnant of a debt. If the debt is not repaid as soon as you are able to, it becomes increasingly harder to repay it even when you have enough money.

If you wait long enough, the Devil has converted you to his side; it seems a monstrous injustice that the debt should have to be repaid, and we can think of a dozen reasons (most of them true) for its indefinite postponement or its cancellation.

Take another: the toleration of deceit. If we tell a lie, and immediately repudiate it, we have exercised the evil without much pain. But the longer we persist in the lie, the harder it becomes to repudiate it; other lies grow out of it, and finally we are enmeshed in a web farther beyond our powers to cut. Eventually, of course, we begin to believe the lie — then we are damned.

"Just a little more, a little longer" is the subtle and tempting slogan of the Devil. "Just one more drink, and then home" — the beginning of many a drunken crash. "Just one more kiss, and then goodnight" — the prelude to a phrase of many an adolescent seduction. "Just one more war, and then the peaceful world" — the postponed promise of mankind.

Time also works against the good, for good is slow to act, while evil is quick. The Devil never has to wait; he is always ready to step in. Hence, the good, unless we work against it, is the Devil we get, the harder to change; the more we become the slaves of yesteryear's habits, customs, commandments, and corruptions. Not only the arteries harden with age, but the mind, especially, we no longer care to see the light, but cling to our time in fondling the familiar.)

Shakespeare, in one of his most penetrating and profound sonnets, speaks of "that bloody tyrant, Time." And, in truth, Time is a tyrant repressing our emotions, dulling our sensibilities, enslaving us to old patterns we are too tired or fearful to break or control.

And the only way the power of Time can be broken is by living each moment in an awareness of eternity — by knowing that that moment is the time to triumph over Time.

To Your Good Health

CONSIDER TREATING PREGNANT PRE - DIABETIC AS TRUE CASE

"Dear Dr. Molner: I would appreciate knowing about pre-diabetics in pregnancy. After three normal pregnancies, I have had three miscarriages in seven months.

"After the third it was found that I was a pre-diabetic, but I am not sure whether this could have caused the miscarriages. — M.S.M."

The "pre-diabetic" condition requires a bit of explanation. Ordinarily, it is not strictly possible to say that a person is a "pre-diabetic." Either the condition is present, or it isn't — although, to be sure, there are mild cases and severe cases.

However, in pregnancy, there is an added physiological burden placed on the body. Sometimes, at that time, a diabetic state appears. Then the pregnancy is over, the individual's sugar tolerance may return to normal, in which case diabetes is not present.

It must be admitted, that such individuals are quite likely, as you though not certain, to develop real diabetes eventually, perhaps years later. Nevertheless, as you can see, calling the temporary condition of pregnancy diabetes or being a "pre-diabetic" is not necessarily a strictly true statement. But there are cases of diabetes in which it ultimately proves true to give a reasonable basis for using the term. I hope that's clear!

For the specific question: Yes, it is quite possible that the diabetic condition during pregnancy can cause repeated miscarriages.

The use of insulin, in a word, during this temporary diabetes" just as you would treat a regular case of diabetes, is certainly to be strongly recommended. Many women have achieved successful pregnancy by this means after having had miscarriages before such treatment was instituted. . . .

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have never seen a word in your column or elsewhere on the subject of Jacksonian seizures. Wouldn't it be reasonable to comment on this disease or condition? — C.N.L."

I'm not sure that I've ever mentioned Jacksonian seizures directly. Why not? Because they are one form of epilepsy, and I've certainly discussed that subject in the past.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Just a few lines to say 'thank you' for writing in answer to my request about Parkinson's disease. And then I have read a more recent article you wrote about it. By the help of God and drugs my husband has been able to work five days a week and will be 65 in March. — Mrs. B.P.J."

Thank you. The moral is this: much can be done to relieve Parkinson's disease in the great many cases. Sometimes it becomes quite disabling, but like many other diseases, it can often be alleviated. The thought I want to give a reminder of this: Don't expect modern medicine to be able to cure, with one drug, or with one operation, all the ailments of mankind. Many a happy adventure it can be to collect friends in their "first" edition, perhaps, but surely awaiting the good will of all.

TODAY'S TALK

ON GETTING ALONG WITH PEOPLE

It isn't such a difficult thing to get along with a few people if you mean beings. Some are rather difficult, but not impossible.

People have certain characteristics that we have to get used to, but that is not impossible, even with the most difficult. We just have to get the viewpoint of others, and perform a kind of miracle, comprised of the substance of hope, confidence, and a certain understanding.

Most of the misunderstandings between people can be traced to "a certain blindness," in the words of William James. We don't work to get ourselves out of it strongly recommended. Many women have achieved successful pregnancy by this means after having had miscarriages before such treatment was instituted. . . .

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have never seen a word in your column or elsewhere on the subject of Jacksonian seizures. Wouldn't it be reasonable to comment on this disease or condition? — C.N.L."

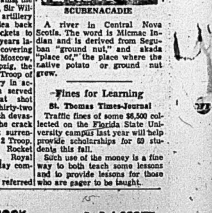
I'm not sure that I've ever mentioned Jacksonian seizures directly. Why not? Because they are one form of epilepsy, and I've certainly discussed that subject in the past.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Just a few lines to say 'thank you' for writing in answer to my request about Parkinson's disease. And then I have read a more recent article you wrote about it. By the help of God and drugs my husband has been able to work five days a week and will be 65 in March. — Mrs. B.P.J."

Thank you. The moral is this: much can be done to relieve Parkinson's disease in the great many cases. Sometimes it becomes quite disabling, but like many other diseases, it can often be alleviated. The thought I want to give a reminder of this: Don't expect modern medicine to be able to cure, with one drug, or with one operation, all the ailments of mankind. Many a happy adventure it can be to collect friends in their "first" edition, perhaps, but surely awaiting the good will of all.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK



Several public men have lately referred to me as the country's best. The monthly magazine "Soldier," published by the British War Office, has an interesting story this month about the use of mules as far back as the year 1233 A.D., when the Chinese employed them against the Tartars. The Paduans used Vesuvius' gold mines in the fare in the 14th century; and in 1795, at the siege of Seringapatam in India, the rockets used in attacks with great effect against the British. On that occasion, as the Ideas Congreve, a British artillery commander, took the idea back to England and developed rockets in such excellence that ten years later, Napoleon, ruefully, said "Ahah, "place of," the place where the native points or ground nut grow.

Fines for Learning

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Traffic fines of some $6,500 collected on the Florida State University campus last year will help provide scholarships for 60 students, it was said.

Such use of the money is a fine way to both teach some lessons and to provide lessons for those who are gager to be taught.

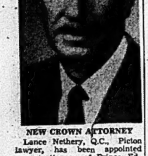
History Teacher First to Carry New Party Banner to Victory

PITERBOROUGH (CP)—At 31 Walter Pitman is a school teacher who political observers here feel may be destined to make history as well as teach it.



First to carry the banner of the New Party to victory, Monday's federal byelection in Peterborough, he is regarded as a man in a hurry who sees his task cut out in the proper understanding and application of the mechanics of history.

Mr. Pitman said after his election that he will sit apart from the CCF in the Commons, but will discuss issues and seek guidance from Hazen Argue, CCF leader.

However, he will make his own decisions and vote as he sees fit.

SEEKS WIDER AUDIENCE

NEW CROWN ATTORNEY

Lance Nethery, Q.C., Picton lawyer, has been appointed crown attorney of Prince Edward County, following the resignation of Gordon T. Walmsley. Born in Amelisburg township, Mr. Nethery graduated from Osgoode Hall in 1929 and started practice in Picton in 1931. He enlisted in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment at the start of the Second Great War and went overseas with that unit.

Later he was assigned to special duty with the British Ministry of Information, and at war's end was serving with the Allied Military Government in Germany. He received his release from the Army in March 1946. Mr. Nethery is a former mayor of Picton and past president of Branch 78, Canadian Legion. He is married and has one son, William.

Mr. Walmsley has been named judge of the juvenile court of Prince Edward. The changes are effective Nov. 1st.

M. J. Coldwell — both teachers turned politicians — has found himself compelled to seek a wider audience than a classroom.

Speaking to jubilant supporters, he said his victory was the sign of a new uprising in Peterborough and Canada as a whole.

"This is the handwriting on the wall," he said. "In the past few weeks of campaigning you could tell there was something in the air. And now it has materialized."

History to him is more than teaching at Kenner Collegiate in Peterborough, where he came from Toronto five years ago. It includes taking his class to Parliament where his students can observe contemporary affairs in action and rugging for archaeological evidence of an early Indian community in nearby Serpent Mounds Provincial Park.

IN STEP WITH EVENTS

Married with three children, two of school age, Mr. Pitman feels it his duty as a historian to keep abreast of the times—perhaps the major factor for his entry into big-time politics.

During the campaign, before Grade 2 pupils at the Sir Winston Churchill Public School are having the opportunity this week of playing classroom Indians and all of the fun is part of their social studies.

Under the direction of teacher Miss Mary Salo, an Indian wigwam has been set up in a corner of the classroom. Souvenirs ranging all the way from miniature wiirch bark canoes, to tomahawks and life-like Indian dolls were brought from home by the students, the collection giving students an idea of the life of the early Indians in Canada.

To get the pupils more into the spirit of the thing, Indian chiefs and princesses were chosen in order to have the make-believe Blackhawk Indian tribe.

During the last thirty minutes of each day's classes, he spent 15 minutes at the gates of local factories shaking hands with anyone who would stop and speak with him.

Mr. Pitman continued to teach at Kenner during the campaign but dissociated his school work from his political activities. Despite their offers, he forbade his students to take part in the campaign on his behalf.

Will Organize Concert Group In This District

A recently-formed committee for the formation of an Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra group reports increased interest in all communities around the Bay of Quinte, Mr. Stephen Choma, well-known Batawa musician and orchestra leader, who has been acting secretary pro tem for the movement, is encouraged by the number of inquiries he has received from many communities and feels that now is the time to call these people together for a general organization meeting so that rehearsals can be started for the winter months and the possibility of an Easter performance can be considered.

As an answer to many letters of inquiry he has received, Mr. Choma has called a meeting of all interested people to be held in the Batawa Recreation Hall next Wednesday evening and extends the invitation to all people anywhere in the district who might be interested to attend this gathering of music loving people.

Discussing musical education recently, Mr. Choma said that much was being done in our area for youngsters by music teachers in school bands, choral groups and choirs, but that there are still many people who have a lot of musical talent that are not included in these groups. He has inquiries from about forty interested people in Belleville, Trenton, Picton, Tweed, Madoc, Marmora, Stirling, Frankford and Batawa.

Changes in Bus Routes Bring Flood of Calls

Proposed changes in the city bus routes which went into effect this morning brought a flood of calls yesterday to the Belleville Transit Commission Office.

The calls were both of a congratulatory nature as well as critical of the changes going into effect.

With the publication Saturday of the maps showing in detail the new route, residents depending on bus transportation flooded the commission office Monday with enquiries, particularly checking on times, which the buses would pass specific points.

This morning it was said still too early to determine how the change in the bus routes was going.

Some Interesting Stars

and increase drastically their brilliance, then they subside back in size and brilliance. The change may take place in a few weeks or a few years.

Some variable stars are called Cepheids. Cepheids are members of a class of stars which flare up, simmer down, flare up, simmer down over and over with the precision of a time piece. It is thought that these

The brightness of a star, as we see it, is no indication of the stars' true brightness because of the different distances involved. For example, Sirius is the brightest star in the sky (in Orion's Belt), but that is because it so near. It looks much brighter than Rigel for example, yet, actually Rigel is 700 times brighter than Sirius. Rigel is very far away while Sirius is the sixth closest star to us. Sirius is really 2 times brighter however, than our Sun.

Delta Cephei is a variable star and at its maximum light output it is 2,000 times brighter than the Sun — some unnamed Cepheids are 25,000 times brighter than the Sun. The brightest non-variable star is unnamed and it is 1,000,000 times as bright as the Sun. A supernova may be nearly one billion times as bright as the Sun.

Some stars are very dense. Some stars are as thin as the air in our atmosphere. Antares, for example, has a density like that of our atmosphere whereas the star A.C. 73 - 8247, which is said to be 4,000 miles in diameter has a density where a cubic inch would weigh 620 tons. In theory, there may be stars that would weigh 18,000,000 tons a cubic inch, (they may also in fact).

To be seen in the sky also are vast areas of clouds that glow in the dark. These are called Nebulae. The great Nebula in the constellation of Orion is an outstanding example. This is a vast cloud of gas and dust that is excited because of the radiation coming from nearby stars. The Nebulae are of fascinating shapes and colours. The Orion Nebula is 150,000,000,000,000 miles in diameter and many more miles away from the Sun.

Sometimes the Nebula is shaped like a cloud that encircles a star like a luminous smoke ring in the sky. The Ring Nebula, Lyra, is a good example, To be continued.

The guest book was in charge of Mrs. William Craig, while Mrs. Conroy Pearce; Mrs. Bill Craig, and Miss Gisela Bonesky were in charge of the wedding gifts.

Artists Like To Cook Says Singer

MONTREAL (CP)—Good cooking and an artistic temperament go together, says Mrs. Harriette Widows, who manages a new restaurant at the Montreal Museum of Fine Art.

"Artists, singers, musicians and writers I have known likes to cook and created wonderful dishes," said Mrs. Widows, born in France of English parentage.

Before coming to Montreal with her husband, a professor, seven years ago, she sang on the BBC and appeared at Wigmore Hall in London.

A mezzo-contralto, she sang with a travelling group during the Second World War giving concerts for Allied servicemen in Britain. Usually they gave a classical program, she says, but one case was different.

This was a concert for soldiers billeted on the east coast of England. "It was after the frightful Dieppe show," she said, "and one look at their faces told us they needed cheering rather than entertaining on a higher level.

"We decided the ballet should do the Can-Can and we sang French-Canadian songs, including Alouette."

Mrs. Widows enjoys preparing unusual dishes, but says she will not overlook more simple fare.

"English cooking, in spite of all the jokes about it, can be excellent," she said. "One of these days I'm going to make me good old-fashioned steak and kidney pie.

CRAIG — FREDERICK

Calvary Temple, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, October 8, at 3.00 p.m. for a very pretty wedding when Helen June Frederick became the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Ross Frederick, of Belleville, became the bride of Eugene Frederick Craig, also of Belleville, R.R. 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig of Oshawa.

The Reverend Ed Greenwood officiated in the double ring ceremony. Before the altar, decorated with mauve shade with matching headdresses. They wore single strands of pearls, gifts of the bridegroom. The bride carried a bouquet of white, yellow and mauve mums surrounded by fern and trailing ivy.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride wore a bridal gown of pure silk organza designed on princess lines with fitted bodice having a Sabrina neckline accented by tiny crescent dark and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in "V" points over the wrists. The full bouffant, floor-length skirt, worn with crinoline, featured over a band of lace at the waistline extending into a large "poufle" at the back. The bridegroom's overskirt of minute tucks, it cascaded into a chapel train. Her finger-tip veil of embroidered net was held by a crown-type headdress, and she carried a cascade of red Sweetheart roses mingled with trailing ivy. Rainbow-drop cultured pearls, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her nuptial costume.

She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Frederick (Pauline), of Halloway, who wore honor, wearing a yellow silk organza over taffeta fashioned in Victorian design with Sabrina neckline, short sleeves, and full bouffant skirt in ballerina-length, accented by front panel pleating and flowered applique. She wore a matching headdress in semi-flare style with shoulder-length veil; matching shoes and gloves. She wore a single strand of pearls, the gift of the bride, and carried a bouquet of white, yellow and mauve 'mums surrounded by fern and trailing ivy in ribbon.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Patricia Bush, and Miss Sylvia Bush, both of Kingston, were gowned alike in dainty mimistat to that of the matron of honor, and in mauve shade with matching headdresses. They wore single strands of pearls, gifts of the bride, and carried white, mauve and yellow 'mums surrounded by lace and yellow satin ribbons.

Little Carrie Lou Cross, of Lansdowne, Ontario, cousin of the bride, as flower girl, was dainty and sweet in her pale yellow silk organza frock, which was also similar in style to that of the older attendants. She wore a matching headdress, white shoes and yellow sockees and gloves, and carried a basket of white, yellow and mauve 'mums A gold locket and matching bracelet, the bride's gift, completed her costume.

Master Bryan Stewart Bellefeuille, cousin of the bride-groom, was ring-bearer.

Mr. Robert Craig, of Belleville, attended his brother as groomsman, while ushers were Mr. Robert Frederick of Halloway, brother of the bride and Mr. Ronald Murdock, of Oshawa, R.R. No. 2.

The reception was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church parlors, the ladies' group catering.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask linen and silver candelabra with following mauve and white colour candles. A three-tier wedding cake, prettily decorated with white, yellow and mauve rosebuds centred the table, surrounded by the bridal party, over which added a lovely nuptial accent

The bride's mother received wearing a purple-toned brocaded taffeta with cinnamon brown accessories, and corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted in the receiving line, attired in rose crepe with brown accessories and corsage of white chrysanthemums.

For the wedding trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba, via United States and other points, the bride donned a smart blue suit with beige accessories, and mauve sheath dress, worn as a saque of mauve orchids.

Guests attending from Orillia; Oshawa; Westbrook; Picton; Toronto; Lansdowne; Inverary; Kingston; Peterborough and Belleville.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom, a leather travel kit, and the bridegroom's gift to his attendants, ties and handkerchief accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig will reside in Kingston, Ontario.

For travelling to Three Rivers, Quebec, and New York, the bride chose a fur-timmed mauve ensemble with brown accessories, and corsage of bronze roses.

Guests attended from Ottawa, Niagara Falls, N.Y., Toronto, Kingston, Deseronto, Belleville, Stoco, Montreal and Hull.

Weddings

LEVESQUE — HUNT

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized in St. Charles Borromeo Church, Read, Ont., on Monday, October 10, at 10.00 a.m. when Beverly Anne Hunt, of Ostawa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hunt of Trenton, became the bride of Joseph Andre Levesque of Ottawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Levesque. The Reverend Father Hamilton of Read officiated before an altar adorned with pink and yellow dahlias.

Miss Dorothy Grant of Belleville presided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloists, Mrs. Louis LaRosse, Mrs. Eugene Levesque and Mr. Raymond Levesque.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her gown of French Chantilly lace fashioned with molded bodice accented with Sabrina neckline. She wore a crown style headdress and tulle illusion veil, and carried a bouquet of white lilies in a cascade form.

Miss Karin Ray, of Belleville, as maid of honor, wore a shimmering organza gown featuring crystalette featuring, a fitted bodice with scoop neckline, and full skirt, and bandeau headdress veil, and carried a bouquet of bronze mums.

Miss Donna Hunt, sister of the bride, as senior bridesmaid, was gowned similarly to the maid of honor, while the junior bridesmaid, Miss Sandra Hunt, cousin of the bride, and little Miss Lorraine Rivers, as flower girl, wore pink and white organza crystalette. All attendants carried bronze mums.

Master David Parks, nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer.

The bridegroom attended by Mr. Clifford Hunt, of Pialsbridge, brother of the bride and Mr. Raymond Levesque of Ottawa and Mr. Robert Hunt of Belleville, best man and groomsman and reception were held in the parish hall of the church and the bride's guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a navy green brocade, with corsage of bronze 'mums.

Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, wearing a navy blue crepe and lace with deep mauve orchid corsage.

For travelling to Three Rivers, Quebec, and New York, the bride chose a fur-timmed mauve ensemble with brown accessories, and corsage of bronze roses.

Guests attended from Ottawa, Niagara Falls, N.Y., Toronto, Kingston, Deseronto, Belleville, Stoco, Montreal and Hull.

SMOTRYCH — McCULLOUGH

Baskets of large yellow chrysanthemums, palms, ferns and ferns, formed a lovely setting in Eastminster United Church at 4 p.m. in Foxboro United Church, for the marriage of Alma Isabel McCullough, of Foxboro, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McCullough, to Steve William Smotrych, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smotrych. The Rev. R. F. Parke, pastor of the church, officiated.

Pianist, Mrs. Kenneth Peacock, rendered the wedding music, playing the traditional "Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin" as a processional; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," and "Ave Maria" by Schubert, "Song of Heaven," before the ceremony and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" for the recessional.

The radiantly lovely bride given in marriage by her father, Mr. G. McCullough, wore a charming bridal gown of net organza de soie featuring a fitted bodice with circles neckline accented with satin roses. The graceful, full length skirt was also accented with satin roses. She wore a jewelled tiara and net veil with lace edging and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. William McCormick, of Dorval, Quebec, matron of honor and the bridesmaid, Miss Ann Marie McCullough of Toronto, were floor length gowns of street-length in champagne color, with matching headdresses and accessories and carried cascade bouquets of trailing ivy and copper-toned palm chrysanthemums.

Master Peter Douglas Hay of Newmarket, Ontario, nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Mr. Vladi H. Vonas, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Malcolm MacMaster of Kingston, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the bride's home which was prettily adorned with baskets of fall flowers 'mums, snapdragons, and dahlias.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a gown of mink-colored lace, brown accessories, and corsage of lightpink Sweetheart roses. Assisting her in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, attired in taupe-toned brocade, with matching hat, matching accessories and corsage of Sweetheart roses.

The bride's table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a crystal vase of three white rosebuds; flanked by crystal candelabra with white tapers and the bridal bouquets.

For the honeymoon to western Canada, the bride wore a fall suit; foliages, begonias, gorgeous salmon colored dahlias and purple ones, also all sorts of bulbs. All the flowers were grown and donated by Mr. and Mrs. Adams of Stanley Street. A hearty thankyou goes to Mr. and Mrs. Adams for this fine effort.

A grocery basket and fine large hamper were loaded with all sorts of food stuffs, as well as some smaller baskets, all decorated in pink and blue. These were conveyed by Mrs. Nora MacDonald, assisted by Mrs. Carm Caverley.

One floral centreplece arrangement was won by Mrs. Dora Elvidge; the candy by Mrs. R. Valleau, the electric grill and wafter by Mrs. M. Alderman, the cake by Mrs. M. McCarey and the doll by Mrs. E. Pinder. The grocery basket was won by Mrs. M. Green, Mrs. J. Charlton and Mr. G. Adams.

Would the holder of ticket No. 142, phone WO 2-8261.

Thanks were tendered to each and every one who helped to make the bazaar successful.

Home-wide telephone convenience

Needed . . . because your family lives all over the home

Ever think of the different areas in your home where members of your family spend much of their time? The kitchen, den or basement workshop, the living room and games room, the bedrooms . . . all are sensible locations for extension phones — to save steps and minutes when there are calls to be made or taken. Extensions are available in a wide variety of colours. The wall phone is particularly convenient where space is limited — the table set, in handy locations, becomes a constant invitation to pleasant conversation. The Princess (which lights for easy dialing when you lift the receiver) comes in pink, blue, turquoise, beige and white. To enjoy telephone convenience in your home, call your Telephone Business Office — or "ask the man in our green truck".

SELECT YOUR CHRISTMAS CARDS NOW

With Christmas only eight weeks away, it would seem time to get into the matter of these traditional Yuletide greetings that mean so much.

Cards today seem as much a Christmas tradition as does Santa Claus. It's the custom of sending cheery greetings to one's friends during this wonderful time, is really only a little over one hundred years old. The first known Christmas card was designed in London, England, in 1842. It was quaintly illustrated and carried the wording "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You" — still the most popular and meaningful greeting of all those ever composed.

Now is a good time to select your cards. When you do, make every effort to avoid a few pitfalls. Some examples: do not purchase comic cards. There seems to be quite a vogue for them now, and nothing could be in worse taste or more out of place than to send a Christmas card that is silly and also may border on the vulgar. It is perfectly proper to have a special card designed with personal photographs of the family, children or pets, but it is wise to send these only to relatives and friends. Business associates or acquaintances should receive a less personal and more dignified card. Select one with a religious motif to send to friends who are in mourning.

How to sign cards seems to cause some pen-chewing. A card to close friends may be signed merely with the first name, but I do think it advisable to add the last name, too, just to be safe! The recipient may know several people named "Ruth" or "John" — so, no matter how well you know them, add your last name!

A woman's name is always given first in the case where a husband and wife send cards jointly. "Ruth and John Doe" is the correct way to do it. This form also may be followed if the names are printed. On the informal card it is also proper that "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe" be printed. However, if the approach is a formal one, and is to be engraved, only the "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe" is correct. First names should not be used in this case.

Business people frequently are perplexed as to how to send cards to employers or executives with whom they are associated, when they have not met the wives or husbands of these people. A card should be addressed to both "Mr. and Mrs." — whether you know them or not. Only a dignified card, bearing the full signature, should be sent in this case.

When addressing an envelope it is not proper to use the phrase "and family." On the card itself write "to all the family," but the envelope should contain only "Mr. and Mrs. Philip Green."

Never use a typewriter for addressing and be sure to seal the flap and use a five-cent stamp. Such an important greeting should not go half rate. Place your address on the back flap. Although formerly this was considered bad taste, it makes sense. By doing so you help keep your friends' address books up to date.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

QUESTION: Three months ago my husband and I announced our daughter's engagement in our local newspapers. At that time the wedding date had not been set. Now it has. My question is: Would it be proper for us to put another announcement in the papers to give the wedding date? We do not want to do the wrong thing!

Mrs. L.P.W., East Meadow, L.I., New York.

ANSWER: It would not be incorrect to place this announcement in the newspapers. However, I am wondering why it is necessary unless the wedding date is a long time away. If the ceremony is to take place in the fairly new future, you will be issuing invitations to relatives and friends, so why is the announcement in the papers necessary?

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a woman's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers.

Mrs. M. G. — Our son is inventive and original. I'd like him to go to a private school.

Mr. M. G. — Why coddle him? Let him learn to take things as they come.

Mrs. M. G. — Lewis is 9 years old. He's in the fourth grade in public school and he's bored stiff. The teacher admits he's bright and could do fifth and even sixth grade work, but no skipping is permitted. So to keep Lewis occupied she lets him wash the blackboard and bring the attendance records to the office.

He loves to read and can tell you anything you want to know about dinosaurs. He's also interested in astronomy and right now he's fooling around with a few old magnifying glasses he collected, trying to make himself a telescope. But this has nothing to do with school. He hates school and I'm afraid the longer he goes, the more he'll feel it's a waste of time.

Just because he grins and bears it, his father wants to leave well enough alone. But why wait for him to rebel — especially when there's something we can do?

There's an excellent private school in the neighborhood, with small classes and many more subjects. With a slight strain on our budget, we could swing it for Lewis. But my husband says it would make him namby pamby.

Mr. M. G. — If you're going to cater to every whim of a child, how will he ever learn to face life?

My wife and I went to public schools and they didn't hurt us. Sure, it would have been nice to study ballroom dancing and horseback riding and have the teacher pat you on the back more often. But we managed. We learned to do things by ourselves and stand on our own feet early in life.

Maybe doing errands for the teacher and washing her blackboards is good for Lewis: If he's really so bright, maybe he'll invent an easier way to wash them.

I say let him fit himself to the school he's in, not look for a school to fit itself to him. That's not the way the world works.

The Council: Without realizing it, perhaps, Mrs. G. has signaled herself with proponents of the newest wrinkle in education: using the school to prevent trouble rather than repair it later. More and more delinquency and mental illness are being attacked very back on the earliest frontiers, before they begin to take shape. And the fourth grade is none too early.

The issue isn't public versus private schools. Eminent and productive men have come out of both types. Barring inhuman obstacles, a gifted person with a strong drive to succeed will come through, sometimes with no school! But the important question for the G's is: What is this school doing for this child?

It's wasting him. If there were no alternative, he could take up the slack on his own as he is doing. But to him school would be a place where you loaf and wait for the bell so you can get out and really learn things in your spare time. You boondoggle in school.

If there's a school available that is geared to the needs of gifted, imaginative children, Lewis should go to it. His are the treasures that require challenge to grow to their full value. And facing him with the challenge of new courses, equally talented classmates, attentive and enthusiastic teachers, isn't pampering him. It's giving him the load he's equipped to carry.

Incidentally, Mr. G. has false picture of private schools. The good ones are often more "democratic" than many public schools because classmates are more homogeneous. The extremes of wealth, brains and talents aren't usually so conspicuous. Chances are the "poor kid" in a public school feels more forlorn than the less-moneyed one in a private school where distinction may be gained by achievement rather than possessions.

At any rate, the constructive attitude toward schooling for Lewis is to send him where his special needs are best met. If he were retarded or physically handicapped Mr. G. would have no hesitation sending him to a special school. Just because he's ostensibly "well" is no reason for ignoring his inner unrest.

Give him the comfort of happy, stimulating schooldays. The Spartan tests will come. But so will the strength to meet them.

Report Shows $500 Million Poured Into Transportation Aids in Past Eight Years

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has poured at least $500,000,000 into transportation aid in the last eight years.

The figure is contained in a special report prepared for the MacPherson royal commission on transportation, a six-man body investigating the plight of Canada's railways and the problems of freight shippers.

Observers say it points up the magnitude of the issues confronting the commission which has heard countless pleas for more federal help to offset the high costs of transportation.

If all the proposals for new federal transportation subsidies were added together they would amount to a fantastic figure in the hundreds of millions of dollars. In this light observers regard the commission study of direct federal transport assistance as particularly significant.

EAST GOT MAJOR SHARE

Study, for the fiscal years 1953-53 to 1958-59, breaks down $496,300,000 paid out by the federal government in one way or another as direct help for transportation, including steamship subventions, special aid, payment of deficits and flat subsidies.

Federal payments for the current fiscal year, not included, would raise the total to more than $500,000,000.

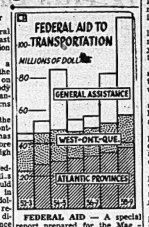
The Atlantic provinces got more than 40 per cent of the total over the eight-year period.

The federal treasury put up $214,900,000 through steamship subventions, coal subventions, by picking up deficits on government ferry services, by paying subsidies on feed grain and farm implement shipments and by meeting the cost of freight rate cuts on Maritime rail shipments.

CNR DEFICITS

Since 1927, when the Maritime freight rates act went into operation to reduce rail freight rates, the Atlantic provinces have received transportation aid totalling $408,700,000, the study shows. Of the total, $182,300,000 was channeled through the freight rate act itself.

The 1952-59 study shows that all other provinces got aid amounting to $150,500,000 — about one-quarter of the total direct transportation assistance.



The rest of the federal money — about 30 per cent — was paid out as general assistance, chiefly to cover deficits of the publicly-owned Canadian National Railways and to meet the cost of the "bridge" subsidy on east - west rail shipments.

CNR deficits during the eight years to 1959 amounted to $102,500,000 — half of it, $51,600,000, in 1958-59. The so-called bridge subsidy, which is pegged at $7,000,000 a year, cost $46,100,000 in the eight-year period.

HELD FOR SHIPPERS

During the same period, about $132,100,000 was paid out under the feed grain freight assistance and agricultural-lime transportation assistance programs.

Other items in the eight-year period include payments for deficits on the now-defunct Canadian

FEDERAL AID — A special report prepared for the MacPherson royal commission shows the federal government has paid out close to $500,000,000 in transportation aid in the seven fiscal years 1952-53 to 1958-59.

The report shows the Atlantic provinces receiving more than 40 per cent of the total aid, about 25 per cent going to the other provinces, and the balance being paid as general assistance. This latter amount consists chiefly of payments to cover CNR deficits and the cost of a subsidy on east - west rail shipments. (CP Newsmap).

National Steamships, a subvention on Canada - Antipodes steamer services, specific steamship subventions and deficits on the Hudson Bay railway which now is incorporated fully into the CNR system.

Most of the money for railway transportation help was paid to the railways on behalf of shippers. The railways, for example, bill the government for the federal share of freight rates on Maritime shipments.

The railways contend they are not benefiting directly from the federal assistance—that it helps the shipper or the receiver but not the carrier. The trucking industry argues that by paying subsidies via the railways, the government does not give shippers a choice of carrier.

Snowman Just Leaping Ibex Says Explorer

LONDON (Reuters) — The Abominable Snowman is just a leaping ibex or bounding marmot, a British explorer claims in a letter to the Sunday times.

The explorer is Jeffery Douglas, who said he spent four months in the Himalayas two years ago trying to track down the Snowman.

The Snowman supposedly is a half-man, half-ape animal that inhabits the slopes of the world's highest mountains.

The Snowman's story is tied up with reports of footprints like those of a huge two-legged animal.

One of the latest such reports has come from an expedition now in the Himalayas and led by Sir Edmund Hillary, co-conqueror of Mount Everest.

The Hillary expedition reported finding fresh footprints which appeared to have been made by the Abominable Snowman.

Douglas said he found footprints "the size of soup plates," and "examination showed that each of these impressions was in fact a group of four small boxes, where some small creature such as an ibex had traversed the expanse of snow in a series of bounds."

Brothers of St. Gabriel Train Boys for Malaya's Important Rubber Industry

By A. L. McINTYRE

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—Malaya's first centre for the training of boys as specialists in the rubber-growing industry is being established in the rubberlands 15 miles from here.

A rubber cultivation course is among several being offered at the Monfort Boys Home and Training Centre run by the Brothers of St. Gabriel, a French order devoted to the training of boys.

"We will train boys in skilled estate work—bud-grafting, caring for a nursery and factory supervision—all remunerative occupations," said Brother Elezar-Marie of Montreal, principal of the centre and for many years director of St. Gabriel's School in Singapore.

HELP SMALL BUSINESS

Graduates of the institution will be an asset to smallholders who produce one-third of the country's rubber. Using obsolete and wrong techniques, smallholders often turn out low-grade rubber which fetches low prices.

Millions of dollars have been spent by the Natural Rubber Bureau to educate them, said J. E. Bush, bureau information officer. Their principal failings have been coagulating latex without mixing it, drying rubber sheets on the ground and selling rubber without adequate drying.

The Montfort home at present consists of a series of plank barracks blocks with four brothers, two instructors and two cooks in charge of 25 boys. Plans have been completed for erection of permanent buildings costing 500,000 Malayan dollars. Brother Elezar is in the forefront of the financial drive, soliciting funds and gathering equipment.

LAND AID

Organizations throughout the world have been told of the aims of Monfort and some have responded.

The order, founded in France in 1706, has a large Canadian establishment with headquarters in Montreal.

Fifty-seven acres of undulating rubberland bought by the brothers with a government grant are being cleared and levelled. A British firm donated 10 adjoining acres.

When Montfort is completed it will have an administrative block, dormitories, workshops, cinema hall, badminton courts and football field.

The centre will train boys in motor mechanics, carpentry, tailoring and printing in addition to rubber cultivation.

START AT 12

Boys between the ages of 12 and 18 are admitted, but it is preferred if they are not more than 15.

"They can stay as long as they wish," said Brother Elezar.

Generally at 18 we find jobs for them. Firms are anxious to take on lads from the home."

The boys begin the day at Monfort at 6:15 a.m. with drill and breakfast. Then they work in the gardens. At 8 a.m. they attend class, learning English and school subjects.

The rest of the day is spent in the workshops or in classrooms drawing classes.

In the evenings they get moral instruction, lectures in civics and join in community singing.

SUNDAY HOLIDAY

Sunday is a holiday. They go hunting, fishing and on outward-bound adventures.

Boys who find their way to the home are orphans, problem boys or underprivileged youths.

A 12-year-old Chinese youth was sent to the home by his grandmother. His parents left him in her care. She said she was poor and couldn't look after him.

An Indian boy of 11 was sent to by his laborer father who said he had six children, the boy did not attend school regularly, was often absent from home and spent his school fees.

The home is run on charity. It accepts food gifts from firms.

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW — Mrs. Will Allan is a patient in Campbellford Hospital.

A son was born on Wednesday, October 26th to Mr. and Mrs. Don Reid.

Mrs. Gordon Webb was among those who attended the W.A. rally at Mt. Pleasant United Church on Wednesday afternoon.

Sometime during Thursday night, hoodlums entered the public school at Bonarlaw breaking windows and throwing around furnishings in the school, police and trustees were called to the school on Friday morning.

Mr. Jack Lain, suffered a heart attack, at his home on Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Burkitt spent Thursday evening with Mrs. Chris Burkitt.

Mr. Chris Bateman returned home from Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Elwood Johnson is building a new house at Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bateman and Miss Ruth Bateman visited Mr. and Mrs. Don Crowe at Stockdale, on Sunday.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The McFarlands 1960-61 edition of the OHA senior hockey gets its baptism of fire tonight. The club suicided by a pitiful sprinkling of veterans left Memorial Arena this afternoon at 2.45 for Galt where they open the season tonight against the strong Terrier squad.

Gordie Bell said this morning he has acquired the services of two former Whitby Dunlops, Freddie Eicher and Pete Babando. Babando made the trip today but Eicher through previous commitments was unable to go. However, he will be available the-first of the month.

Fronting Bob Senior in the McFarland nets will be Jean Paul Landreville and Eddie Mantineau. Barry Titterson, who has been going great guns in practice, and Lionel Botly.

Up front will be Ike Hildebrand, Billy Colvin and Sam Mulholland, Toppy Toppazzini, Roy Partridge and Mike Biskaduski, Lou Sleaver and "Wimer" Brown.

Davy Jones, according to Bell, will not be able to make "away" trips this season.

The Race has the strongest club in the league in the Galt Terriers. They have two wins under their belts, both over the Oakville Oaks. They boast several of the former Kitchener Dutchmen.

Manager and organizer of the Terriers is Len Gaudette, former arena manager at Trenton, and who plays with the club. Len, who has been in charge of the ageas in Galt for the past two years, organized a senior "B" club a year ago and now has a much stronger club ready to battle in much faster company.

"I tried to do the same in Trenton," Gaudette said yesterday in telephone. "But money, red tape and interference went on. I've a free hand here in Galt and expect a fine year."

Recruited from the Kitchener Dutchmen, Gaudette has the veteran goalie, "Boat" Hurley, who was sidelined last year by the Dutchmen and captained the club for the Olympics and took Windsor's Don Head.

However, the "Boat" won't be lonesome for with him in Terrier uniforms are former Dutchie pals Darryl Sly, "Butch" Martin, Ted Maki, Bob McKnight, Don Rope and Bill "Wiggie" Wylie. Quite a formidable array that should cause the rest of the four-team circuit plenty of trouble.

From last year's Galt squad, Gaudette has Bobby Mader, Joe Hogan, Pete Kowalchuk, Gar Vasey, "Butch" Keeling, George Zak, Jerry Theberge and himself.

Newcomer Gene Miller has been acquired from the Woodstock Athletics and Billy Simpsell has been obtained from the British Hockey League where he has been player-coach for a number of years. Simpell played with Brantford when they were in senior company.

Gaudette said he was looking forward to the long haul in Belleville and despite the miles is happy the McFarlands are associated with the league. He says he has a warm spot for the Bay of Quinte.

"Galt," he said, "is operating on the share-the-wealth plan. That's the way I always operate and it's the only way to save hockey from folding."

That's a pretty fair club on paper and it should give the Macs an idea of what's to come.

Bell has been driving his club hard during practices and while they're not in mid-season form, should give a good account of themselves in tonight's curtain-raising tilt.

They open their home season in Memorial Arena Friday night against these same Terriers.

Beats Dixon And Stewart

TORONTO (CP)—A rousing 27-point final-game finish has given Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist, Toronto Argonauts triple threat, the Big Four scoring championship for the second consecutive year.

His down-to-the-wire drive was one of the most sensational in the league's history.

The 240 - pound import from Tarentum, Pa., who never played U.S. college or pro football, snatched the title from halfback George Dixon of Montreal Alouettes. Dixon, first-year import from the University of Bridgeport, was a witness to Cookie's great ending Sunday that saw Argonauts whomber the Als 42-27.

The 25 - year - old Gilchrist smashed over for three touchdowns, 42 converts, five field goals and nine singles — seven more than Dixon who rapped up 108 on 17 touchdowns over the 14-game schedule.

GREAT FINALE

Going into Sunday's game Cookie and Dixon each had 138 points for Dixon and 93 for halfback Ron Stewart of Ottawa Rough Riders. Dixon and Toronto-born Stewart were scoreless in week-end action.

Gilchrist was the title in 1953 with 73 points. His first year with Argonauts after one season with Saskatchewan Roughriders of the western conference. Before that he had played with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four, Kitchener and Sarnia of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Toronto's Dave Mann was fourth with 96, followed by Terry McDougall fifth with 79, Bill Bewley of Montreal sixth with 78 and Gary Schreiber of the Rough Riders next with 71.

THIRTEEN TOP RESULTS

Dave Theien of Ottawa was the ground gaining title, Argonaut quarterback Tobin Rote took the passing crown and Dave Mann the pass-receiving championship.

Rote, 10-year National Football League veteran, had an average gain of 9.7 yards for completing 256 of his 450 pass attempts for a gain of 3,473 yards. He had a completion percentage of .566 and threw a record 28 touchdown passes, six more than the old mark set by Sam Etcheverry of Montreal and Arnie Galiffa of Toronto in 1956.

Rote's completion percentage was second to Etcheverry's .609. The Montreal quarter connected on 229 of 378 pass attempts for 2,571 yards and 5nd average gain of 9.4. He had 24 touchdown passes and had 19 passes intercepted, six less than Rote.

Mann and end Hal Patterson of Montreal both caught 61 passes but the Toronto halfback gained the most yards, 1,380 to 1,117.

Theien, who missed two games due to injuries, piled up a record 1,607 yards rushing to beat ter by 68 yards the 1,539 mark he set last year. He carried the ball 245 times and averaged 5.7 yards a carry.

STEWART SECOND

Halfback Ron Stewart, also of Ottawa, was the runner-up in the ground - gaining department with 1,520 yards in 139 carries and an average of 7.3.

Mann also was the topgunner, averaging 43.9 yards on 96 kicks to edge Cam Fraser, who has been the leading kicker in the league for five years. Fraser this time averaged 43.3 yards on 58 kicks.

Defensive halfback Jim Rountree of Toronto led in pass interception with 13, two more than teammate Bob Dehlinger. Harry Lunn, Montreal punt returns with 252 yards, just six more than Bobby Dobbins of Montreal was the runaway leader in the kick-returning department with 1,000 yards. Tommy Grant of Hamilton who had 978.

FOUR RECORDS

The Argos set four Big Four records.

The new league records besides Rote's were as follows:

Most touchdowns passing in one season by a team—29. The record previously was held by Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1955.

Most passes by one quarter by a team—35. The old record of 34 was set by Montreal Oct. 20, 1956.

Most points in one game, individual—36 by Gilchrist. The old record of 24 was held by several players.

In the Senior Intercollegiate, Queen's Golden Gaels practically wrapped up the scoring championship when they trounced Western Mustangs 37-6 at Montreal to bring his season's point total to 60. Ron Howell of Queen's-remained Harry Hawkins who scored 54 points in McGill's big victory.

Unhappy Over Team Play

Canadien Brass Huddles

MONTREAL (CP) — The top brass of Montreal Canadiens, perturbed over poor early performance so far in the National Hockey League season, met in a two-hour huddle Monday to consider ways and means of ending the lacklustre brand of play.

When it was all over management decided to leave the club's management is decidely unhappy with the play of all except four or five members of the team and He named none individually.

Coach Toe Blake said that if the team do not play up to their capabilities, the matter of bring others up from the farm will be dealt with. In 13 games so far this season the Montreal Six-Stripe champions have won six, lost five and tied two. They have scored 66 goals but have had 64 goals scored against them, four more than the total goals scored by their last-place New York Rangers.

Canadiens meet the Rangers here with Chicago Black Hawks with 14 points. But the Hawks have played one game less.

At this stage last season Canadiens had won seven games, lost three and tied three. They had 19 points, one more than the second-place club.

In the first 13 games last season Canadiens had been scored on only 29 times, compared with this season. Defensively, the club has a better-record — 46 goals this season compared with 44 last.

Jail Jockey, Three After Dope Probe

GLOUCESTER, England (AP) — A 33-year-old jockey and three other men accused of collaborating in a racetrack doping ring were jailed Monday after a trial which shook the British turf.

Sir Gordon Richards, former champion British rider and now a trainer, went into the witness box on the last day to plead for the accused jockey, who rode for him.

"I have known him for 20 years," Sir Gordon said, "I would be amazed when this thing happened. While I am training horses the stewards have a job."

The jailed jockey was Bert Woodage, an experienced rider employed by Sir Gordon for eight years. He and Harry Tuck, 53-year-old ex-jockey dispenser, both drew 18-month terms after admitting conspiring in a conspiracy to feed a stimulating dope to horses with the object of defrauding bookies.

Two other collaborators were Charles Boyce, 43, stable lad, and Robert Mason, 48, stable employee. Mason got nine months and Mason six.

Ironically, the prosecution admitted during the case the effects of the dope had worn off before the horses ran.

Services Dart League Results

The Skyliners picked up ground on the rest of the Belleville Servicemen Dart League teams last night by handing La-Palma a 9-3 defeat.

In other games Lucky Lewis edged ANAF 6-5, Williamsons defeated Atchinsons 7-4, Parsons won over Northern Electric, Mc-Evoys over Ft Rancho and the RCAF over Legion, all by 6-5 scores.

Wants Casey as Manager

Greenberg Has LA Ball Franchise

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hank Greenberg confirmed reports Monday that he will acquire the Los Angeles baseball franchise in the American League and indicated he has designs on Casey Stengel manage the club.

Stengel, 70, let out two weeks ago after winning his fifth pennant in 12 years with New York Yankees, said he has talked to four major league clubs "but I haven't had a definite offer from any of them.

"Why, I just had a call from Detroit advising me I was gonna manage the Tigers," Stengel said. "But it wasn't official. I'm gonna take a few weeks to make up my mind on what I want to do."

The Associated Press learned Monday Greenberg might become both field manager and general manager of the new Los Angeles club if Greenberg acquired the franchise.

Greenberg acknowledged his intent regarding the franchise when he arrived here but refrained from a definite statement on Stengel.

MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE

Greenberg said: "I'm a great admirer of Casey, but I honestly don't know if he's available."

Greenberg heads a syndicate that is acquiring the Los Angeles franchise. As a vice-president of Chicago White Sox, he owns approximately 20 per cent of the club's stock which he will dispose of after the American League next meeting Nov. 17.

Greenberg said that his associate in the White Sox operation, Bill Veeck, isnt involved in the acquisition of the Los Angeles franchise.

It brought along a 1961 American League schedule that calls for 81 games in the Coliseum, said Greenberg.

MUST LINE UP DATES

"Of course, the inclusion of Los Angeles in our leagues expansion plan is wholly contingent on getting playing dates.

In Detroit, the Tigers front office said Monday night Stengel is a top prospect for manager of the club.

Detroit has been without a manager since early last month when Joe Gordon resigned to accept a job as pilot of the Kansas City Athletics.

Hull Players Share Lead

OTTAWA (CP)—Forwards Gilles Tremblay and Cliff Pennington of Hull, leaguesleading Hull - Ottawa Canadiens, share first place in the individual scoring race of the Eastern Professional Hockey League. They have 16 points each in the recording statistics released Monday night for games played.

Tremblay has nine goals and seven assists. Pennington has the opposite, seven goals and nine assists. Tremblay leads in the goal race with seven markers.

Skippy Burchell of the Montreal Royals is the individual leader Jean-Claude Tremblay of the Canadiens is the most assists with 10 each.

Gilles Tremblay shared the lead last week with his teammate Bobby Rousseau, Dennis Methot of Valleyfield Braves and Jimmy Moore of Sudbury. Rousseau has been with Montreal Canadiens of the National League for the last four games and is in first spot in the scoring column. Gloso is in second place with 14 points. Valleyfield rookie Cliff Schmaute of the Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds is third.

With an average of 2.75, Normand Jacques of Kingston Frontenacs is leading in the goals in four games, for tops in that department. Canadiens Ed Johnston, the leader since the beginning of the season, bag dropped a point and has an average of 2.90 for 29 goals in ten games. Thunderbird Jacques is the only goalied team in the league with two shutouts. Hull-Ottawa and Montreal has spent the most time in the penalty box with 60 minutes.

Royals Seek Home Win

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals will be seeking their first 1960 - 61 Eastern Professional Hockey League victory on home ice when they meet league-leading Valleyfield Braves tonight.

"For some unknown reason we are playing much better on the road than at home," Royals' coach Curry said Monday.

"The sooner early all we had to do was shake out on the ice and we have more of a feeling. There's no nothing seems to work for us on home ice. I'm hoping we can get out of this slump tonight."

Royals, currently in fifth place in the league, have only been able to tie two of their four home games to date. They have lost one, won three and tied one in seven games.

Curry said he may dress John Longarini, 22-year-old defenceman from Sault Ste. Marie, for tonight's game. If Longarini plays, he would rest one of his forwards.

Royals and Canadiens have met once so far this season with Canadiens winning 7-2 at Hull, Ottawa.

UPSETS FAVORITE

MELBOURNE (AP) — Highflier, five-year-old Noor Jamal mare, won the $57,680 Melbourne Cup today in a surprise victory that favored Australian champion Tulloch staggered home fourth. Highflier beat Tulloch by a head with Ilumquin close behind. The driving finish over the two-mile course.

Abouttes Manager

Wants Official Barred

MONTREAL (CP) — Perry Moss, general manager and head coach of Montreal Alouettes, said Monday another request will be made that referee Johnny Munro not be assigned to officiate in any more games in which the Alouettes play.

Moss broke up in Toronto Sunday, declaring "If Munro is assigned to the game, I'll not allow my team to take the field."

"We feel there has been a series of things," Moss said Monday.

"We are going to make the request again (that Munro not be used) at the league meeting scheduled this time."

The previous request went to football commissioner Syd Halter and Hec Shudlicz, senior official. Moss said he was not Halter's representative in the game and the second will be made similarly.

Referee Munro of Toronto disallowed a touchdown against Montreal Sunday. At that stage Toronto Argonauts led 21-0. The Argos went on to win 53-27.

Ban British Soccer Stars

LONDON (CP) — Jackie Milburn, former England and Newcastle centre forward, was released Monday from playing in England under Soccer ban imposed from a provident fund to send his wife to Canada.

The fund, run by the Football League, provides for a retirement scheme for players on part of a player's earnings. Milburn gave his last summer to pay for his wife's convalescent trip to Canada. The withdrawal league quotes Milburn as saying he automatically bars him from re-engaging in Soccer anywhere.

In 1958 he signed a two-year contract with London Canadian League club. His contract with Linfield expired Monday and he was free to join Birmingham City of the English League First Division, but letter from the league secretary informed him that he was ineligible.

Will Resign

REGINA (CP) — The Leader-Post says coach Ken Carpenter of Saskatchewan Roughriders intends to resign to accept a coaching position in the United States.

Carpenter probably is leader of his resignation today when the Western Interprovincial Football Union club's executive meets to discuss the coaching situation next year, the newspapers says.

Win Majors ERA Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — Young Mike McCormick of San Francisco Giants and Frank Bunker of Philadelphia Phillies won the major league earned run championships in 1960, final averages revealed Monday. Both pitchers are Easterners.

McCormick led the National League with a 2.70 earned run average and Baumann topped the American with 2.68, according to figures compiled by The Associated Press.

McCormick finished the last season with 15 victories and 12 losses. He gave up 78 earned runs in 253 innings and pitched four shutouts, three against the Milwaukee Braves. In 1959 he had a 12-10 record and a 3.09 average.

Baumann's 1960 won-lost record was 13-8. He was a first White Sox pitcher to win the earned run title since Billy Pierce in 1955.

Jim Bunning of Detroit was the American League runner-up with a 2.79 mark. He yielded 78 earned runs in 252 innings while winning 11 games and losing 14.

Ernie Broglio, a 21-game winner for the St. Louis Cardinals, was second in the National League. He gave up 69 earned runs in 226 innings for a 2.75 earned run mark. Broglio had eight three shutouts.

Warren Spahn of Milwaukee was the American League runner-up with a 2.78 mark. He yielded 78 earned runs in 252 innings while winning 15 games and losing 14.

Ernie Broglio, a 21-game winner for the St. Louis Cardinals, was second in the National League. He gave up 69 earned runs in 226 innings for a 2.75 earned run mark. Broglio had eight three shutouts.

Western Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders started their first swing of the coastal circuit with a 7-2 win over Edmonton Hockey League by defeating Vancouver Canucks 4-0 Monday night in the Winnipeg Winnipeg Arena edged the Edmonton Flyers by tilts same score in a letter from the players figured in six of the goals.

The Stamps victory came against Vancouver team that hadn't scored a goal in which opened the season by winning their first six games.

Forward Ron Leopold connected for Calgary's opening goal at 1:22 of the final period. Other Calgary goals were scored by rookie Gerry Koch, Cordie Vejpravs and Norm Johnson. Orland Kurtenbach, defenceman Larry, Cahan and Dave Duke scored for Canucks who next year, the newspapers say, now have lost two in a row.

Bay of Quinte Basketball

Crawford Metals and Trenton Wilsons share first-place in the Bay of Quinte Intermediate Basketball loop today after chalking up victories in last night's twin-bill at Moira Secondary School gym.

Crawford Metals ran roughshod over Northern Electric by a score of 60-34, while Trenton took a closer 53-41 victory over the Belleville Teachers.

Paced by sharp-shooting Teddy Batchelor, the Metals crew piled up a 31-21 half-time lead and won going away. Batchelor clicked for 27 points while Bert Faulkner had 19 and Phil Bennett 17. Doug Soule topped Northern Electric with 15 points.

Trenton Wilsons overcame a 20-17 half-time lead by the Teachers to register their win-tory in the free-scoring second half. Borden and crews shared the Wilson scoring honors with ten points each. Wooley tossed in 15 to pace the Belleville club's scorers.

One other game scheduled for this week has Belleville Lights' hosts visiting Picton on Wednesday evening.

The team:

Crawford Metals (80) — F. Deacon 2; Faulkner 19; Ablardo 4; T. Batchelor 27; Bennett 17; Walmsley 3; Rogers 4; Geneja 4.

Northern Electric (34) — J. Batchelor 3; D. Soule 13; Kingston 4; Green 5; R. Smith 1; Oraliotti 5; Annis 1; Pond; T. Soule; Clancy 2; Garrow.

Fine Twenty After Fight

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Twenty players have been fined $25 each by referee Art Skov following Sunday night's free-for-all battle in the Providence Reds-Quebec Aces American Hockey League game here.

The melee started when Fleet Hillman of the Reds, blocking a shot, fell with the puck between his knees. Bob Barlow of the Aces tried to bat it loose and, as he fell over Hillman, Cherry of the Reds rushed him.

Instantly players of both teams were swinging, tugging and hauling. Players from both benches rushed onto the ice. All players except the goalies became involved.

Hull Moves up to Fifth

Two Canadiens Lead NHL Parade

Gerry James Wins Second Points Title

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fullback Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers became the fifth player in the Western Interprovincial Football Union to win the league scoring race twice when a last ditch, 35-point outburst by British Columbia's Willie Fleming fell short Saturday night.

James won the title with 114 points, scoring 10 touchdowns, 32 converts, six field goals and four singles. He first won the title in 1957, when he scored a record 10 touchdowns, three converts, four field goals and two singles for 131 points.

Fleming counted four touchdowns Saturday, bringing his season total to 18, to finish the season with 109 points.

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens may be playing the and-out hockey as the highest-scoring and most-scored on team in the National Hockey League, but there's no stopping Dickie Moore and Boom Boom Geoffrion in the free-for-all grab for scoring points.

Moore racked up five in last week's action and the Boomer came swooping in with seven to join his teammate as co-leader in the scoring parade at 19 points each.

Moore scored four goals and picked up one assist. Geoffrion scored only one goal but was the feeder on six others. Moore is ranked on top in the NHL official statistics, released today, because he has a total of 13 goals, highest in the league, compared with Geoffrion's eight.

FEW CHANGES

There were few changes among the immediate pursuers of the leaders but further down the list there were signs of an upheaval.

Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks, champion - point getter in minor and industrial teams here.

Another forward until that looked sharp in the weekend workout had high-scoring Cam Goyer centring Moe Hunter and Gary "Hurley" Hull. All three were with the club last year. Goyer was the team's top scorer with 37 goals and 35 assists in schedule play. He added eight goals and 12 assists in playoffs.

Hard-working Don Forsythe, Ronnie Hull and Bucky Fisher are other returnees from last year that will likely have little trouble etching the club's front-line spots. Everett "Pug" Keller is another hockey forward up from juvenile ranks. He's wiry and tough and has always been able to put the puck in the net in the minor divisions.

Turning to the all-important goalie's spot, Billy Moxon is back from last year and would appear to have an inside shot at the job. Ron Dulmage, Barry Duguid and newcomer Paul Newsome are also looking for net duties and there could be a dark horse there somewhere.

In Mavety, Assistaine, Witherspoon and Reid, Pista has a strong experienced defence that is lacking only in depth. Mavety had apparently made the St. Catharines club until a difference of opinion with owner Rudy Pilous caused a parting of the ways. Tillerson and Assistaine, like Mavety are big players whose skating field has just enough of weakness to make him the "sleeper".

There is no doubt that some of the younger players will have a hard job to make it to pick up the slack left by the departing of some of last year's stars. Bobby Hull is up in "A" ranks with St. Kitts while defenceman Jerry Mann and forwards Jackie Elliott, Gary Rowland, Dennis McFaddin and Ralph Plante are overage. All are forwards were high scorers.

The management said that arrangements have been made for the team to have at least three hours practice time per week now now until the schedule opens and two hours a week thereafter.

Asst Montreal Canadien scout Lou Passador told the Peterborough camp is fine, they will need it.

Passador, at a recent Peterborough practice, said: "You fellows have one of the best junior rinks in Ontario. Pye need and believe me I've seen plenty in Ontario and Quebec."

It would appear that the Eastern OHA Junior "B" hockey league is in for a banner season.

Says Eskimos Stamps 'Up' For Big Series

EDMONTON (CP) — Eagle Keys of Edmonton Eskimos and Steve Owen of Calgary Stampeders, contrary to pounding tradition, both say their teams have never been in better shape as they prepare for the Western Interprovincial Football Union's semi-final playoffs opening next Wednesday night. Second game of the two-game, total-points series is set for Calgary Saturday.

Keys said Monday that Eskimos are in better physical condition than they have been for six weeks and are sharp mentally.

Owen, a veteran of nearly 40 years in the game, says the Stampeders are "up" for the playoffs. "This club has been 'up' for the last six weeks."

The series winner goes against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a best-of-three final to determine the West's representative in the Grey Cup at Vancouver Saturday, Nov. 26.

Has Two-Year Contract

'l Dark Giants Manager

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Alvin Dark takes command of San Francisco Giants of the National League with an admonition that the Candlestick Park winds should be forgiven.

The take-charge fellow of the Giants' last world series and championship years of 1951 and 1954 drew a two-year contract Monday as manager and landed right into their field operation. Terms of the pact weren't announced but are believed in the neighborhood of $25,000 annually.

"Alvin was the man we wanted all along," said vice - president Charles (Chub) Feeney of the Giants. To get the 38-year-old, 14-year veteran player, who never managed, the Giants traded utility shortstop Andre Rodgers to Milwaukee Braves.

Dark gave solid indication he wants the right to full authority in operating the club on the field.

Last year, as the Giants were labbed for the peasant in preseason forecasts and flopped, players complained about tricky winds at Candlestick Park.

"The climate here is wonderful," said Dark. "That wind is just like the Louisiana heat. The more you talk about it the worse it gets."

Dark replaces Tom (Clancy) Sheehan, named as interim manager when Bill Rigney was fired last June. Sheehan will resume his job as chief scout.

Hockey Hints

By Lloyd Percival

THE HARVEY PATTERN PAYS OFF

Besides being the best defenceman in modern hockey, Doug Harvey of the Montreal Canadiens is the best possible all-round player defencemen could try to emulate. This does not refer to any particular part of his defensive technique but his general poise and attitude.

Naturally tricks, techniques condition and strength are all very important factors which play a role in the success of a hockey player but what usually makes the difference between a good player and a great player is some mental or emotional factor.

Harvey's chief asset is his complete relaxation, his coolness under pressure, his deliberate but efficient style which gives players think that you must be tense and that a lot of tension when you are trying hard. This is not so — as Harvey demonstrates so well. He is constantly showing the importance of learning to relax, to take a look clearly and coolly.

When you relax, you relax and keep your poise things seem to slow down for you and you can see the situation and make the play to take advantage of it. Then your shot is deadly.

For more hints on what makes this great player the champion he is send a stamped self addressed envelope and 10c c/o this newspaper for the bulletin, "The Wizard of The Blue Line".

Eastern Junior Clubs Good

BY GARRY ALEXANDER

"A stronger team for a stronger league" is the Belleville Lambert-Rollins' motto as they prepare for the 1960-61 opening of the Eastern OHA Junior "B" grouping in a couple of weeks time.

Desite the loss of six of last season's regulars, manager Hal Richards and coach Eddie Plata are confident that this year's edition of the L-R's will be stronger than last season.

And if this is the case, there is only one place they can go, right to the top of the league. The team finished in second place last year, behind the powerhouse Peterborough Petes, and gave the home Petes a whale of a battle in the group finals before bowing out.

This year the locals will be shooting for all the marbles and with the changes made throughout the loop, that feat may take some doing.

Five of last year's teams are back, Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough, Oshawa and Trenton. All are expected to ice greatly improved clubs.

Kingston Frontenacs have been taken under Boston Bruins' wing and the whole organization is being handled on a very professional basis. Ken Linseman is the new coach. Peterborough has again hooked up with the Junior "A" club and also has a new coach in the famous "Dit" Clapper. Clapper coached Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League last year.

Not too much is known about the Cobourg and Picton entries but both should be stronger than last years. Sam Mulholland at the Picton coach. These clubs have been busy picking up players from the defunct Trenton squad, according to local rumours.

Replacing Trenton, to round out the six-team grouping, are the Smiley Hillcrest. The Hillcrests are a power-packed club, moving up after winning the Ontario "C" title last year. They have already beaten Cobourg twice and Kingston once in exhibition games so far this year. All three wins have been by lop-sided scores. They should finish near the top. Meanwhile the threat of a tough-er league all around has not dimmed the local club executives' enthusiasm. Richards is an old hand in the manager's seat while Plata is returning after having coached the club in 1957-58. They know what they want and are doing their best to get it.

"The boys are rounding into shape now and they look pretty good," Plata said following Sunday's practice. "We still need to grind the edges off some rough spots here and there but with a couple more key players, which we expect to get shortly, this should be the strongest Junior team Belleville has had in a number of years," he said.

Richards said that he was saving for Napanee immediately following the workout to talk to a couple boys down there. "I want to look at one player from Gannaoque another from Brockville and two from Napanee", he added.

Asked what he needed most at the present time, Plata mentioned another real good defenceman. Richards also holds high hope that help will be arriving from the parent Chicago Black Hawks. "I have been talking to Bob Wilson (Chicago Scout) and he is working on it now", Richards said. He also remarked that he was trying to arrange an exhibition game with St. Catharines Teepees, the OHA Junior "A" league, also of the Chicago chain.

"Our forward lines look pretty good and I'm really impressed with that one rookie line", Plata said. The rookie line he spoke of has Mike Weston, a fleet, fast-skating redhead from Belleville's minor ranks, centring between Bert Smith and Paul McGill.

The trio is a smooth operating right winger from Stirling and McGill handles the left-wing duties. Both hail from Newburg. Another first-year man that caught the management's eyes was winger Billy "The Kid" McGuire. "He could have moved up from Peterborough last year but choose to stay down. The way he's going now it looks like he's in for a good year", Richards said.

Plata is also looking for a big season from defenceman Gary Reid, one of the club's most improved players last year. Reid, Pat Assistaine, Larry Mavely who just arrived home from the St. Kitts' club and Barry Titterton, who played with Trenton last year and has been working with the instructors, are expected to form the basis of Friday's defence. Titterton rearguard will be chosen from Ted Kennedy, Bruce Gelsthorpe and Morgan Hunter unless someone else with more ability shows up. Richards has players galore at his hockey on a front line on

Riverboat and Dan Raven Likely to Get Axe Soon

By CYNTHIA LOWAY

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the season when people connected with the television industry are playing a game called "What's Shaky?"

The game involves guessing which television programs are in peril of being yanked out of the network schedules around Jan. 1 and replaced with other efforts.

At this moment only two shows, both one-hour long and both on NBC, are scheduled for the guillotine: Riverboat, which for more than a year has had difficulty paddling along in Wagon Train's ruts, and Dan Raven, a police-action show now only five weeks old.

NBC expects to replace Riverboat with a civil war series which has been around in blueprint stage for some time. Its working title is The Blue and the Gray, and it revolves around conflict between two brothers, one a Confederate soldier, the other, a Union worker — thus eliminating the chance of getting into controversial areas.

Dan Raven's early - evening spot is expected to be filled by Happy — a musical - comedy - with - guished situation comedy seen last summer on half of Perry Como's vacation - time replacement, and for which another half-hour show called The Happy Time.

Meanwhile, there are lots of rumors floating around that the "trouble" — and trouble means low ratings — there has been considerable talk about CBS' The Jetsons, which, despite protests, have been frantically making any number of changes in the format in an effort to get obvious bugs out.

ABC has a worried eye on a number of its new ventures, particularly Hong Kong and The Islanders.

AT THE PARK — Before his baptism of fire on Saipan, Jeffrey Hunter, as Marine pfc. Guy Gabaldon, credited with taking more prisoners than any other U.S. fighting man, romances Patricia Owens in "Hell to Eternity," new release. David Janssen, Vic Damone, Sessue Hayakawa, Miiko Taka, John Larch, and Richard Eyer are co-starred with Hunter and Miss Owens. The great war drama is now having its first showings at the Century Theatre, Trenton, and Park Theatre, Belleville and Century, Trenton. Complete shows 7.00 and 9.20 p.m.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Wilfrid (Monk) Vaillancourt of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., is a hockey skate that may put more speed into the game. Because of this, it may be a long time before organized hockey accepts his invention.

Vaillancourt has been trying to get his product across to the hockey brass for a year, but so far it's no dice. Toronto Maple Leafs tried it out in practice during the 1959 Stanley Cup playoffs but they turned it down because the players found the skate "very fast."

"The speed would upset our timing," a Leaf official said.

Vaillancourt's invention is a self-lubricating skate. The principle is based on the premise that the skate blade glides on a thin film of water created by the blade's pressure on the ice and the friction of passage. The slicker this film is, the easier the blade glides.

Vaillancourt, a steel company employee who never has played more than what he describes as "casual hockey," knew that pump ice made for faster skating. But he also knew that it was tougher to control the puck when the ice surface was damp.

RIDES ON OWN OIL

Hence the lubricated skate—which rides on its own film of oil and water. The oil is contained in the tubes of the skate and leads along the blades in the merest trickle, regulated by easily-maintained valves.

Don Crozo, one-time National Hockey League player with Detroit, Boston and Chicago, gave the new skate a tryout. He was enthusiastic.

"They make skating so much easier that old fellows could hang on in the game a lot longer," he said. "They make for faster and flashier hockey. You could skate hard for a few strokes, then coast without so much of speed loss. It's like skating on a cushion of air."

Vaillancourt then went to the Leafs and Manager - Coach Punch Imlach had a year - old Bert Olmstead give the skate a workout.

The veteran left - winger was impressed and it was all but decided that Leafs would use the skates against Montreal Canadiens. There was one big stumbling block.

PASSES LAGGED

Throughout the trial, Olmstead found his linemates' passes failed to reach him, falling astern in the spot where he would have been at normal speed. Rather than discard the passing patterns during the playoffs, the idea was shelved.

Vaillancourt then sought approval of hockey rule - makers. And that's how the situation stands now.

President Clarence Campbell of the NHL told him in a letter: "My personal information concerning this skate is all favorable, but when the matter was mentioned at the last rules committee meeting, the information was so nebulous that it was not decided to do anything about it."

But the door is still open, Campbell said. There would have no doubt that the rules committee is glad to give consideration to this piece of equipment when there is an opportunity to do so.

Minor Hockey

The squirt and midget divisions of the BMHA swung into action at Memorial Arena last night.

In midget games Rangers edged the Bruins 5-4, Canadiens downed Black Hawks 8-1 and Maple Leafs defeated the Red Wings 9-2.

Carl Boomhower ripped home four goals for the Canadiens while Rick Denard and Pete Emerson had the others. Dave Hannah drew three assists, R. Potts two and Denard one. Jim Ross was the lone Hawk marksman.

The Ranger goals were divided among Don Robson, Don Gardner, Stan Woodcock, D. Pringle and A. Lucas. Pringle, Lucas, Robson and Jerry St. Denis had assists. Bill McCormack, B. DeGenova, G. McMillan and Brendan tallied for the Bruins.

Bill Moffat scored twice for the Leafs while Jack Thompson, Brien Cooney, Frank Farrell and C. Gardner had singles. Thompson added two assists with one each for John Oderdonk, Gary Benson, Farrell, Cooney and A. Lentini.

Large had a goal and assist for the Wings. Bill Goodfellow also scored and Ron Collins helped on one.

In squirt action the Black Hawks shut out the Red Wings 3-0 with the goals going to T. Wallis, G. Pruden, B. Serre, J. Burley and J. Blatchford.

Barons won 6 over the Brown. J. Tracey and M. Lucas had two goals apiece with S. Bell and Ron Collins getting the others. B. Hewitt bagged all three Brown goals.

Bruins squeezed by the Rangers 3-2. P. Stickle, R. Rolston and D. Carter had the Bruin goals, B. James and J. Drumond scored for the Rangers.

Canadiens took a big - scoring 9-4 win over the Maple Leafs. Mark Lafferty and Jerry Jerred three Hab goals and Pat Wheeler two. G. Mulvihill, R. Reynolds, B. Curtin and R. Dale had the others. Leaf goals were scored by H. Wilkinson, A. Robert, G. Hanna and J. Weymark.

Regards Lords As Underdogs

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Coach Al Bruno regards his London Lords as "definite underdogs" for their Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union championship semi-final with Port Dalhousie Raiders, which opens here today.

The teams will play a two-game, total-points series for the championship.

Last time the two sides met here Raiders won 26-20.

"They've got more depth, more beef, bigger and they'll be hungry," the coach said Monday.

He will build his strategy around giving quarterback Jerry Champlin good pass protection and in stopping the Raiders' running game.

Bruno will station former kitchener - Waterloo Dutchman Tom Mooney at left end-end to halt the Raiders rush which paved the way to their win last time.

106, Cuba, 8.
Caracas — Carlos Fernandez, Argentina, outpointed Robinson Garcia, Cuba, lightweight, 10.

Jimmie Rodgers Will Get Starting Role in New Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Another pop singer has been enlisted for movies, but this one is different.

Jimmie Rodgers can belt out a folk tune and play a guitar, but he's no rock 'n' roller and he hails from no farther south than Camas, Wash.

His good looks and sincere approach have won him a starring role in his first movie, The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come.

Old-timers in the audience will recall the 1928 version that starred Richard Barthelmess. It is the story of a shepherd boy who lives in the southern valley of Kingdom Come and returns to his native North to fight his onetime friends in the civil war. Lots of heart, and that's just what Jimmie was looking for.

UNLIKELY SCRIPTS

"I could have done pictures before, now," said the 27-year-old singer, "but I didn't want to do the kind of scripts I have been offered. Most of them were the rock 'n' roll type with a switchblades and all that.

"I've been under contract to MGM for two years now—to do a picture a year. But they've never come up with anything I wanted to do, so we keep extending the option."

He told of turning down one racy film with the explanation to the producer: "If I appeared in it, I'd have to tell my mother not to see it. She disowned me cured him of having a warped mind.

Jimmie is unconcerned about such barbs. He is aware of the short span of popularity of pop singers and he's trying to plan otherwise.

Minor Soccer Champions Are Honored

The Belleville Minor Soccer Association honored its summer-and-fall champions on the weekend as the organization wound up its activities for this season.

Trophies and crests were presented to the Rovers for winning the summer league with C. Boomhower accepting the Bill Harvey Trophy on behalf of his team.

J. Middleton accepted the league trophy on behalf of his mates as United received the fall-league championship honors. They also got crests.

R. Carter was the coach of the Rovers and L. Digby coach of United.

An added attraction was an exhibition game between an All-Star singer, "Bud" Lloyd.

The All-Stars won a very close decision by a 4-3 score. Boomhower scored twice, Cain and P. Ellis once each for the winners. Williams, Holden and Pollitt had the United goals.

The teams:

United: Williams; Lloyd, Pollitt, Helm, Hebdon, Pye, Locke, Middleton. Subs, Peck, Crawford.

All-Stars: Wilson, Lloyd, F. Ellis, Carter, F. Deak, Morrison, McMillan, Boomhower, Cain, Townsend.

Lists Three New Champs

QUEBEC (CP)—The Canadian Boxing Federation listed three new Canadian champions—in the heavyweight, featherweight and bantamweight classes—in its new ratings made public Monday.

Bob Cleroux of Montreal led the heavyweights, following his split-decision victory over Georges Chuvalo last August. Chuvalo, of Toronto, ranked as the No. 1 contender.

In the lightweight class, Ed Beattie of Hamilton was moved to the top spot, succeeding Richard (Kid) Gerard, who has retired since the federation last listed its rankings six months ago.

Marcel Gendron of Quebec won the featherweight championship by defeating Carl Baldwin of Toronto in an elimination match after former champion Pat Supple of Montreal retired.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, November 2

General tendencies: The approaching Full Moon brings all kinds of desirable and worth while activity, especially in new arrangements of a practical nature in which you are able to see clearly ways and means improvements can be made by a fresh approach from experts who are very good at uncovering better systems, financial security.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — It is wise throughout the day and evening to work in a practical fashion with all who are in a position to assist you to get ahead faster in your career. Strive for a much larger income. P. M. set up better bookkeeping system.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Whatever you do today to improve business conditions, social life, personal affairs will meet with early success. Others will cooperate fully with you. Dress very nicely, then make your contacts, stating aims clearly and simply.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Make it a point to see those persons of influence you know who can pave the way to real success for you. There is no better day than this. However, confide in nobody for best results. P. M. follow romantic inclinations.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — This is one of those days when confidentes feel exclusive and you can glean much valuable data that you need. Timing is then fine for social whirls and having a most happy interesting time. Be jolly, friendly.

Cancer (July 22 to August 21) — Planetary influences are most favorable now and you should approach all key people for whatever intents and purposes of an ethical nature are yours, to any important sphere of your existence. Impress them with your fine ability.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A fine day to get the data you need and to make new friends who are very worthwhile. Also, some very happy tidings are coming your way, or a visit from one out-of-town that will please you greatly. Be prepared.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 22) — Important you get all practical affairs in better order now with the advice of experts who really know their business. Establish far better modus operandi for the future. P. M. be happy with loved one. Clear up misunderstandings.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — The first day in the regular routine with all associates and find better ways of operating so that you can be more successful in the future. Go out to dinner in P. M. and then off to place of amusement. Relax, have fun.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Much can be accomplished today, if you get an early start at all the duties confronting you. Don't loiter away any time; P. M. get out with fellow workers to some place of amusement that will be enjoyed by all.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Be sure you get your appearance enhanced at the hands of experts in A. M. Then see the people you like and admire. Have fun at hobbies you both like. P. M. fine for improving your love life. Be charming, discreet.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Every opportunity is yours now to make your surroundings more beautiful and practical, smooth - running, as well as with kin and loved ones under the same roof. Be calm, yet gentle with all.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — It is possible to find exactly what you have wanted for some time. Be sure you get an early start with your shopping and set up day's visits early. See all key people. P. M. have a happy time with comrades and relatives.

If your child is born today — he, or she, will show a very early aptitude for business, since there is a most practical nature here. However, early give the necessary spiritual training that will enable your offspring to achieve the great success in this chart that will lead to immense wealth and fine philanthropies in old age. There is real aptitude in anything that is connected with the government, too.

tories are not necessarily a guidepost in general election trends. Conservatives recall that they won nine of 13 byelections in 1940 and 1941 yet met a decisive defeat in the 1953 general election.

In byelections, national politics are often submerged by local issues and personalities, observers say.

Liberals were elated at the result in Labelle which some political circles regarded as a test of Conservative popularity in Quebec.

The shift back to the Liberal column was in line with Labelle tradition. In 17 general elections since it was established in 1867, Labelle voted Liberal nine times, Independent-Conservative once.

Peterborough and its predecessor constituency of Peterborough West departed from the Conservative tradition only six times in 24 general elections since Confederation in 1857, electing Conservatives 18 times and Liberals six times. Its one byelection was won by a Liberal.

Royal, by electing a Conservative Monday, and Niagara Falls, returning a Liberal, fell in line with their previous voting patterns. Royal has been Conservative since its establishment in 1924 and Niagara Falls has been Liberal since it was formed as a separate constituency in 1952.

Foxboro

FOXBORO — Mr. and Mrs. James Reynolds spent a few days at the plowing match near St. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wilson attended Carmel anniversaries, and spent the dinner hour with Mr. and Mrs. Howes.

W. M. S.

Miss Tena Wert opened her home for the October meeting of St. Andrew's Guild and WMS with a good attendance.

Mrs. Everett Lyons, the WMS president, opened the meeting with the call to worship on "Thanksgiving". Hymn 131 was sung and the responsive reading was taken from Psalms 106. Meditation was given by Mrs. Juby, followed by prayer.

The reports of the various committees were given. Sick calls and cards reported.

Several readings followed, by Mrs Bell, Mrs. Ketcheson, Mrs. Mrs. Lyons, Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Chappelle.

Mrs. Wannamaker invited the ladies to her home for the November meeting. Hymn 140 was sung and Mrs. Ketcheson closed with prayer.

Miss Wert served a delicious lunch and a social half-hour followed. Mrs. Chappelle thanked Miss Watt for opening her home for the meeting.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I'm afraid we underestimated 'incidentals' in our budget again this month."

LIBERALS RETAIN

servative Harold Matthews and 3,360 for Liberal Donald Munro. Miss Lamarsh received 13,630 Liberal votes in Niagara Falls compared with 8,270 for Conservative Keith Lougheed and 6,561 for the New Party's Ed Mitchelson.

Mr. Flemming won with 8,920 votes in Royal against 7,797 for Liberal Harold A. Fredericks and 222 for the CCF's George H. Hamilton.

In Labelle, with 113 of 118 polls reported, Mr. Pinard had 2,254 votes to 7,026 for Conservative Paul-Emile Lesage.

Voting was a shade lighter than in 1958 in all constituencies except Peterborough where it declined by 1,381.

The Liberal wold was up in all seats except Peterborough where it dipped by 1,381. Liberal popular vote was up a phenomenal 11,321 in Peterborough and 11,321 more than doubled in Niagara Falls.

JOBLESS ARE ISSUE

Unemployment was the chief issue in the Peterborough and Niagara Falls campaigns while steel and automotive layoffs were to the fore in the other two ridings.

Miss Lamarsh, active in politics for 15 years, had a winning margin of 5,360 votes in Niagara compared with the 527-vote victory Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson's William Houck, who had held the seat for the Liberals since its establishment in 1952.

Forestry Minister Flemming, New Brunswick premier since 1952 until his government was defeated by the Liberals in June, gained a measure of revenge by winning in Royal where national Liberal Campaign Chairman and provincial Premier Robichaud sentered the campaign against him.

Labelle was the seat held by former state secretary Henri Courtemanche who resigned his sement to the Senate in January, while Royal had been held by the Conservatives since it was created in 1914. Royal became vacant when Conservative veteran minister Alfred J. Brooks, who had held the seat since 1935, was appointed to the Senate in September.

WAS PARTY STRONGHOLD

Peterborough also had been a Conservative stronghold, Gordon K. Fraser holding the seat from 1940 until his death this summer.

The post-mortems on the byelections were varied:

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he was "naturally disappointed with the results in general."

Liberal Leader Pearson: "It looks encouraging for our party and encouraging for the Conservative party."

Stanley Knowles, chairman of the national committee for the New Party, which will hold its leadership convention in Ottawa next summer: "I am confident that the New Party will prove to be a strong contender as one of the two top parties in the next general election."

CCF Leader Argue said the results indicate growing dissatisfaction with the Diefenbaker government and a growing belief that a new approach is needed "to solve unemployment and to provide security for Canadians."

PROFIT AT LAST

NEW YORK (AP) — An increase of more than 100,000 passengers rode the New York City Transit Authority's subways and buses last year. In a financial report on the fiscal year ended last June 30, the authority said Sunday it finished with a surplus of $1,400,000. It was the first time it wound up in the black in three years. Last year the authority reported a deficit of $10,300,000.

Judy LaMarsh 11th Woman To Be Elected to Commons

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Judy LaMarsh, whose whole life has revolved around politics, is the 11th woman elected to Canada's House of Commons.

The attractive lawyer retained Niagara Falls riding for the Liberals in Monday's federal byelection, defeating Progressive Conservative Miss Lamarsh and New Party candidate Ed Mitchelson, 30.

When she takes her seat in Parliament Nov. 17 she'll find three others of her sex there — but all on the other side of the house.

Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough, 45, representing Hamilton West, Grace Hartman, 53, representing York-Humber; and Mrs. Jean Casselman, 60, representing Grenville - Dundas are all Progressive Conservatives.

They won't find the 35-year-old woman in its opposition - shrinking violet.

RIDING "INSULTED"

"I'm going to represent Niagara Falls," she said Monday night, "This riding has been ignored, even insulted by the government."

Agnes Macphail became the first woman member in 1921. First year women had the franchise. She won Grey South-East for the United Farmers of Ontario. In 1935 she was followed by Mrs. Martha Louise Black, elected as non-independent conservative from Yukon.

Other women who held Commons' seat were Mrs. Dorise Nielsen, United Progressive for North Battleford, Sask., 1940-45; Mrs. Cora Casselman, Liberal for Dundas-Stormont East, 1941-45; Mrs. Gladys Strum, CCF for Qu'Appelle, Sask., 1945-49; Mrs. Aline Shipley, Liberal for Timiskaming, 1953 - 57; Sybil Bennett, Progressive Conservative for Halton, Ont., from 1953 until her death in 1956.

Miss LaMarsh was first exposed to politics when she was 10 and her father, the late W.J.Ecta. Clayton LaMarsh, acted as campaign manager for William Houck in a provincial election. Mr. Houck held the federal Niagara Falls seat in 1953 until his death last year.

ACTIVE IN POLITICS

After working up through Liberal and Womens' Liberal organizations, Miss LaMarsh became active the last 15 years, chiefly as party organizer and campaign manager.

"I've been involved in elections, and running elections is so long it doesn't really feel like being the candidate," she said.

An ombined lawyer who has successfully defended four murder cases, she said she'll probably give up her law practice now.

She is aggressive and outspoken. On a Buffalo TV program last Thursday with her opponents, she snatched a New Party brochure from Mr. Michelson.

RIDING "INSULTED"

"You wouldn't know what you were talking about unless you had that in front of you," she said.

During the Second World War she served with the Canadian Women's Army Corps, took a course in Japanese and for three years acted as interpreter for Canadian, British and U.S. intelligence branches.

Gardening and gourmet cooking are her two main hobbies.

PRESIDENT NAMED

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former U.S. Army chief of staff, takes over early next year as president of the Lincoln Center for Performing Arts. Taylor's election was announced Sunday by John D. Rockefeller III, who is to become chairman of the centre's 36-acre site of dramatic, musical and ballet activities. Taylor, who will cover 16 city blocks, will include the Metropolitan Opera and the Philharmonic Society concert halls, and the other cultural projects.

belief. They are still divided by such great barriers as the Anglican refusal to recognize the Pope as spiritual head of the church and the Roman Catholic dogma that the Pope is infallible in matters of faith and morals.

The Royal Family is in the forefront of the movement for closer relations with the Vatican. The Queen, temporal head of the Church of England, is planning to call on the Pope next May during a state visit to Italy. The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret have already visited him and Princess Margaret was received by Pope Pius XII.

Leaders of the British Presbyterian, Congregationalist and Baptist churches welcomed Dr. Fisher's plan to meet Pope John. British press comment was favorable, with The Daily Sketch headlining: "A holy summit."

ONE DEATH

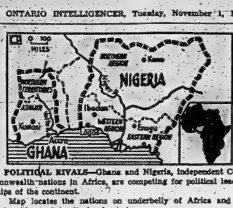
was thrown into a home and a fire set on fire outside a hotel. Small cars were tilted on to sidewalks and a water-filled balloon thrown into a bourse.

In Stratford, a car was given a few shiners in black shoe polish. And in Mitchell, workmen found foam bubbling out of a Gardening gas tank. A fire extinguisher had been emptied into it.



A policeman in Stratford spotted youths rubbing soap on a supermarket window. He made them rub it off.

In Victoria, B.C., the fire department didn't have to turn out when a 10-room, two - storey wooden house burst into flames. The house had to be removed to make way for a new office park, so it was turned over to Halloween merry-makers.

In Edmonton all was peaceful. Winnipeg too, had a dignified Hallowe'en. Montreal police were kept busy with "mischief" reports.

POLITICAL RIVALS—Ghana and Nigeria, independent Commonwealth nations in Africa, are competing for political leadership of the continent.

Map locates the nations on underbelly of Africa and the main cities and territories in each.

Ghana, which became independent in 1957, has a population of about 7,000,000 and the second highest per capita income in the continent behind South Africa. Nigeria, independent October 1 this year, has a population of 34,000,000. (CP Newsmap.)

Competitive Spirit Amounts To Almost Hostility Between Nigerians and Ghanians

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAGOS, Nigeria (CP) — There is a competitive spirit amounting almost to hostility between Nigeria and Ghana, Commonwealth nations on the underbelly of West Africa.

Each is determined to become the political leader of all Africa. Ghana got there first when it made a start because it became independent in 1957, topping Nigeria as independent country Oct. 1.

On the surface, it would appear that Ghana would win this contest hands down. It is the most populous nation of Africa with 28,000,000 people.

Ghana has only 7,000,000 people but its per-capita income is second only to that of South Africa on this continent. Ghana is a federal state whereas Nigeria is a federation.

FEAR BREAKUP

In its early years, Nigeria's chief problem probably will be to hang together. Diplomats say Nigeria is fortunate in this respect to have a prime minister with the ability and calmness of Alhaji Sir Abubekar Tafawa Balewa, 46 - year - old former teacher of English, geography and history known as the "Golden Voice of the North." He is a devout Moslem and made a pilgrimage to Mecca in 1927.

Observers here say Nigeria may well fly apart before it is safely launched, though this is not a foregone conclusion. The "balkanization" of Africa already is bad enough without a Nigerian breakup.

There are some 250 different tribal and linguistic groups in Nigeria, including the Hausa, Fulani and Kanuri of the northern plains, the Yoruba, Edo and Urhobo of the old western slave coast and the Ibo, Ibibio, Abanang and Ijaw of the eastern rain forests.

Politically and in population, the north dominates the coastal regions. There are about 25,000 whites in Nigeria.

WHIRLWIND CHIEF

A strong man is needed to hold such a diverse country together. Alhaji Abubakar is a strong man without any trappings of the strong man. He spent part of independence Day driving by himself through the streets greeting Nigerians.

The No. 2 or No. 3 man in the government is Chief Festus Samkotie-Ekoh, an ebullient, astute politician who was host to Prince Minister Fleming of Canada during the independence ceremonies. Chief Festus is Nigerian finance minister and, in Mr. Fleming's word, a "whirlwind."

Population of cities and size of hotels are points of jealousy between Nigerians and Ghanians.

Ghanians say Nigeria has a sense of insecurity because it is not as economically advanced as Ghana and has no experience in world affairs. Nigerians class Ghana as an upstart which has reached the apex of silliness by trying to bring such nations as Egypt into a pan-African union.

There is no deep resentment of whites in either country. But Ghana plans to get rid of all white civil servants in the next few years.

BRITONS LOSE JOBS

In 1957, there were some 3,500 white civil servants in Ghana. Today the number is down to some 1,500. Britons who have spent nearly all their working lives in the civil service in Ghana are finding there will soon be no place for them.

Nigerians say this is just another indication of Ghana's insecurity—that Ghana feels it must show the world it can handle its own affairs right down to the most junior civil service post.

Ghana is pressing hard for economic aid. One Ghanaian said in an interview that Canada's contribution of $10,500,000 over three years to Commonwealth countries in Africa is so small that it is laughable. No such remarks were heard in Nigeria.

NOT CALLED WHITES

Ghanaians talk more bluntly and play harder than the Nigerians. Accra, Ghana's capital, such clubs as the Kalamazoo Club, Four Head and Christmas in Egypt rock all night to the African "highlife" dance. The mood is much more happy-go-lucky than in Lagos, where new restrictions on liquor are strictly enforced.

Incidentally, whites are not called whites because that might signify discrimination. "Expatriates" is the term used.

The friendly relation between Nigeria and Ghana arose is not popular. Nigerian soldiers took part in the Ashanti wars in Ghana, when the Gold Coast, in 1873-74 and again in 1900. And there has always been fierce competition between Nigerian and Ghanaian students in the United Kingdom.

Kennedy's Day in Election Campaign Opens at 9.30, Will Run Well Into Next Morning

By Harold Morrison, Canadian Press staff correspondent at Washington, travelled for a week with Senator John Kennedy. In this story he describes a day in the campaign life of the U.S. presidential candidate.

By HAROLD MORRISON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH KENNEDY (CP) — At 9:30 a.m. on a typical day, Democratic Powers gently pushed open the door of his adjoining airport motel room and nudged Jack Kennedy.

"Time to get up," he informed the Democratic candidate who had been asleep about six hours, a fairly average night of rest on his hectic campaign for the United States presidency. Powers is Kennedy's personal secretary, valet and general utility man.

Kennedy unbuttoned his white silk pyjamas trimmed with blue piping and took a bath. All his clothes, shirts and cuff links bear the monogrammed initials JFK. While in the tub he shaved with a stainless steel.

Powers laid out Kennedy's suit — blue single-breasted serge, blue silk socks and black shoes. Jack is a meticulous dresser and on his campaign, in the locker of his private twin - engined turbo-prop airliner, while Convair plane, carries six suits, 12 shirts and a variety of shoes, two brown and two black.

BUSINESS WITH MEAL

A waitress wheeled in breakfast. In the corridor of the basestorey Chicago O'Hare Airport motel were police who had guarded his door through the night. Breakfast for the campaigner consisted of fresh orange juice, two soft-boiled eggs—3½ minutes—sweet rolls and coffee with cream and sugar.

Jack may have an occasional cigar after dinner but normally doesn't smoke during the day. While he dressed and ate, he called his usual staff meeting to prepare for the day—a flight to the Detroit area for five rallies before moving on to New York.

Included at the meeting were: Kenneth O'Donnell, Kennedy's campaign co - ordinator; Pierre Salinger, his press secretary, and Sargent Shriver, Kennedy's brother-in-law from Chicago.

O'Donnell checked over the day's schedule; Salinger wanted Kennedy to do some television and spoke to Shriver about his wife. Shriver requested that he meet some Chicago business men downstairs. Each of these men had contributed $1,000 to the Democratic presidential campaign.

CAR WITH TV

Then Kennedy placed a long-distance telephone call to his brother, Bobby, in Washington, who spoke also to his wife, Jacqueline, in Washington, completed his breakfast and scanned local newspapers and a synopsis of press news prepared by Salinger.

Kennedy had about three hours before flight takeoff. He attracted a small lobby crowd as he went downstairs to talk to the bull-seamen and he photographed shaking hands with each of them.

Then he returned to his room and had a cell placed to Atlanta, Ga., where he spoke to Mrs. Martin Luther King, wife of a Negro minister who had been jailed on a traffic technicality. King, a Negro leader, had participated in restaurant "sit - in" demonstrations by Negroes earlier this year.

Kennedy expressed sympathy and concern for Mrs. King who, like Mrs. Kennedy, is expecting a child. He said he would do everything he could to help her husband. King later was released on $2,000 bail.

ON TV

By this time Salinger had set up crews next door for a Kennedy television interview for the British Broadcasting Corporation. Following this, Kennedy posed for press shots for American news services and for staff photographers.

It was getting close to takeoff time and Kennedy skipped lunch. Flying behind his plane, named Caroline after his three-year-old daughter, were six reporters.

At Detroit's Selfridge Air Force Base, Kennedy was met by the Michigan campaign team headed by Governor G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams. They shook hands warmly and began the motorcade tour which would take in a number of Detroit suburban areas, including shopping centres, and two evening rallies.

By the time the afternoon was over, Kennedy was drenched. An afternoon downpour had thinned the outdoor crowds, but Kennedy drew enthusiastic applause as he continued his basic theme—that actions of the Republican administration had weakened America's greatest ally, Britain.

TOP DOWN

On an eight-mile drive into downtown Detroit, he insisted on leaving the top of his convertible down so that he could see better and could wave to clusters of people who lined the route.

He arrived at his hotel about 8 p.m., took off his wet clothes before moving on to New York.

Attired in fresh clothes, Kennedy ate dinner — medium-rare Sirloin steak, green salad with cucumber and tomatoes, French fries, a bottle of beer and coffee. He ate alone and afterwards greeted local politicians in the room.

An hour after his hotel arrival, Kennedy was on the road again, appearing at two well-attended

Negro Masons Pay Homage At Graveside

DRESDEN, Ont. (CP) — A cavalcade of cars estimated about six miles long brought more than 1,000 Negro Masons Sunday from northern Michigan and Ontario to pay homage at the graveside of Josiah Henson, the Negro immortalized in the novel Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Henson was buried about a mile west of here.

The pilgrimage was part of the celebrations of Prince Hall Americanism Day, proclaimed Saturday by Michigan state Governor Williams in honor of the first Negro Mason.

Three direct descendants from Hensen were among the representatives from 11 member lodges of the M.W. Grand Lodge, Phs. of Ontario, and from members lodges of the Prince Hall Grand Lodge in Michigan.

Gertrude Dorsey of St. Catherines, Mrs. Ila Plummer of Buffalo, and Tom J. Henson of Southfield, Mich., are grandchildren of Josiah Henson, one of the first Negroes to flee from slavery to Canada in 1830.

At the graveside gathering was 92-year-old Rev. Mrs. Jennie Johnston of Dresden, who claims to have seen Henson when she was a small girl.

evening rallies, one outdoor, in the Detroit suburb, the other at the Coliseum where he again blasted the Republicans for allowing American prestige to decline.

ANOTHER FLIGHT

By this time it was 2:30 a.m. and he was ready to retire. A student of history, he is an avid book reader, but the hectic campaign left him no time for diversion.

Gen. Allard Says Highlight Of His 33-Yr. Army Career Was Year's Service in Korea

By GUY RONDEAU
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj.-Gen. J. V. Allard, 47, vice-chief of the Canadian Army's general staff, said Saturday he recalls how he lied about his age to fulfil a childhood ambition to become a career soldier.

The first French-Canadian to hold such a high-ranking post in the army, Gen. Allard joined Le Regiment de Trois - Rivieres at age 14. He told the enlistment officer he was 18.

That was in 1927 and it marked the start of a brilliant military career.

As commander of Quebec's Royal 22nd Regiment, he participated in the Second World War invasion of Italy. Later he led the 5th Canadian Infantry Brigade across the Rhine and through Northern Holland.

KOREAN COMMANDER

He served in North Africa prior to the invasion of Sicily in 1943 after filling for overseas duty the post of operations officer at headquarters of the 1st Canadian Corps in Britain.

However, it was in Korea, he said in an interview, that he had the most interesting—and extensive—military career. He was commander of Canadian troops from February, 1953, until July, 1954, about one year after the Korean ceasefire.

He said he particularly liked the assignment because he was in command of well-trained, professional soldiers, many of them veterans of the Second World War.

A handsome, barrel - chested giant who may in time become the first French-Canadian chief of staff, Gen. Allard says the military profession has never appealed as well understood as others by people from French Canada.

SERVED IN MOSCOW

However, the number of French-speaking Canadians with big to become career soldiers is increasing steadily, he said. The chunkies when he recalls how he lied about his age to fulfil a childhood ambition to become a career soldier.

One thing which had caused French - Canadians to remain aloof from the army prior to the Second World War, he said, was the lack of French-Canadian regiments. It was understandable that this situation did not facilitate recruiting.

Following the war, Gen. Allard served for three years as Canadian military attache in Moscow.

Speaking of the Communist threat, he said people should not allow themselves to be misled by Soviet propaganda, which simply wears a frost.

The true face of Communist domination of the world was very real and it was questionable whether the Canadian people were sufficiently aware of this.

OFTEN DECORATED

Gen. Allard said military force can no longer be considered the only weapon the free world has to stop the spread of Communism. Communist infiltration was accomplished in reality that the military needed to join its efforts with those of economists and intellectuals.

A native of Ste. Monique de Nicolet, Que., Gen. Allard first left the family farm to study at St. Laurent College, on the outskirts of Montreal, and at St. Jerome College in Kitchener, Ont. He is a Roman Catholic but he perfected his English.

On his uniform he proudly wears many decorations, the top the Distinguished Service Order with two bars. He is a commander of the Order of the British Empire, and a Knight of France's Legion of Honor. He also holds the French Croix de Guerre.

As vice-chief of the general staff, Gen. Allard has many responsibilities including training, operations, weapons, intelligence and the army's budget policy.

"I have had a very happy career in the army," he said. "I have been rewarded for my efforts, but I also believe I have been lucky."

ARMY VICE-CHIEF

Maj.-Gen. J. V. Allgrd, vice-chief of the Canadian Army's general staff, says French speaking Canadians are showing greater interest in military careers. The 47-year-old general, first French-Canadian to hold such a high-ranking post, was commander of Canadian forces in Korea from February, 1953, to July, 1954. During the Second World War he commanded the Royal 22nd Regiment and later led the 5th Infantry Brigade. (CP from National Defence).

Canada Requests Sharp Approach To Disamament

Wants Smaller Powers To Put on Pressure

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Canada has asked for a sharper approach to disarmament by the middle and smaller powers putting pressure on the nuclear giants.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green outlined the policy Tuesday by calling, in the 99-member United Nations political committee, a new UN body to work with the great powers on disarmament.

Green's idea plumps for a non-nuclear committee of perhaps 10 or 12 members which would work to put a firecracker under the nuclear powers — the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France — on disarmament talks.

In the third week of disarmament debate in the political committee, the Canadian's formal proposal — embodied in a resolution—attracted considerable attention among delegates.

HOLD BRIEF MEETING

Meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin met briefly Tuesday for 12 minutes which would appear to put a firecracker under the disarmament talks.

Green's statement that his plan wasn't aimed to criticize either side was reflected later in a statement by a U.S. delegation spokesman that he would make no comment on the Canadian resolution.

Reminded that the Canadian idea of a UN committee has been rumored for weeks, the U.S. spokesman said:

"We have yet to hear from Washington about it."

Spokesmen for the British delegation were more warm in reaction to the Canadian proposal which envisages the group-to consist to be appointed by the 99-member UN disarmament commission to work with a new disarming body including—of course —the great powers.

STRIKE BACKS ORIGINAL

Green—in his speech and at a subsequent press conference, stressed that Canada still believes the most effective negotiating body is the 10-nation East-West disarmament committee which tumbled in Geneva in June because of a Soviet-bloc walkout.

But Green emphasized Canada did not rule out the possibility of additional members to the negotiating body. The Prime Minister stressed again that countries to be invited should be those which are "most directly involved."

A suggestion that a welfare program should be established to retain unsuccessful small farmers for new occupations came from Cecil Rodosa, a Conservative poultry farmer.

The federation approved 16 resolutions, one of which called for an OFA study of the disposal of hydro rates between rural and urban customers.

Three Moose Hunters Hooked For $600

SAULTE STE. MARIE - Ont. (CP)—It cost three United States moose hunters $600 in fines to shoot two moose shot out of season, reported Tuesday.

They were identified as Gilbert and Lawrence Wells and Mr. Selleck, all of Fremont, Mich.

Gilbert Wells was charged a $200 release fee for a station wagon and $100 each on charges of possession of moose meat and illegal transportation of moose meat. Lawrence Wells and Schlang were fined $100 each for obstructing an officer.

Doctor, Using Five-Inch Scissors, Amputates Arm of Trapped Miner

BRITANNIA, B.C. (CP) — A young doctor, equipped only with a pair of five-inch scissors, a miner's lamp and some anesthetic tablets, Tuesday amputated the mangled arm of a miner trapped two miles beneath the surface.

Dr. Barrie Flather, 28, said Harry Wenzel, 43, began to bite out off his left arm at the shoulder because otherwise he could not crawl through a narrow escape tunnel to safety.

Wenzel, father of three children, was in satisfactory condition today in hospital in Vancouver, 25 miles south of here. He was trapped 3,000 feet down a mine when a deep-rooted earth tremor knocked out shoring and showered him with rock.

Dr. Flather said Wenzel, badly crushed, lay in the mine for seven hours in a Howe Sound Company hospital. Wenzel's mate, Tom Archibald, escaped and went for help.

Thirty-men worked in shifts to move more than 30 feet through the debris to reach the trapped miner. They dug horizontally for 10 feet and vertically for 12 feet.

Dr. Flather said the arm was mangled and would have had to come off anyway. "He was trapped in such a way that unless the arm was amputated he couldn't be able to move," Dr. Flather added.

NEW FAMILY FARM TO FIT MODERN CONDITIONS SEEN

OFA Predicts Five-Day Week

TORONTO (CP)—A new family farm to fit present day conditions has been predicted at the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture. "The family farm is expected to continue for at least another 10 years, but it would be in a more specialized and highly profitable form.

A five - man panel debated Tuesday the next 19 years in Ontario Agriculture. They concluded that larger, consolidated farms would increase and many uneconomic units disappear. Co-operative marketing boards, purchasing and transportation would become more widespread.

Many surpluses would disappear, said Dr. H. L. Watson, director of Ontario agricultural experimental economics and the dairy branch, because of population growth.

CHANGING PICTURE

Dr. Patterson added that specialization is changing the farm picture. In Ontario supplies almost all the bread wheat in Canada, but the West is the main producer.

But A. H. R. Musgrave, of Carleton and an OFA vice-president, said Ontario farmers were producing more lines more efficient than they were a decade ago. Their efficiency was likely to double.

Mr. Musgrave predicted a five-day week and farm - produced "push-button farms." Mills would deliver feed directly to bins in the barn and automatic equipment would carry it to the livestock.

"The individual can't compete with the kind of economy we have now," he said. "There will be more cooperative marketing free of any kind of government regulation. The planned marketing, first on a provincial and then on a national basis would follow gluttonous production."

ASKS BEET SUPPORT

The federation backed the Ontario sugar beet industry by passing a resolution calling for the federal government to support beet growers to ensure their continuation. Fred Petry, from George Higgs, of Chatham, director of the Ontario Sugar Beet Producers' Association. He said "will go down the drain" unless supported by a favorable tariff.

Ontario's beet processing plants have a total capacity of 40,000 tons, but they are handling only about 12,000 tons. He said the industry which benefitted foreign countries to undersell Ontario's product.

A suggestion that a welfare program should be established to retain unsuccessful small farmers for new occupations came from Cecil Rodosa, a Conservative poultry farmer.

The federation approved 16 resolutions, one of which called for an OFA study of the disposal of hydro rates between rural and urban customers.

To Hold Inquest

WINDSOR (CP)—The inquest into the Metropolitan Store blast which claimed 10 lives last week will be held Nov. 7 to 9, D. C. Mills, coroner, said Tuesday.

Mr. Mills, assistant deputy attorney-general, is here checking witnesses and hearing statements from witnesses.

Mr. Silk said that by the time investigations are complete the investigators should have a pretty clear picture of what happened.

CANADIAN PROPOSES DISARMAMENT PLAN — Howard Green, Canadian foreign secretary, speaks at United Nations Political Committee where he proposed creation of a small committee of non-nuclear nations to help break the East-West deadlock on disarmament. (AP Wirephoto).

Nixon Turns to Ike for Aid, Kennedy Taunts Him on Move

NEW YORK (CP) The two presidential candidates pulled out of a switch today.

Nixon moved through "Kennedy country"—New York State —with his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, and President Eisenhower, in a new effort to push through California, Nixon's home state.

Kennedy's main theme was aimed at Nixon's support:

"Mr. Eisenhower is not a candidate, Mr. Nixon is. And if he can't stand up to the American people, if he won't come and face me in a fifth (television) debate, how is he going to stand up to Mr. Khrushchev?"

Nixon, stumping a New York state that many observers have already conceded to Kennedy, said: "Election day they are going to get the surprise of their lives, and you are going to help give it to them."

President Eisenhower flew into New York this morning. He was to join Nixon and Lodge at a motorcade and then they together was to include a ticker-tape down Broadway, the street that gave Kennedy a tumultuous welcome a week ago.

Social security provided one of the main issues Tuesday night. Nixon, speaking in upstate New York, said Kennedy told a "barefaced lie" by saying Republicans would take away social security.

Kennedy said the Republican party could count on Nixon to "lead its wrecking crew" on the matter of social security.

Democratic vice - presidential candidate Senator Lyndon B. Johnson spent the day in Chicago. Lodge spent his day in upstate New York. Both wound up in New York city after it was over.

Plumping for experience in office, Lodge said: "A candidate can retract words but a president cannot retract mistakes."

He gave the same speech at eight outdoor rallies.

Johnson, who swung through Illinois during the day, used one of Kennedy's favorite themes, a slip in U.S. prestige. "The Republican party is suffering from a severe case of low prestige in America," he said.

"I do not believe such a party —which cannot maintain its own prestige at home—is a party to entrust with American prestige abroad."

Restaurant Owners Should Start Talking Back to Public

TORONTO (CP)—A sales manager for a large Canadian food company says the time has come for the Canadian restaurant industry to start talking back to the Canadian public.

L. T. Evans of the H. J. Heinz Company of Canada, Leamington, Ont., told a panel at the annual convention of the Canadian Tourist Association today "everyone has criticized the restaurant industry."

He said there are no complaints about the Canadian waitress when a train or plane is late. "She is always courteous and nice in language "they would not dare to use on their own employers."

Too many people talked about the distinctive Canadian cuisine being served, but they were the same ones who wanted roast beef for a banquet.

R. A. Mackie, general manager of Canadian Pacific hotels in Montreal said unless unrestricted development of motels and motor hotels was not checked they would result in cut-throat competition.

He said he was not opposed to motels, but it "should be restricted to highways and suburbs."

"I regret to say I do not find the same courtesy extended to visitors in Montreal as is obvious . . . in the country south of us," he said.

He said Canadian hotels must modernize their plants and train personnel to give "the proprietor is an absolute must."

Those in the tourist business were being persecuted by the Lord's Day Act that forbids the sale of souvenirs on Sunday.

A. R. Patrick, Alberta provincial secretary, told the panel his province had halted unfavorable criticism of food service by instituting apprenticeship training systems and certificating persons working in the industry.

CUBA PRESIDENT DISPUTES IKE'S STAND ON BASE

Denies U.S. Consent To Change Necessary

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, in a sharp reply to President Eisenhower, implied Tuesday night the U.S. lease on the naval base at Guantanamo can be abrogated without United States consent.

President Eisenhower, in a statement Tuesday, said the U.S. would take "whatever steps may be appropriate" to defend the base. He said the U.S. lease could be terminated or changed only by mutual agreement of the United States and Cuba.

Dorticos, in a speech to presidential palace employees, said there still exists the treaty signed "to justify armed aggression against Cuba" and "to support the claims of Cuba's revolutionary regime that Washington is planning a faked incident at Guantanamo as a pretext for military action.

Eisenhower's state ment declared:

"Because of its importance to the defense of the Western hemisphere, particularly in the light of the intimate relations which now exist between the present government of Cuba and the Sino-Soviet bloc, it is apparent that our position in Guantanamo is clearly understood.

The president offered assurances that the U.S. presence in Guantanamo does not in any way "pose no threat whatever to the sovereignty of Cuba, to the peace and security of its people" or the independence of any of the American countries.

Meanwhile, U.S. diplomatic official said Communist newsmen and Communist technicians with them have been flowing into Cuba in swelling volume during the last two months. Estimates value: More than $300,000,000, double the amount of previous shipments.

Frost Hints Sales Tax Is Imminent

TIMMINS (CP)—A strong hint that a provincial sales tax is imminent in Ontario was delivered today by Premier Frost.

Mr. Frost, in committing his government to a definite sales tax, the premier deplored a federal government policy which forces a province into imposing a sales tax to meet the rising costs of education, municipal assistance, health and welfare costs and highway construction.

"The federal government would do well to heed the warning that a provincial sales tax would be the city's lot.

He declared the province had not asked for a "nickel for nickel" tax-sharing with provincial meeting in Ottawa.

"We have been successful while through financial assistance to municipalities and spending more constantly rising education costs.

"We in Ontario have been able to build our province by first expanding our debt. The provincial debt is now about $1,000,000,000 and we can't continue to keep expanding our debt. Higher rates alone would kill us," Mr. Frost said.

Fractures Skull

TORONTO (CP) — Vincenzo Monardo, 48, of Toronto, died Tuesday when he suffered a fractured skull in a 15-foot hole into an excavation he was working on at Malton International Airport.

Electronic Device Delivers Mail Across U.S. in Just Few Minutes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States post office department Tuesday launched Speed Mail, an electronic process by which it can deliver first class mail across the U.S. in a matter of seconds.

Officials emphasized that, while Speed Mail involves electronic reproduction of a letter thousands of miles away, complete sanctity of the mail is provided for because no one but the machines has a chance to read the letters... The original, he said, is automatically destroyed after the contents have been sent while the facsimile is automatically sealed at the receiving end.

With Speed Mail, a letter writer uses a special one-page combination letter and envelope. Once written, a Speed Mail letter is fed into the machines which route it, open it, scan it, send a duplicate by microwave to the receiving point, and then destroy the original.

No Pledge Made To Confer About Use Of Polaris

U.S. Denies Accuracy Of Macmillan's Remarks

LONDON (CP)—A new transatlantic row flared today over the control of missiles armed by American Polaris submarines to be based at Holy Loch, Scotland.

Prime Minister Macmillan announced the agreement for the base Tuesday in the House of Commons.

He said: "I am perfectly satisfied that no decision to use these missiles will ever be taken by the British government except by previous consultation."

Americans officials said in Washington the United States has made no direct commitment to Britain on joint consultation.

British officials maintained silence about the American statement. A reliable British source said, however, the American official evidently misunderstood Macmillan and should read the text of the statement.

MAY BE IMPOSSIBLE

According to this informant, the prime minister implied that it would be impossible to use the Polaris from the Holy Loch unless consultations had been completed with Britain.

British consultations would be decisive and Britain still has the time for them in case of emergency, it is saying. Labor officials commented.

DOESN'T COVER SUBS

The agreement, they explained, foresaw prior consultations in periods of emergency concerning the use of the tender and other facilities of the station itself. But they said this does not affect the use of the submarines and their missiles "wherever these submarines may be," as Macmillan declared it.

The station in Scotland, to be set up next February, is not a base in the sense that the six bases in Britain are, officials said. The purpose of the Clyde River station is to shelter the supply ships and the submarines patrolling the high seas.

These vessels, based in New London, Conn., and Charleston, S.C., would visit the station only for supplies, refuelling and crew changes.

Both the six bases in Britain are the "operational" bases from the planes—in other words the launching point of their missiles in case of war—the operational base for submarines is in international waters. There is certainly no intention to fire the Polaris from the territorial waters of the United Kingdom, an official said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials expressed surprise today at Prime Minister Macmillan's statement that he expects British aid to be consulted before any Polaris missiles are fired from submarines serviced at a Scottish base.

Macmillan stated that opinion Tuesday as he announced in the House of Commons a U.S.-British agreement to permit the United States to keep a nuclear submarine tender and a floating dock in the Clyde River estuary.

"Wherever these submarines may be," Macmillan said, "I am perfectly satisfied no decision to use these missiles will ever be taken except with the fullest possible previous consultation."

Such a commitment was made when the agreement to establish the station was negotiated, state department officials said. They added they could not recall that the United States would fire the Polaris from the Scottish base after consultation with Britain.

British consultations would be decisive, officials said, but still will be time for them in case of emergency, it is saying. Labor officials commented.

DOESN'T COVER SUBS

The agreement, they explained, foresaw prior consultations in periods of emergency concerning the use of the tender and other facilities of the station itself. But they said this does not affect the use of the submarines and their missiles "wherever these submarines may be," as Macmillan declared it.

The station in Scotland, to be set up next February, is not a base in the sense that the six bases in Britain are, officials said. The purpose of the Clyde River station is to shelter the supply ships and the submarines patrolling the high seas.

These vessels, based in New London, Conn., and Charleston, S.C., would visit the station only for supplies, refuelling and crew changes.

Both the six bases in Britain are the "operational" bases from the planes—in other words the launching point of their missiles in case of war—the operational base for submarines is in international waters. There is certainly no intention to fire the Polaris from the territorial waters of the United Kingdom, an official said.

Woman Charged With Murder In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A 37-year-old Toronto woman was charged Tuesday night with murder in the stabbing death of her husband in a west-end apartment.

Raymond Kalbfleisch, was dead on arrival at hospital. Police said he died from a knife wound in the heart. His wife Mary was arrested by detectives. Kalbfleisch, a truck transport and underwear shirt, was found dead in the hallway of the building entrance by a neighbor who had been summoned after a heavy row involving the apartment owner called police.

Police said the fatal fighting apparently followed a domestic quarrel.

Kennedy Tries To Beat Nixon In Home State

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Senator Kennedy is seriously challenging Richard Nixon where it may hurt the most—right here in the vice-president's home state.

No doubt that's why the candidates themselves pressed California for the important last days of the campaign.

Kennedy is here now in his second round of appearances. Nixon, who made two earlier visits, plans to devote part of next weekend to his native state.

The latest professional poll, among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties, showed Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 8.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-to-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was set in 1958 when Governor Edmund Brown, a Romako Catholic, led a Democratic landslide that captured every state office but one.

This year the party staged a successful registration drive that gained 619,000 voters and boosted its 3-to-2 registration lead over the Republicans to 1,400,000. The Republicans picked up 406,000.

If it weren't for the religious issue, there would be no doubt of the outcome," says Roger Kent, Democratic chairman, who nevertheless predicts Kennedy will carry California by a comfortable margin.

V. John Krehbiel, Republican state chairman, says he is convinced that Democrats will cross party lines, as they did for President Eisenhower, who carried California in 1952 and 1956 by more than 600,000 votes.

UNITED APPEAL RECEIPTS NOW TOTAL $22,253.43

Untied Appeal receipts yesterday totalled $22,253.43, campaign headquarters reported.

Results of last night's door-to-door blitz will probably be known late today. Meanwhile, the campaign will still accept donations from people who were not home when the volunteer canvassers called.

The campaign this year hopes to raise $30,000 for distribution among 11 participating agencies.

AIRMAN SHAKEN UP AS CAR ROLLS OVER

An RCAF airman living at Trenton was taken to hospital for a check-up with minor bruising after he rolled his car over on No. 401 highway east of the city.

Police said a car driven by John Griffin, 26 Wallace Street, went out of control at the detour around overpass construction at the Shannonville gravel road.

Already Nine Floats Entered In Santa Parade

A month from tomorrow and Santa Claus will arrive in Belleville.

The Santa Claus Parade Committee indicated today that no efforts are being spared to give Santa a tremendous reception when he pulls into town December 3rd direct from his home at the North Pole.

Already nine floats have been entered in the Santa Claus parade and 11 wagons to carry them have been offered, and, like the floats, it appears more will be coming.

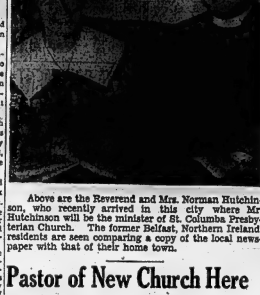
Firemen are looking around for a couple of hands to work full-time on building floats. They will be supervised by the fire department, which, over the past few years, has assisted in organizing Santa Claus parades here.

Fire Inspector Bob Fair said he is making arrangements to acquire a plentiful supply of candies for distribution to kiddies lining the parade route. Deputy Chief O'Brien said he knows of five bands that want to play in the parade and he feels that others will also ask to participate.

The committee will be out tagging on the streets November 18 and 19, when receipts for any expenses involved in organizing the parade.

Civic Action Committee Gets Good Reception

The Marmora district civic action committee, seeking government financial assistance in keeping the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company plant at Deloro, went to Ottawa yesterday and met with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and government department officials.



Due to local cobalt ore to process the Deloro plant has not been profitable in recent years and plans are to close it out at the end of this year.

Spokesman for yesterday's committee was Reeve William A Shannon of Marmora.

Talking the trip with committee members were local members of parliament, Lee H. Grills, M. P. for Hastings, South; Elmer Sanderson, M.P.P. for Hastings West; Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. for Hastings-East, and Rod Gardiner, M.P. for Hastings Frontenac. Hastings county Warden Earl Sager also accompanied the delegation.

During the morning the committee met with Trade and Commerce Minister George Hees and Agricultural Minister Alvin Hamilton, and later with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Mines Minister Paul Comtois.

Following their return early today committee members said government officials had promised consideration of their request and said efforts would be made to secure additional cobalt for processing at the Deloro plant.

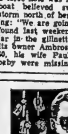
Above are the Reverend and Mrs. Norman Hutchinson, who recently arrived in this city where Mr. Hutchinson will be the minister of St. Columbus Presbyterian Church. The former Belfast, Northern Ireland residents are seen comparing a copy of the local newspaper with that of their home town.

Pastor of New Church Here Just Arrived From Ireland

A new charge, a new country, a new church and a new congregation; these factors, coupled with the warm welcome typical of Canadians, have whetted the enthusiasm of the Reverend Norman Hutchinson for his first church in his new country. Mr. Hutchinson is the new minister of St. Columbus Presbyterian Church, whose congregation is at present meeting in the manse at Farley Avenue and Bridge Street pending the erection of the church building proper.

The young clergyman has just spent the past two and one-half years as assistant minister to the Reverend Peter Paterson at Richie Presbyterian Church, Belfast, prior to his studied theology at Assembly's College, Belfast, having obtained his degree in arts at Trinity College, Dublin. McCee University, Londonderry and Queen's College.

Mrs. Hutchinson, the former Muriel Neill, has accompanied him on what is their first trip to Canada. Both have expressed a delight with the warmth of the people they have met and of the many kindnesses extended them. While looking for a residence (they are very hard to find says Mrs. Hutchinson), they are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Wills of 301 East Bridge Street.



The Hutchinson's will be in Belleville for about three years under the current arrangement with St. Columbus. During this time Mr. Hutchinson may make his decision as to whether he will elect to remain in Canada or return to Northern Ireland. To the Hutchinsons this would appear to hinge upon whether they can become acclimatized to the Canadian climate with its temperature changes. Belfast's temperate climate varies between 45 and 65 degrees annually which, of course, is a far cry from a temperature variation of 30 degrees or more below zero to 90 or 95 degrees above.

Of one point there is no doubt, however. That is Mr. Hutchinson's delight with his new charge and his new congregation.

HUNT FAMILY

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) — Almost an entire Indian village has turned out to search for a neighbor's girl, wife and baby after a terse note was found in a fishboat believed swamped in a storm north of here. A note saying: "We are going to die" was found last weekend sealed in a jar in the gillnetter Spicer Isle, by owner Ambrose Wells, about 40, his wife Paulina and their baby were missing.

Seven Committed For Trial On Fraud Counts

TORONTO (CP) — A three-week preliminary hearing of fraud charges against seven men involved in a dealership scheme, which the crown says netted the principals $100,000, ended Tuesday with their committal for trial.

The Crown says Donald Pickard, Earl Douglas Black, David J. Curley, Joseph Brown, Anthony Aquanno, Brian Cassidy and William Goddard obtained fraudulently about $100,000 in exchange for dealerships in first aid kits and fish stockings.

In the main, T. A. Nordman, also faces charges.

Magistrate Donald Graham rejected arguments by defence counsel that the problem was one of licensing. He also differed with counsel that remedies are available to a purchaser of items he obtains do not live up to the representations.

The seven men face a total of 21 charges of fraud and conspiracy to defraud. The magistrate found that in each case there was evidence of misrepresentation to persons that they would be able to get products and service racks at various locations.

Bail of $10,000 each was continued for Black, Rose, Curley and Aquanno. Pickard, Goddard, Pickard and Cassidy are on bail of $5,000 each. -

Fear 'Lynch' In Sports Car Murder Trial

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyer Hugh Latimer said today he will fear "lynch law" during trial of Owen (Mickey) Feener for murder of Northern Ontario Provincial Police Constable Thomas Toronto.

"Feelings in Timmins against Feener are equal to the lynching stage," he said.

Feener, 23, a former Halifax resident, is on trial before Mr. Justice Stand Trial at Cochrane for the shotgun slaying of Constable Toronto, 36, of Timmins. He has also been charged with causing indignity to the body of Shirley Lewis, 19, found early in October near a New Liskeard highway.

Mr. Latimer would not elaborate on his decision to defend Feener, Feener's first lawyer at his preliminary hearing.

"I think there has been ample evidence of the town's feelings to warrant my substantiate a request for a change of venue," Mr. Latimer said.

Nazi Leader Is Suspended From Position

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister George Hees announced Andre Belleveille, 30, who identified himself as brother of the Nazi party in Canada, has been suspended from his job as a stenographer in the transport department at Sorel, Que.

Mr. Baker said Belleville self-styled leader of a Nazi movement with branches in five provinces has not reported for work since Monday but as a qualified civil servant he cannot be dismissed except by cabinet order following an investigation by the Civil Service Commission.

A commission source said it has not completed its report on Mr. Belleveille's activities but it is expected to be submitted to the Civil Service Act to be the leader of a Nazi party in Canada.

The political-partisanship section of the Civil Service Act which is being studied by government officials says that a civil servant shall be dismissed for participating in partisan work in connection with any election," or for dealing in political activities.

IS NOT SURE

"It is not at all sure that this fellow has done anything that he can be called to account for," the commission source said.

Mr. Baker said that Mr. Belleveille, 30, is the 4 Graupilaar man employed in the marine agency in Sorel and as far as the department was concerned the first knowledge of his Nazi activities came in a television interview Sunday.

Mr. Baker reported for work since his broadcast." Mr. Baker said. "The agency has not as yet has placed him under temporary suspension pending disposition of his case.

ESCAPE FLAMING CYCLE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Motorcycle officer escoring Senator Kennedy's campaign caravan through downtown Los Angeles area Tuesday, leaped from his cycle when it suddenly burst into flames. A short time later firemen ordered the arrest of a man who gave his name as Sam Frankhurter, 28. They accused him of setting the lightning match at the already overheated cycle.

Fourteen Murder Charges Metro 1960 Record

TORONTO (CP) — A murder charge laid Tuesday night against a 37-year-old woman has brought to 14 the number of murder charges this year in Metropolitan Toronto, police said today.

It also ties the previous high for murder charges in the three area.

Police said there have been 13 investigations for slayings so far this year and 14 arrests.

Police said there were 13 murders last year Two were multiple slayings.

Tuesday night's murder charge was laid against Mrs. Mary Reinhardt in the stabbing death of her husband, Raymond 43, in a westend apartment.

Retarded Children's Group Plans Fund Drive Nov. 13-24

TRENTON — A year ago the parents of retarded children in Trenton and the immediate vicinity were faced with the problem of providing a school for nine children. Prior to September, 1959, Trenton district children attended the Quinte school for retarded children at Belleville. Last year the Belleville group found that it needed all the available space for its own children and notified the Trenton group that it could no longer accommodate Trenton children.

The Trenton parents looked for a school room. The Separate School board through its secretary, J. V. Byrnes, offered the children a basement classroom at St. Mary's school. There the class was set up a year ago last September with Mrs. Gordon Bellamy as the teacher.

In December, the Trenton and District Association for Retarded Children was formed. Charter president was Mrs. Earl Bowles.

In December, Mrs. Gibson was recalled to the Belleville school. After careful consideration Mrs. Wauters was hired as the teacher for the Trenton children. Mrs. R. Campbell was engaged as assistant. Mr. Wauters came highly recommended from the Ontario schools, among them the Provincial Sesqua School of Calif., Ferndale.

Last November, the local group had its first Hallowe'en party and purchased a bus for the children. Mrs. Bert Anderson was driver.

In April, John Turcot took over as president of the group. Mrs. Wauters attended a meeting of the Board of Education a room at the Dufferin Public school was made available to the group and the children were moved to their present quarters.

This year 15 children are attending the school. Others for them must be brought by car or by bus. Among those driving are Mrs. Smithfield, Conaconn, and Sidney township are represented in the group.

A visit to the classroom is an experience which the visitor will remember.

The children who were unmanageable when the class first started have become well-behaved. They have made great progress in their academic work and have become quite expert at handicraft work.

"Jimmy" can count all the chairs in the room and come up with the right answer every time. "Fred" answers to the school desks meticulously. "Jan-et" comes up with the right count on the children in the room after she stumbles momentarily over "four."

Does three come before two? Not by a long shot. Another. When the younger children become bored with the academic work, Mrs. Campbell's piano provides them with peg boards and similar handicrafts.

Morale is high at the school. If one child is ill, the others are very sympathetic. Mid-morning milk and lunch are the highlights of the day, as they are with all children. Visitors are welcomed with smiles and polite clapping.

Many necessities and a few luxuries have been provided for the classroom by service clubs. Trenton Lions have provided a tape recorder for speech classes and cupboards for toys.

This year the Trenton school committee has a door-to-door canvass for funds from Nov. 13 to 24. "Retarded Children's Week" is Nov. 14-20. Walter Sallter, chairman of last year's campaign, has again accepted the position and is now engaged in selecting canvassers and mapping out the campaign.

Man Arrested At Trenton Given Year

TORONTO (CP) — Nelson M. Hickson, 39, former member of the Canadian army, pleaded guilty Tuesday to a five-year-old theft of $10,000 from a former employer and was sentenced to 12 months in formstory.

Hickson was arrested last month at Trenton when he arrived by plane from Germany, where he had been serving for three years with the army. The theft took place in 1954 and 1956 while Hickson was employed by Radio Electronic Schools.

Officer Worked With USAF At Rome, N.Y.

TRENTON — Squadron Leader Leonard K. Orchard, a former resident of Trenton, spent the past two years at the Rome, N. Y. Air Development Centre, assisting in the development of a radar system designed to decrease the possibility of penetration by enemy aircraft.

The Canadian officer worked as an assistant test engineer at Rome since 1958.on a frequency diversity radar program. He helped co-ordinate tests in several U. S. Air force test centres.

Recently, S/L Orchard is assigned as staff officer in the organization branch of the Materiel Command at Ottawa. He is due to retire in May, 1962, after 24 years of service.

S/L Orchard is well known in Trenton. His parents formerly ran a men's clothing store on Front Street. Leonard, Garth and Elizabeth Orchard all enlisted in the RCAF during the war. Garth is now connected with the dairy firm in Toronto. Brian was shot down on his last mission over Germany.

Leonard married the former Frances Gilliland of Trenton. She was the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Anderson who lives at 109 West St.

Witches, Goblins Collect $400 For UNICEF

TRENTON — UNICEF witches, goblins, ghosts and other Hallowe'en characters collected more than $400 in UNICEF coin Monday night. This money will assist Grimedical supplies for the children of the have-not countries.

Walter Steevie, chairman of the Trenton UNICEF campaign, said that he considered the sum collected was "very good" considering the rainy night.

Children from Dufferin Ave. school, Prince Charles school, St. Peter's school and St. Mary's school collected for UNICEF.

Don't Want Holiday

TRENTON — The Chamber of Commerce, acting on the suggestion of council, has conducted a survey among merchants in their interests to the proposal advanced by Trenton Lions that Remembrance Day be proclaimed a civic holiday.

Yesterday, H. B. Smith, secretary of the chamber, said the merchants had indicated on the questionnaire that they would prefer to close their stores from 10.45 a. m. to 2 p.m. on Nov. 11, rather than close all day.

The chamber will acquaint town council with the result.

CHARGES DISCRIMINATION

WINNIPEG (CP)—Four Winnipeg restaurants would "go to unbelievable lengths to maintain a color bar," the counsel for a Negro waitress has charged. The statement was contained in a reply by lawyer Sidney Green to statements by the restaurants given to a one-man inquiry commission. He represents Mrs. Gerri Sylvia, 27, who claims the restaurants refused to hire her because of her color.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Traders found little to interest them in the stock market today and prices moved aimlessly in all directions.

On index, industrials were off .01 at 493.62. Golds were up .29 at 93.78, base metals .13 at 152.37 and western oils .41 at 81.76.

The 11 am. volume was 434,000 shares compared with Tuesday's 381,000.

Robertson Manufacturing paced industrial losers with a drop of 1¾ at 11. Guaranty Trust gained 1 at 28.

Golds were irregular: Dome up ¼ at 26, Kerr-Addison up ¼ at 14¾; Giant Yellowknife off ¼ at 13½.

Noranda led base metals to a slender index win with a gain of ¼ at 40¾. Falconbridge was off ¾ at 25¾, while senior uranians were unaffected.

Western oils showed fractional gains, Home B gaining 13 cents at 81.75.

Tuesday, industrials scored their best win in three weeks.

Following a strong New York market, industrials, on index, jumped 4.13 at 493.69, with golds up .30 at 93.99, base metals up 1.19 at 152.26 and western oils up .86 at 81.35.

Volume was 1,576,000 shares compared with 1,980,000 Monday.

Banks and steels provided the backbone of Tuesday's trading; papers and utilities were mixed.

Bank of Montreal moved into Royal Bank and Toronto-Dominion to win both up ⅛ and Bank of Commerce up ¼.

Among steels, Page - Hersey gained ¼ at 25¾, and Algoma, Atlas and Toronto Iron Works all improved ¼.

Minnesota and Ontario Paper dipped a point at 27¾. Among utilities, Bell added ⅛ at 46¾.

Most senior golds moved in small fractions. Campbell Red Lake was up ⅛, Dome and Giant Yellowknife both up ¼ at 25¾ and 13¾.

Base metals were strong behind Noranda, Falconbridge and International Nickel, both up a point.

Judge Critical Of Way Divorce Appeal Handled

TORONTO (CP) — Queen's Bench Justice Gilbert Kelly criticized by Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson Tuesday for his handling of a Supreme Court hearing into the divorce of Mrs. Joan Johnston Addison.

The J dge said he was not concerned with authenticity of a television program on which Mrs. Addison posed as a professional divorcee co-respondent but was concerned with allegations from the attorney-general's department that Mrs. Addison was a party to collusion witness, that adultery did not take place with the co-respondent named in the case, that the picture filed with the divorce was not a picture of the woman named in the case and that the decree was obtained by collusion, fraud or some other wrongdoing.

The divorce case was reopened by a court order Oct. 17, five months after Mrs. Addison appeared on a CBC television program as a professional divorce co-respondent. Later she said it was a hoax.

JUSTICE RESIGNS

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The chief justice of the Rhodesian Federation, Sir Robert Tredgold, resigned Tuesday in protest against a government crackdown measure proposed last week after riots in African townships. Tredgold said events had not reached "such a pitch" as to justify the proposed bill, which would "leave a legacy of bitterness that will live for generations."

Five of Family Left Homeless By $9,000 Fire

Fire loss estimated at approximately $9,000 resulted at Shannonville Tuesday evening when flames swept through the two-storey frame house of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Sword, leaving the parents and three small children homeless.

Only a few small articles and a washing machine was saved from the burning dwelling.

The fire occurred in the absence of the family, Mrs. Sword and children having gone to spend the village store, while her husband was attending a church meeting. When they returned home the house was full of smoke and they could not enter.

The Belleville Fire Department and also the Point Anne Fire Department answered the alarm and fought the fire for over three hours before bringing it under control.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said the blaze was a stubborn one to bring under control. The building was said badly gutted and is almost a complete loss.

The same fire in the third blaze at Shannonville in the past two weeks. On the two previous occasions barns at Shannonville were burned.

Members Vote To Relocate Flying Club

About 150 of the Prince Edward Flying Club's membership of 200 met last night at Tobe's Coffee Shop to decide on relocating the club from its present headquarters at Picton to a site closer to Belleville.

A vote was taken in which the members indicated their wish to relocate closer to Belleville.

A committee was formed to investigate all angles and to report the sites available and an estimated cost of each. Members of the committee are Howard Booth, Jim Marker, J. Brown, Glen Gould and R. Beebe.

Mountain View Airport, it was decided, would be sought first as it was believed that it would be most favored regarding initial moving expenses and subsequent operation. In addition, local RCAF officers would present no major problem.

Should Mountain View be unavailable, then an area available for training and other flight operations from the Stanley-Trenton traffic pattern and having development possibilities for private, corporate or commercial use will be found.

The subject of using the area near Belleville sometimes known as Potter's Field was put to a vote several times, but no hands showed to be in favor of using it, probably because of the close proximity of RCAF transport aircraft flying at low altitudes.

The first meeting of the newly - formed committee will be held tonight in Belleville to plan the strategy to be used in the project.

WON'T RUN

GUELPH (CP)—David E. Hastings, youngest mayor to hold office in the city of Guelph, announced Monday that he will not seek re-election, because of the demands of his law practice. He has been mayor for three years. He was 27 when he first took office, two years younger than George Drew, now Canadian high commissioner in London, who was the youngest mayor of Guelph in 1925.

Clifford Baragar Honored By Kiwanis Club at Annual Past Presidents' Meeting

Clifford Baragar was taken completely by surprise yesterday when he found himself singled out by his fellow Kiwanians in recognition of his years of service to the club.

The spotlight was turned on him at a This-is-Your-Life type of program at the club's annual Past Presidents' Day meeting held last evening at the home of past president Taylor K. Franklin (1950) with the assistance of past president Stafford McKenzie (1955) was in the chair for the opening stages of the proceedings.

Mr. Baragar, club president in 1935, was the guest of honour among more than a dozen past presidents. He was the recipient of the Kiwanis Legion of Honor scroll and pin for his years of continuous service and devotion to the club, and of a life membership in the local club. Official civic greetings and best wishes for the future were expressed by Mayor A. McLean Haig, who had made a special effort to attend the meeting for a few minutes.

COMES FROM MONTREAL

The club even went so far as to bring in two former club members from living in Montreal. They were Ed Shapiro, president in 1934, and George Griffin, secretary-treasurer for 16 years. The first clue Mr. Baragar was given that Mr. Shapiro and Mr. Griffin were aware of the meeting was when he heard their voices on the public address system, recalling events that occurred during his year as president. Then they walked in and completed the surprise.

Mr. Shapiro recalled that in 1935 club members became "Kiwanis Daddies" for a while and took along the local children who had faced the depression and were having none of it.

Mr. Baragar remembered the safety first campaign the club sponsored in 1935, and the safety paign closed with the chairman of the board going to the station to pay a ticket for speeding." Only 15 men were members of the club when he was elected president, but by the end of the year membership had risen to 62.

Another surprise caller was Frank Domenico, 1936 president, who said 1935 was the best year the club had had, but he was wrong or had. "The previous year was the best," he said, 1936, when Cliff was president, we were at our wits end trying to raise money for the club, and time the Wellington veterans had been successful in building up funds. So we tried the same thing. We had a dance and the cash prizes which grossed us about $30,000 and netted about $14,000. We gave away a brand new car every night for a solid week. We realized that the money was invested in two playgrounds."

George Griffin remembered when the club painted all the fire hydrants a bright red with paint and brushes donated by the late Charles Hanna in preparation for the city's Homecoming Week in 1935. He thought membership in the Kiwanis Club had done Mr. Baragar a lot of good, because when he joined then club he was quite shy, but when he relinquished the presidency in 1936 he was noted as "one of the best speakers in our club."

Letters were sent by Gordon S. Doddington, of Toronto, past governor of the 7th Kiwanis district, and Oscar Peterson, secretary of Kiwanis International, complimenting Mr. Baragar on his many devoted years of service and wishing him well in the future.

Past president Frank Creeggan (1953) presented Mr. Baragar on behalf of the club, with an album of photographs of each of the past presidents and accompanying messages to him.

Workers Still Processing Blitz Proceeds

Tuesday evening was the residential blitz night for the Belleville United Appeal canvass and workers at campaign headquarters were swamped with canvassers' kits today as they proceeded to total the night's take.

At noon today workers were still processing returns from the night's canvass and it was not expected to have a total until later on in the afternoon.

Campaign officials were optimistic however, that contributions from the residential canvass would be at least as good as last year. The campaign objective for the 11 participating agencies stands at $80,000.

Several of last night's canvassers who had also worked last year were heard to say that contributions appeared to be up this year.

Church Filled To Capacity For Anniversary Service

Rev. Lloyd Lovering of Castleton was anniversary speaker Sunday in the Zion United Church of the Frankford charge. This charmingly rural community church was filled to capacity for both morning and evening services. Recently re-decorated the pastel shades and beautifully carpeted its complementation added this lovely sanctuary was adorned with a profusion of chrysanthemums for the anniversary occasion. Cathedral atmosphere was created by the processional choir in new gowns, black for seniors, white for juniors, and the music, arranged by Mrs. H. Wiley, choir director, included anthems by Mrs. Wiley, a double trio number, "He Will Love Me," a solo, "Consecration," son "When Love Shines In," and a duet, "Save Me At the Cross." by Sandra Wickens and Judith Thompson.

In keeping with Reformation Sunday and anniversary sentiment, the minister adapted the morning service liturgy from "An Order for the Celebration of the 400th Anniversary of the Scottish Reformation," which was a gesture of considerable interest to this community church which numbers Anglicans, Baptists, Presbyterians and Evangelicals in the fellowship of its congregation.

Visitors were present from Frankford, Stockdale, Wooler, Trenton and other points. The minister, Rev. Charles Judd, expressed appreciation of Mr. Lovering's inspiring messages and the loyalty of those who had contributed so much to the success of the anniversary.

'Baldy' McQueen Retires After 48 Years of Service, Works Night on Sport Desk

TORONTO (CP)—Charles Willism (B a l d y) Macqueen celebrated his 70th birthday Wednesday by retiring from a newspaper career extending over a span of 48 years.

Baldy is calling it quits after he works his regular 6 p.m.-2 a.m. shift on the sports desk of the Globe and Mail here.

"I decided five years ago that I'd quit when I was 70," the grayed-velour Macqueen told an interview the other day.

"I'm getting a little tired and I'd like to take things easy. But I'm not going to quit work altogether, because old goats go early when they do that."

STICKS WITH CURLING

Baldy, who scared the wits out of youngsters coming up in the newspaper business with his "brusque manner' and booming voice, is a member of the Ontario Curling Association. "That will occupy my time most of the year."

Except for time out for service in both world wars and a brief fling at a public relations job, Baldy has been working on newspapers since 1912. "Every one of them has been a morning sheet which means that I've never seen now with time my own I can see how the other half lives," he said.

Baldy, a widower with no children, inherited his nickname before he was an hour old. His father, known as Baldy, heard a neighborhood child call a visitor "Well, there's a young Baldy Macqueen."

It stuck with him throughout the years, although he still owns a good crop of hair.

STARTED EARLY

He started general reporting on the old London Ont., Advertiser in 1912 and moved in as sports editor in 1914 before joining the Winnipeg Telegram for a few months in 1915. He joined the Toronto Mail and Empire in 1920 and left in 1936 when the late George McCullagh had the two papers merged it with The Globe to become the present publication of Globe and Mail.

Macqueen, born in London, Ont., was active in sports with the University of Western Ontario football team in the Ontario Rugby Football Union in 1908.

He won his rowing in 1911 to play for the Tigers, a newly-organized club that won the Mann-Hellmuth intermediate title. Baldy as quarterback. Two years later he turned amateur moved up to senior category and asked Baldy to join him.

He did, but it was at his own price—sports editorship of the Winnipeg Telegram.

Macqueen went to France in 1916 but never got at the enemy. A bomb exploded prematurely while he was instructing recruits. Blown off his feet, he left side of his face and blinded his left eye.

He was discharged as Capt. Macqueen in 1920 and 23 years later was back in uniform as public relations officer for Military District No. 2 in Toronto. He ended with the rank of major.

RETIRES

Charles W. (Baldy) Macqueen ends 48 years as a newspaperman when he retires from the Toronto Globe and Mail sports department on his 70th birthday Nov. 2. He started newspaper work with the London (Ont.) Advertiser and, except for a short period with the now-defunct Winnipeg Telegram and service in both World Wars, has worked for The Globe and Mail and the old Toronto Mail and Empire. (CP Photo).

POLIO SERUM WORSTED

MOSCOW (AP)—Health Minister Sergei Kurashov said today 73,000,000 Soviet citizens have been given Sabin anti - polio serum, and in certain areas the incidence of disease has fallen off by one-half to two-thirds. He stressed at a press conference that the live virus technique developed by Dr. Albert Sabin of Cincinnati, Ohio—rather than Dr. Jonas Salk's strain of dead virus —had been used.

Railway Problem

The CNR, in a brief to the MacPherson royal commission on transportation, has sought greater freedom in setting its rates and determining what services it will offer. That this is desirable if Canada's railroads are not to be handcuffed in their competition with other forms of transportation, few will dispute. At the same time, such a move would create difficult problems. To meet one of these difficulties, the operation of passenger runs or branch lines which are unprofitable but which are deemed essential in the public interest, the CNR proposes that Federal subsidies should be paid to support such services.

In theory, this is an excellent solution. But what will happen in practice? How often will a government have the courage to rule that a non-profitable line is not essential to the public interest? The railroads today occasionally manage to unburden themselves of some unprofitable services. But, if the government were paying subsidies for the operation of some such lines, would there not be enormous pressure for it to pay similar subsidies for the operation of all such lines? Would there not be a danger of any exception to the rule of subsidy payments being decided more on the basis of the number of voters affected in a region than on the essential nature of railroad service to these districts? These are questions which need to be considered carefully. Answers to them should be diligently sought, for unless the railroads are as free to operate or refrain from operating services as their competitors they will be forced to labor under a heavy handicap.

The Old Refrain

The Shah of Iran, or Persia, finally has his long desired male heir. His third wife has given birth to a boy.

"The baby looks like the shah," says Dr. Jahanshah Saleh, Iran's minister of health, who delivered the baby.

This just goes to prove that people are the same the world over, and that a Persian gynaecologist is just as more wedded to accuracy than the next-door neighbors in Canadian suburbia.

The day a baby is born who really looks like Pa Pa had better rush to a plastic surgeon for an emergency operation. No mother could stand for a father should be forced to go through life with a puckered-up, vacant face like that of a new-born baby. To suggest that a king, and that king the Shah of historic Persia, looks like this ought to produce a thousand strokes of the lustiness. But then the shah's fathers every. where, probably took it as the highest of compliments, which just proves that a gynaecologist may also be a diplomat.

Chamber Of Commerce Prayer

"Dear Lord, help me to become a perfect executive," opens "The Chamber of Commerce Executive's Prayer," distributed locally by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

"Make me a better leader of men by helping develop larger and greater qualities of understanding, tolerance, sympathy, wisdom, perspective, equanimity, mind reading and second sight," runs one of the five paragraphs.

Feeling a little queasy and thinking of Babbit?

Wait a moment. Here is the final paragraph: "And when, dear Lord, Thou has helped me to achieve the highest pinnacle of administrative development and when I shall have become the paragon of all executive virtues in this mortal world—then, dear Lord, move over."

What a wonderful saving grace is a sense of humor!

Atticus last Sunday referred to a delegate to the United Nations eating turkey in New York which tasted like "warm newspapers with gravy."

I have always assumed the serving of poultry tasting thus was a closely-guarded secret of the English way of life. It is disturbing to think that it has been carried across the Atlantic, along with our works of art, old lamp-posts and bits of public conveniences. (Letter to London Sunday Times.)

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY
DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
AN UNPLEASANT MEMORY

Some years ago I met a husband and wife who through these years have stuck in my mind as an unpleasant and pathetic memory.

The man was good looking, bright, cheerful and optimistic. His wife was about the homeliest female I have ever looked upon. Her conversation was characterized by monotonous complaining against certain people and things which appeared unrealistic. At any rate it draws a constant tone of complaint. Strange people together and apparently to make them happy by strange and incomprehensible combinations of circumstances and personal characteristics. Why people take unto themselves the spouses they do is something the reason for which must be known only to the Most High.

But more of that tomorrow.

Miracles of the Universe Light

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 15

It seems strange to say that there is light that man can see and light that man cannot see. But it is true, and oddly enough the light which cannot be seen is called "invisible light."

Just how scientists seem to agree upon what light really is. But when a layman separates the "ifs" from the "buts," there seems to be a vague area of agreement. At least by saying so we can get over the differences of opinion and get onto the next article. It appears to me to be described in one of three ways:

1. Light is described as particles of matter as I call this the "Particle Theory." I propfer it myself since it is the easiest to understand, but it is not seriously accepted any longer by science.)

2. The "Bundle of Energy" Theory.

3. The "Shake the Rope Theory."

PARTICLE THEORY

By this theory a star was thought to "spit" out particles, billions of them. The particles are sort of like bullets going spewed out from a machine gun, or drops of water in a spray from a hose. These particles were thought to travel as bullets and at 670,000,000 miles per hour out from the source in all directions. Most of this spitting was described as "light." Parts of the "spitting" couldn't be seen — such as radio waves, TV waves, ultraviolet rays and so on. For example. This applies to all three theories.

The particles were said to have weight and mass while moving but to have no weight or mass when standing still.

This theory of light is known also as the "corpuscular theory." This theory used to dominate science but is not highly regarded today. It has been replaced by another concept of light.

BUNDLE OF ENERGY THEORY

This is a theory that many scientists believe in. It may in fact not differ from the "Shake the Rope Theory" for 50 years or so from now science may laugh at the most advanced 1960's attempts to describe light, so anyone should be careful as to how positive they are at what they laugh today.

The "bundle theory" see light as a stream of bundles of energy; each bundle is called a "photon" and travels, it is thought by wave-length action at 670,000,000 miles per hour out from the source in all directions.

A basic difference between the "Particle Boys" and the "Bundle Boys" is that the "Bundle Boys," the photons, have no weight or mass. Photons in the Bundle Theory are not matter, but are bundles of energy.

The "Bundle Boys" refuse to describe a "photon" except as a bundle of energy. They do however they say that if you stop a photon to look at it, it is no longer light. Light is travelling at 670,000,000 miles per hour and represents energy and a photon at zero speed is no longer light, because it no longer possesses any energy (its forward speed). Like photons 'travel so fast, if they have no energy, they may be smeared into streaks.

SHAKE THE ROPE THEORY

The "Shake the Rope Theory" envisages that all space is filled with invisible rope, and you can say from a star. These ropes are electro-magnetic, whatever that means! (Look it up) a particle that starts out from a star and travels at the speed of light and it is not a bundle of energy doing the same thing, but rather, a wave of energy — something shakes the rope at the star. The shake will see a wave along the rope and when the shake finally arrives at 670,000,000 miles per hour, it will see a wave on the chemicals in your eye resulting in what we call "sight" as to obtain an impression in your brain of something of supernatural right. Your eye is attracted by the light, sort of the way a fish's attracted to a worm, or a spider to a fly, water, the motion. Your eyes do not actually see — they receive electro-magnetic messages and they translate this into what we call "sight."

Tie up a clothes line, shake one end of it and you will see a wave form in the line. The wave will travel along the rope to the far end. The faster you shake the rope at one end the closer the waves will be together.

The electrons, jumping from orbit to orbit, in the hot guts of the star cause the star end of the College Hill Citizen Dislikes Bus Route

Editor,
Daily Intelligencer:

Re: Bus Route on College Hill.

Many complaints given to be said for the Bus Routes in your paper, namely, "The buses are empty, so why apply for some sections of Belleville, but as far as College Hill is concerned, most of the residents have to walk three long blocks to reach a bus stop. The bus is routed on North Front Street to Donald and Church, then west to Pinnacle Craig and out on the Foxboro Road with traffic rushing in two directions on a one lane hill. To avoid this and accommodate all the residents in the College area, the bus could run up North Front Street, turn east on Dundas and continue to Prince of Wales Drive and west on College Street to North Park.

As the bus route now stands, we have to walk three blocks to North Front Street of three blocks to Canniffon Road, to get a bus. This means that, we will have to give up our jobs or drive it up and take a taxi both ways. I think I speak for all the residents of College Hill (east of North Front Street) when I say that the Bus Committee has given us a poor deal and after having had the use of the bus since 1925, it is like "taking candy away from the baby" to take the bus away from us.

Human Rights Court Sits

London, Eng., Observer

All who are for the protection of individual human rights should welcome the case which the European Court of Human Rights, set up under the aegis of the Council of Europe, began to hear in Strasbourg last week.

It is the first case in which a government (Mr. George Lawless) has gone to court for refusing to obey a deportation order. Lawless had been detained without trial for six months by the Irish Republican government during a period which this government deemed to be a public emergency.

The case itself is significant not only for the Irishists' particular interest, but also for the principles which may be laid down regarding the limits of government action in declaring a state of emergency.

The Republic of Ireland, and the other seven European governments which have accepted the court's jurisdiction, are to be commended for sanctioning some sovereignty in favor of the international protection of civil liberties.

This act of faith in an international concept of uniform human rights should stir the other members of the Council of Europe to accede to the court's jurisdiction: France, in particular, should cease to drag her feet by refusing even to ratify the convention which established the court.

The British government, which has accepted the court provisions of the convention to hear dependent territories, has so far accepted only the jurisdiction of the Commission of Human Rights (an investigatory and conciliating body), and then only in interstate disputes.

Much good could come from British's unconditional accession to the Strasbourg court: this would represent a valuable step on the international plane towards affirming the dignity and worth of human beings.

With the conventional dignity and pomp that have characterized all previous like occasions, four retired locomotive engineers from the Canadian National Railways were honored by their fellow members and presented with the conventional gold-headed canes last evening at the Engineers' Hall on Pine Street. The four retiring engineers were Messrs W. White, W. A. Morgan, Thomas H. Hallinan and William Young.

Following a delightful banquet and program, Mr. A. B. Saunders, divisional master mechanic of the C.N.R., presented the retired engineers honored with their canes; suitable replies were made in all respective incidents. Chairman R. Muirhead respectfully asked the members to observe one minute of silence in honor of departed members.

Insensitivity To Others Marks a Bore

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

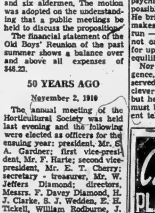
As the club bore approached our corner of the room we hurriedly bolted our newspapers, grabbed a tense engrossment in the comics and the classified ads.

And as his on'nous figure receded, we spoke of a paucity of spiritual numbness and began discussing the curious nature of bores.

That the ponderous gentleman we avoided like the plague is a very real one there is not the slightest doubt. He is in the same category as that other club bore who one day approached Thompson, and exclaimed indignantly, "Jones has just offered me 50 pounds if I quit the club."

Herford looked him over coolly. "Don't take it," he advised. "If you hold out for 100 pounds, I'm sure you'll get it."

What the bore is lacking, we finally agreed, is the all-important virtue of sensitivity. He is completely oblivious to other people's reactions and interests. He is locked up in himself, like an aviator under plexiglass, and cannot really make contact with the outside world of human personality.



The bore is not just a dull person — for most of us are dull much of the time, in a constantly inoffensive way — he is dull with a positive genius, the cause of dullness in others. He spreads a hot, clammy blanket of tedium everywhere he goes, stifles conversation, chokes off humor, and eventually succeeds in making everyone else boring, too.

Every man has three characters," said Alphonse Carr, "that which he exhibits, that which he has, and that which he thinks he has."

None of us have a fairly good idea of the character we exhibit, but the bore has one. He is a perfect example of self-illusion. He often believes he is a raconteur, that he conducts conversation, that interests him must interest others, that he is well, he doesn't even care, but simply clings to your lapels with the tenacity of the drowning.

The bore is a doubly unfortunate person because he includes those who are suffering from psychic illness, he makes it impossible for us to feel sympathy. He brings out the worst in us—makes us flick to be rude or to run — and thus we resent him not only for being boring but for upsetting our own emotional equilibrium.

Nor is it a matter of intelligence, for as Samuel Butler observed, "Even a fool knows like a clever bore." It seems that — but here he comes again, and must be off to dispatch an urgent telegram.

A mountain of 10,200 feet in the Rockies, it was named for the fortified town of Douai in north east France in commemoration of its occupation by Canadian troops along with British in the First World War.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

KNOW WHAT TO DO FOR STROKE VICTIM

By the law of averages, a good many of us will never have occasion to be present when a person has a stroke.

By the same law of averages, some of us will.

So I suggest that you show the following facts some room in your memory, just in case.

What is a stroke? It's an interference in the blood supply to some portion of the brain. It may be a clot clogging, clogging one of the many arteries in the brain, or the artery bursting, or a leakage of blood from one of them. Either way, the blood-supply to some portion of the brain is shut off or diverted.

If the supply should be shut off completely, death will occur promptly. But that rarely happens. The brain is served by an extensive network of arteries like a river formed by a lot of smaller rivers, and then multiple creeks and streams and brooks and trickles.

Some strokes are massive; some are so small that they are never noticed. But I'm not very people, after a stroke, are paralyzed, some have partial disability, some are upset by the aftermath, and some never have enough trouble to know that they've had any problem at all.

With the little stroke, the patient has no knowledge that it has happened, and there is nothing for you to do.

But if the stroke is severe enough to cause a clot that you recognize, you can help.

A severe stroke is frightening to watch. There may be mild convulsions, and loud breathing, and, of course, the helpless collapse of the patient. That may be the worst shock of all, to you.

Get the patient stretched out comfortably — it won't make any difference to him whether he is on a couch or bed or on the floor. The head should be supported slightly by a small pillow, a folded jacket or a towel.

Make sure that his breathing is free; principally, that the tongue has not fallen back toward the throat.

Then do just about it. The preliminary stage of a stroke ordinarily is not prolonged, and there is little beyond what I have just mentioned, that can be done at this time, either by you or by a physician.

Naturally you will call your doctor right away to tell him what has happened, so he can evaluate, roughly, the severity of the stroke, make arrangements for hospitalization, and prepare for special care if it is required.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My wife has to watch her diet or she would gain two pounds a day. She also knows that salt causes 'water-loggin' in the fat specials. Yet in the morning she puts so much pepper on her scrambled egg that you can't see the egg.—A.D."

Okay. Let her. Pepper has no food value, and is quite safe salt. It does not cause water retention. Of course, if there is any other reason for limiting enough so that a diet that requires absence of highly spiced foods, that's another matter.

NOTE TO MRS. D.P.: Yes, an appointment for routine veins is best performed in a hospital. It is not an office procedure such as removing a mole or wart.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BENEFITS FORGOT

Most of us are bowed up by ever appreciate with adequate present benefits or those which we hope will pass our way as the years roll on, we rarely think of the benefits which have been showered upon us in the past.

And the many results of our labor, with hand or mind, how we forget the thousands of the mere success in fame or money we suggest we have.

If we could sit quietly on the steps of our lovable home on this earth every once in a while and talk over the things we have gained and the many little things that have made us so rich, but we don't, and the result is little in return — we might find our light growing dimmer, and those about us increasing in their desire to know us more and better.

It's the benefits which we forget and bury from our memory that make us shrivel and grow poor in soul.

How very wonderful it is to be thoughtful, to give thanks, to appreciate!

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

The man doing a survey on employment for the federal government asked me how many hours a day I worked, and what kinds of sixteen to eighteen, he was surprised I asked him to be exact. But by work only the hours I spent tapping a typewriter. You don't think you muck a doctor works by counting only the time he spends listening to the heart and a tongue, listening to a lung or writing a prescription? And you there we get onto the subject of the dignity of labor.

Mentioned in some of the most powerful labor unions arrive at their jobs in the morning and run packing lots provided for them. With their hands in their pockets, they stroll around to the job, till tools are provided, they are told what to do, how to do it, when to do it. Eight worthy hours per day they labor at something that could require thinking, but ever of them but their-time, their attention and their movement.

Compare this, in dignity, with the work of a housewife. She gets up at seven, and is still busy at work before she is-even dressed. She has to plan her work and is wholly responsible for it. She has to provide the tools or make do with the tools she has.

Her work is not labor alone but management, the training of children, the economy of meals, the subtle area of domestic happiness.

And at the end of the sixteen, seventeen hour day, she goes to bed.

SCOTT'S SCRAP-BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Around The Tee

The chairman of the Men's League in Curling at the Quinte Curling Club, John Peverley, is having a hard time lining up his rinks for the winter's play. Mr. Peverley has sent out about 120 cards asking the members to fill in the nights they would like to play during the week. So far only about 100 cards have been returned and until the rest of the members look after this matter, the chairman is stymied in his work. Under the league rules each member is given two nights on which to curl and they are fixed for the entire schedule. After all the members have signified their nights, the committee then takes the slips and opposite their names are drawn out, the heads, seconds and vice skips.

This is the fairest system that can be devised and it also mixes up the membership so that everyone becomes acquainted and makes curling more enjoyable. This season the records of the rinks will be kept on a point system, devised by Ev Gowsell, the curling general chairman and it is hoped it will prove more satisfactory than the system used last season. It is hoped that by the new system the absenteeism will be cut down for a player gets the most points for attendance. So if you have not mailed in your card, drop it into the post office today or else call Mr. Peverley.

Pete Acton, in charge of the mixed spiel that will open the curling season and will start on Monday evening continuing until Saturday night when the prizes will be distributed and a social evening to follow, could stand a few more entries. The mixed spiels of last year were very popular and it is the intention of the directorate to run many of them this season. Saturday men's spiels are also in the cards with outside rinks being invited. Steve Flintoff, chairman of the ice committee, will have the best sheet of ice since the rink opened. Considerable work has been done on the levelling and the committee was taken in time in flooding so that a perfect sheet will result. It is expected the rinks will all be marked out by the end of the week, the lockers will be filled with brooms, sweaters and boots and then to the ice for the favorite pastime.

ACCUSE EXECUTIVE

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)— Movie executive James Bowlett was accused Tuesday of trying to hire a man to murder the wealthy 78-year-old woman he married secretly three years ago. Bowlett, 64, who police said has been an associate producer of independent films, was jailed on suspicion of soliciting a murder.

Financier Takes Windsor by Storm

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A British financier — ordinating a $15,000,000 harbor development here said Tuesday a further $18,000,000 is available for overseas investors for Windsor's seven-year development.

John Morley of London took Windsor by storm when he tiellied here last month and within days signed a $9,000,000 construction contract covering bonded warehouses for the harbour development.

Word is still awaited from the federal government concerning the construction of new harbor and dock facilities.

Mr. Morley said Tuesday even more money may be raised for redevelopment of downtown areas.

"His Serene Highness Prince Michael Radziwill, a Polish prince who is a British subject, and one of his principals, advised me shortly before I left for Canada that all the money you want for the development of the sewage project is available."

In another development, Mr. Morley said British financial interests would be prepared to erect a large British department store complete with stock, along with other projects involving entertainment, hotel and motel accomodation.

The only condition, he said, is that Windsor must give an option on the property involved.

ASK GERMAN AID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Robert S. Anderson and Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon will visit West Germany later this month to urge increased German aid to underdeveloped areas, it was announced Tuesday. Reports from Bonn that the United States may have to cut its troop strength in Germany brought denial of any such plans by informed authorities here.

Vandalism Seen On Hallowe'en At Stratford

STRATFORD (CP) — Police are investigating several complaints of Hallowe'en vandalism including the burning of two barns at a loss of $18,000.

Police said the barns and an abandoned railway shack were deliberately set on fire Monday night.

All the windows were broken in a school in North Easthope.

At a school at nearby Science Hill windows were broken, desks overturned and the buildings and classrooms smeared with paint.

Damage was estimated at $10,000 when a barn on the Downie Township farm of Robert Mountain was burned. In a fire which destroyed the barn of Fred McKenzie in Blanshard Township damage was estimated at $8,000.

Y Basketball

The Steelers defeated the Cellitic 53-38 and the Satellites downed the Globetrotters 69-33 in a couple of YMCA youth basketball house league games last night.

Gerry Jones and Doug Hallam hooped 20 points apiece for the Steelers while Bob Doegan had eight, Jim Hurst led the Celtics with 14 while Tony Wright had 10, Rick Graham eight and Fred Wein six.

Graydon Scott hit for 25 of the Satellites' points but had to take a back seat to Lyle Adams who had 32. Art Taylor had 14, Bernie Ledoucier collected 10 of the Globetrotters points while Jones had 10.

Put on Probation

WELLAND (CP) — Milan Zunic, 41, of Toronto was placed on probation for one year after he was convicted in Welland county court Tuesday of uttering a forged pari-mutuel ticket at Fort Erie racetrack July 20.

Zunic was charged with attempting to cash a $10 ticket at a pari-mutuel window. The ticket had been altered with the use of bleaching aid, the court was told.

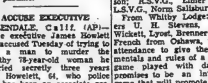
Confusion Seen As New Routes Are Started

Confusion was the order of the day at many of the city bus stops yesterday as new bus routes, new bus stops and a new system of fares was put into effect by the Belleville Transit Commission.

And adding to the confusion as far as the office personnel of the transit commission were concerned was the consistent jangling of the telephone as bus riders called in to check on route times and on new bus stops.



The new bus routes were set up by the transit commission to extend service to the suburban areas. The new fare structure was introduced at the same time.

But yesterday's confusion was expected by commission officials to iron itself out as customers become acquainted with the new routes and transfer points.

Light

rope, are what shake the ropes. In the last two theories light travels in waves (electro-magnetic waves). The closer the tops of the waves are together, the shorter is said to be the wave length and the higher the frequency.

SHORT WAVE LENGTH

The greater the distance between the tops of the waves, the longer the wave length and the lower the frequency.

long wave length.

Radio, TV and heat travel by long waves; ultraviolet rays, X-rays and gamma rays travel by short waves.

Man can see the waves if they are of a certain distance apart. An angstrom is 1/100,000,000th of a centimeter. A centimeter is about 2/3 of an inch.

If the distance between waves is longer than 7,000 angstroms man cannot see it. This is then called "Long Wave". If the distance between waves is shorter than 4,000 angstroms man cannot see it. This is called "Short Waves". Waves between these two extremes man can see as visible light.

The range incidentally is the general range of light of the Sun which reaches the Earth's surface. Much light given off by the Sun does not reach the Earth or we would boil by day or die of radiation damage.

The Sun gives out light of varying wave lengths. Some penetrates to the surface of the Earth — much does not, and only some of what does penetrate, can man see.

So man sees but part of all the light given off by a star. If there are other people on other planets they may see light with different physical equipment such as antennae. They may see for example only infrared light and not our range of light at all because infra-red may be the light given off predominantly by the star close by which acts as the local sun. Man's eyes, some believe, developed, to see the range of wave lengths of light, that have penetrated in our Earth's surface. Other might have seen differently and developed different equipment with which to detect it.

Weddings

ROSE — BARRIE

A pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized in Salemsville recently October 15th, at the Rawdon United Church parsonage, Mill St., Stirling, when Margaret Grace, youngest daughter of Mrs. Margaret Barrie, Mill Street, Stirling, became the bride of Gerald Rolland Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rose, Madoc. Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A., officiated.

The bride was charming in a powder blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Barrie, of Stirling, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Marilyn Rose and Lynn, of Hamilton, attended her sister's wedding.

GAMBLE — O'NEILL

MARMORA — A quiet wedding took place in Sacred Heart Chapel on Saturday, October 29th, when Frances Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. O'Neill, of Marmora, Township, was united in marriage to Ralph Gamble of Orangeville, son of Vera Gamble of Orangeville and the late Mr. Wilfred Gamble. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. W. P. Hickey.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in traditional white organza lace over taffeta featuring lily-point sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of silk net was caught to a pearl studded with seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book centered with a white and yellow button chrysanthemum.

Mrs. P. J. O'Neill, junior, was matron of honor, wearing a floor-length dress of two-toned autumn-brown in nylon net over taffeta with a fitted bodice and feather hat. She carried a bouquet of bronze and yellow button 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Wilfred Gamble, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the bride's home which was tastefully decorated with autumn flowers where the guests were received by the bride's mother, who chose a navy blue dress with matching accessories and corsage of bronze 'mums.

The young couple left for Orangeville where a reception was being held at the bridegroom's home. Later they travelled to points east in Canada. The bride wore a brown taffeta dress with fur jacket, matching hat and accessories, with corsage of bronze 'mums. The young couple will live in Toronto.

Guests were present from Toronto; Orangeville; Kingston; Havelock; Stirling and Marmora.

Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Gamble was tendered two miscellaneous showers by Mrs. Joseph Haile of Toronto and Mrs. Gordon Shaw of Toronto as hostesses.

Feminine Vanity Is Thawing Cold War

LONDON (Reuters) — Feminine vanity is thawing the cold war, statements by three big fashion organizations suggested Tuesday.

Separate bulletins from the British Incorporated wool society gave this proof that women of East and West like the same fabrics and over the skin:

1. Miss Nina Communist China is giving many thousands of British women the chance to achieve a luxury look at budget prices.

2. Russian women have taken up excitedly the first big shipments of British fashion sheets.

3. Soviet authorities have reported that British woollens—elegant in style and texture as well as exacting—are especially favored at the Soviet's British trade fair in Moscow.

Scholarship Fund Drafted at ORMT Assoc.

The regular meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association was held recently in the Board Room of Mr. John Academy with a large percentage of the music teachers present. Mrs. Ernest M. Dafoe, Mrs. Withers, president, Sister Mary Avila, vice-president, was in the chair.

The meeting opened with routine business conducted by secretary, Mrs. G. H. Rennie, announced that Mr. George Smale, of Brantford, president of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association, had been contacting and it is hoped that he will be the guest speaker at the next meeting. The minimum fee set for students of Belleville and Trenton was reviewed for the benefit of those teachers from other parts who were present and absent from the special meeting held in March.

Mr. Egerton Boyce, a charter member of the Hamilton branch, gave an interesting resume of the first Association formed in that city in 1907, and the Ontario Music Teachers' Association then in its infancy. It became the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association in 1946 and the purpose of the association is for complete registration.

Sister Mary Avila reminded the teachers of the aims and objects of the Association as registered in the by-laws.

The Dr. Healey Willan Scholarship Fund was discussed by Mrs. Mr. Boyce. This scholarship fund was established to assist in encouraging young organ students and is a tribute to Dr. Healey Willan, who for many years celebrated his 80th birthday.

At the close of the meeting, a social half hour was enjoyed. The members were then invited to inspect the new Nicholson Catholic College, with Sister Mary Teresa, principal of the College, as guide. The tour of this beautiful building was also enjoyed by all the members.

St. Columba S.S. Teachers Hold Masquerade

Last Saturday evening the church school teachers of St. Columba Presbyterian Church held a masquerade party. Along with the many masks present were the newly appointed minister, the Rev. N. Hutchinson, and Mrs. Hutchinson.

Costume prizes were won by Mrs. Walter Partridge and Wilfred Willis.

Entertainment took the form of various stunts and singing of the usual Hallowe'en pranks.

Members of the church school staff include Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Willis, Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher, Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Brain, Mrs. J. Olaveson, Mrs. J. Brasford, Mrs. George Ward, Miss Enid Bonder, Miss Gaye Robinson, Mrs. William Bowles, Robert Smith, Walter Partridge, Mrs. G. McKay and Mrs. G. Miller.

Curling Club Sponsors Fine Dessert Bridge

In spite of threatening skies the most delectable "Dessert Bridge" held yesterday afternoon at the clubhouse by the women's section of the Quinte Curling Club under the convenorship of Mrs. T. Carruthers and Mrs. H. G. Emerson.

Those who received at the door were, Mrs. J. White, president of the Club, assisted by Mrs. D. Traynor, whose gracious greeting was indicative of the delightful time in store.

After all had partaken of the delicious desserts arranged so tastefully on small "at" autumn centrepiece of Japanese silver dollars and wine-colored chrysanthemums, the 40 tables in play were speedily filled, with an overflow setup in the lower assembly room.

Those who assisted in serving were the Boys and Means committee headed by Mrs. W. C. Galt, and Mrs. G. Durno.

Prize winners were: high score, Mrs Pete Acton; Mrs. K. Hutchinson, low score, Mrs. J. MacKeen; high hidden score, Mrs. Ray Fairman; low hidden score, Mrs. R. Ketcheson, and door prize, Mrs. E. W. Sutton.

FRANK KILLS

Modern Art Discussed At Arts and Crafts Club

The Art Appreciation group of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club met at the home of Mrs. Lewis Andrews on Victoria Avenue. The subject of the evening's discussion was "Abstractionism." This followed the earlier one of "Realism and Expressionism" and adhered to the broad basic elements of enjoyment and appreciation of painting; the latter, the emotional and the intellectual.

FUZZLING FORM

Abstract painting is the most puzzling and frequently the most infuriating form of modern art. This is so as one is often not able to identify the lines, angles, shapes and colors of the abstract art with anything known and recognized. An abstract painting may seem meaningless, at first, but it is not: it is meaningful in terms of line, shape and space relationships as is all art whether realistic, impressionistic, traditional or modern.

The perfection of a picture is not the sum of its wonderful parts. This is so as one is often not able to identify the lines, angles, shapes and colors of the abstract art with anything known and recognized. An abstract painting may seem meaningless, at first, but it is not: it is meaningful in terms of line, shape and space relationships as is all art whether realistic, impressionistic, traditional or modern.

An abstract painting may seem meaningless, at first, but it is not: it is meaningful in terms of line, shape and space relationships as is all art whether realistic, impressionistic, traditional or modern.

PAINTINGS CONTRASTED

Two paintings of studio interiors were contrasted; one executed by Jan Vermeer and one executed by Pablo Picasso, the Picasso Studio, although differing from the Vermeer in surface treatment, has a close parallel to it. It might almost have been painted by someone here but the Vermeer could be translated into abstract terms.

In understanding the Picasso one has to begin by accepting the deliberate rejection of photographic imitation and by realizing that the distortions of the two paintings are as great as the difference, by the painter, of the painter, to the left in one, to the right in the other a few dark blues and a few dark browns in the other, both against a light field; both artists including brushes and a core of interest which is the model and the painter as the model tying the compositions together. In the Vermeer the concentration is on the head in the picture of space, in the Picasso it plays across the surface of the picture.

Picasso sacrificed interest in objects, the fascination and versatility of textures, the harmonies of flowing light, the building of solid forms with light and shade but he gained complete freedom to express within the forms in his picture, for the sake of design and expression. Here one has pattern, color, pure form and pure arrangement by not being diverted by the fascination of texts. Every element in both paintings affects every other one. Both are gems and superb achievements and rewarding to study.

To accept the one and reject the other could be an indication that the preferred picture was chosen because of superficial or perhaps fashionable reasons. Each picture accepted and studied honestly increases the enjoyment and understanding of the other, although 300 years separated between the painting of these two pictures.

TRADITIONAL MODERN ART

Other traditional and modern pictures were studied and contrasted by the artists as Sargent, Kandinsky, Turner, Francisco, Rembrandt, and the most extreme non-objective painter, Piet Mondrian.

Several members had copies of other paintings by these artists. Mrs. Hugh Murray having visited London this past summer, submitted articles and reviews on the Picasso Exhibition at the Tate Gallery, for the members' enjoyment.

LONDON (CP) — A memorial plaque to the suffragette movement era was unveiled outside the building where its Women's Social and Political Union had its offices 30 years ago.

St. George's Guild Holds Fall Tea, Bazaar

Bronze 'mums and sweet purple alyssum formed a lovely setting in keeping with the fall theme, when the ladies of St. George's Anglican Guild, held their annual tea and bazaar, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. R. Welsh invited the guests to the tea room which was convened by Mrs. D. Donnelly.

Pouring tea at the tastefully decorated tea table, with its snow-white tablecloth and silver tea service, centred with a bowl of freshly picked, red and pink roses, were Mrs. J. B. Creegan and Mrs. G. G. Wright, assisted by Mrs. H. A. Masiah and Mrs. H. Pitt.

The individual tea tables were similarly decorated with white cloths, each centred with bronze colored maple leaves encircling votive and red yellow roses. Those serving the many delicious sandwiches, petite cakes and cookies were Mrs. Colemen, P. Askey, L. Quirt, W. Coleman, J. Hamilton and D. Hall.

The numerous sale tables with their various assortments encircled the tea room. At the apron table, where Mrs. James L. Collins, S. Turner, L. Hughes and Mrs. Ken Hamilton were in charge, was a bountiful supply of fancy work, varying from cakes, pies, assorted candies, individual cup cakes and tea biscuits to a generous supply of baked foods.

Next in popularity was the candy table with a vastly assortment of homemade maple cream candies, fudge, etc., which was convened by Mesdames H. Shaw, R. Hamilton and Miss Docter.

Others were the various articles displayed at the fancy work table from knitted baby sets, bed jackets, bibs, bedroom slippers, to the ever-popular fancy aprons, as well as a wide range of pillow slips, towels, tea towels, lace doilies and luncheon cloths. Also on display was a cot for a child's crib formed an appealing background to the display.

In the doorway to the tea room was the flower and vegetable table, displaying a profusion of multi-colored 'mums, numerous potted plants and sprays of everlasting flowers, with all the hungry, many large sized cauliflower and individual squash.

Mesdames G. Button, A. Hooper and C. Jenkinson were in charge of making the tea and home cooking table a most delightful occasion were: Mesdames G. McLeod, F. Markle, G. Gulliver and Miss Towner.

Nurses Given Second in Series Of Lectures

The second in the series of monthly lectures for nurses was given on Wednesday evening by Dr. J. S. Melvin, who spoke on "Chronic Obstructive Lung Care in Orthopaedic Surgery." Dr. Melvin discussed the specific nursing care of patients in casts and traction, interjecting anecdotes pertinent to the situations.

Dr. Melvin was introduced by Dorothy Howes, following a speech of welcome to the nurses by Miss Marguerite Hicks, president of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry.

Miss Joan Churchill thanked the speaker.

The third lecture in this series, sponsored by the "Registry", is to be given by the teaching staff of B.G.H. Dr. K. M. Douglas will be speaking on "Sterile Dressing Technique" with the aid of the teaching staff.

This — and That

By HARRIETT STEVENS

We hear the good qualities of the new man — made fibres and materials described so much that maybe we are inclined to forget the excellences of the natural fibres which we have had with us for so long and which have given us such good service.

Think of the wonders of wool and what modern science has done to it. First is resilience which comes from the fact that each wool fibre is kinked. Any number of coiled springs that are stretched in use and then gradually coil back to their original positions. That is why wrinkles disappear from wool clothes when they are "rested" and why wool rugs retain their springy pile for years.

Wool is very wear - resistant because the "coiled spring" molecules of wool fibres stretch easily and can be twisted and flexed thousands of times without breaking. This is how they resist the stresses and strains of normal wear.

The lightness of wool is a great advantage, because the unique wool fibres can readily be made into bulky yarns that are light in weight, porous and cool. Even the heavier fabrics provide warmth without excessive weight.

Wool has a built - in insulation because the pockets of air in the fabric are held by fibres with high moisture absorbency also insulates the body against cold or heat. Wool fibres absorb, because wool has the ability to absorb moisture and yet keep it, prevents the excessive accumulation of static electricity. That is why it is less likely to cling to the body, or collect lint and dirt.

We know the comfort of wool from long use. It is soft, yet elastic and easily stretched, because it absorbs perspiration and never feels damp or clammy, it serves us in all kinds of weather. It has all the good properties which are essential to comfort.

No fabric can possess richer colors than wool. Because the core of the wool fibre is so thirsty as a sponge, it is chemically capable of uniting with dyes. That is why wool can be dyed in so many attractive colors and holds colors so well.

Wool can be used in an infinite variety of ways, because modern wool fabrics are made in thousands of textures and weaves ranging from sheer lacy knits to bulky tweeds. They are adaptable to any season or occasion and are unmatched for tailor-ability.

Turning from the subject of wool, we have yours truest of a new packaging idea for blouses which is another first for Canada. The blouse is popped in a transparent polythene bag which has been treated with Chanel No. 5, which gives the blouse a glamorous scent and provides a scented storage bag for the garment after it has been laundered. The manufacturers have plastic packaging up admits he does not know just how long the scent will remain in the bag. He says it cannot be determined positively until a year has passed.

The perfumed package is printed with clusters of flowers and an explanation of its scent. Besides the Chanel No. 5 perfumes available are Lily of the Valley. Packaging experts are excited about the possibilities of scented bags. They predict packages with a fresh out-doorsy smell for garments colored green or those with the aroma of freshly baked bread for baked products.

Smellavision has started something.

Lost Three Sons In Second War To Place Wreath

OTTAWA (CP) — An 80-year-old Manitoba woman who lost three sons in the Second World War will represent Canada's war - bereaved mothers at the 1 a.m. Remembrance Day ceremony here Nov. 11.

The Canadian Legion announced Tuesday that Mrs. A. J. Castin of McCreary has been chosen to place one of four official wreaths at the National War Memorial, accompanying Governor - General Vanier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and National president Mervyn Woods of Saskatoon.

Mrs. Castin's 10 children saw military service during the war. Five were joining the RCAF on four enlisting in the army and her daughter serving as an army nursing sister.

Mrs. Castin was awarded the French Legion of Honor in 1947 when she was selected by the French government as a symbol of all Canadian mothers whose sons contributed to the liberation of France.

Bayside H-S Assoc. Discusses Business Items

The October meeting of the Bayside Home and School Association was held at the school last Thursday.

A short business meeting, which included discussion regarding membership, room attendance prizes, and awards for the senior boys' teams, was held under the speakership of the evening, Mr. D. MacKinnon, of the Belleville Family and Juvenile Court.

The room count was won by Mrs. Campbell's room in Vicor.

Lunch was served by the social committee.

Women Will Have to Share Farm Work

TORONTO (CP) — More farm women will have to share more and more in the farm work of the future if they are required to maintain or expand Ontario farm production, says the head of a federal government sociologist said Tuesday night.

Dr. Hein C. Abell of the Canadian department of agriculture told the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture that farm women must realize the extent to which they and their husbands are involved in the economic future of Canada and farm.

Dr. Abell said farm women have a "tremendously important" role in agriculture. She cited a survey of Ontario farm wives in which they said they: Actually performed some work around the farm during the summer.

Most did gardening work; 81 per cent helped with the milking or feeding of cattle; 44 per cent worked with chickens; 42 per cent kept the accounts; 40 per cent worked in the fields and 18 per cent drove machinery or tractors.

About half the 352 women interviewed do farm work now that when they first became farmers' wives.

ASK ESTIMATE

TORONTO (CP)—Metropolitan Toronto council Tuesday voted to ask the Ontario Transit Commission for an estimate of the cost of establishing a single transit area throughout Toronto and the 12 suburbs represented on the council.

Melrose W.I. Presents Skit Current Events of 1860-1960

A most interesting meeting of the Melrose W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. F. McLaren with Mrs. Roy McLaren acting as cohostess, Mrs. R. McMechan, president, opened the meeting in the usual manner and presided over the business session during which the members were reminded of the concert for the residents of the County Home on November 8 at 7 p.m., for which the Melrose Institute is responsible and the date for the community supper has been changed to November 12.

Glowing reports of the recent Tweed Valley Area Convention were given by both delegates, Mrs. H. Fox and Mrs. G. Stratton, who gave the highlights of all the sessions and extracts from the reports of the various convenors, from which each member present benefited.

At the close Mrs. L. Gonedlinger took charge of the Historical Research program which proved most unique and entertaining. It took the form of an amusing skit, "Current Events of 1860-1960." Mrs. R. Badgley represented the women of 1860 and as an introduction, gave a brief talk on current events of 1960, mentioning that it is an era when positions are held by women as well as by men, when men do housework, and exemplified the fact by mentioning several articles including Eilen Fairclough, Immigration Minister; Jean Newman, Ontario Minister of Education; Mrs. Shaw Wilson, former mayoress of Oshawa; Mrs. Diefenbaker, and many other notables. Women are interested in world affairs such as "Chaos in the Congo," should women work? What about the election of U.S.A.?; Miss Picasse Donne?; and the endless questions are covered at the Institute gatherings.

Mrs. Gnaedinger, Mrs. C. Bates Jr., Mrs. J. Ogilvie and Mrs. E. Geneja represented the ladies of 1960 and were dressed in gay, fashionable gowns of that era and their billowy full skirts and dainty bonnets of yesteryear, topped with their accessories, added a quaint touch to the stage setting.

Mrs. Gnaedinger, as chairman of the "Club Meeting, 1860" was followed, and Mrs. Bates 1960 was invited to be their guest as they each cleverly enacted their role in the humorous dialogue.

Mrs. English read a "Review on Books," describing briefly Susanna Moodie's "Life in the Clearings," published in 1834, which describes the situation and hardships of that era and the surrounding districts. Another book quoted from was a day was "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which was summarized, after

White Christmas Fruit Cake

By Mary Moore

Today when the mail came the first letter I opened started with "Dear Madam or Sir: I suspect you are sitting in some office dictating to a pretty stenographer . . ." At that point I dropped into a chair and indulged in some slightly hysterical laughter. Right then there were no fruit cakes in the oven. Thomas was yelling from her play pen in the garden, a boy scout came to the door to sell me an apple and I was trying to get the Sunday School lesson ready for next morning.

The pretty stenographer I have — the office I have — but the "sir" part and inferred isolation from all things practical, is funny of course.

Incidentally what this doubting Thomas wanted was hot barbecue sauce for steak. I made it hot alright.)

To get back to those fruit cakes. Since July I have been making fruit cakes and after much soul-searching and testing have decided to give you a fruity different white cake. Actually I am going to feature two white cakes. The first (choice (today's) is less white than the second and full of rich fruits and flavor.

The second I will give you tomorrow. It is the traditional white cake with creamy pound cake batter holding colorful globes of green and red cherries and chewy bits of pineapple, citron and almonds. The flavor is fine but it is the attractive appearance when sliced that is its best feature.

1960 White Christmas Fruit Cake Number One (off-white, rich with different fruits).

Note: this amount makes two standard-size loaf cakes— about 5 pounds. It is comparatively easy to assemble and make.

4 cups mixed diced fruitcake fruits (buy 2 packages of 8-oz. each); ½ cup chopped, pitted dates; ½ cup chopped dried apricots; ½ cup chopped figs (about 2 large moist figs); 2 cups light raisins (about 8-oz.) 4-oz. blanched almonds, slivered; 2 cups flaked coconut (4-oz.); 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour; 1½ teaspoons baking powder (single acting); 1 teaspoon salt; 1 cup shortening (best quality); 1 cup sugar; 1 teaspoon rum flavouring; 5 medium-large eggs; ½ cup unsweetened pineapple juice.

Mix the first packaged, diced fruitcake fruits (which include peels, cherries and candied pineapple) with dates, apricots, figs, raisins, almonds and coconut. Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder and salt; take out ½ cup of this flour mixture and toss it through the fruits. Reserve remaining flour mixture. Cream the shortening thoroughly using electric beater if desired, and gradually cream sugar into until both are light and fluffy. Add flavoring. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour mixture alternately with the pineapple juice, a third of each at a time. Stir in fruit mixture well. Pour into 2 standard-sized loaf pans which have been lined with foil or double heavy wax paper, and buttered. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 2¼ to 2¾ hours or until cake tests done at centre — having water pan in bottom of oven during entire baking period. Remove from pans. Cool thoroughly. Store well wrapped in foil in covered crock for a month or more.

Tomorrow: Traditional White Fruit Cake.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Harper Shaw

EXAMPLE COUNTS IN TRAINING CHILDREN

Too many parents seem to be completely oblivious of the fact that a small child's behavior is largely ruled by a "monkey-see, monkey-do" attitude. If Dad bangs his finger with the hammer, he should keep what he is thinking to himself. If he doesn't, he has only himself to blame if Junior bursts forth the next day with a choice cuss word. If Mother is always criticizing her friends when little Big Ears is around, is it any wonder that he can't understand why he too hasn't the right to comment on what he thinks about people? Usually at the wrong time, too, I might add.

This is borne out by an amusing (and embarrassing) episode that a friend of mine suffered recently. Walking down the street with her young son, age 4, she met the town's leading matron, who unfortunately is on the father overweight side. My friend stopped to chat. Meantime, young son was busily occupied in staring at the matron. Suddenly he grabbed his mother's skirt, looked up at her with a beatific smile, and announced for all the world to hear, "Gee, she's awful fat!"

What to do to curb these spontaneous outbursts? Of course they sometimes happen regardless of how careful you are. All mothers agree that spanking, washing the mouth out with soap, or putting their youngsters to bed without supper, doesn't do much to correct this perfectly natural instinct of the child to express himself.

Only by infinite patience and, above all, your own example, can it be made clear to a child that saying things that hurt others is very inconsiderate and unkind. Point out to him that he wouldn't like to have someone say he was too fat, or too thin, or ugly. Never, but never make critical remarks about your friends when he is around.

Another cross to bear is when Junior starts adding curse words to his vocabulary. Even if Dad is extremely careful not to be the cause, the child is bound to pick up a new word here and there. He doesn't understand what they mean. He just gets a thrill out of using grown-up sounding words.

Getting exciting about it and using stern measures to prevent him is the surest way of fixing the expression so firmly in his mind that he will continue to pop out with it, because he thinks it's smart. A quiet correction, with the comment that it really isn't funny, and then ignoring it, will usually result in his forgetting it pretty quickly.

Back to my firmly established belief! A parent's influence, and actions, are what make "Junior a good boy." He will adopt the habits of behavior in his home. His manners are bound to slip once in awhile, however, no matter how good the example. He wouldn't be human if they didn't. But if they slip too often, you parents better do a little soul searching!

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: What to do when you visit friends who have a dog and you know that within a few minutes you will be sneezing your head off? I love dogs but they don't love me! I am allergic to their hair. Do I just make a hasty retreat, or do I stick it out? I don't know how to cover up without being rude.

Miss J. P. W.—New York, N.Y.

Answer: Be frank with your hosts. Tell them of your affliction (and that is what it is) and ask if they would mind shutting the dog up while you leave. Only the most unfeeling host would take affront at your request.

Mr. V. F. — My son is 19 and a sophomore at college. You can be sure that if I say it's morning he'll say its evening. We never talk anymore, we just argue.

When he was small we used to have nice chats. We could talk about baseball, politics, pets, people — lots of things. Usually Jerry agreed with me. Even if he'd didn't he at least listened to me.

Suddenly I'm a complete ignoramus, I'm smart enough to support him, send him to college and give him spending money. But that's all. According to him, I don't know anything about life or women or religion or war or peace or segregation or anything important. All I know is paper boxes, my business. And maybe something about gardening, he admits.

I know lots of kids get real fresh when they get big. But Jerry is insulting and doesn't seem to know where to draw the line between disagreeing and baiting.

Jerry F. — Dad forgets that time marches on and he can't keep handing out that same old mollarkey forever. I've reached a point where I'm going to trip him up on it at every turn, until he starts to question it himself instead of just repeating statements he reads or hears.

Also, I'm trying to help him remember that I'm not 16 years old any more. Every once in a while he tries to play the heavy and stop me at the door. He asks me where I'm going and what time I'll be back. Sometimes I tell him and sometimes I don't. It's really none of his business.

Our latest battle is about my marks. I told him I think I'm failing two courses. He said I should give up my part in the Varsity Show and study harder. I tipped him off that I'll probably stay in the show and then quit college and join the Navy.

I don't want to hurt him all the time, but he really seems to be asking for it whenever he comes near me.

The Council: Disagreement can be a wholesome, energizing thing, provided it occurs in an atmosphere of mutual good will and respect. Jerry's arguing is counter-productive and it masks weakness which must be faced and dealt with. At present he is merely ploughing them under with fancy dialogue, possibly straight out of the Varsity Show.

Mr. F. may take comfort from the recent reminder by the President of Barnard College, Mrs. Millicent C. McIntosh, that the time to worry is when your young adults "do not disagree" with you! She asks for humility and understanding on both sides.

Jerry would be further benefited from seeing Jerry's outbursts as an extreme reaction to extreme fear. With the abatement of some of Jerry's worries may come a greater ability to be kind and fair.

His downgrading of his father is an age-old adolescent rite. A century ago Mark Twain said that when he was 14 his father was so ignorant he couldn't stand having him around, but when he was 21 he was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven short years.

It may take Jerry longer to see the

Dick Nixon Had Best Chance Of Staying Course But Opinion Polls Show Kennedy Winning

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — A year ago, public opinion polls showed that of the half-dozen-odd men likely to be picked as candidates for the presidency of the United States, Richard Milhous Nixon had the best chance of staying the course.

None of the other possible choices was as well known as Vice-President Nixon. And he had the valuable endorsement of President Eisenhower.

Also, he was better known overseas, having made nine official trips abroad as Eisenhower's representative.

But random indicators of opinion in the last month of the campaign showed that sentiment was swinging to Senator Kennedy and the Democrats.

FORGOTTEN MEN

Traditionally, except for the first 60 years of the republic, the vice-presidency has been a stepping stone to the White House only when a president dies in office. Otherwise, vice-presidents are the forgotten men of American politics; few people remember, for example, that Adlai Stevenson's grandfather of the same name was vice-president in the 1890s.

Sept. 24, 1955, marked a change in the picture. That was the day Eisenhower suffered a heart attack. Many of the presidential responsibilities, such as presiding over cabinet meetings, became Nixon's.

Again in June, 1957, when the president was put to bed with another illness, Nixon was moved to centre stage.

This has become one of the prime points in the Republican election campaign: Having held the tiller of the ship of state for a brief time while the captain was off deck, being privy to the secrets of the National Security Council, having experience in dealing with Premier Khrushchev and having helped shape cabinet decisions, Dick Nixon is best fitted to assume command in these troubled days.

HAVE BEEN TRAINING

Henry Cabot Lodge, Nixon's vice - presidential partner, has said the present is no time for "on-the-job training" in government. And Nixon says, Eisenhower "has been training us for seven years."

To observers familiar with the Washington scene, the 47-year-old Nixon has been impressive as a competent administrator who approaches the business of government with great application.

It is thought that he would conduct the presidency in much the same way as Eisenhower does, with perhaps more flair for political activity.

Nixon is said to read few books but can cheerfully plow through a stack of briefs that might dismay another man. His familiarity with the language of courts, chancelleries and bureaucrats began when he was a struggling lawyer in the small California town of Whittier shortly before the Second World War.

The Nixons were a Quaker family and Dick's father ran a grocery store in the town. The boy attended the local college run by Quakers and later studied at Duke University in North Carolina.

It was while practising law in Whittier that he met Thelma Catherine Ryan, a local high school teacher. Pat Ryan, as her father called her, spent a rugged early life in the western U.S. while the itinerant family prospected for gold or worked on vegetable farms. Her parents died when she was in her teens.

The lawyer and the teacher were married in 1940. They have two children, Tricia, 4, and Julie, 12. Nixon joined the navy in 1942 and spent most time in the Pacific hefping build airstrips for naval transport planes.

He decided to try politics after the war and won a seat in the House of Representatives in 1946, the same year that a young millionaire from Massachusetts, John Kennedy, entered Congress for the first time.

MADE HEADLINES

The Californian's name was soon in the headlines. A leading state department official, Alger Hiss, had been accused by former party member Whittaker Chambers of being a Communist. Hiss denied the charge.

Nixon, as a member of the un-American activities committee, pursued the case which finally resulted in the conviction of Hiss in 1950 on two counts. That he lied to a federal grand jury in 1948 when he said he never passed a state department document to Chambers; 2. That he never saw Chambers after Jan. 1, 1937.

Chambers produced five rolls of microfilm hidden in a pumpkin on his farm in Maryland, saying they were documents Hiss had given him in 1938.

Nixon's rapid rise was a direct result of his role in the Hiss case. He became a senator in 1950 and two years later his name was entered with Eisenhower's at the top of the Republican elected ticket.

As vice-president, Nixon has been the chief target of the opposition's barbs.

Democrats remember his talk of their group as the "party of treason" during the Hiss episode. They still use the label "Tricky Dicky" that first gained use in the 1950 and 1952 elections.

In the last eight years, President Eisenhower, elected with the aid of many nominally-Democratic votes, has escaped really vigorous criticism.

But if Nixon becomes president and if—as seems fairly likely—Congress continues under Democratic control, the opposition will almost certainly be as violent as Harry Truman experienced at the hands of the Republicans after the war.

And like Truman, Nixon could be expected to be rough in return.

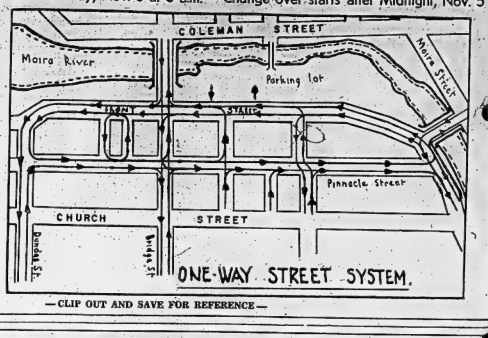
'Clericatures' Depict Ministers' Foibles

TORONTO — When the first humorous cartoon appeared in the United Church Observer, some five years ago, lightly lampooning the idiosyncracies of ministers, the artist, the Rev. Lawrence A. Purdy left his name off the cartoon.

But when, to the surprise of the church and the delight of the Observer editor, readers (including ministers) howled with delight at the cartoons and asked for more, artist-preacher Purdy eventually was persuaded to sign his cartoons.



Now the Ryerson Press has selected 62 of Purdy's best cartoons (out of 137 that have been published in The Observer) and published them under the novel name of "Clericatures." Present sales indicate that most United Church ministers (and some ministers of other communions) will find Purdy's book under their Christmas tree in December.

The man in the pew, too, is finding amusement in the kindly but sharp caricatures Purdy has created of his fellow ministers. One churchman said that the cartoons are almost as much to reveal the human characteristics of ministers.

Predict Nixon To Get Margin In Midwest

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Vice - President Richard Nixon will harvest a slight majority of the Midwest farm votes in the Nov. 8 U.S. presidential election, in the opinion of farm editors in a dozen important agricultural states.

The newspaper and farm magazine editors, polled by The Associated Press, reported substantial gains by Democratic Senator John F. Kennedy in many areas. But they made special note, in virtually every state, that the farmer doesn't call the shots anymore, even in the farm belt.

The editors found, moreover, that the problems of farm prices, farmers' income and crop controls, far from being a dominant factor in the Midwest's voting, are not the decisive issues even with the farmers themselves in many areas. In 1960, farmers are talking about international affairs, religion, the candidates' experience, and the overall domestic economy.

In those cases where the farm editors ventured opinions on how their states' electoral votes will be cast, as often as not it was opposite to the farmers' presumed preferences.

The following tally of farm sentiment therefore cannot be considered a hard forecast of how the states named will go Nov. 8:

NIXON

The Republican nominee was given the edge among farmers in six states with 97 electoral votes — Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, South Dakota, Kansas and Ohio. In none of those states did the editors consider the farm vote likely to be decisive.

KENNEDY

The Democratic candidate was rated ahead among farmers in five states with 44 electoral votes — Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Minnesota and North Dakota. Only in Nebraska did some editors believe the farm vote might have a decisive influence.

In the 12th state, Indiana, with 13 electoral votes, the editors' judgment was that the rural vote would split "fairly evenly."

Two in the election, a presidential candidate must capture at least 200 of the 537 votes in the electoral college. Generally, a candidate winning a majority of the popular votes in a state takes all of that state's electoral college votes.

The unpopularity of agriculture secretary Ezra Taft Benson with many farmers is a factor favoring the Democrats as it was in the last presidential election in 1956, the editors reported. But the two proposals of Nixon candidate in this campaign have generated any-great enthusiasm.

Open Beer Store In Goderich After 46 Years

GODERICH (AP)—A dry spell that lasted for 46 years ended Tuesday when the Brewers' Warehousing Company opened its first beer store in this Huron County town.

When those under construction in adjacent Perth County are completed, the last arid town in the old Canada Temperance Act of 1916 will have vendors.

The entire province now is under the Ontario Liquor Control Act.

Huron and Perth repealed the act in a plebiscite a year ago.

The act was passed by Parliament in 1878 and at one time was the rule book for 28 counties and two cities in Ontario alone. In 1890, following a trial period after which many areas voted out the act, local option provisions were brought into force under a provincial liquor act.

Early this century the prohibition sections of the old act were voted into force in Manitoulin, Huron, Perth and Peel counties. Manitoulin got rid of them in 1949 and Peel in 1951.

Dick and Pat Nixon Follow Stiff Schedule as Campaign For Presidency Nearing End

Harold Morrison, Canadian Press staff correspondent at Washington, travelled for a week with Republican Vice-President Richard Nixon. In this story, he describes a day in the campaign life of the U.S. presidential candidate.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH NIXON (CP) — The alarm on Richard Nixon's wristwatch sounded at 7:30 a.m. and the Republican presidential candidate stirred and called to his wife, Pat, in the adjoining bed.

This was near the end of Nixon's seventh week of campaigning for the U.S. presidency. The Nixons had just completed a whirlwind whistle - stop tour of seven midwestern states and had stopped for the night at the Blackhawk Hotel in Davenport near the eastern border of Iowa, about 140 miles west of Chicago.

Campaigning had been especially hard on Pat Nixon, but there was to be no let-up. They were to make a 105-mile motorcade tour of Chicago suburban communities and shopping centres, topped with an evening television show by the vice-president, then a pre-dawn flight to Washington.

By the time Nixon had showered and shaved, using a safety razor, his wife had slipped out of bed and looked over a grey woollen travel suit she would wear for the chilly motorcade. The vice-president picked a blue worsted suit with black shoes, white shirt and blue silk tie.

A knock on the door brought Maj. C. D. Hughes, Nixon's military aide, who conferred with the Nixons about his first meal. Nixon ordered orange juice, a plain omelet, bacon and coffee. Neither ate cream or sugar; neither smokes.

Nixon was in an optimistic mood.

Two nights before he had run into hecklers who had thrown eggs and tomatoes at him and Nixon had used such words as: CHATS WITH STAFF

But the night before, President Eisenhower had made a fighting television broadcast at Philadelphia, fully supporting Nixon and strongly attacking Democrat John Kennedy. Dick considered the speech the best the president ever had made.

Following breakfast, Pat worked on some letters in an adjoining room while Nixon conferred with his executive secretary, Rosemary Woods, and his press secretary, Herbert Klein.

Several hundred persons gathered outside the hotel. The Nixons stopped to say goodbye to the hotel staff, posed with the year-old twin girls and then drove some 20 miles to Davenport Airport for the trip to Chicago.

Several thousand persons were at the airport awaiting the takeoff. Nixon stopped to make a 20-minute speech on farm issues before he boarded the plane with a staff of 12.

Included were Fred Scribner Jr., undersecretary of the U.S. treasury, and Nixon's campaign chief who had been negotiating with Kennedy's advocates on a possible fifth television encounter between Nixon and Kennedy. Negotiations had broken down.

Also aboard was Dr. Gabriel Hauge, prominent economist and former close adviser to Eisenhower who now was busy preparing much of the speech material for Nixon.

Aboard the Convair were three chartered commercial planes wearing a corps of reporters, photographers and baggage for those aboard.

Nixon was running a little behind schedule. He arrived at Chicago's O'Hare Airport at 11:30 a.m., spoke to an airport crowd of some 8,000 on the peace issue and Eisenhower's Philadelphia speech and then started on the 105-mile motorcade.

The Nixons sat on the top of the back of an open convertible, Pat in Grey coat and Dick in brown topcoat. During parts of the trip, when the crowds weren't around, he donned a dark grey bombure.

At their first stop, Hillside Shopping Centre, the crowd was so thick the Nixons could barely get through to the speaker's stand. Nixon noticed a boy with a Hallowe'en sign and worked the Hallowe'en theme into his speech, saying Kennedy was using hobgoblin fears of recession to "scare up a few votes."

Pat, presented with red roses at every stop, hit on the idea of distributing the roses among the spectators around the car. They grabbed eagerly, even the petals and pieces of firm she tossed out when all the roses were gone.

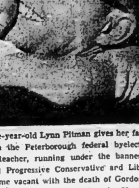
The motorcade now was running about 90 minutes behind schedule. There was no time to stop for lunch and packaged sandwiches were distributed to those in the motorcade. The Nixons shared a ham-and-cheese sandwich. They had nothing to drink.

At the next stop, Wheaton, Nixon drew a crowd estimated at some 35,000, made up largely of college students. He announced that former football great Red Grange was supporting him and spoke of social security problems, causing Kennedy to be supporting the Republican record.

The crowd thinned somewhat through the crowd. Nixon's hand was scratched by fervent handshakers. Cheers appeared along the road to the Southfield Shopping Centre where he spoke to some 10,000 and later at Park Forest where he drew a crowd estimated at between 25,000 and 50,000. He spoke from the roof of a one-story department store.

By 6:15 p.m. the Nixons had completed the afternoon suburban rallies and made their way to the Blackstone Hotel in downtown Chicago. The Republicans had made no effort to drum up crowds but spots of spectators showed up along the route.

After a brief suite, they dined lightly on salisbury steak and coffee. Nixon began working on his half-hour evening television show, aided by Health Secretary Arthur Flemming and staff.



Nixon kept an informal pose, speaking from the edge of a desk, without notes and summing up statements he had made earlier in the day.

After the show he held a 45-minute briefing conference for reporters, touching on plans for his final week of campaigning. The Nixons got to Chicago's Midway Airport at 11 p.m., and left immediately for Washington.

On the Convair the vice-president ate supper until 2:30 a.m., talking to Pat and to his staff. Pat lifted in some of the letters, reading a women's magazine.

Nixon had a bowl of tomato soup and a ham sandwich. Pat ate nothing. She seemed to have lost weight during the campaign. Her cigarette had waned. Doctors urged her to drink milkshakes as often as possible.

At 2:30 a.m., the Nixons climbed into two bunks rigged in the plane and slept until the last phase of the Washington leg began. Then they were awakened and driven to their suburban

Council Offers Cut Rates In Parking Fines

KINGSTON (CP) — City council is offering a cut rate in parking fines to remove some of the frustration for the motorist who returned to his car a minute or two after the metered time had finds a ticket on the windshield.

Under an amendment to the traffic bylaw which went into effect Tuesday, if the motorist can get the ticket to the police station within half an hour of the issuing time, he will pay only 25 cents instead of the regular $1 fine.

Council is offering no such bargain price, however, to drivers caught speeding to the station.

Pilots Request Public Inquiries Into Air Crashes

MONTREAL (CP)—John Gallagher, 29-year-old Trans - Canada Airlines pilot who heads the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association has called for public inquiries into air crashes as a more democratic method of investigation.

"We may know an accident was not result of pilot error but we have no way of proving it now," Capt. Gallagher said Tuesday at the CALPA convention.

Blame tended to fall on the shoulders of the pilot, he said.

"We've pilots dying every year, during the last four years and the government of transport has accepted the word of an onlooker against that of the pilot every time."

At present, the transport department conducts an official investigation and the airline involved usually makes one also. Once the cause is fixed, there can be no appeal.

"A pilot can be pronounced guilty in Canada by men who may only share in the guilt," Capt. Gallagher, director of CALPA's safety committee said, URGES DRUG USE

He also recommended that pilots be put under hydnotic or sodium pentathol and questioned within 48 hours of a crash before "officials can clog up their mind as to what happened."

Pilots usually had difficulty recalling routine details after an accident, but drugs or hypnosis would help complete recollection and possibly provide clues to the cause.

"These CALPA pilots have been appointed accident investigators by the association and will speed to the scene of future accidents. They had taken special courses at the University of Southern California for the day.

"The association is a 965-member group which set up in 1946 and is under and a professional body.

Bomarc Builder, Heading 1,600 Utah Missile Workers, Says Weapon Will Do Work

By JERRY O'BRIEN

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—One May day last year Donald Kennilton Tasker — aviation pioneer, successful industrialist, boss of 1,600 Utah missile workers—took stock of himself and decided he was just too big a man for his own good.

It was an obvious decision: He weighed 370 pounds, was known as the most prodigious mammal in the missiledom and a most unlikely-looking producer of the Marquardt Corporation's sleek ramjet engine for the supersonic Bomarc.

With the same zeal that made him a leader in an exacting profession, Tiny Tasker tackled the problem of his monumental girth.

In 14 months he shed 175 pounds and today stands a svelte trim 195 at 6-2, a heroic figure to Marquardt men and women already awed by his mutual dimensions.

But while the diet reduced the burden on his feet, it did nothing for the weight he shouldered as manager of a $30,000,000 plant involved in the vagaries of defence production.

The Bomarc—named, for the Boeing Airplane Company, which makes the frame, and the Michigan Aero Research Centre, an early ramjet designer — is intended to do only one thing—shoot down manned enemy bombers. Canada is building two Bomarc bases.

BOMARC BLUES

To some planners, the manned bomber is a passe threat. There were fearsgat Ogden last spring that Congress wouldn't approve the $244,500,000 recommended for Bomarc, that the program would go the way of the buggy whip.

To combat the gloom in his plant, Tiny Tasker ordered keep-smiling rallies and predicted Bomarc would stay "when the truth is known."

For him, the truth came from Lt.-Gen. Thomas White, air force chief of staff told the Senate: "In my opinion the manned bomber will be a threat for another decade at least."

Enough money has now been allocated to keep the program going through the third quarter of 1962. After that, Marquardt and Tasker will have to explore other things to produce.

Tasker was born in New England and weighed more than 200 pounds as a Dartmouth freshman beat on a career in medicine.

TOOK UP PILOTING

But when a pal quit and took up flying, Tasker also decided to become a pilot.

When the depression made jobs hard to get, Tasker went back to college to learn more about aeroplanes, mastered courses simultaneously at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard, then took off again as a pilot and field engineer.

In 1940 he joined Republic Aircraft and in 1943 was sent overseas as a chief civilian technician.

In a Nazi ramjet buzz bomb sputtering across London skies, Tasker saw his future—and it almost knocked him down as he walked in Grosvenor Square on an August night in 1944. Republic assigned him to scour the countryside and gather pieces of the new German propulsion system for closer scrutiny.

Four years ago he left his executive position with Republic to join the Marquardt Corporation.

At 52, he puts in 13-hour days and runs the plant with a quiet voice, firm-hand policy. It's said he can personally operate every machine at Marquardt but the typewriters.

Roy Marquardt needs-such do-it-yourself executives. He-is one himself and more than 35 per cent of his 3,300 employees are scientists, engineers or skilled technicians.

With 1959 sales of $60,000,000, Marquardt Corp. now devotes 65 per cent of its effort to the Bomarc. Marquardt obviously feels that's the much, and is moving into other fields. But whatever the company's future, the ramjet will propel it.

Ramjets have no moving parts, are carefully contoured pipes open at both ends. As they move through the atmosphere, air rammed through the front end is heated near the centre by combustion of fuel. The hot gasses accelerate out the nozzle at the rear to provide thrust.

In its inexpensive simplicity lies its major weakness. It does nothing standing still and must be boosted into motion by a rocket. But on its own at 2,000 m.p.h., the ramjets may be the most efficient of all air-breathing propulsion systems, could possibly be practical at 6,000 m.p.h.

RAMBLER AMERICAN CUSTOM 4 DOOR SEDAN

TAKE A GOOD LOOK at this one because its design is here to stay—without annual styling changes. This up-to-date policy is part of Rambler's new formula for the times we live in. It means that 12 months from now your 1961 American will not be obsolete and that depreciation costs will be drastically cut.

It also means that future improvements will not be superficial but genuine advancements that have been thoroughly tested and proven to be of practical use to you, the driver. As an example of this kind of improvement, the 1961 Rambler offers the world's first Ceramic-Armoured Muffler and Tailpipe that are guaranteed for the life of the car during original ownership. And this is only 1 of 46 practical, worthwhile improvements that make the '61 Rambler American an adventure in driving pleasure at realistic transportation price—backed up by 12,000 mile or 12 month warranty, whichever comes first.

In establishing this up to date design, trunk space has been increased by 50%, there is more glass area, and without increasing wheelbase the American is more compact, making driving in heavy traffic, parking and turning easier than ever before. All those accomplishments are a direct result of Rambler's 11 years experience in compact car design.

In the economy department, Rambler American remains unbeaten. This king of economy runs not only tempts you with low initial cost but keeps its value better than any other North American car. Try this new formula for modern driving soon—at your Rambler dealer's.

Is Motherhood Bar Against Deportation?

OTTAWA (CP) — If a woman enters Canada in a visa and has a child here, can this change her status in that of an immigrant?

In listening to argument on this point Tuesday, the Supreme Court of Canada heard that making motherhood a defence against deportation could open Canada's immigration doors to prostitutes, homosexuals and persons suspected of treason and espionage.

The statement was made by D. S. Maxwell of the federal justice department.

The court reserved decision.

The case involves an appeal by 29-year-old Mrs. Yuet Sun Louie, daughter of Ottawa food merchant Harry Toy, against an Ontario Appeal Court ruling upholding an immigration department decision ordering her deportation to Hong Kong.

Mrs. Louie, leaving her husband and two sons in Hong Kong, entered Canada on a non-immigrant visa in December, 1957, to visit her father. She gave birth to a son here the following August and the child automatically became a Canadian citizen.

SMILING WINNER — Judy LaMarsh is all smiles as she learns of her victory in the Niagara Falls byelection. The 35-year-old lawyer held the riding for the Liberals, defeating Progressive Conservative and New Party opponents. She is shown with Jack Burnett, her campaign manager. (AP Wirephoto).

Attendance Casey Ketcheson, W. Yeterman, Ernest Curtis and W. A. Jeffery attended the President's Banquet and tea on Wednesday.

Mrs. Bruce Copeland returned home after visiting her sister, Mrs. William McInerney of Toronto who has been ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Sadler of Frankford.

The Brownies and Girl Guides practised at Bayside School, on Saturday afternoon for their Christmas concert.

The Girl Guides had a doughnut sale on Saturday to earn money to carry on their work.

As Sunday was layman's Sunday the local men assisted the Rev. Roy Rickard B.A. in the service. Mr. Frank Sandercock was in charge of the service while Mr. Arnold Ketcheson read the Scripture. Ephesians 6:10-20. Mr. Erwin Hart of Century United Church, reported on the men's conference at Elm Lodge, on Pidgeon Lake, north of Peterborough, where they met for 3 days for discussions and study of the Bible. The choir contributed, "He Hideth My Soul", accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Jeffery as pianist

Next Sunday, Sunday School will be at 1.30 at White's Church with a Remembrance Day service following at 2.30.

APPEAL RULING

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario College of Pharmacy appealed Monday against a judgment by Mr. Justice E. G. Moorehouse that it acted beyond its jurisdiction in cancelling Murray Rubin's registration as a pharmacy operator. The college holds that Mr. Rubin was not an operator within the meaning of the Pharmacy Act because he lacked necessary equipment and stocks, and was not open at reasonable hours.

Polaris base." Large numbers of pacifists stage an annual anti-nuclear march to the British nuclear weapons research centre at Aldermaston.

Dr. Andrew Hood, former mayor of Glasgow, said several organizations were getting up petitions and that he expected expressions of feeling against the base from all over the west of Scotland in the next two weeks.

Labor MPs were reported to have drafted a motion objecting to the Polaris base, demanding removal of U.S. bases from Britain and criticizing Britain's defence expenditures as being too high.

The Daily Mail said "few will wish to salute the happy morn" when the first U.S. depot ship arrives in February.

The Daily Sketch commented: "The fact that Britain is to become a U.S. atom-sub park—with geiger counters instead of parking metres — is only half the worry. It is painfully easy to foresee incidents involving Polaris submarines which will make the recent U-2 affair look like child's play."

The Times said the base would not make Britain any more of a target than it already is but noted Britain can have no physical control over the submarines while they are at sea.

Britain already is host to U.S. rocket bases.

The Scotsman commented: "For objectors to Polaris there is no stopping-point short of complete pacifism."

McFarlands Pull Out Of OHA Hockey

Welland 'Out' Forces Action

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

GALT, Ont. — Sickened and disgusted by another "Welland withdrawal" the Belleville McFarlands withdrew from the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League here last night.

McFarlands' manager Keith MacDonald, and Coach Gordie Bell, jointly announced they would seek entry in the Quebec senior league as "play outlaw" in the Ottawa Valley League.

The announcement followed a telephone call from OHA eastern division convener Lorne Cook that Welland "had dropped out again" after announcing a few days ago their intention to re-enter.

The Welland decision was released to the Galt and Belleville officials following a scheduled eastern division group game here won by the Galt Terriers 6-4.

Angry Galt officials stated they would demand the OHA to call a meeting and take punitive action against the Welland club.

Adding to the McFarlands' cup of bitterness was the fact Whitby Dunlop star Pete Babando, acquired by them for the season suffered a fractured thumb in the first minute of play of the game.

WILL PLAY FRIDAY

Executive members of the Galt Terriers stated they would play the scheduled game with the McFarlands in Belleville Friday night.

Manager MacDonald and Coach Bell said monies paid by season ticket holders of the Macs would be refunded at the Bill Cook's Tobacco Store. A nominal sum will be charged for Friday night's game with the Terriers.

"I am fed up and disgusted with the Welland actions and those of the OHA" Bell said. "This is the second or third time they have withdrawn from the league and nothing has been done about it. This time we are through."

"Neither Galt or Oakville or the McFarlands want to operate in a three-team circuit," Bell said bitterly, "And the western Ontario clubs won't play inter-locking games. So we are out."

PLAYERS ANGRY

The Welland announcement according to a Canadian Press story read "despite the sincere efforts of the Warriors executive to maintain senior hockey in Welland they brought somewhat unfavorable reception from the press, the people and even some of the sponsors, it is the opinion of the executive that they will discontinue negotiations for re-entering the senior league".

Irate players of both the Macs and Terriers milled around arena corridors here after the Welland announcement. Some voicing the opinion that Welland should be barred from organized hockey. Others wanted a full OHA investigation.

The game which may be only an exhibition affair, saw the better-conditioned Galt Terriers and "Dutchmen" outplay the hard-trying Macs before a slim crowd of a little over 1,000 fans. It was stated that a Toronto radio station announcement to the effect the game had been cancelled resulting in the small attendance.

FEW ROUGH SPOTS

The Macs showed a lot of rough tools, their passing and timing was off and they were weak in front of the enemy net. At that they gave a good account of themselves at times despite the fact Senior in goal kicked out forty shots as against 17 by "Boat" Hurley at the other end.

Lou Senke with two goals and two assists led the Macs in the score column with "Wiener" Brown getting a goal and three assists. Roy Partridge scored the fourth marker and had a helper as did Lamirande and the Hildebrand.

Ab "Butch" Martin, Joe Hogan, Pete Kowalchuk, Don McKnight, Willie Wylie and Gene Miller scored for the Terriers.

The teams battled to a one-all tie in the first period with Galt scoring three to the Macs pair in the second. The Belleville club tied it up early in the third heat but goals by Kowalchuk and Wylie proved to be the undoing for the Terriers in the third.

There was a lot of shoving and pushing but little hard bumping in a game that opened up at times. Both clubs missed several chances from close in. Senior was brilliant at times in the Macs goals.

Ab Martin tied the score after Brown scored in the first period and the Macs went in front from Smrke's goal early in the second. The Terriers answered on two flukey counters, McKnight's shot hitting three sticks before going in and Martin's shot deflecting off Tilterson's stick.

Partridge tied it up but Miller put the Terriers out in front before the period ended. Smrke's second goal again tied the score after three minutes of the third heat but the Terriers' extra condition told off and they bemmed the Macs in to score twice and wrap 'it up. The Belleville team rallied in the dying minutes and Colvin narrowly missed cutting the margin.

Six penalties were handed out, four of them to the McFarlands.

Lineups:

BELLEVILLE: Senior, Lamirande, Botley, Tilterson, Hildebrand, Colvin, Mulholland, Smrke, Brown, Babando, Partridge, Toppazini and Bukachevich.

GALT: Hurley, Vasey, Sly, Miller, Wylie, Keeling, McKnight, Carroll, J. Hogan, A. Martin, Kowalchuk, Mercer, Wylie, Halstead, Maki.

Referee: Gerry Olinski, Kitchener; linesmen: Bill Breithaur, Don Riddell.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

It won't be long now. Trigger fingers are getting itchy. Venison appetites are whetted. The deer-hazing machinery is already in motion, and hundreds of nimrods are awaiting opening day.

And just to settle those cracker-barrel arguments—and this is official—the open season for deer in the Tweed Forestry district commences on Monday, Nov. 7th.

Let's get it straight.

The district has been divided again into two sections. There is a two-week season in the northern section and a one-week season in the southern part.

There is no open season for deer south of Number Two Highway.

The northern section is that part of the district north of Highway No. 7, through the counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington and to Highway No. 28 at Sharbot Lake in Frontenac County. East of Highway No. 28 from Sharbot Lake to the intersection of county road No. 8 at Godfrey. North of county road No. 8 from Godfrey to where it intersects the boundary of Frontenac County at Westport.

The southern section is south of this line and north of Number Two Highway. Here as in the northern section the season commences Nov. 7, but for one week only.

There will be an open season for moose in the northern section only during the regular deer season... But hunters must get a special "deer-moose" licence, the fee, $25.00. This licence entitles the hunter to shoot either a deer or a moose. Not BOTH. The special licences are available through the Department of Lands and Forests offices or conservation officers.

Department officials state the deer population looks to be as good as last year. Spring surveys did not show any startling results of a die-off. They will, however, to make follow-up checks this fall to determine winter effects on fawn crops. They want to examine as many deer as possible through check points at Arnprior, Kaladar and Eldorado. Hunter co-operation is urgently requested.

The department also requests all "deer-moose" licence holders to return the form at the bottom of the licence. Also, and this is important, the lower jaw of all moose shot.

They also urge care in handling firearms. They request hunters to be sure of their target and know where the bullet is going.

Failing to positively identify game or mistaking other hunters for game has caused more fatalities than any other form of hunting accident, since the intent is to kill. Many such accidents occur at dusk when it is difficult to see. It is illegal to shoot after a half hour beyond sunset.

Anxiety to obtain game often outweighs the common sense considerations of law observance, good sportsmanship and regard for others in the woods. The hunter can correct this and many other causes of hunting accidents and should do so for his own benefit.

Thirty-five per cent of the accidents are caused by hunters in the age group from 15 to 20 years: Members of this group are legally entitled to a hunting licence if they meet safety requirements, but lack of experience shows up as a major cause of accidents.

Another 35 per cent can be attributed to the group ranging from 21 to 40 years of age. This group comprises the highest proportion of all hunters in the field and includes a relatively higher proportion of big game hunters.

A common cause of accidents is failure of the hunter to thoroughly understand the mechanism of his gun or to properly respect it. Failure to remove the last cartridge, climbing fences, leaning loaded weapons against cars, boats, defective weapons and running with loaded guns have contributed to the Ontario hunting toll of nine in 1960 from January 1 to the Thanksgiving weekend.

Hunting is as safe as the hunter makes it.

"We Put Them In" 'And We'll Put 'Em Out,' Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP) — Calgary Stampeders, on the eve of probably their most important game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union season, went to the movies.

This relaxing approach is possibly the reason they are in the two-game, total-points semi-final series against Edmonton Eskimos.

"We put 'em in the playoffs (during the last two meetings of the regular season between the clubs) and it's up to us to put them out."

About 19,000 fans are expected to take in tonight's game. The weatherman predicts a clear sky with just a nip in the air.

LONG WINTER

Much of the area of Labrador is snow-covered from about September to June.

Licked Archie, Named Fighter Of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Italy's Giulio Rinaldi today was named fighter of the month by Ring Magazine for his upset decision over world light - heavyweight champion Archie Moore in their non-title bout in Rome last Saturday.

The handsome 23-year-old Italian champion was boosted to second spot from among fifth contenders in the 175 - pound division in Ring's latest monthly rankings.

Scotland's Chic Calderwood was promoted to No. 1 contender because of the inactivity of Philadelphia's Harold Johnson, demoted to third from first. Germany's Eric Schoeppner also is lowered for idleness — to fourth from third.

Only Canadian to show in the ring ratings is Bob Cleroux of Montreal. Canadian heavyweight champion. He is ranked seventh among the contenders for Floyd Patterson's title.

Oakdale Pro To Play Gold Trail

TORONTO (CP) — George Knudson's friends at Oakdale Golf and Country Club decided their 23-year-old assistant pro and 1960 Ontario open champion should be able to play the winter gold trail for the entire season this year, and they did something about it.

Knudson Tuesday night was presented with a donation from club members to help him complete the circuit through the United States.

Rule Book Error Cause For Protest

TORONTO (CP)—A minor rule book mistake has resulted in a protest being lodged with the Ontario Hockey Association over Sunday's Junior A game between Toronto St. Michael's Majors and Hamilton Red Wings. Hamilton won 4-3.

Rookie referee Bill Brethour, 21, mistakenly gave Major Terry O'Malley a two - minute penalty after Red Wings' Nelli Forth had missed a penalty shot. OHA teams play under CAHA rules, and rule 31(B) now states:

"Should a goal be scored by a penalty shot, a minor penalty shall not be imposed, but all other penalties shall be imposed, regardless of whether a goal is scored or not. If a goal is not scored, no minor penalty shall be imposed." The rule formerly read:

"If a goal is not scored, the minor penalty shall be imposed."

OHA referee - in - chief C. P. (Pat) Paterson, said that Brethour made an honest mistake.

Red Wing coach Eddie Bush, upon receiving a copy of the St. Mike's protest letter, said "We should have won the game anyway the way we were playing."

Riders Will Seek Help From League

REGINA (CP)—The executive of Saskatchewan Roughriders Tuesday night accepted the resignation of head coach Ken Carpenter, recommended that R. A. Kramer take over as president and decided to seek increased financial assistance from the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Carpenter, who had signed a one-year contract last December, tendered his resignation to club president Morris Wessel and it was accepted at the general meeting of the executive, effective at once.

A six-year Rider veteran as a halfback and end and a former Cleveland Browns star, Carpenter, 34, had initiated three weeks ago that he wouldn't be back next year. It is believed that he will accept an assistant coaching position with Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Riders finished in the cellar for the second straight year, getting two wins and two ties in 16 starts.

Kramer, president of the league this year, was president of the Riders in 1951-52-53.

Club officials did not discuss the man they had in mind to succeed Carpenter as head coach.

Buffalo Bisons Defeat Quebec Aces 4-2

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Frankie Eddolls of Buffalo apparently knew what he was doing when he named veteran Phil Maloney captain of the Bisons on the eve of the American Hockey League opener four weeks ago.

The graying 39-year-old veteran of 13 professional seasons scored all four goals in Buffalo's 4-2 victory over Quebec Aces Tuesday night. It was the circuit's only game.

Maloney tallied once in the opening period, twice in the second and put the final goal in the third. Mauril Morrissette and Jackie Leclair scored for the Aces.

The triumph lifted the Bisons into fourth place, two points behind Quebec and Cleveland, who are deadlocked for the runner-up position.

PLAYED IN NHL

Maloney played in the National Hockey League with various teams, including a stint last year with the Chicago Black Hawks.

But most of his career has been spent in the minors—the AHL, the Western Hockey League and the old Quebec Hockey League.

Last year in 46 games with Buffalo he fired 21 goals and collected 41 assists for 62 points.

He won the WHL scoring championship with Vancouver in 1955-56 and also grabbed the league's most valuable player award. His point total that season was 95.

TAYLOR FILLY WINS

BIRMINGHAM (CP)—A Canadian-bred two-year-old won a race at Birmingham Tuesday. Miss Bahama, a bay filly owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, finished first a head before Moon Mist in a six-furlong event in which 21 fillies ran.

Golden Gaels Must Watch Tom Skypeck

KINGSTON (CP) — Coach Frank Tindall of Queen's University Golden Gaels said Tuesday his club will have to stop big Tom Skypeck and his pinpoint passing Saturday to beat McGill Redmen for top honors in the Senior Intercollegiate Football League.

Queen's, which had a narrow 27-26 win over McGill in the season's opener, is on top of the league with eight points and only one game remaining in the regular season. A victory over second-place McGill would clinch the title.

A win by McGill would force a two-team playoff, a system abandoned last year in favor of an Eastern Bowl final replaced by Redmen's kingpin this year. His passing record tops the league.

The Queen's men on the spot Saturday will be the deep backs-

—Pete Quinn, Mike Petill and Kent Plumbley, all with fast moves and hard running by defensive ends John de la Vergne, Pete Thompson and Dave Scrimshine pan out. Queen's will capture their first league title since the days of Ron Stewart.

Kuenn Signs

CLEVELAND (AP)—Outfielder Harvey Kuenn didn't waste any time signing his 1961 baseball contract with Cleveland Indians.

Cleveland general manager Frank Lane said today Kuenn came to terms last week. He did not disclose terms but said Kuenn is one of the club's highest paid players.

Kuenn, 1959 American League batting champion, led the Indians with a .308 average for 125 games last season.

TO PILOT RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Carl Ernest, who had piloted Columbus, Ohio, Jets for the last two seasons, was named Tuesday to manage Richmond's International League baseball team next season. Ernest, 36, succeeds Steve Souchock as skiper of New York Yankee's class AAA farm club.

Rod Gilbert Tops Junior Points Race

TORONTO (CP)—With the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series under way and the scoring statistics compiled, a familiar name heads the list of top point-getters.

Rod Gilbert, right wing ace for Guelph Royals who led the scoring parade up until the last few weeks of the schedule last season, has moved out in front again this term.

Official statistics released Tuesday show Gilbert has scored five goals and three assists for eight points in his club's two games.

Neil Forth of Hamilton Red Wings is second with five goals and two assists for seven points, closely followed by Toronto Marlboros' first-string line of Howie Menard, Rickie Hay and Gary Jarrett, each with six points.

Lakes and streams, furnishing an important commercial fishery, cover almost 27,000 square miles in Manitoba.

TORONTO (CP) — Managing director Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts said Tuesday Argos will play the first game of the two-game total-point Big Four Football Union played final away from home on Saturday, Nov. 12. Second game will be in Toronto either Sunday, Nov. 19, or Sunday, Nov. 20.

Hayman said he will schedule the final game Nov. 20 if television arrangements can be made with the CBC. Argos, five-place Hamilton, have the privilege—if deciding final series venues.

The sudden-death semi-final between the second-place Ottawa Rough Riders and third - place Montreal Alouettes will be played at Ottawa this Saturday.

'Quit?' Says Archie

'Man, I've Just Begun!'

ROME (AP) — Archie Moore, Tuesday chuckled off his first defeat in four years and said, "Quit for the ring? Man, I've just begun fighting!"

The ageless Archie, crowding 44 or 50, but still recognized in most parts of the world as the light - heavyweight champion, said:

"I'm going back to the salt mines (that's what he calls his ranch) near San Diego, Calif., and I'm going to lock the doors, and I'm going back into training all over again."

"And when I come out," he said, "I'll be a brand new fighter —young enough and in shape enough to best any of them."

Moore was, fat and low at 190½ pounds when he lost a unanimous decision Saturday night in a 10-round non-title fight with Italy's light heavyweight champion, Giulio Rinaldi. The light heavy limit is 175 pounds.

Toronto Team Enters League

PORT HOPE (CP)—Toronto Macedonians, formerly of the East Toronto Hockey League, were accepted into the Lakeshore Intermediate League at a meeting here Tuesday. The league, which opens Nov. 21, also includes Bowmanville, Cobourg, Orono, Oshawa, Port Hope, Lindsay and Trenton RCAF.

Lakefield was refused admission.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Tall Chief II, a grey horse owned by Max Bell of Calgary, won the featured Sweepstaff Purse at New Woodbine Tuesday.

Tall Chief, ridden by Jack Arterburn, cut the final corner on the grass course as he rushed from seventh place to defeat Mr. Rooster by two lengths. Tadoussac was third, another two lengths behind Mr. Rooster.

Tall Chief paid $6.80, $4.30 and $3.20 as he covered the distance in 1.46 3-5 over a track which had absorbed heavy rains.

Just Water ($22.50) and Laurslane ($17.20) won the first two races and combined for a daily double of $178.30.

QB Discovers New Way To Hold Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill Hardy has discovered a new way to consolidate his first-string quarterbacking job at George Washington University — control the coach.

Coach Bill Elias, who has tossed and turned between Hardy and Frank Ziagalis all season, has started quarterback for the 1960 football season, said Tuesday. Hardy will open against Richmond here Friday night. Then he recounted an incident in his team's 20-6 shocker over the Air Force Academy last Saturday.

"We have a signal for the quarterback to let us know when he's shaking off the coach. He taps his helmet with his hand if he calls a different play from the one we send in.

"We had the ball on the air force 30 and I shot in a man with instructions to call a trap play. Hardy taps his helmet. He takes off on a hootleg and gains 20 yards.

"I'm smart!"

Royals Lose To Hull 4-1; Kingston Wins

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It seems that the Montreal Forum is tailored to measure for the visitors in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Montreal Royals Tuesday night suffered their fifth straight defeat on their home rink — this most parts of the world as the light - heavyweight champion, said:

The Royals dumped the Royals into the league cellar while the former undergogs, Kingston Frontenacs edged Sault Ste. Marie 5-4 to climb into a fourth-place tie with the Thunderbirds.

Canadiens, stretching their magic at the top end of the standings six points over Kitchener, added to a first-period lead of 3-0 with marksmen Willie O'Ree and Billy Carter.

GOALIE OFF BALANCE

As Royals goalie Charlie Hodge lost balance, Aut John Annable stretched the score to 3-0. Jean - Claude Tremblay scored Hull-Ottawa's fourth.

Royals' tally came on a 30-footer from Roger Sawicki, with assists from Lalu Denis and John Longarini.

A melee developed in the second period behind the Royals' goal after Guy Black and Canadiens' Bob Eliett collided. Within seconds the rink area was strewn with gloves and sticks.

Roger Maris And Robinson Win Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Robinson of Cincinnati Redlegs and Roger Maris of New York Yankees won major league slugging championships in 1960, official averages showed today.

Robinson was the first Cincinnati player to capture the National League title in 42 years. Figures compiled by The Associated Press show that Robinson had a slugging mark of .595. He had 276 total bases in 464 times at bat. Among Robinson's 138 hits were 31 doubles, six triples and 31 home runs.

Maris took the American League crown with a .581 average. The Yankee outfielder accumulated 290 total bases in 499 at bats. He had 141 hits, including 18 doubles, seven triples and 39 homers.

The averages are computed by adding total bases accumulated on all hits and dividing the aggregate by the number of official times at bat.

PLAN TO QUIT BASEBALL

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Owners of the Dallas-Fort Worth franchise in the American Association announced Tuesday they no longer will seek a major league berth and will get entirely out of baseball if a satisfactory purchaser of their properties comes forward. Rebuffed in their efforts to get into the American League last week, J. W. Bateson of Dallas and Amon Carter Jr. of Fort Worth issued a statement to this effect.

Giants Prove Resounding Flop In Japan Tour

TOKYO (AP) — The barnstorming San Francisco Giants have proved a resounding flop in Japan thus far as representatives of major league baseball.

The Giants, fifth-place finishers in this year's National League race, have been playing 10 minor leaguers, handicapped by Japanese pitching, missing fly balls and running bases like novices.

In eight games on their 16-game exhibition tour of the Giants have won only four, lost three and tied one. Against Japanese pitching, at best minor leaguers, the so-called powerhouse lineup has scored only 21 runs.

The Giants have committed 13 errors, including one by the great Willie Mays who let an easy fly drop out of his glove. Except for Mays' underestimated Japanese pitching, especially the pinpoint control and breaking stuff that hurlers have throw to make up for lack of speed.

Claims Game By Default

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Coach Gus Cifelli of Port Huron-Detroit Raiders claimed the Ontario Rugby Football Union playoff opener by default Tuesday night after London Lords opposed the match.

Cifelli said his team arrived at the city's Labatt Park Tuesday night expecting the game to go ahead.

Earlier Lords president Ken Lemon had postponed the game to Thursday night after the public utilities commission said the field was too muddy for play.

Cifelli, however, said the Raiders will not be able to play Thursday.

Cifelli said he was not told of the postponement until 11:30 a.m. Tuesday. He claimed the deadline for postponing games is 10:30 a.m.

The Lords and the Raiders are scheduled to play a two-game, total-points series for the Senior ORFU championship.

CBC Radio Knocking Off Seven Major Daytime Series

By CYNTHIA LOWAY

NEW YORK (AP)—Just when most of us who still enjoy listening to good radio have had it, the most reconciled ourselves to using the boob-the-picture-tube merely for early morning and late - evening time checks, weather reports and half - hour news reports there come heartening signs that we may be a new, happy trend emerging in radio programming.

At a recent session on radio held by the National Association of Broadcasters in Omaha, a Kentucky broadcaster, F. Ernest Lackey of WHOP, Hopkinsville, expressed belief that during the next decade, "good" radio stations would expand their services to the listener, "while the TNT —time, news, temperature—rock-'n'-rollers fade from the scene."

COULD BE WRONG

Could be that Lackey is wrong in his trend-spotting because on Nov. 25 CBS-radio inaugurates a major overhauling of its daytime schedule which knocks off seven daytime series — six of them venerable soap operas but still talk — and replaces them with five "consumer interest" programs, sportscasts and more on-the-hour news shows, then throws the rest of the time back to its local stations where a lot of them will fill the minutes with music.

It's not that news, weather reports and time checks are unwelcome additions to any schedule, it's that concentration of record-playing. It may be good business to play and replay the top 40 tunes, but when one is in a car or busy around the house — or weeding in the garden with a transistor set at hand—one often longs for the good old days of good talk, interview and leisurely discussion shows.

Win Streak Cut Short

VICTORIA (CP) — Victoria Cougars cut short Calgary Stampeders' winning streak in the WHL Tuesday at three games apiece with a nifty 4-2 victory on the strength of rookie Bert Fisher's three goals.

The result pushed Cougars into a four-way tie for second place two points behind the pace-setting Edmonton Flyers.

Scoring for Cougars' scoring were defencemen Jim Hay, Pat Ginnell and Don Wilson. Calgary's goals came from Jim Brown, Ed Van Impe and veteran Wally Hergesheimer.

Hergy's goal came with 27 seconds remaining in regulation time and after Calgary had pulled goalie Lucien Deckene in favor of a sixth attacker.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3

General Tendencies: The day-time finds you with real ingenuity and resourcefulness to put practical ideas across in a very merchandisable fashion so that all who come in contact therewith will be able to benefit as well as yourself. Tonight, study new methods for advancing, progressing. Double check all statements for errors.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —A close relative can give you excellent advice today that will help you to increase your income appreciably. Follow it quickly. P.M. handle important insurance matters wisely. Make better plans so that loved one will be happy.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Show a clever partner how much you appreciate any clever ideas given and be sure to follow them for quick and successful results, though it may require travelling some. P.M. don't be gruff or short with loved one. Gentility is vital to both.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Secret manoeuvrings are necessary today so that you get the support of higher-ups who can be of real assistance in career or personal life. P.M. take the health treatments that you need. Then take it easy, retire early.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — While you are very enthusiastic about going after what you most desire, it seems that hardly anyone is co-operative or friendly. Help on own's resourcefulness. P.M. do not go out socially unless it is absolutely necessary. Be cautious.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — During the day you will get support from a person you expect highly. Also, follow any suggestions given with alacrity as misunderstanding may occur with clan over a near corner. Be tactful and avoid argument.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A dynamic associate wants to introduce you to worthwhile individuals or open the way to new and fascinating outlets. Be sure you accept. P.M. do not make any radical changes on the spur of the moment. Study will well.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Now is the time to handle that problematic affair wisely, when higher-up is enthused and insistent. Become more successful. P.M. don't be extravagant. Be good to loved one.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — An associate who is very practical gives fine ideas for ameliorating personal or public relationships. Follow them quickly. Be sure this evening you do not argue with other associates or closest of kin.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You can accomplish a great deal during A.M. and please higher-ups or those whom you love. Be careful tonight that you are not extravagant and incur the displeasure of loved one or mate. Be economical.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) —The ideal day to get out to some place with lovely surroundings in the company of partner. Indulge in favorite hobby. Be happy. P.M. take care to do nothing to injure prestige you now enjoy. Think before you speak or act.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —Plan how you are going to make needed repairs at residence, then follow through quickly and cleverly. P.M. be sure that whatever contact you have with relatives will be for the interest of loved ones at home.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you are affectionate with those whom you truly admire and love, you can easily get their whole-hearted support and co-operation. Write to those out of daily reach. Then sit down and make practical plans for the future.

If Your Child is Born Today—he, or she, will be of that genre of people who will study very deeply into almost everything and then get so bogged down with details that very little can be accomplished because of too intense planning. So, it behooves you to early teach your youngster to get knowledge into practice, otherwise it is of little value. Once your youngster learns to act quickly, then this chart is especially fine for a business career where much success is assured.

FLOATING MYSTERY

WHEATHLEY (CP)—Jack St. Captain of a fishing boat operating out of this Lake Erie harbor, has reported finding a pink balloon with what appeared to be a Korean banknote tied to it floating in the lake. Mr. St. John said he found the balloon Sunday as he was returning to the harbor after setting his nets. The note was inscribed "100 won, Bank of Korea," he said.

Lenient Liquor Laws Provide More Income

TORONTO (CP)—A New York city tourist official said Tuesday night that tentativeness don't go to conventions just to "whoop it up" and that a convention administrator "has to be considered in proper terms."

Royal W. Ryan, executive vice-president of the New York convention and visitors' bureau, was speaking to the annual convention of the Canadian Tourist Association.

Mr. Ryan said the real significance of New York's lenient liquor laws is "the income they provide benefits for hotels and restaurants."

Each convention delegate spent about $7.42 on beverages. With 2,000,000 delegates to New York in 1959, that meant a total of $22,924,461.

"It is obvious," he said, "that any laws which seriously restrict the sale of alcoholic beverages will have an effect on the economy of an area."

O'Keefe Centre Is 'Jinxed'

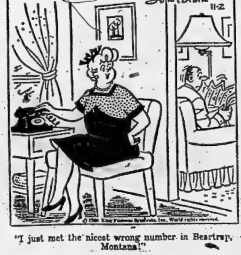
TORONTO (CP)—Is the giant $18,000,000 O'Keefe Centre for the Performing Arts jinxed for the people? The list of casualties since it opened Oct. 1 sparks the superstition.

During the playing of Camelot, producer Moss Hart suffered a heart attack and Jay Lerner, writer of Camelot's lyrics, went to hospital with an ulcer.

Marlene Dietrich tripped on centre stage and went away with a sprain in her left ankle.

Now My Fair Lady is here, and the show's producer, Cy Feuer, 52, Gentleman is suffering from paralysis of his right hand. He's been ordered to hospital for treatment.

Driver Held After Accident



TORONTO (CP) — Kenneth Pendure, 24, of Toronto was arrested Tuesday night and charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident in connection with a fatal accident in downtown Toronto last Friday.

Mrs. Stella Powell, 41, died Monday as injuries suffered when she was struck by a small, four-ton car as she stepped from a streetcar.

Police said the car stopped briefly, then the driver turned out his lights and sped away. Witnesses were able to describe the car and one got a partial licence number.

Khrushchev, charging the West with barring the chambers of the committee into "horse stables" with an unbearable stench, has said Russia would not return to negotiations without the addition of five so-called neutralist countries.

In other developments at the UN Tuesday, Cuba and Communist supporters lost their fight for an immediate UN assembly debate of charges the U.S. plans an invasion of the island republic. The assembly voted 45 to 39 against the Cuban attempt to upset the steering committee's recommendation that the Cuban complaint be sent first to the assembly's political committee. Eighteen nations abstained.

The assembly then voted 81 to 11 with 17 abstentions to follow the steering committee's recommendation.

To the surprise of many, 12 Asian and African nations rallied behind Cuba's demand. They were India, Indonesia, Iraq, Yemen, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Republic, Libya, Nigeria, Ceylon, Burma, Cambodia, Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea, Nepal, Morocco, Mali and Afghanistan.

GOES BACK TO PRISON

SUDBURY (CP) — Gerald Lesack, 36, of Sudbury, released from penitentiary Sept. 6, was sentenced Monday to three years in penitentiary for car theft and one year concurrent for criminal negligence. Lesack was arrested early after police chased a stolen car at 100 miles an hour through Sturgeon Falls, 50 miles east of here.

'Spinning Top' Satellite Put In Orbit By U.S.

Plan Extensive Study Of Earth's Ionosphere

Harmless Bears Have Trouble To Find Food

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A 90-pound "spinning top" satellite whirled into orbit today to begin the most extensive study ever attempted of the earth's ionosphere.

The satellite, officially designated Explorer VIII, is designed to give scientists a better understanding of the mysterious electrically charged ionospheric layers which reflect radio signals back to earth.

The experiment could lead to improved communications between continents, ships and planes. It also could open the way for more effective control with communications satellites like the renowned Launched Echo and Courier and with future manned space flights.

An official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the successful orbiting of Explorer VIII gives the United States a commanding edge over the Soviet Union in exploration of the ionosphere.

KEMS USED ROCKETS

Robert Boudeau, head of the ionosphere branch at the space flight centre, said published reports indicate Russia has been probing the ionosphere with rockets and until today was considered over the U.S. in the data gathered from this sea of electrical particles which extends some 600 miles to about 1,000 miles above the earth's surface.

A 75-foot Juno II rocket blasted off from this missile test centre at 12:23 p.m. (EST) and its four stages fired with clocklike precision and boosted the payload to necessary orbital speed of more than 18,000 miles an hour.

Two hours after launch, NASA announced the "spinning top" had left the last of the four stages and because it is shaped like a child's top is expected to stay in flight for stabilization. It is 20 inches in height and diameter.

Illinois Will Be One of Key States in Vote

CHICAGO (AP)—Both major parties speak confidently of victory in Illinois' Tuesday presidential election.

Only a month ago, the Democrats would shrug when asked if Senator Stevenson seemed likely to win. The Republicans, on the other hand, have been predicting victory for Vice - President Nixon for at least three months.

It is assumed by both sides that Kennedy will run far ahead of Nixon in Chicago—the heavily Democratic suburbs which circle it—and that the key to the election's outcome will be the contests about half the state's ballot.

The question is: Will Nixon be able to get a margin in normally Republican outside Chicago which will overcome Kennedy's expected big city plurality?

Kennedy's Roman Catholicism is just one factor which may decide the presidential election in Illinois. Another is the bid of Democratic Governor William Stratton for an unprecedented third term.

Four years ago, President Eisenhower swamped Adlai Stevenson, former Illinois governor, with a plurality of 847,645 votes. The total cast for the two men was 4,390,009.

This year, the best political guess is that no landslide of the Eisenhower proportion is in the winds.

The most prominent statewide poll, conducted by the Chicago Sun - Times, has consistently shown Kennedy to be making inroads in those areas where Democrats switched to Eisenhower four and eight years ago. Whether Kennedy can parlay these growing gains into victory is still a matter of conjecture.

5,754 Camp Permits

BONDEAU PARK (CP) — A total of 5,754 permits were issued to campers at this Lake Erie resort during the summer, R. A. Maclaren, chief superintendent, said today.

The number of actual campers is upwards of 24,726 people, he added. Each camper averaged a total stay of 3.51 days in the park."

CONSTITUTIONAL PARLEY REACHES BROAD ACCORD

Basis for Concrete Proposals Reported

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1960 Dominion provincial constitutional conference ended a day early but jumped the hurdle on which its predecessor stumbled and fell years ago.

Provincial attorneys-general arrived Wednesday at a broad measure of agreement on the problem of keeping basic constitutional guarantees preserved for all time but allowing amendments to the British North America Act to be made in Canada.

A similar conference in 1950 failed to get to the nub of the problem. The Quebec province was unable to agree which provisions of the BNA Act should be entrenched, or made unamendable by any legislature except one of all the provincial legislatures and the federal Parliament.

The latest statement was issued Wednesday night at the end of the first day of the second session of the conference, which began last Oct. 4 and 7 and agreed that a way can be found to bring the BNA Act, a British statute, under Canadian jurisdiction and to amend it in Canada.

ADOPTED BY ALL

Justice Minister Fulton, chairman of the meeting, said the conference "has made great progress, great big smiles." Attorney - General Kelly Gorman of Newfoundland said there was a basis for concrete proposals which the provincial ministers could take home to their cabinet colleagues for approval.

Attorney - General Roberts of Ontario said the conference is "moving right along," with nothing to change his optimistic outlook.

Paul Gerin-Lajoie, minister of federal-provincial and constitutional expert, said Quebec subscribed to the report on BNA Act provisions it wants entrenched, but reserved the Lesage Liberal government wants to keep its views flexible. It was Gerin-Lajoie, leader of the Quiet Revolution Nationale government which gave the conference what is regarded as the fateful hurdle or the high conference.

"The position of Quebec is not very different from that of the other provinces," Mr. Gerin-Lajoie told reporters. "The conference has made considerable progress and we hope to have something to announce soon."

Mr. Roberts noted the fact that the conference could continue to deal with the political problem in a country as complicated as Canada's in a day and a half were no grounds for pessimism.

APPARENTLY AGREE

Mr. Roberts said publicly were in agreement—although Quebec Premier Lesage is the last to let their meetings—that a formula for amending the BNA Act must come from Britain to Canada, and doing it, is less urgent than finding a formula for amendment in the BNA Act in Canada."

The BNA Act is the constitution now—written by Canadians who were just as good Canadians as the framers of the British Canadian Constitution good Americans," Mr. Bonner said.

Seeks Third Term

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Mayor Donald A. Loucks announced today he will seek re-election for his third one-year term. Mayor Loucks' announcement is the only other person to hint that he may seek the mayoralty but he has not announced officially.

PLANS WINTER WORK

OTTAWA (CP)—Projects worth nearly $2,000,000 are planned as winter-work assistance on Indian reserves, Citizenship Minister Fairclough announced Wednesday. Mrs. Fairclough said $250,000 has been set aside by the department for bands lacking funds.

Raised No Fuss as Daisies Trimmed Objects to Same Job on Pocketbook

TORONTO (CP) — Millionaire sportsman M. J. Boylen raised no fuss when he was assessed $400 rough Township trimmed his daisies, but today he objected to being trimmed $450 by the job.

The disputed daisies grew in a 75-acre tract where Mr. Boylen has some of his $1,000,000 worth of horseflesh to pasture.

Under the provincial statute covering weed control, Scarborough Weed Inspector Ed Wallace sent Mr. Boylen—to whom the land is registered—a letter relaying out a time limit during which the weeds had to be cut. The weeds—including the daisies—were left uncut so the township did the job Sept. 1.

Then they billed Mr. Boylen $400.

In a letter to the township, Mr. Boylen said daisies are "good for nothing but spoiling the pasture that if the bill isn't cancelled, he will "assess the damage and the loss of pasture and bill the Township of Scarborough for it."

Reeve A. M. Campbell said that if good farm management had been followed, the pasture would have been kept cut and that this might have a bearing on why Mr. Boylen's horses had been having a poor year at the track.

Hammarskjold Says Belgians Hamper UN Efforts in Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold charged today that largescale Belgian activities in The Congo are hampering United Nations efforts to restore law and order.

In a voluminous report to the General Assembly, Hammarskjold described large numbers of Belgian nations were returning to The Congo and exerting strong influence on its government administration set up by Col. Joseph Mobutu.

He blamed the Belgians for a growing hostile attitude on the part of the Mobutu government toward the UN command. Many of the young commissioners in that government, he said, were constantly accompanied by Belgian advisers as members of their cabinet.

One of the results, he added, was that "the chaotic administrative and economic situation has reached the verge of collapse" before the UN command stepped in firmly and took a more active hand.

Hammarskjold told the assembly:

"It may be concluded that a gradual but purposeful return is being staged by Belgian nationals, which has assumed serious significance in view of the key positions which they have retained in the public life of the country and the possible effect of their activities on all aspects of the ONUC's (the UN command) responsibilities.

"All too often these developmental activities are carried out United Nations policies or feelings of resentment at the UN pact."

The activities of the returning Belgians, Hammarskjold said, appear to be "clearly at variance with" assembly directives and with the UN command's basic principles.

The secretary - general made public communications in which he had protested against the activities of Belgian nations in The Big Business Corporations Can Aid Tourist Trade

TORONTO (CP) — Business executives told the Canadian Tourist Association Wednesday big corporations can contribute to the tourist industry.

They spoke at a "workshop" meeting of the CTA's annual convention here. The aim was to show the association's slogan Know Canada Better.

I. K. Davidson of Toronto, assistant to the president of Canadian Tire Corporation, told the firm last year created a tourist service which sent a travel-wise traveller with complete information on accommodations, points of interest and the dealer's locations along his route.

"Our 'know Canada better' he said, "is successfully coaxing many motorists off the first-class highways by directing their attention to nearby places of interest."

H. W. Curtis of Toronto, division manager of Canada Packers Limited, urged a similar effort. The company had offered trips to Europe through its sales program. It was one of the most successful contests the company had ever had.

The association was told Wednesday that trouble with certain Canadian hotels is that "once they have a guest registered they feel their troubles are over."

"That's wrong," said Henriette Dullani, Toronto consultant. "Hotels, especially chain hotels, particularly those from the United States, should feel the color and atmosphere of a city, and it was up to the hotels to help."

She suggested such things as small exhibits of local art in lobbies, concerts by local musicians, guests at weekly celebration shows which could help stimulate spending at local stores.

Harkness Meets NATO Heads On Nuclear Weapons Problem

SOREST, Germany (CP) — Defence Minister Harkness said today he and Frnz-Josef Strauss, West German defence minister, are in good general agreement on defence problems facing NATO.

He made the comment to reporters after a meeting with Strauss today at the German defence ministry in Bonn. Mr. Harkness' flew by RCAF Dakota to Osterstein and drove 20 miles to Sorst to visit the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade.

Harkness said he discussed with NATO officials the troubling problem of command and control of nuclear weapons.

Discussion on this point is believed to have been part of Harkness's 10-day European visit. He arrived here Wednesday night after talks in Paris with NATO General Lauris Norstad and to Speak and General Lauris Norstad, NATO supreme commander.

Canada is about the only NATO country without a bilateral agreement with the United States over the control of nuclear weapons. This matter will be discussed at the NATO ministerial meeting next month.

The government has said Canada in at least one way. It would help to get Canada around the problem of not having or not having a bilateral agreement with the U.S. as applied to North America as well as Europe. The most likely way of this operating says Canada is in the storage and control of nuclear warheads in Canada for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile.

Professional Pollsters Play Prediction Cards Close to Vest

WASHINGTON (CP) — Professional pollsters, perhaps still bitter from the Harry Truman upset of 1948, are playing their cards close to the vest in the 1960 United States presidential election close to the west.

The leading news magazines and some newspapers are going ahead with polls and predictions of their own, the majority pointing to a John Kennedy victory next Tuesday.

Most predictions hedge on the results, but the majority appear to agree the unanswered question is how many the Democrats' candidate may be helped or hurt by his Roman Catholic faith.

Democrat and Republican Richard Nixon both figure the fight will be close, but lately Nixon has been seeing a tide running his way. Kennedy will say only he has "hope."

Nixon's team continues to roll out various state polls showing where the Republican standard-bearer is leading or gaining new strength. But press secretary Herbert Klein was quoted as saying with "no comment" when asked for state polls which might show Nixon running behind.

Traditionally, most U.S. newspapers support the Republican candidate editorially and this year is no exception. The trade magazine, Editor and Publisher, estimates that as of last Thursday 181 papers were for Nixon while only 191 endorsed Kennedy.

Heartening to Nixon is the poll of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Of 326 editors, these editors Nixon would carry 26 states with 276 electoral votes — 282 are required to win. Kennedy would take 19 states with 255 votes.

Time magazine, whose publisher supports the Republican party, has a survey pointing to a Kennedy victory by 303 votes to 228 votes; doubtful, five states with 10 votes.

Publishers' Auxiliary, a weekly trade newspaper, says most of the 3,717 editors and publishers it polled believe Nixon will win.

Some of the country's leading news columnists, such as Walter Lippman, Scotty Reston, Marquis Childs and Roscoe Drummond, support the Democrat.

Others are split. Arthur Krock of the New York Times is for Nixon. Joseph Alsop is for Kennedy.

Pollsters themselves are divided. Elmo Roper, who predicted a Truman defeat in 1948, is for Kennedy. George Gallup, who also predicted a Truman defeat, is for Nixon.

FARMERS ASK ALL-YEAR OPEN DEER SEASON

Damage to Crops Reason for Motion

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Agriculture bowed to the arguments of deer-lovers Wednesday and tabled a resolution calling for an all-year open deer season.

The resolution asked for the open season as a means of protecting farm crops and cutting the collisions between deer and cars.

Wilbur Smith of Port Colborne said several fruit farmers in Welland County have suffered annual losses of $1,000 in crop and fruit damage. He said he had sold one six-mile stretch of highway between Welland and Port Colborne last year was the scene of 85 deer-car collisions.

HUNTING MASSACRE?

But Rev. Bert Daynard of Staffa said he would not support an open season because he was more afraid of the hunters than the deer."

Other delegates said the resolution reflected a local not provincial problem.

The convention called for prohibition of hunting on private property from Boxing Day to the opening day of the next hunting season.

The resolution also sought licensing of persons carry fire fire. Other calls were for stricter enforcement of killing livestock and dogs and for stricter laws governing as offences requiring police investigation.

Another resolution calls for a uniform contract form for leases of farm property for purposes such as natural gas and oil companies, hydro, railways and highways.

Len Laventure of Glasgow Station said present contracts now are "heavily weighted" against the landowner.

The convention asked for an Ontario select committee on assessment and taxation. It would study changes in municipal financing, assessment, assessment and taxation to equalize costs of education and other services and distribution among municipal administration and costs of road use.

William Tiden of Harriston was elected president, succeeding Gordon Greer of Otterville. Other officers: A. H. Musgrave, Bowmanville, first vice-president; Charles Huffman, Dundalk, second vice-president; J. A. Ferguson, St. Thomas; Donard Laventure, Glasgow Station; Charles Mutch of Embro, directors.

Americans Win Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Two American scientists—Dr. Willard F. Libby of the University of Chicago—today were awarded the Nobel prize for chemistry—and physics.

Libby, 52-year-old former member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, was awarded the chemistry prize for his discovery of "atomic time clock," a method of determining the age of fossil, wood and other organic matter by measuring the amount of radioactive carbon dioxide. The process can determine within 200 years the age of objects as old as 25,000 years.

Johnson and a member of the faculty of the University of California at Berkeley, was named the physics laureate for invention of the "bubble bath chamber" for the detection paths of atomic particles. Superheated liquid in the chamber boils around the highspeed particles until they appear in photographs as a string of bubbles.

Should Not Publish Book Says Brother of Author of Lady Chatterley

LONDON (AP) — "My young un got sent home from school with a copy of it. He brought the word on a wall," said the greengrocer, "an' now a British jury has said it's not obscene for Puzzled, he shook his head.

"I give up the ghost," said Lady Chatterley and her blocomin' lover, what am I gonna tell him? I reckon he'll expect an apology."

He referred, of course, to the jury which Wednesday decided D. H. Lawrence's novel—with its innumerable four-letter words — is not obscene.

The decision puzzled more than its green grocer. It puzzled author Lawrence's 80-year-old brother for one.

"I'm not very fond of my brother," said George Lawrence in an interview, "but I'm telling you that I would not be publishing it for young people to read. I read it and that's my opinion."

The Times devotes its main editorial to the decision.

"There is no appeal against the jury's verdict," said The Times, "but on the grounds of decency and taste and even morals, it is still possible to dissent."

Republicans Mass Biggest Guns To Get N.Y. Vote

President Eisenhower Plumps for Two Droppers

NEW YORK (CP)—New York State and its plum of 45 electoral college votes is a prime concern to both Democrats and Republicans in the Nov. 8 presidential election.

It apparently is more of a worry to the Republicans.

They massed all their big guns in New York City Wednesday in an all-out attempt to swing the state to their side. President Eisenhower plumped for his two proteges—Vice - President Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge—in speech to a crowd of about 10,000 at the New York City Coliseum. Senator Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, spent the day vote - hunting in Nixon's backyard—California, a 33-vote state.

However, he made sure the New York stage was no bare set. Democrats, His running - mate, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, stumped through upstate communities. Democratic vice-presidential nominee Harry Truman did the same.

ASSAULT NOTED

Kennedy also took note of the Republican New York City assault on his Roman Catholicism.

"You've seen circus parades," he said at a New York City rally. "You know how the elephants go in front of the band to the tail of the one in front."

He twitted Nixon for an attempt to drive a wedge between Kennedy's popularity, saying:

"I think Mr. Nixon was hanging on tight but now Mr. Nixon is my candidate."

HE HITS BACK

Eisenhower, who joined the candidates in an afternoon parade down Fifth Avenue that brought a blizzard of ticker tape from office windows, repeated his endorsement of the Nixon-Lodge ticket and hit at Kennedy for "degrading America's strength."

"With Nixon and Lodge in office we can have full confidence that the fate of world unity is in strong hands," he said.

Cabinet Republican Modern estimately 1,250,000 people lined the parade route.

Nixon was given a five - minute ovation when he took the stand at the Coliseum rally where Lodge called his day in New York the start of the Republican campaign and added: "I challenge us to a great victory in New York state and in the nation. Now let's go."

Nixon's campaign in the two parties have been giving the edge in New York State to Kennedy. Some Democrats have been predicting a big margin for their man.

SNARK SNARLS TRAFFIC

Traffic in a midtown Manhattan area was snarled for almost an hour Wednesday night as some of the thousands of Nixon supporters staged a march across town to the Republican hotel where Eisenhower and Nixon stayed overnight. The marchers pushed forward despite a shortage of police manpower. They chanted for Eisenhower and Nixon outside the hotel.

Before leaving New York, Nixon cut loose at Democrats Kennedy and Johnson. "Together they have a record of failure in almost everything, and so together they stand for nothing," Nixon said. "They have a combined record of less in an amateur standing in the United States."

Johnson and Truman joined Kennedy in singing the Democrat's support of the Republican ticket.

"Nixon has called for the epitch," Johnson said in a speech in Boston.

At Fishkill, Truman criticized Eisenhower and Nixon for "trying to blackmail the Democrats" and "trying to make a conspiracy of silence" about U.S. prestige.

Mines Planted Along Fence At Guantanamo

HAVANA (AP) — The U.S. Navy's chief in the Caribbean disclosed Wednesday that American mine fields were planted a few weeks ago along the fence enclosing the 45-square-mile Guantanamo naval base—just in case.

The mine fields are labelled plainly, Rear-Admiral Allen Smith told reporters at that base. "Dr. Castro has stepped up his tempo and we have taken steps accordingly."

He said his forces at the base are strong enough to repel any attack until reinforcements can be sent—perhaps for 72 hours.

The defenders are a few hundred U.S. marines, squadrons of marines and navy aircraft that have been training in Caribbean waters and a force of heavily armed military men staffing the base.

President Osvaldo Dorticos Friday night reiterated that Cuba will not try to take the base by force.

Air Borticos was speaking, before Fidel Castro continued to tour demonstrations of the militia—the workers' army.

Militiamen appeared with Havana streets wearing brandnew Czech automatic pistols.

Among the big professional pollsters, Elmo Roper says: "The only ringing forthright declaration that any honest pollster can make on the forthcoming presidential vote is that it looks like a close election but either candidate could win in a landslide."

Pollster George Gallup has refused to predict a winner.

Bowl-O-Drome Will Expand To 32 Alleys

Double Diamond Bowling Supply Ltd. of Toronto today announced that "one of Ontario's largest and most modern bowling centres" would be built in Belleville "on a prime downtown location, which has already been secured."

Tain't theessarily so, says Robert Pringle, one of the three proprietors of the Bowl-O-Drome, the largest of Belleville's present two bowling alleys.

Double Diamond's announcement, says Mr. Pringle, is just the latest shot in a war of nerves in the bowling business here. It refers to plans of the proprietors of the Bowl-O-Drome to expand, but these plans will not necessarily be as extensive as those outlined in a Double-Diamond news release.

Recently Gerald Joyce, local realtor, approached the City Council upgrading a street allowance as the site for a bowling centre could be erected on Dundas Street East, one of the city limits. Mr. Joyce says plans have since been altered to call for 32 alleys.

Mr. Pringle, Bruce Graham and William Bowen are the co-owners of the Bowl-O-Drome. Mr. Pringle says the Diamond Brothers are planning to vacate space now occupied on the ground floor of the Graham Building, in which the Bowl-O-Drome is located, and the three owners plan to expand present facilities, providing 32 alleys, perhaps by the end of next year. The present 14 alleys, extensively renovated during the past summer, are upstairs.

Mr. Pringle, adds, however, that it has not yet been decided whether to install automatic pin-setting equipment, as announced by Double Diamond in news press release today. Such equipment is very expensive. To provide it for 32 alleys, together with other expenditures, would involve a total investment of around $750,000.

10,000 Flee Po Vale Floods

ROVIGO, Italy (AP) — Ten thousand residents of the Po Delta region were evacuated today as a raging flood tide poured through a 450-foot breach in the river's dikes and inundated thousands of acres of marshland.

The breach in the dike, which broke Wednesday, was still widening. Firemen and police troops attempted to throw up an emergency dike to check the flood.

Cattle were drowned as the flood spread over low-lying farmlands, but there were no reports of loss of human life.

The dike, which broke before the rain-swollen waters of Italy's biggest river, was one which protected the 70,000-acre Ariano Island, where 20,000 persons live between two branches of the Po.

Dr. Isobel Laird Outlines Historical Uses of Dolls To Queen's Alumni Assoc.

TRENTON — Dr. Isobel Laird, assistant professor of psychology at Queen's University, was the guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Belleville and Trenton District Queen's Alumni at the Quennsway Hotel, last night. The tables were decorated in Hallowe'en, motif, using Queen's colors.

Dr. Laird told her listeners, many of whom were her former students, that her field life excelting and interesting because she insisted on "running down" the origin and histories of as many commonplace subjects as she can within her four walls.

For last night's talk she chose the subject of "Dolls," and succeeded in keeping the women and even the men, spellbound.

She said, that the earliest recorded use for dolls was to bury them with the ancient Egyptians. The doll was supposed to act as an "unsaverer" and deliver messages for the dead, as well as attending to their wants.

British Columbia Indians of long ago used to launch a tiny doll in a miniature canoe into the ocean when a member of the tribe died. The doll represented the spirit of the dead man. The Incas Indians of Peru placed dolls inside the mummies of the dead to be "company" for the dead man's spirit.

From throwing living babies into the Nile River to dupe alligators to end droughts, the Egyptians gradually got to the point of civilization where they made symbolic dolls and "sacrificed" them to the Gods. Up until a 100 years ago, dolls were "built into" every important building as a throwback to the days when a living person was thus interred. This practice gradually led to the use of present day cornerstones.

In many parts of the world, ancestor dolls were used to bear or the dead. Stone and bronze figures in public parks and cemeteries are the modern replicas of these.

Many primitive tribes had certain ceremonial customs involving the use of dolls. In Africa, members of some tribes kept their enemies at bay by making wax reproductions of them and pounding nails into the effigies.

MODEL DOLLS

In the 18th century, dolls were first used to model the fashions of the day. Dr. Laird traced the use of doll figures to advertise pubs in European countries. She said that the famous Leonardo da Vinci was the first person to use dolls for testing purposes. From this has come gingerbread men.

The "crib", to be found in present day churches at Christmas, is a direct result of the replica of the entire village scene. Even the doll life exists being represented. After the reformation, Protestant fathers made their daughters doll houses to replace the crib idea.

Speaking of modern uses for the dolls, Dr. Laird gave a brief history of talking dolls. She said that Thomas Edison had invented, the singing doll by placing a small gramophone inside one.

The doll manufacturers were given at bad time when the Teddy Bear became the rage at the time of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Dolls, she said, have been used for smuggling dope and jewels and for many adult purposes not ordinarily connected with toys.

She said that it was a sign of the times that people still insist that dolls be "wear" Taboos and inhibitions are expressed by this insistence.

Dr. Laird closed her modern tendency to send rockets "whizzing" through the air. She said that mankind would be better off with "The World Friendship for Children" idea as demonstrated in 1927 when the American sweetheart doll changed thousands of dolls with the Russian bear, as a symbol gesture towards the children of both countries, were periodically repeated.

Dr. Laird was introduced by Mrs. H. Hutchison and thanked by G. A. Frost.

Dr. W. A. L. McDonald, president of the association, acted as chairman of the meeting. Head table guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McDougall of Belleville, Dr. and Mrs. H. Hutchison, and Mrs. W. McDonald, H. J. Hamilton, official secretary-treasurer of the alumni; Miss Margaret Pickering, secretary, and J. Pickering.

Legion Ladies Hold Poppy Day Tea, Bake Sale

TRENTON — The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion held a successful tea and sale of baked goods in the Legion Hall yesterday afternoon.

As this was the annual "Poppy Day Tea", the proceeds added towards the cost of supplying poppies for the day, the hall was decorated in a poppy theme. Small poppy sprays decorated the tea tables. A large bouquet of red and white 'mums, flanked by red tapers, decorated the large pouring table. The centre table arrangements were of Canadian flags and poppies ornate gold tea services.

Pouring tea were Miss Hazel Farley, Mrs. Muriel Turland, Mrs. Rita Robinson, Mrs. Lavina Leeman, Mrs. Edna Patrick and Mrs. Elsie Shonker.

Tea hostesses were Mrs. Jean Lawson.

Bakers were Mrs. Margaret Wease, Mrs. Marguerite Carr, Mrs. Theresa McMurter, Mrs. Ruth Stevens, Mrs. Mary Reid, Mrs. Betty Hyatt, Mrs. Evelyn Harrison and Mrs. Isobel Blockley.

Convener of the sewing table was Mrs. Ruth Carter, who was assisted by Mrs. E. Robinson.

Mrs. Hattie Cooper was in charge of the touch and take table.

The home baking table with its array of goodies was convened by Mrs. Sylvia Wright, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Reid.

Mrs. Luella Hyatt was in charge of the candy table.

Service Clubs Should Help Pay for Project

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton Kinsmen Club and Trenton Council, who are chiefly interested in the proposed civic plaza, agreed that the plaza should be the centre of land where low-rental housing apartments for senior citizens may be built.

At last night's meeting of the council, vice-president Al Perry, who represents the Kinsmen Club, said he had offered to provide $750 toward the purchase of land. The purchase cost of land which includes administrator A. Gordon Davis had mentioned to the Kiwanis Club is $3,000 .This, shared equally by the four service clubs, would amount to the $750 apiece.

Mrs. Fay Jeffery, representing the Business and Professional Women's Club, said she would discuss the apartment project with members of her club in order to find out if they wished to help the project in any way.

It was decided that the Dr. David would be invited to the next council meeting to explain further details regarding the proposed apartments. The council agreed that many elderly persons in town live in unsuitable quarters and that these apartments would fill a great need.

Plans are going forward for a service club "get-together" party next year. The Rotary Club will play host with the Kiwanis Club providing entertainment.

Council members will endeavor to find some way of supplying transportation for blind persons from Trenton to two meetings a month in Belleville.

Members of the Rotary Club are supplying transportation for two Thursday evenings. To date, arrangements have not been made to take the blind citizens to Belleville meetings on two Tuesdays of the month. Mrs. Ivan Whitney is in charge of arrangements.

Council members will enquire about the possibility of the city placing signs advertising service club meetings at entrances to the town.

4,000 Perish In Cyclone in East Pakistan

CHITTAGONG (Reuters)—Officials here said today that 4,000 persons were reported to have died in a cyclone Monday stewing the East Pakistan coastal belt. This would bring to at least 10,000 the number of persons killed as the result of cyclones and tidal waves in East Pakistan during the last three weeks.

The first cyclone, followed up by a tidal wave, hit the seaport city of Chittagong Oct. 10, killing 6,000 persons.

Scarcied communications prevented the full extent of Monday's disaster from being determined at the time. An announcement Wednesday night said 300 persons were killed.

Storage Building, Workshop At Woodenware Plant Burns, Loss Estimated at $60,000

Fire loss estimated in excess of $60,000 resulted early today when flames raced through a stock storage building and workshop at the McFarlane Gendron Woodenware plant on North Sidney Street.

The blaze was discovered shortly after midnight and resulted in a general alarm, which brought out every available piece of fire fighting equipment operated by the Belleville Fire Department. Flames leaping high into the air lit up the night sky.

During the blaze the Trenton Fire Department stood by in Belleville to answer any other alarms when the local department was fighting the Sidney Street blaze.

Fifteen or 16 men were said to have been working in the plant department razed by the flames.

Gutted out by the blaze was a cement block structure approximately 200 feet in length and about 45 to 50 feet in width. The flat roof of the structure was burned off while a huge section of the east and south walls collapsed.

The storage space was filled with plywood and other stock. More than $15,000 worth of plywood alone was destroyed in the blaze.

The blaze was discovered by the night watchman who was said to have smelled smoke coming less than half an hour previously and found evidence of fire. The alarm was turned in at 12:14 a.m.

SAVE CIVIC BUILDING

Although the concrete block storage building was almost a complete loss, firemen were able to save an adjoining warehouse filled with lumber stocks immediately to the west. A west wind, which drove the flames away from the adjoining structure aided considerably in preventing the spread of the flames it was stated.

Every available piece of hose owned by the department was utilized in fighting the blaze. Hose had to be run over the Sidney Street bridge to hydrants south of the double track railway. One estimated that due to a mile-and-a-half of hose had to be run.

The night shift was working at the main plant, but after the fire was discovered the men were called off work and sent home.

Causeway May Become Reality In Three Years

The long proposed causeway across the Bay of Quinte connecting Deseronto and Green's Point, may become a reality within the next two or three years.

This was indicated by Ontario Highways Minister Fred M. Cass as he addressed the Lennox and Addington county warden's banquet last week.

Mr. Cass said the bridge connecting Deseronto and Green Point will be included in the highways budget within the next two years. He said the bridge and causeway are part the drawing board stage in the province's planning.

Picton Mayor Harvey McFarland, who attended the dinner, expressed strong satisfaction with the promise from Mr. Cass.

Lee H.-Grain, MP for Hastings South, and Clarence Milligan, MP for Lennox and Addington, also attended the dinner.

WON'T PERMIT

QUEBEC (CP) — Transport Minister Balcer said Wednesday night the government does not intend to permit rapid or extreme competitive changes in regular and scheduled air services in Canada. In a speech to the annual meeting of the Air Industries and Transport Association of Canada, Mr. Balcer said federal policy is to let the air transport board "authorize competition where economic conditions warrant."

Quart Bottle Of Beer Fast Fading Away

WINNIPEG (CP) — That noble vessel, the quart, the mainly art of beer drinking in Quarts province—the quart, bottle—is fast fading from the scene, says a leading Canadian brewer.

Senator Hartland Demontarville Molson of Montreal, president of Molson's Brewery Limited, made the wistful observation Wednesday at an informal press reception here, featured by the service of coffee.

"It used to be that you could go into a night spot in Quebec and never see a pint," he said. "The tables would be covered with those husky quart bottles.

"I think it was because people used to think there wasn't a man's drink in the pint."

But that's all changed now.

"The sale of quarters in Quebec and the parts of Eastern Ontario where they have been sold has gone downhill steadily."

To put the record straight, the beer "quart" contains 22 fluid ounces, compared with the 32 ounces in the bona fide quart measure. A "pint" of beer is 12 ounces—four ounces shy of the standard liquid pint.

Rio Tinto Buys Most of Shares In Subsidiary

TORONTO (CP) — Rio Tinto Company Ltd. of London, England, announced the purchase, through a wholly-owned Canadian subsidiary, of all the shares of J. H. Hirshhorn in Rio Tinto Mining Company of Canada Ltd.

The announcement was made by Robert Winters, president of Rio Tinto of Canada, through release of a statement made by the parent company.

No price was given in the announcement, but the transaction increases the parent company's interest in the Canadian subsidiary to more than 80 per cent from about 54 per cent.

Issued and fully paid shares of Rio Tinto of Canada Ltd. at Dec. 31 totalled $3,902,978, and current market quotations are around 85 cents a share. This would give the transaction, at current market prices, a value of around $13,000,000.

The announcement said treasury and Bank of England consent has been obtained for the transaction, which will be financed in Canada by cash and short-term bank borrowings.

Alan B. Sprague Again Heads Cancer Society

Alan B. Sprague was re-elected president of the Belleville unit of the Canadian Cancer Society at its annual meeting Tuesday night in the local YMCA.

Other officers elected were vice-president Miss Mildred Hall; treasurer Gordon Gibbs; secretary Miss Flora Murphy, woma's services chairman Mrs. Sydney Rose; education chairman Mrs. Ed Logan, campaign chairman, Clarence W. Fuzzen; extension chairman Percy McGuire and board members Fred Deacon, Douglas Burr, Robert Brain and E. E. Fidlwell.

In his remarks, chairman Sprague thanked the Bata Shoe Company for the use of the branch headquarters at 224 Pinnacle St., and said the headquarters now was being renovated but would be ready for occupancy during the week of November 14. An invitation was extended to anyone interested to visit the headquarters which will be open, beginning the week of Nov. 14, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. each day except Saturdays and Sundays.

REPORTS RECEIVED

Reports of committees were given by Mrs. Sydney Rose, chairman of women's services; Bill Mc-N. J. Wilson, chairman of canvass; Miss Mildred Hall, publicity; treasurer, and Clarence Z. Fuzzen, campaign chairman.

W. A. McFarlane, field secretary of the Society's Ontario division, addressed the meeting and paid tribute to Mr. Fuzzen and Douglas Burr for the success of last spring's campaign. He outlined the work of the society and its units.

An outline of the work done locally was given by Mr. Sprague, who noted that the unit supplies dressings, transportation, drugs and medical supplies to those who are unable to supply them for themselves. He also mentioned the visits that unit makes to cancer patients, as well as the work of education carried on in industry, business and private homes.

The society, he said, is always looking for volunteers to make dressings, drive cancer patients to and from places of treatment, and distribute literature. He stressed the absolute need for early detection of cancer and immediate treatments.

HAMMARSKJOLD

Congo, a Belgian territory until last July.

Hammarskjold said some Belgian nations "are believed to have been actively arming separatist Congolese forces and, in some cases, Belgian officers have directed and led such forces in certain areas, have been responsible for brutal and aggressive acts of violence."

He said some of the Belgians are returning to the Congo "partially through what seems to be an organized recruiting campaign in Belgium."

Hammarskjold's report comes in the wake of mounting Soviet demands that he say what the United Nations is doing to suppress what the Russians called "the subversive activities of Belgian agents" in the Congo.

The Indian head of the UN mission in The Congo, Rajeshwar Dayal, is heading here from Leopoldville to report on the mounting obstacles in the path of the UN Congo operation.

OPPOSE MISSION

He is expected to tell Hammarskjold that Congo President Joseph Kasavubu and Mobutu, oppose the plan of Hammarskjold's advisory committee to send an Asian - African conciliation mission to The Congo to try to bring together the two political factions.

The advisory committee will meet Saturday to work out instructions to the conciliation mission which will consist of 15 Asian and African nations on the 18-member committee. The mission is expected to leave for The Congo next week.

UN officials announced that the General Assembly will meet Monday to take up a request by eight African and Asian nations that it seek a delegation representing Lumumba. Sponsors of the resolution are Ceylon, Ghana, Guinea, India, Indonesia, Mali, Morocco and the United Arab Republic.

TURN DOWN REQUEST

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A request by the city to keep its 1960 on the expenditure of $2,300,000 vote maximum during the December elections has been turned down by the Ontario Municipal Board. The OMB ruled that there this year should be asked only to elect representatives to govern the enlarged city.

A Teachers' Party?

The success of Walter Pitman, 31-year-old Peterborough collegiate teacher, in winning Monday's by-election in that riding was the greatest feature of the four byelection results.

We suspect that Mr. Pitman's triumph is more a tribute to him personally than a yardstick by which to judge the appeal of the New Party, whose standard he bore although the CCF and the Canadian Congress of Labor have not yet officially announced its birth. Surely this must be the first time in political history in which a party has won a seat before the party was even organized.

It is interesting to note that the CCF, whose policies Mr. Pitman must be regarded as endorsing in the main, has finished in recent years to become a party of collegiate teachers in its upper echelons. There is a change from its early days when, at least in Ontario, its main support came from universities, with Professors Underhill, Grube and Scott being a formidable trio of spokesmen.

There may be some who will put in a claim for the liberty's first leader being an ex-clergymen, J. S. Woodsworth and Rev. Stanley Knowles being considered to be the present heir apparent. But M. J. Coldwell, its leader for many years, was a former collegiate teacher and it has produced a trium-virate of giant-killers, all collegiate teachers, Joe Noseworthy who defeated Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in the East York, Douglas Fisher who ended the political career of the redoutable Hon. C. D. Howe in Port Arthur and now Walter Pitman who has won a traditionally Conservative seat in Peterborough.

Of the other byelections, perhaps the one with the most lasting result was that at Niagara Falls, where Miss Judy LaMarsh, the Liberal candidate, became the eleventh woman to win a seat in the Canadian House of Commons. She will be the fourth woman seated in the House when it meets later this month. With the possible exception of Mrs. Dorise Nielsen, the tartongued Miss Jewett would appear to be more in the tradition of Canada's first woman M.P., Miss Agnes Macphail, than any others of the ten women who have followed in her footsteps. Furthermore, at 35, she is young enough to have some hopes of challenging Miss Macphail's formidable record of 19 years in the House.

No Excuse for These Men

Opportunities impose responsibilities. Much of the news from the Congo since that country gained its independence from Belgium is discouraging, but most people, we feel sure, recognized that the persons responsible for atrocities were natives who had had little or no opportunity to become civilized.

Now comes a report that UN forces have checked a raiding party of Baluba tribesmen and have arrested four white men who are alleged to have been leading the native warriors. Three of the men are Belgians, the fourth a white Rhodesian, from a British colony where the color barrier is looming as a major obstacle to planned independence. There can be no excuse for men like these who would incite and direct tribesmen past bands which have caused many deaths, including that of a Roman Catholic missionary, and led to the burning of three villages. They should be severely punished.

Seasick Fish

Ever hear of a seasick fish? Do not laugh. It can happen. Authority for the statement is Dr. Carleton Ray, of Coney Island Aquarium. He recently arrived at Islip, Long Island, with a pretty sick bunch of fish swimming about in tanks aboard his car.

"Sure fish get seasick," he told John C. Devlin of the New York Times. "You'd probably get seasick, too, if you were sloshing around the way they are in the water in these tanks."

We have to report that the vessel had been bouncing about in an easterly wind. So that's why fish never bite when an east wind is blowing—they are seasick! Now all we have to do is to figure out why a west wind doesn't have the same reaction.

Miracles of the Universe And More Light

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

Article 16

It seems strange to say that there is light that man can see and there is also light that man cannot see. But it is true.

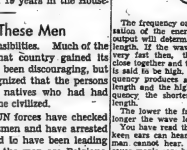
An atom or a star (which is a big ball of atoms—hot and in the form of gas) gives off light. Some of the light given off, man can see. Speaking a general why man sees about 4% of the whole scale of light which exists. Man cannot see radio waves, television waves or heat waves from a hot water radiator—yet, these are "light."

What is light and why can we see some kinds of light and not see others?

Light is a sending off or radiating of energy by a source which is made of atoms. An atom, depending on what is happening to it, how hot it is and what kind of an atom it is, will give off different kinds of energy. Some of it can be seen, some of it cannot be seen.

The different kinds of energy travel at the same speed, and each different kind of energy is made up of tiny bundles called "quanta" (which is the plural of quantum—which in turn is the kind of energy travels in the form of waves, (likened to waves on the sea). The speed at which the bundles travel out from a star to your eyeball is 670,000,000 miles per hour.

WAVE LENGTHS



Hit a taut clothes-line at one end and the will send a wave in it that will run down the line. (It doesn't work with automatic dryers!) The different energy given off by the star has a different wave length. The distance between the tops of the waves is called the "wave length" and may be miles, yards, feet, inches, centimeters and much smaller measurements.

If the energy given off by a star has a wave length (the length between the tops of two succeeding waves) of between 4,000 and 7,000 angstroms, then man can see it by his eyes. (1/100,000,000 of a centimeter—a centimeter is 2/3 of an inch).

If the distance between waves is a little greater than 7,000 angstroms, then man cannot see it. The length is a lot greater than 7,000 angstroms and man cannot see it either, for it also is long wave, but it is called a radio wave and man's radio will feel the wave and the feeling will create a sound, for man to hear.

If the distance between waves is less than 4,000 angstroms then it is called "short wave" and man cannot see that light either. The first wave length just short of vision, is ultra violet light, the next is X-ray and the next gamma radiation. It is all light but none of it can be seen.

Man can only see the tiny area between ultra-violet, "short wave" and long wave — called "visible light."

The frequency or rate of pulsation of the energy emission output will determine the wave length. If the waves come out very fast then, they will be close together and the frequency is said to be high. So high frequency produces a short wave length and the higher the frequency the shorter the wave length.

The lower the frequency, the longer the wave length.

You have read that dogs with keen ears can hear sounds which man cannot hear. That is because man's ears have been developed in such a way that they cannot hear very high-pitched sounds — very high frequency-sounds. (Incidentally, sound travels in waves also). Light also travel in a vacuum but sound will not). Since most of the light reaching the earth's surface from the Sun is in the range of 4,000 to 7,000 angstroms, man's eyes apparently have developed to make use of that light only. Picture the deafening din if man could hear the atoms crashing in the air, or could see TV programs without a TV set — he'd have to be born with a channel selector in the centre of each ear drum.

(Some light is X-ray, imagine the social upheaval if man could create it man had X-ray vision — This could prove to be quite embarrassing at times. I wouldn't want anyone looking through me to see my slipped disc).

"SEE" WITH ANTENNAE

On other planets there may be animal life, something like man, which can see far more of the light that called "man can read. (And such "people" may "see" with ears and feel with antennae, or other sensitive regions instead of eyes). Such radio "sees" low frequency light — why couldn't other "people" (not in the movies, they!). Radar sees an object and "paints" a picture on the oscilloscope. Other men on other planets may "see" somewhat like this man.

That, then is a layman's description to other laymen of what light is, why man can only see a small part of the "light" which exists around him.

How does light become light? What creates it?

Light is the energy given off by an atom. Generally speaking atoms give off virtually no energy under normal conditions. These are "unexcited" atoms. But if the atoms are excited, they give energy from some source, then they are "excited" and because they become unexcited and they lose their excitement, they give

Delinquents Are Weak, Not Tough

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Most so-called business "mergers" today are mergers in the same way that the whale merges with Jonah.

The pen might be mightier than the sword for attack, but not for defence: it is easy for one ough to destroy someone with an accusation in print, but infinitely hard to defend one's self by the same way.

The really well-dressed man always gives the impression of having been put together carefully, if tastefully; when a man looks sloppy or "sharp" he is always over-dressed.

We are most offended when people do not respect us; yet we are not concerned about the respect of others usually lack self-respect; and this lack makes itself felt to others and is merely reflected back to us.

A child wants to collect all the beautiful shells on the beach; and the world is full of adult collectors — of one thing or another — who have not yet outgrown their childhood ambitions.

There's no ignoramus like the half-educated hypochondriac who thinks the plural is "ignorami."

Speaking of bores, as I was yesterday, it is unreasonable that the travel bore is the most obnoxious of all. Somebody said Rev Sydney Smith remarked about a colleague, on whom he turned from lisly, a greater bore than ever; he only bores on architecture, painting, sculpture and music."

As long as delinquents are considered "tough" by society, they will continue to perpetrate misdeeds simply to live up to it; but when we begin to recognize that they are "weak" and they truly are, one of the main props for their behavior will evaporate.

The perfectionist personality, who is inclined toward pessimism, should paste on his or her looking-glass, at some point, something every morning, Disraeli's wise saying: "Life is too short to be small."

Much of what looks to us like "stubbornness" in a child or young and far removed from it is really a kind of "perseverance" when we are older and close to it.

A conservative is usually a man who wants progress without change; while a liberal is often a man who wants change, whether or not it is progress.

One odd criterion of "civilized entertainment" is that the party's over when the ice runs out.

Climaxing the most successful season in softball history in Trenton, members of the various softball teams, coaches and officials of softball circles in the district attended the annual smoker and presentation of prizes held in the Moose Hall there last night. The RCAF Flyers walked off with the majority of the prizes and trophies. Harry Rollins, member of the OASA executive, presented the intermediate "B" OASA trophy to the Flyers who captured the title in two straight games. The Red Cross Society was given $1000 by the league officials, to aid the society in its war work.

Harried by complaints of beavers cutting this and damaging that, Deputy Minister of Fish and Game yesterday offered a monument from a grateful community to the person who invents some simple way of encouraging their actions on private property. The Deputy Minister said that "not so long ago, with fire in her eyes, the wife of a Toronto lawyer declared vengeance on the animals. We thought that she had something. She had been painting, and some portion of the paint on a half-chewed-down tree. She beavers did not go after that tree, so she painted the trunks of some trees they had advised us about the paint. But the beavers got smart and they sent down the trees as usual, spitting out the painted bark; and then when the trees were lying flat, they went along and ate the bark where it wasn't painted."

Letter To The Editor

Expresses Thanks For Firemen's Help

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

We residents of Shannonville and vicinity are confident that space will not permit us to say the valued paper to express these, our grateful thanks, to the Belleville and Point Anne Fire Departments, for their efficient and energetic efforts to bring under control the recent serious fire in our village.

It is fully realized here that without the prompt response of these departments our losses would have been much greater particularly in the case of the fire of Sunday, October 30, which threatened to destroy the greater part of our village.

To Fire Chief Gerald Vance and Fire Chief Fred Clarke our sincere appreciation of their fine handling of difficult situations and to the individual firefighters our many thanks.

And we are not forgetting the fine assistance of our own residents who worked with the firefighters and assisted in every way possible. These too we thank, and to them we are grateful.

Thank you Mr. Editor,
Resident.

New Battle Over Algeria

London Observer

The battles over Algerian independence are war rides. Paris are not usually conducted with bombs and bullets. They may prove to be more decisive then the war in Algeria itself.

Last week the French cabinet earned itself still more credit by its courageous action in sending Jean-Paul Sartre, actress Simone Signoret and Danielle Delorme film director Alain Resnais, to prison writers like Francoise Segan were banned from appearance on state-controlled radio and television services and in subsidized theatres.

They were being punished for signing a manifesto supporting the right to refuse service in the Algerian war. Not all were intellectuals: one declaration, now being circulated clandestinely in France, not only suggested that so-called "treason might mean "a brave respect for what is right." It also called on all the people to give up sheltering the right to refuse service in the Algerian war. Not all were intellectuals: one declaration, now being circulated clandestinely in France, not only suggested that so-called "treason might mean "a brave respect for what is right." It also called on all the people to give up sheltering anyone who feloped "Algerians oppressed in the name of the French people."

This linked the signatories with what the much banned France — Observateur (its issue was seized again last week) has called the title of the conscience of the French nation: the trial, which started four weeks ago of six Algerian Moslems and 17 French intellectuals accused of helping Algerian Nationalists agents.

The leader of the group, Professor Francis Jeanson, escaped shortly before his followers were arrested, and is believed to have fled the country. (Two weeks) ago M. Sartre on his way back to France from Brazil, sent a letter to the court supporting the accused and their leader, thus inviting arrest on his return.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

NEURALGIA AFT TO BE PAINFUL, DIFFICULT

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is intercostal neuralgia. Why is it so hard to get relief from it or a cure? My husband who is 61 has had it for two years —Mrs. T. K."

Intercostal neuralgia is pain in the nerve trunks that run between the ribs. Neuralgia, of course, is pain in the nerve trunks, and the word intercostal simply describes where the nerves are where the pain is.

I am not ready to admit that intercostal neuralgia is necessarily any more difficult to control than neuralgia in other regions. Neuralgia of the facial muscles, for instance, can be exctremely painful and aggravating and stubborn. So is sciatica, in which the sciatic nerve of the lower-back and upper portion of the leg is involved.

Most certainly I am not belittling intercostal neuralgia. There are many patients who suffer it, and they'll agree with me that it is a tough nuisance that it can be difficult to correct.

The question is why. Let's stick to your particular problem. A variety of things can cause the nerve trunks to develop a painful storm. Arthritic changes in the spine can be the due of a case of shingles; a toxic focal infection somewhere else in the body, as in a tooth or teeth, perhaps in the prostate or in some other tract; excess tobacco.

These are some of the possibilities. Sometimes X-rays will give a very useful clue. In other cases they are helpful, at least, X-rays that are "negative" give you some bit of information. They indicate that the trouble is not something that will be detected by X-rays.

Please don't say that I'm indulging in double-talk. I'm just trying to help things on line and explain why neither I, nor your doctor, nor anybody else, can give you a single prescription to cure neuralgia.

If arthritis is affecting the spinal segments so they pinch the nerve, that dictates the treatment. If it is one of the other things I mentioned, the solution is generally easier than that to the orthritis case.

Start with X-rays to see what they show, and go on from there. Look for no simple an answer, and you invite disappointment. Understand the complexity of the possibilities, and you are on the road to success.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband had a very small malignant tumor burned off in his bladder. What is the likelihood of recurrence, and how soon? Do statistics show any cures for bladder cancer?— Mrs. P. H."

I can't guess at the prospects in any given case, when I haven't had any chance to examine the patient. You'll have to ask your own doctor. But I can tell you that with cancer of the bladder, the ones found early show a very high rate of cure; the ones found late (after the cancer has penetrated well into the walls of the bladder) have a poor outlook. And unfortunately, in the ones caught at in-between stage. From the figures I quoted the first time, I would judge that your husband's was found quite early.

Note to Mrs. F. D.—Please, friendly reader—and let the answer umply-ump other questions when your name is 82, just treat her like a nice old lady in her 60's or early 70's, tired, bothered by various symptoms. She's old. Medicine can't solve all the problems of age.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON "BORROWED" TIME

I hear people tell of "borrowed time." I do not like it. It seems to me to be a confusion of thoughts. If Time is just borrowed, how do we live it? Time — for all things borrowed have to be returned. The late Ben Hur Lampman wrote: "The trouble with life is that it takes so long." That would not matter if you could borrow this thing called Time and have it to live out our days, no matter how spent, if we could but leave a trail of beauty in the mind!

It's the sum of our days that should be appraised and distributed far and away. We can, in these modern days, expend sunny hours that give us a lift, a thrill, a mood, how do we live it — for all things borrowed have to be returned. The late Ben Hur Lampman wrote: "The trouble with life is that it takes so long." That would not matter if you could borrow this thing called Time and have it to live out our days, no matter how spent, if we could but leave a trail of beauty in the mind!

Life is kind to most of us and behind the shadows is the Light if we only look for it and keep it.

Every experience in life may be beneficial to the one who lives it. Nothing is so valuable as a clear path ahead.

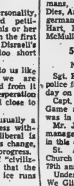
We ought to be guided by a necklace of Visions. All time then would trot along confidently — and without fear!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

My worst scare of 1960 occurred on the other afternoon while driving peaceably along in orderly traffic and everything underfoot suddenly went wrong. A street a car that had been standing waiting for a break in order to turn left made a wild jump. The two cars ahead of me not only had to jam on brakes, they had to swerve, one towards the curb, the other leftward into the downcoming traffic. In the downcoming stream, three cars had to go through a series of gymnations. I got stopped and received only a slight bump from behind. But there were a good many screeching tires and mild clashes of metal.

The offending car, turning away, does not until I had got a glimpse of its driver; an elderly gentleman man, with an elderly lady sitting beside him.



Nobody got his number. A policeman on the corner who witnessed the shenozzle came and asked us if anybody had got the car's number. Nobody had.

"Those dang elderly drivers!" said the constable. "They must be figure everybody else will look out for them."

And we do, with the resulting quivers.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

And More Light

up the energy they absorbed in the first place.

So we call an unexcited atom a "dry sponge." Wring it and it will not give up any water. Put now pour water over it, the sponge absorbs the water (so the atom absorbs energy). The sponge will give off the water it has absorbed if you squeeze it—in fact, the sponge will give the water off even without squeezing it— by evaporation.

An unexcited atom does not give off any energy unless it absorbs energy beyond what it normally contains, and having done so, by nature it seems to try to get back to its normal condition by throwing off the energy it has just absorbed. As it throws off this energy, it creates "light" of some wave length or other. And upon the wave length of the light, will depend whether it can be seen or not.

UNSTABLE ATOMS

The use of the term stable atom implies that there might be such a thing as an unstable atom. And that is exactly the case. There are atoms that are not stable and that give off light in a burst without absorbing energy from other sources. If there are enough of these atoms present the light will continue since all of the atoms don't all pop off at the same time. These unstable atoms give off energy. None of this light can be seen under normal conditions.

You may say that this sounds like perpetual motion. It sounds like it, but it is not, because to give off energy an atom has to lose some of its mass. Ultimately, through a series of reductions an atom gives off mass and becomes a different kind of an atom. It will ultimately become stable and stop giving off energy.

Uranium is an example. Uranium is giving off energy all the time and some of this is light but it cannot be seen. But its light can be detected with a Geiger counter. Some of the energy uranium atoms give off, is not "light" but is called Alpha rays. (These are bits of matter travelling at great speed). In 4½ billion years a pound of uranium will have disintegrated into one-half pound of lead (stable) and one-half a pound of uranium.

So, uranium is said to have a 1-2 life of 4 1-2 billion years. That means that one-half of a given quantity of uranium, will in 4 1-2 billion years, turn itself into lead. (Which atoms of uranium will and which won't become lead atoms is one of the mysterious selections of the universe). A form of atomic bluff. We will discuss this again.

Baptist Says Kennedy Bigot; Assails Truman

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — A Baptist leader Wednesday called Senator John Kennedy a bigot, predicted Vice-President Richard Nixon's election as president of the United States and said Harry Truman ought to be turned out of his church unless he repents his use of profanity.

These press conference statements by Dr. Ramsey Pollard, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, preceded his address Wednesday night closing the annual session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Pollard's remarks about Truman, a Baptist, answered a request for comment on a recent campaign speech by the former president in Texas. Truman said Texans ought to go to hell if they vote Republican.

Pollard said such language brought "discredit to the nation, the high office of president and the cause of Christ." Pollard added that Truman's local church should turn him out unless he "repents of his sins and ill manners."

In Fishkill, N.Y., Truman reported: "I've already told the Baptists where they ought to get off and I can't add anything to it."

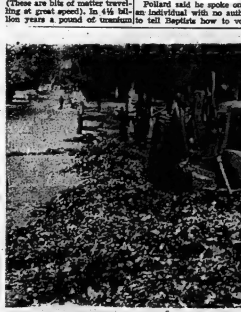
Concerning the church ouster suggestion, Truman said: "I dare 'em to do it."

SPEAKS AS INDIVIDUAL

Pollard said he spoke only as an individual with no authority to tell Baptists how to vote.

Work Crews Use Snowblower To Clear Leaves off Roads

Year round use for a snowblower?



That might sound ridiculous, but the Belleville city works department has come up with an off-season use for its snow removal equipment.

The off-season use for the snowblower is for removal of leaves on city streets. And it works!

The snowblower was tried earlier in the week on an experimental basis for picking up leaves and it has worked so well that its continued use throughout the city has been decided upon. Currently it is working in the East Hill area.

First, a tractor-operated rotary broom is used to windrow the leaves from the curbside into the centre of the street. Then the snowblower follows along picking up the leaves and blowing them into dump trucks for disposal.

Assisting in the clean-up operations are welfare recipients.

W.J. Musgrove Guest Speaker At Kinsmen Club

Guest speaker at the Kinsmen meeting on Monday was W. J. Musgrove, principal of the Moira Secondary School. Mr. Musgrove's interesting topic was about the educational system now being used in the Quinte district secondary schools.

Past president, Ben Yanovet, introduced the speaker and he was thanked for his talk by Jack Stewart.

Honorary member past president Harry Rollins was a guest for the evening.

Committee reports were given by the light bulb chairman, swimming pool chairman and including an important report by Don MacLean in regard to the eye glass clinic. He said that the $400 worth of calls for children and parents needing eye glasses were made.

The winner of the Kinsmen Honorary Club draw was Mrs. Victor Houchin, 9 N. Park St.

STUDY NIGHT COURTS

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor Police Commission continued studies Wednesday of night courts to deal with traffic and other minor offenders. Letters are being sent to major Ontario centres. An earlier letter from Guelph said response to a night court conducted for more than a year was poor.

A BIRD WELL IN HAND — Lee Grills, MP, takes a hand at carving the turkey at the annual dinner meeting of the Belleville Agricultural Society yesterday evening, as Clarke Rollins, MLA, cautions him not to take too big a slice. Elmer "Sandy" Sandercock, MLA, and Carl Thompson, president of the Society, look on.

Dr. Russell Scott Honored At Fall Fair Board Dinner

Usually whenever the Belleville Agricultural Society meets there is work to be done in preparation for the annual Belleville Fair. Yesterday evening pleasant change of pace for the at the Kiwanis Centre was a hard-working directors and members when the annual dinner was held.

A good meal, pleasant entertainment and short speeches highlighted the yearly social gathering of the Society which saw over 100 members and guests in attendance. The evening's program went off quite smoothly in a free and easy manner under the direction of President Carl Thompson.

In a brief review of the 1960 Fair, Mr. Thompson thanked the society's executive, directors and members for their co-operation and hard work which had produced one of the finest fairs in the 112-year-old history of the society. He noted that some $12,000 had been paid out to exhibitors, one of the largest amounts ever.

Especially honoured during the evening was Dr. Russell Scott, past president of the society and currently chairman of the International Plowing Match committee for 1961. Scott was presented with an Ontario Department of Agriculture certificate of achievement for his good work and contribution to the activities of the local society. "Senator" Harry Rollins made the presentation.

CHANGE IN DATE

Dr. Scott mentioned the forthcoming plowing match for October of next year. Due to a most favorable date change, the first allowed, the match will continue for four days, from the Wednesday before Thanksgiving weekend through to, and including, the Saturday, instead of ending on a Friday as it has up to now. It is expected, Dr. Scott stated, that this will prove to be a tremendous boost to attendance.

Other speakers included Elmer Sandercock, MLA for West Hastings, who complimented those who have been active on the board of directors over the past years and those who have newly come to be directors. To the latter he pointed out that they had been honored with the responsibility of carrying on the good work which had preceded them and urged them to so do.

Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South, congratulated the fair board members on the excellent job they are doing in making the Belleville Fair the success it is. He pledged his continued interest and support in their endeavours wherever called upon. Clarke Rollins, MLA for East Hastings, also promised to render assistance whenever called upon by the board.

Bob Phillips, treasurer and vice president of the society, stated that he felt that although many of the members and a number of directors were not always able to attend the many meetings held it was due to the fact that they contributed so wholeheartedly when they were able to that the fair's program ran so smoothly and successfully.

Amongst the other speakers at the evening were Orland Pinkston, chairman of the Parks Board; Dr. Harry Rose, vice-president of the society; Mrs. Elmer Sandercock, president of the ladys directors; Ben Bleecker, secretary of the Fair Board; Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald, president of the ladies' groups for District Three of the Ontario Fairs Association; Inspector Clair Hayes of the City Police; Harley Hamilton, Reeve of Sidney Township; C. G. Long, reeve of Tyendinaga Township and Sid MacDonald, agricultural representative.

A barbershop quartet, composed of Phil Squires, Bob Park, Don Gemmill and Ross Scrimgeour provided entertainment for the evening. Their talent was very warmly received by those present. A dog-sang was also held with Ben Bleecker and "Senator" Rollins providing inspired leadership.

COSSA Girls 'B' Volleyball

Stirling, Madoc Win Titles

Stirling High School captured their third consecutive Bay of Quinte COSSA Senior "B" girls' volleyball championship at OSD yesterday while Madoc High School took top junior honors.

Twenty-one teams took part in the "B" tournament while 12 teams are playing in the "A" tournament today, also at OSD.

Both winners and runners-up are eligible for the COSSA championships which will be held at OSD on November 26th this year.

Stirling and the host OSD team met in the senior finals last evening after both clubs won all three of their scheduled games in the afternoon.

Stirling took their third straight championship by scores of 11-8 and 13-10 over OSD in the finals.

Three teams tied for first place in the junior division. Madoc, Stirling and Marmora had equal records. Madoc drew a bye into the finals while Marmora ousted Stirling in the semi-finals.

Madoc won the title with victories of 11-7 and 14-8 over Quinte COSSA Senior "B" girls' Marmora in the finals. The Marmora team won the championship last year.

Mr. J. D. Demmon, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, presented the Bay of Quinte championship trophies to the winners.

National Ballet Excels In Well-Chosen Program

By EUGENE LANG

For the third time in as many years a capacity audience was in attendance at the Collegiate auditorium last evening to indulge in the fantasy of the terpsichorean art as bequeathed to Canada and the world by the excellent National Ballet under the National Ballet of Canada. Since its formation in 1951 it has brought extensively through this country, the United States and Mexico and has drawn rave reviews from practically every city in which it has appeared. Under the artistic direction of Celia Franca the company has continued to improve each successive season, until now it can be considered as one of the top Ballet groups in existence today.

Possessing a repertoire that embraces the finest of the classical ballet and a generous selection of the contemporary idiom The National Ballet has a list of forty-odd attractions at its command that it performs in the course of its various tours. Its reception here in Belleville is always anticipated excitingly and it never fails to arouse local audiences as witnessed by the continued applause after each number that is produced by this stellar cast of dancers.

SUAVE PERFORMANCES

The program was a carefully balanced series of five selections extending 19th and 20th century ballet. "Les Sylphides" was given a hauntingly beautiful realization as the participants of the company in conventional classic white adorned the stage with their graceful pendulums set to the choreography of Fokine and the lyrical music of Chopin. In their respective roles Lavern Terrell and Hans Meister supplied interpretations of suavity and charm with no lesser comments being arrived at for the entrancing additions given by Sylvia Tyven and Jacqueline Lynge.

Three excerpts from Tschaikowsky's mythical "Princess Aurora" were each projected with scintillating performances by the dancers, Angela Leigh and Earl Kraul were models of finesse in their subtle conception of the "Blue Bird Pas de Deux" and Jeannette Cassels and Glenn Gilmour were as coyishly cavorting in their number as Fairies Greenwood and Patrick Hurde were cavortingly coy.

Again set to the music of Chopin, the "Pas de Deux Romantique" envisaged by Lois Smith and David Adams was as fluent in motion as it was flowing in its mal detail. Their dancing in this short offering was superb in every aspect.

"Afternoon of a Faun" set against fragile tonalities of Debussy's impressionistic tone poem was given a realization of sylvan simplicity by dancers Kenneth Melville and Jocelyn Terrell that was outstanding in its scope. Artistic director of the Ballet, Celia Franca, choreographed a tender music a choreography that was, indeed, striking in its subtle shading of the principals and the six supporting dancers.

FULSATING RHYTHMS

The closing number of Ibert's "Divertissment" and the musical meanderings of the same composer's "Trois Pieces Breves" for Woodwind Quintet formed a varied orchestral background for the final production of the evening, a modern duo scene titled "Antic Spring". A large cast was needed to perform this number and they are all to be complimented for their individual and collective dancing, more so when one considers the confined space that the stage allows. Again Angela Leigh and Earl Kraul were most captivating in their respective roles, but one did feel a little sorry for the plight of Patrick Hurde as the rural bumpkin in that his light blue costume was overly soiled by the gathered dust and dirt of the stage. Surely the floor of the stage could have been given a thorough sweeping at intermission to avoid this mishap. Otherwise the comic antics of Patrick Hurde were humorously conceived and imagined.

The orchestra under the direction of Conductor George Crum was a decided improvement over their last appearance here and one found the balance of the various choirs a lot more co-ordinated in their playing. In other words, the orchestral accompaniments were styled with scrutinized care and played with artistic finesse.

This National Ballet is a group that Canada can be proud of and its stature as a major cultural force in this nation's musical life increases as the years go by and it brings more laurels and accolades as its youthful years ripen to a harvest of golden memories in that phantasmagoria that we call The Ballet.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

HOMEMAKERS

The October meeting of the Belleville Red Cross Homemakers was held at the home of the supervisor, Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, 178 Dufferin Street.

Mrs. K. W. Blakley spoke on "Behavior and the Small Child", and problems in dealing with young children.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. P. Drury, and Mrs. M. Craig.

St. Columba Church Elects Executive

Recently the newly-elected Board of Managers of St. Columba Presbyterian Church held its first meeting.

Elected to the executive for 1961 were the following church members: Mr. G. Reid, chairman; Mr. W. Willis, vice-chairman; Mr. J. Hayman, secretary; Mrs. S. Mulholland, assistant-secretary; Mr. D. MacDonald, property chairman; Mr. C. Ward, finance chairman; Mr. S. Mulholland, envelope secretary; and Mr. J. Baker, bulletin secretary.

Ex-officio members to the Board are: the Rev. W. Hutchison, and the president of the Ladies' Guild, Mrs. W. Willis.

The Board of Managers of any Presbyterian Church is concerned solely with the managing of all financial matters.

At the above meeting a number of miscellaneous matters were discussed as well as formulating a budget to meet future expenses.

The Board will hold its future meetings on the third Tuesday of each month.

Mr. and Mrs. James William Pine are shown following their recent marriage in Wellburn United Church, Wellburn, Ont. The bride is the former Miss Beth Marilyn Facey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Facey, of Belleville, Ontario, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pine of Belleville. (Photo by Maurice Oliver, St. Mary's, Ontario.)

PINE — FACEY

Wellburn United Church, Wellburn, Ontario, was the setting on Saturday, October 29, at 2.00 pm. for a very pretty autumn wedding when the Rev. Roy Burgess, of Belton, Ontario, united in marriage, Beth Marilyn Facey, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Facey, of Belleville, Ontario, to James William Pine, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pine. Pink and white chrysanthemums formed a lovely background for the ceremony and white satin bows marked the guest pews.

The wedding music included, "The Lord's Prayer," and "Because," rendered by the soloist, Miss Gayle Atwell, of Belton, Ontario.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her ballerina-length bridal gown of sheer organza over tulle and taffeta with lace applique forming a Sabrina neckline and tiny cap sleeves. The snugly fitted bodice emphasized the bouffant skirt which was lavishly appliqued with lace motifs. She wore a crown of simulated pearls and tulle, holding the double French silk illusion veil, and carried a bouquet of white orchids mingled with white stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Lorna Facey attended her sister as maid of honor; and Miss Ruth Hooper, of Toronto, and Miss Norma Arthur, of London, as bridesmaids. All were gowned alike in turquoise blue silk organza in street-length, featuring high empire waist lines of lace under organza with fitted bodices having scooped necklines and cap sleeves. The bouffant skirts featured shirred front panels. They wore jewelled trimmed pillbox hats with shoulder-length veils in matching colors and carried bouquets of pink carnations and white mums.

Mr. Royden N. Davis, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Murray Gregory of Belton and Mr. Graeme Burris, of Belleville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church parlour, where the bride's mother received, attired in a powder-blue sheath of pearl de soie with beige accessories and corsage of pink roses.

She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of beige antique brocade with fur trim, brown and fuchsia accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For travelling to points west the bride chose an apple-green suit with beige and brown accessories and corsage of white orchids.

Guests attended from St. Marys; Belton; Belleville; Ireland; Picton; London; Bloomfield; Carrying Place; Stratford; Toronto and St. Thomas.

The bride, prior to her marriage, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Lois Rodgers, of Belleville; at a miscellaneous shower given by the Wellburn community and at a crystal shower at the home of Mrs. Lorne Atwell, of Belton, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Pine are residing in Belleville.

Premier Frost Hears Brief From Women

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost and seven members of his cabinet were urged by 6 professional and business women Wednesday to train unemployed persons for jobs where there is more opportunity.

An Ontario Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs delegation was led by the president, Helene Gibson of Sault Ste. Marie, and included members from Hamilton, Collingwood, Toronto, St. Catharines, Belleville, Niagara Falls, Bramalea and Chatham.

Labor Minister Roberts said the province is attempting to set up committees in municipalities to find the number of unemployed, and in what fields retraining courses are needed.

Elsie Gregory MacGill urged the ministers to appoint a woman to the department of general affairs, to plan and coordinate the administration of institutions for women.

Quintena Rebekah Lodge Sponsors Fine Tea, Bazaar

Purple, mauve and gold were the keynote colors of the Quintena Rebekah tea and bazaar held yesterday afternoon in the IOOF Hall, Front Street, under the convenorship of Mrs. F. Judge, and Mrs. E. Beal.

Those who received at the door, were Mrs. Ila Addy, N. G., and Mrs. Irene McMartin, vice-grand; and the tea table section room included Mrs. Clare Ironside; Mrs. Annie Wash; Mrs. Ethel Sandercock, P. D. D. P., and Mrs. Pearl Baird.

Just inside the door of the large assembly room the various booths were arranged, each one bearing the keynote colors, some in graceful garland effects, and others in color band designs; but all most attractive. At the far end the novelty booth, in white and rust colored 'mums, and other potted plants, while about the room in strategic spots were more white baskets on tall pedestals.

COLORFUL APRONS

The apron booth was filled with a fine assortment of colorful aprons, all in pretty floral prints, striped ginghams; and also in plain colors, made either in the favorite bat style, or in the all - over effect. Here in particular was a new idea, in a reversible pattern; plain on one side with the other side in pretty little pastelle flower applique, and on the other side a pattern of fruits in dishes in russet shade. Another apron was one for the Christmas season with its deep border of red with holly with red berries. Others had Christmas trees in blue chambray, and one in organdy for special occasions.

The novelty table displayed nicely crocheted curtain tiebacks in white and ecru fillet lace; hot plate mats; linen bridge sets with matching table runners; dressed sets; doilies; floral centrepieces, in shades of rose, mauve and blue; lovely embroidered pillow cases; sets to apple bloomers with blue humming birds hovering above, and many other fine pieces.

RICH HOMECOOKING

The homecooking, as usual, was rich in cakes; cookies; pies; fruit cakes; squares; cakes; preserves; jellies; jams, and marmalades; pot and Chinese fish chews; coffee rolls, topped with nuts and mouth-watering candied date squares, not - topped; and piles of all kinds, lemon, pumpkin; apple, and chiffon.

A port office with gold and purple wicket work, holding a parcel post packages had all been called for, and the post mistress was busy with these duties, when the structure turned into the Times Calling Office day. Helping hands soon raised the edifice and the bazaar went on.

The candy booth was about sold out as well, but had remnants of popcorn balls; maple cream; potato chips; peanut brittle; and divinity fudge in paper cups and other containers.

An interesting booth was that of the children's wear with its farm and country scenes, hen house, white and pink; little flannelette jackets and frocks with animal design; blue sun dresses and a very pretty embroidered cream satin carriage top with frills.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM

The tea room was upstairs, and most attractively adorned with tall standards of ferns and wide-open white gates; while other bouquets of white and crimson 'mums were placed here and there about the room. The novelty tea table was most charming with its gently flickering, tall white candles rising from tiny net collars accented by a tiny red carnation in each, in the centre, a lovely floral arrangement of red carnations and white 'mums, mingled with asparagus fern. The little guest tables were also prettily appointed.

The following ladies most capably filled their several positions in the tea room; convener — Mrs. Orma Adams, P.N.G. co-convener — Mrs. Gloss White.

Presiding at tea service — Mrs. Tom Wannamaker, N.G., Stirling; Mrs. Francis Kellar, N.G., Thomasburg; Mrs. Arthur Plumpton, D. D. President; Mrs. Jennie Redner, P.N.G.; Mrs. Ruth Charlton, P.N.G., and Mrs. Verne Summers, P.N.G.

Receiving hostesses: Madames Annie Rose, P.D.D.P.; Verne Gilchrist P.N.G., Janet Preddy P.N.G., Marjorie Large, P.N.G., Nellie Cooper, P.N.G. Phyllis Burley, P.D.D.P.

Replenishing — Mesdames G. Brickenman, Lacy Wannamaker, Stella Ducett; Maysell Sills; Dorothy Tugnett, June Flindall, Ruby Dorsey.

Serving — Mesdames Kay Burton, Betty Clark, Edith Rushworth, Margaret Rodgers, Leonore Wilson, Helena Darvell, Margaret Nelson, Agnes Bellclay, Dorothy Webber, Joyce Joyce, Mary Stevenson, Doris Clarke, Clara Ironside, Annie Webb, Grace Akey, Jean Pike, Gibbon Laura Brown and Mary Bailey.

Hallowe'en Dance Held by Sr. Citizens Club

The regular monthly evening meeting of the Senior Citizens' Social Club was held on November 2 in the Recreation Centre on Pinnacle Street with over 80 persons in attendance.

The rooms were tastefully decorated in the season of the Hallowe'en festive season, with black cats and Jack O'Lantems predominating.

About twenty arrived in costume and competition for costume and danced to the rhythm of selections played by members of the Bruce Sills Orchestra which also accompanied for community singing and also for guest soloists, belonging to the orchestra.

SPOT DANCE

The spot dance was won by Mrs. Wannamaker and Mrs. Hoy. First costume winner was also Mrs. Wannamaker, Mrs. Lawrence, and third, Mrs. James Doyle.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mr. Harry Scales, by one minute of silence in memory of Cecil Cook, convener, Mr. J. Hastings.

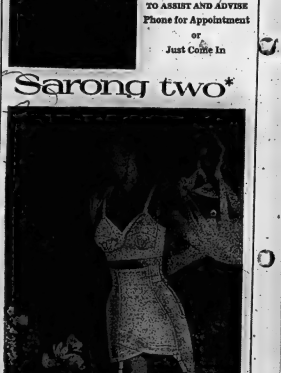
The new chairman of the Recreation Commission, Mr. William Gault, was introduced by the president. Mr. Gault thanked the extended words of greeting and welcome to all members and promised that the commission would continue to extend its good will and assistance to the club.

The draw for the door prize of groceries was won by Mrs. Cecil Cook, convener of the refreshment committee.

Three members of the club who will celebrate birthdays during November were presented with an appropriate number by the orchestra. The members of the orchestra were Mr. Bruce Sills, Mr. C. Thorn and Mr. C. Reed at the piano.

After the close of the ephemeral period, under the direction of Mr. James Doyle and Mrs. Adams, all members joined in an hour of euchre. The winners were: men, W. A. Brenner, Mr. Williamson; ladies Mrs. Hasley and Mrs. Barriage.

Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas dinner to be held on the evening of December 2nd, after which refreshments were served by the committee in charge, including a large birthday cake to celebrate the seventh anniversary of the organization of the Senior Citizens' Club.



Banquet Attended by 120 Guests

BATAWA — Dr. P. Zenki, former mayor of Prague now president of the Association of Captive European Nations, was the guest speaker at a banquet in Batawa Recreational Hall, on Saturday.

A successful event, this banquet was attended by over 120 people. Local speakers were — A. Pulcar, president of the Czecho-Slovak Association of Canada, and Dr. C. Herz, vice-president and general manager of the Batawa Paper Mills. Jan Slatch, brilliant Toronto vocal artist, favored with solos.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Madeline — My sister exasperates everyone to humor her.

Corinne — I think a sister should feel for her sister.

Madeline — My sister is 37 and suddenly she thinks she's an artist. She's driven me strict orders not to call her in the middle of the day because that's when she's painting.

Her husband and children fall for that "temperament" stuff. I think she's just pushing people around. Her art doesn't amount to a bill of beans. She has an instructor who said her stuff is good and now she wants to chuck everything she used to do in her spare time and do nothing but make masterpieces.

She used to meet me for lunch. We'd go on shopping sprees together. Sometimes when things are quiet in the office I get an urge to talk to her. But I don't dare. The last time I tried it she hurried me up, asked me "the message" said she had no time to chew the rag. Well it happens I can't call when she does have time. I have other things to do in the evening.

She's the same way with her friends and one by one she's losing them. I tell her she'll be sorry. No hobby is worth giving up friends for. I think she's betting on the wrong horse.

Corinne — Madeline doesn't understand that this is more than a hobby to me. It's an outlet. I've been waiting for all my life and may well lead to a real career.

Years ago, true, it was a hobby. While the children were growing up I played around with my oil paints. Of course, the family came first. But now that my young ones are in homes of their own, I think it's my turn for self-expression and I want to be serious about it — not drop it everytime Madeline or anyone else wants to yak.

I'm not upstaging Madeline. I don't know if I'm talented or not. I just want to give it the old Army try. My present teacher was a judge in a local competition and one of my still lifes won a thing prize. He says I have a real gift. One of my neighbors offered me $100 for a picture I made of the willows in her backyard. It's exciting. I want to follow through.

The thing that amazes me is how much you can find out about your friends when you make a simple request to be left alone during the day. My true friends, and that includes my husband and children, do their darndest to cooperate. The others just get sore, bawl me out a few times, and then drop me.

The Council: Careful, Madeline, your envy is showing. Can it be that you don't like the idea of Corinne, doing exactly what she's always wanted to do, while you have to sit in the same old office squeezing your fun — mainly gossipy phone calls — into your lunch hour and coffee break?

The pursuit of a career need not cancel out old friendships that have long been nourished in the usual way, by dates and letters and telephone calls and parties. But it certainly tests them! Emerson compares friendship to books and says, "I would have them where I can find them, but I seldom use them".

Corinne now wants to coast on the momentum of the relationships she has built, while her time and attention go feverishly into self-realization. This is her right. Her only opposition comes from people like Madeline, who, dissatisfied themselves, would rather "use" her companionship as comfort than turn to new outlets.

Whenever qualms, of course, Corinne might invite Madeline to make a midday phone call, if that's the time the latter is most in the mood for it. But, in general, Corrine's advice is reasonable and should be respected by her sister.

It's true Corinne is gambling. But she's not betting on her success as an artist. She's betting that her loved ones are rooting for her no matter what. She seems to be betting wrong on Madeline.

Outdoor Broilers Need Winterizing

Last summer's outdoor cooking equipment needs special care, if it is to be in good working condition next year. The following tips are offered by the home service department of a barbecue manufacturer, for cleaning the grill or rotisserie:

Disassemble the spareribs and soak in water with a low sudsing detergent.

Scrub metal parts with brushes, steel wool, scouring powder or wire brushes.

Rinse in hot water and dry thoroughly.

Reassemble and wrap in newspaper for storage.

The Experts Say

Buy All Pieces of Furniture In the Same Quality Line

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Furniture, like a car, is not a lifetime investment, says Phyllis Stagg.

As the income of the family increases, the family is likely to want better furniture, says Miss Stagg, who is in charge of decorating services for a large Toronto department store.

In key event, furniture styles and colors change, and the average homemaker will want to change the furniture over the years.

HOW TO BUY

Miss Stagg doesn't think it is wise to invest too much money in one piece of furniture, having the rest of a lesser quality.

"That's like putting all your eggs in one basket," she said in an interview.

Instead, she advises buying all the pieces in the same quality. This avoids the danger of having one good piece emphasize the lower quality of the others.

Careful planning and bargain-hunting can add up to an attractively-furnished home. A list of the necessary items should first be made, and when the buyer knows what is wanted, sales of such items can be watched for.

Miss Stagg advises doing as much work as possible yourself. Sewing your own drapes is a big saving.

She advises putting more money into upholstered furniture which can be recovered at a later day. Some less expensive pieces would not be worth recovering and would have to be replaced. A good mattress was also a necessity.

SMALL RUGS FIRST

Accent rugs can be used at first and replaced later with broadloom, she says. Area - sized rugs can be made from remnants.

Color and fabrics can be used to advantage in decorating a room. A wallpaper mural or a wall-papered wall creates a centre of interest.

A basic color, a secondary color and an accent color should be chosen, advises decorator consultant Sally Hynes. She has found that quiet people usually prefer less color than vivacious people.

When starting from scratch, she advises buying a bed, chest of drawers, table and chairs, first. This gives you a place to sleep, eat and put your things. Next comes the sofa and a chair or pair of chairs. From there it's end tables, coffee tables, and lamps.

"Then, I don't know which comes first — rug, television or it. It all really depends on a person's interests," Miss Hynes said.

I.O.O.F. Holds Successful Card Party

DESERONTO — There were 27 tables of cards in play at the card party sponsored by the I.O.O.F. at the Lion's Hall on Saturday night. The play was spirited and the competition keen so that all had an enjoyable evening.

Following the cards, lunch was served to the assemblage by the committee in charge and, according to reports, it was a delightful lunch.

The winners were as follows: door prize: Mitchell Roebuck; lucky ticket, B. Connelly; ladies' high, Helen Leslie, Irene Cartland; lone hands, Mrs. Arthur Hill; high score for men Gerald Sager, Franklin Green; lone hands, Arnold Rogers.

Because the venture was such a success the committee has decided to hold another card party in the same hall on the last Saturday in November.

St. Thomas' Parochial Guild Tea Charmingly Successful

St. Thomas' Parish House assumed a gala appearance yesterday afternoon for the Parochial Guild autumn tea and bazaar. Every window ledge was adorned with white baskets of bronze and golden-tinted mums, and the stage a miniature art gallery with paintings by Mrs. Arthur Slater, in scenes of summer, winter and autumn, making a lovely background for the array of dolls which held sway in the foreground. Not far removed was a Christmas candy tree gleaming with golden globes and tinsel, favors hanging from its silvered branches. While round-about the spacious room were the other attractive booths each one prettily decked in the colors of the season.

The daintily dressed dolls, of all sizes and colors, some dark and some fair as Norwegian beauties, were beautifully clothed in knitted suits, and dresses. There was one in blue, with matching fur trimmed bonnet and cloak; some in pink, and some in white with pink hats and cloaks. All so pretty they made one admire the fashion garments of the old poem, "Backward, turn backward, O time in thy flight, make me a child again, just for tonight". Besides the dolls, there were lots and lots of dolls clothes, dresses, coats, hood and caps.

ELABORATE CANDY BOOTH

The candy booth was most elaborate in its layout of maple creams, divinity fudge, peanut brittle, chocolate fudges, nut topped all in cellophane wrapped boxes, some in heart shape, and others in little cups; also a Turkish delight in fancy forms of animals; jars of nuts and bolts; round pats of rice crispies and over all the afore-mentioned "Candy Tree".

The knit goods displayed pretty sets for babies in white, pink, yellow and green, and some in combinations of colors, booties, mitts, a sleeveless sweater for rose color with deep open neckline and pearl buttons; fronted slippers with pompom ties; men's socks and many others. At one end of the booth there was a miniature child's playhouse in knit form, having a red and white striped top with ball fringe edges and white side walls.

The handicraft booth was next with a splendid assortment of fancy articles, stubby Christmas candles in white, and red, green; serviettes with matching place mats in blue; a pink knit Peter rabbit; a green elephant and a pink dachshund — (a lot of child's bedroom slippers); leather book - marks; pretty black and red oven mits with red ears, winter bouquets of millweed pods, wild flowers, all nicely colored; fancy kerchiefs, and red Christmas stockings, and blue organdy aprons with pink elephants.

The homebaking booth was the most attractive centre with its delicious piles of many kinds; tiny cookies; layer, loaf and angel cakes, plain and fancy iced; coco cake depicted a Scotch terrier with shredded cocoanut for hair, green maraschino cherries for eyes and nose, and cubes of red cherries for the little snapping teeth, a work of art in the realism; and little cree meakes and cup cakes.

Another drawing card was the apron booth, filled to overflowing with many dainty aprons for mother, daughter, Miss Teenage, all in pretty ginghams and prints; fancy, silk, some in plain colors of mauve, yellow, green, pink and rose, and others with contrasting frills, as well as some in organdies, any one of which would make suitable Yuletide gifts.

PRETTY TEA ROOM

The tea room in the lower auditorium was especially pretty with its window ledges adorned with silver bouquets and golden globes hanging from the green drapes; and here and there in the large, gleaming white polnsettias were set, pillars decked with metallic-holly leaves in green.

Backgrounding the lovely tea table with its white damask cloth, centred by an exquisite arrangement of pink and white 'mums mingled with bronze bachelor's buttons and flanked by tall, glowing white candles were two crystal cucopias filled with glistening green boughs interspersed with blue and golden globes. The tiny guest tables were also covered with white cloths, with trays of dainty sandwiches, and tiny confiture cakes, making in all a charming place in which to enjoy the "pause that refreshes."

OFFICIALLY OPENED

The Reverend Canon A. S. McConnell officially opened the bazaar by extending to all a most hearty welcome, and complimenting the ladies on the excellent display, and praising them for the many months of faithful work in preparing the bazaar.

The guests were received by Mrs. W. E. Fisher, president of the Guild; Mrs. A. S. McConnell, wife of the rector, and Mrs. J. C. Elsberry, wife of the Curate, all of whom were lovely corsages, and extended gracious welcomes.

YP Class Holds Hallowe'en Masquerade

FRANKFORD — The Young Peoples Sunday School class of Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle held a Hallowe'en masquerade party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reg Elliott last Monday evening.

The evening's festivities began with a game: Mrs. D. Wright teacher of the class, and assistant, Mrs. Elliott, directing costume winners. For the best costume, Miss Sandra Purvis, the funniest costume Charlie Sager.

Games were enjoyed by all, Miss Beverley Wannamaker rendered a piano solo, and Mr. Paul McIver of Belleville and his cousin, Miss Bev. Wannamaker rendered two vocal duets. Choruses were sung.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Reg Elliott, assisted by Mrs. K. Wright and Mrs. K. Heim.

Miss A. Francis To Speak Here

Miss Anne Francis will be guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Women's Canadian Club to be held at the Hotel Quinte next Tuesday evening. Her topic will be "Personalities Around the World."

Miss Francis was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and was educated at Agnes Irwin School and Bryn Mawr College. She has travelled all her life: in Europe, West Indies, Middle East, Germany and Pakistan.

Miss Francis began lecturing on International Affairs in the 1930's and has been giving news commentaries on national networks and international service of CBC since 1940. She has written many magazine articles and is the author of a pamphlet on "Status of Women" published by the Canadian Institute of International Affairs. Among her extra-curricular activities is an interest in social work: a former board member of Winnipeg Junior League, and chairman of the Editorial Board Canadian Welfare Magazine.

Miss Francis was the Women's Press Club Jubilee award in 1951, and the Women's National Press Club award for broadcasts on India and Canadian princes in 1957. She was the only woman member of the Canadian delegation to the UNESCO Conference in New Delhi in 1956.

St. Paul's WMS Honors Former President

STIRLING — On Thursday afternoon, October 27th, Mrs. Robert Patterson, Front Street, Stirling, was hostess to 50 members of St. Paul's Women's Missionary Society at her home.

The ladies enjoyed a social hour in honor of their president, Mrs. A. Packman who is leaving to take up residence in Toronto.

Mrs. Dave Leury spoke words of appreciation and each lady in attendance signed a very pretty card as a momento of the occasion.

The hostess made the presentation of a silver cream and sugar set with matching tray.

The recipient voicing grateful thanks for the party and gifts, also thanked the executive and members for their co-operation during her term of office.

Catholic PTA Convenes At New College

"Your children know you — parent know thyself," said Dr. Edith Patterson, speaking at the district workshop of the C.P.T.A. held in Nicholson College) as she reported on the Family Life conference held in Peterborough recently.

"The father is the head, and the mother is the heart, of every home. The parents supply the background for the intellectual and spiritual life of the child. Mothers and fathers are students always; for how can they answer the child's questions where they should be answered, in the home, if they, the parents, have not the knowledge of the world and their religion? Parents should be good, sincere examples at all times. How better will they learn obedience, sincerity and above all, true love?"

The C.P.T.A. has the ideal facilities to promote the Lay Apostolate of Catholic adult "education and thereby fulfil its purpose of service to parent, teacher and child.

An enthusiastic discussion followed.

Following Dr. Peterkin's report, a workshop was held dealing with problems and problems of Catholic Parent Teacher Association in the area.

Chairmen and executives of the various P.T.A. groups, in and around Belleville, were in attendance, and Mrs. J. G. Lamarche, president, Mrs. E. Hartnett, secretary and Mr. Ron Hutchinson, parent councillor of the Kingston Archdiocese were visitors.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

The world is filled with people who are cursed with the blight of immediacy. "Give it to me now — or never!"

They have lost patience, they have given up responding to the great challenges, they measure progress by material gauges alone. They count as good only that which succeeds now! They accept as worthwhile only that which can be sensed and possessed immediately and tangibly. They often lose the battle for life in a single skirmish.

Western civilization has brought much of value to the world. Through it, many diseases have been conquered, many human blights eradicated. Great towers and monuments have been erected to man's technical skills. But withal, we have succumbed the curse of "now-ism." Going forward materially, we also imagined that the only standards by which things, ideas and men are to be judged are those which are capable of producing immediate results.

Ironically, a scientific age should have produced a more spiritually-patient age. When Edison's colleagues were about to give up in their search for the successful experiment after 50,000 attempts, they turned to him in despair and said: "We have labored in vain. We know nothing!" Edison turned upon them, still aglow with the spirit that transcends the visible from the known into the unknown, and replied: "You are wrong my friends. We have made 50,000 experiments. You think that they have failed. Perhaps. I believe that they have succeeded! We now know 50,000 ways that won't work!"

It is not only important to learn from our immediate success, but even more instructive to learn from our failures. But with one basic precaution: We must never allow ourselves to succumb to failures by calling them successes. If we are impatient we will vulgarize our search and be satisfied to stop with failures, making believe that they are successes.

If we live only in terms of the here and the now, we will call success only that which this hour brings to us. We close the big and broad door of the future.

Tomorrow, the wise man learns, is much longer than today. If, to it, we bring hope and patience, courage and vision, what has been called failure, may really be resounding success.

Pentecostal Y.P. Holds Youth Rally

FRANKFORD — On the evening of October 29th, a Pentecostal youth rally was held in Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle.

The Rev. D. Maisne of Brighton, welcomed everyone and opened the rally and the Rev. M. Horsby of Campbellford, led in prayer. "I Know Whom I Have Believed" and "It is Glory Just to Walk With Him," were sung with Mr. Lyle Carbert of EPSC, Peterborough, as song leader.

The quiz teams, with the Rev. R. Reid of Trenton, in charge, contested. Belleville quiz team defeated Brighton quiz team by one point.

The junior choir of Bethel Temple, Trenton, rendered "Crown of Thorns."

The pastors present gave their church announcements.

Mr. Maisne introduced the guest speaker, Miss Maude Ellis of Norwood, who brought the evening message from Genesis 12: 1-9, and took as her text James 2: 3-3.

TORONTO (CP)—Former Ottawa mayor Dr. Charlotte Whitton Wednesday night predicted vast hospital facilities which would be almost equivalent to small towns within cities by the year 2,000. She told the New Mount Sinai Hospital women's auxiliary that satellite hospitals would surround great clinical centres to handle normal maternity, accident and emergency units.

EGGLETON MISSION BAND

MADOC JUNCTION — On Friday afternoon the October meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held at the school.

The worship centred at the front, held a cardboard on which was printed "Into All the World Together," an open Bible and the offering plate.

The new president, Dianne Pratt, presided and opened the meeting with the hymn, "I am Trusting O Lord."

The selected Scripture lesson was read by Carol White. A reading, "Our Camping Trip," was given by Dianne Prest. There were two adults and 26 children present.

Next meeting will be held on Friday, November 18th.

The senior girls offered to sell boxes of Christmas cards over the weekend. A reading, "Feed My Babies," was given by Lois Danford, telling about the orphan children in Korea.

The Mission Band leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, read two stories, "A Mountain Or A Mole-hill Thanksgiving" and "Sex's Book of Thanks." Both stories were from the book, "Journeying With the Year," by Viola Whitney Pratt.

The older pupils worked on their booklets, while the younger pupils cut out pretty book marks from old Christmas cards.

Following this, a Hallowe'en game, "Black Cat," was played. The meeting was dismissed by the teacher, Mrs. B. Reide.

Cookies, popcorn and candy were served by Ivan Reide and Lin Stapley.

NOTED LEADER

Helen MacGill, writer and judge who died in 1907, was the first woman girls graduate of Trinity College at Toronto in 1890.

Community Honors Young Couple

Stirling IOOF Hall, Charlotte St., was the scene of a recent happy gathering when friends and relatives gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Delbert McGee (nee Joan McGowan), on the occasion of their recent marriage.

Carman Pitchett acted as master of ceremonies for a program, which opened with community singing, led by Grant Richardson. Readings were given by Mrs. Percy McGee and Mrs. Clarence Eggleton. Judy Heath favored with a piano solo.

An appropriate address was read by Mrs. Volney Richardson and the presentation of a combination tri-light and reading lamp, a step - table and a hassock, on behalf of the community, was made by Cecil Nelson, Clifford Heath, and Ralph Gay.

A number of people expressed their best wishes to the bride and bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. McGee graciously thanked their friends and relatives for the lovely gifts, their best wishes, and the evening in their honor. They invited everyone to visit them.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

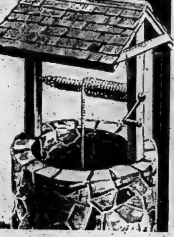
Mrs. M. Wilkes, 114 Holland Ave., Etobicoke, holds Mary Proctor Green Iron as she received her 6 books of Loblaws Lucky Green Stamps. "I just liked the look of it in the catalogue," she explained, "and I thought it would be right in to my ironing. It's wonderful for ironing all the new materials.



YOUNG 'EINSTEIN' GLUED TO MICROSCOPE
Kazi Talbot, age 9, of 401 Melrose Ave., Minico, with the exciting new Lumos Microscope she received absolutely free only 24 books of Loblaws Lucky Green Stamps.

CARBON BINDER HELPS HIM SPELL
"I never used them myself," says 12 year old Danny Wilson, Etobicoke, as he receives his Ring Binder. He received for only 24 books of Lucky Green Stamps. "It's a big help originally for notes for school." Danny, who is in Grade 7 at Norwarren Public School, says his spelling is his best subject.

SOON TO BE 2 GOLD CART FAMILY
Mrs. W. J. Thompson, 141 Uno Drive, Etobicoke, has been collecting Lucky Green Stamps for only 2½ years. She was given her Gold Cart after she received the 7½ books of Lucky Green Stamps. Father keeps her rowing it. "Only one neighbour here has another one now saving for another."

QUESTION BOX

Question: Are there any new French fries, crisp bacon and rules governing foods that may any meats that have a bone, to be picked up and eaten with the them, with his fingers. I have fingers, in order to fit in with argued with his mother about our informal ways of living to- this and she says it is done day? My son, age 10, insists on these days and to leave him eating many foods, such as alone. What are your ideas about this? — Mr. A. E. B., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: I think your wife is wrong. The rules are the same as they always have been when it comes to eating properly. The object, of course, is to eat in such a way as not to offend a beholder, in public or when dining in the home of friends. I definitely would say "no fingers, ever." In your case, this is ridiculous and shows a lack of faith in "na- ture." I am just 16. What do you think?

Miss C. B.

Answer: Good for mother! Please believe that she is not making this rule because of "lack of faith" in you. I'm sure this is not the case. She is simply doing the right thing in protecting your reputation for the future. Play along with her wishes and I am sure you will not regret it!

Question: I was taking an early evening drive with three of my women friends last week. I suggested that we stop for a bite to eat at a roadside restaurant. They were all for it. It upset me somewhat when the check was passed to me by the waitress at the end of the meal — that they all seemed to expect me to pay for it! Don't you think they should have paid for their own?

Mrs. P. W. — Baltimore, Md.

Answer: No, not under the circumstances. You invited them, actually. Therefore you were responsible for the payment for the meal. Had you suggested going Dutch treat, that would have made it a different picture!

Number Two Traditional White Fruit Cake

By Mary Moore

In September of 1958 I was invited to the home of one of my women friends and was served some of her 1956 White Fruit Cake. Boldly I asked for the recipe and this Fall made it up.

It is good to perfection, showing red and green cherry rings and luscious chunks of pineapple and citron and almonds. Emma says mayo gravy. Instead of the orange juice if you wish. Since she served it to me in September of 1958 you can tell that it keeps excellently.

1960 TRADITION WHITE FRUIT CAKE — NUMBER TWO (NO. 1 was given yesterday):

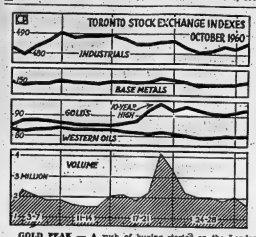
These amounts make about 5 1-2 pounds and fill two standard loaf pans.

1-2 pound butter, 1 cup plus 6 level tablespoons fine granulated sugar, 9 large eggs, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1-2 cup orange juice (or sherry), 7-8 cups sifted but unsifted pastry flour, 1 8-4 cups sifted but unsifted all-purpose flour, 1-2 tablespoons double-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, preferably freshly grated, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 pound halved red and green glace cherries, 1-2 pound cut-up candied pineapple, 1-2 pound chopped citron peel, 1 pound white raisins, 1-2 pound chopped blanched almonds (or walnuts).

Ingredients should be at room temperature. In a large mixing bowl cream butter until pale and fluffy. Gradually beat in sugar until it is light. Let stand 10 minutes to allow sugar to dissolve. Beat again. (Note: Emma says to beat on and off for an hour. I used the electric beater and think I beat the butter and sugar combination about 20 minutes in all.) Add eggs, one at a time, beating well between additions. Mix the all-purpose flour through all of the fruits and nuts. Sift together the pastry flour, salt, baking and baking powder, then add to the batter alternately with the orange juice (or sherry) and vanilla. Emma admonishes us to work quickly to prevent the batter curdling but I deliberately did not work quickly and it did not curdle. Stir in floured fruits very well. Turn into 2 standard loaf pans or 1 large square pan 8 x 8 x 2 1-4" — lined with foil and well buttered. Bake at 250 deg Fahr. for 1 hour, then raise temperature to 275 deg. for 3 to 3 1-4 hours longer or until it tests done. Have water pan (tensiler pan is excellent) in bottom of oven throughout baking period, replenishing water as it evaporates. Cool in or out of pans, leaving foil wrap on. Wrap in additional foil to store. Wrap in heavy towel and store in covered crock in cool place.

This cake took me 1 hour to mix and have ready for pans.

OFFER REWARD



PENETANGUISHENE (CP) — A $1,000 reward was offered by town officials Wednesday for information leading to the capture of the slayer of Christmas-tree farmer Oliver Forget. The 6-year-old man was killed by a shotgun blast as he sat at dinner in his cabin Oct. 25. Police said the motive was probably robbery.

GUIDING HANDS — Monica Lindeman, assistant director of the Kitalano Community Centre in Vancouver, helps a young blind girl in a handicraft course. It is part of an introductory program for 20 blind children to prepare them for their own neighborhood playgrounds. The program, sponsored by the Vancouver parks board and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind to integrate blind children into a sighted community, is the first of its kind in Canada. (CP Photo).

Past Tragedy Said Greatest Factor in Removing Wrong Ideas About Treating Blind

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Archaic traditions surrounding the development of blind children have been all but shattered here during the last decade.

And a tragedy of years ago that left more than 100 British Columbia infants blind shortly after birth was the greatest single factor in eliminating misconceptions and uncomfortable attitudes held by the general public.

It acted as a catalyst in combining the talents of social workers, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, parents and civic officials and produced a startling program that caught the imagination of others throughout the world.

The tragic note was 115 cases of retrolental fibroplasia in B.C. between December, 1945 and September, 1953. The condition occurred when premature babies were placed in incubators and inadvertently given too much or too little oxygen. This damaged the optic nerves, causing varying degrees of blindness. Usually it was complete.

STILL SOME CASES

By 1955 the cause was discovered and a safe range calculated for most infants. However, some cases still appear.

Prior to the outbreak, knowledge about the training, education and integration of blind children into a sighted community was seriously lacking, primarily because there were too few blind children to permit statistically valid conclusions.

The task was more difficult because of the variable factors involved such as the amount of residual vision and the age at loss of sight. This made it almost impossible to find a homogeneous group of pre-school blind children.

But the sheer weight of numbers affected in the outbreak forced all-out action here. B.C. normally has 10 to 15 blind children born within its borders each year, the basic causes being cancer, heredity or injury at birth.

GOOD TEST AREA

"The group really had everything working for them," said Eileen Scott, CNIB supervisor of social welfare here for 14 years and a leader in the integration program.

"The west is relatively young and free of traditions that have doomed the blind in other parts of the country and the world to lives of isolation and have plagued the public's attitude toward blind people in general.

"Following the Second World War there was a general reappraisal of public opinion. Rehabilitation programs with blind veterans placed them in industry for the first time and people began to accept the blind.

"Our group has also been relatively free of companion physical defects. These were normal children in every way, except they were blind.

"Past beliefs have placed an almost indelible stigma upon blind people. Frequently this was the result of companion defects affecting the heart or limbs. Some were mentally retarded at birth. Other normal children, because of the stigma, were hrd in the shadows and as a result suffered breakdown."

ATTITUDE IMPORTANT

Study and work with a group has produced these findings:

1. Blindness imposes certain general limitations on development of mobility, awareness and understanding of environment.

2. The blind child has the same basic needs as other children and must be loved and wanted and made to feel he is an important part of the family.

3. He needs an opportunity to learn for himself and experience the satisfaction of achievement.

4. Adjustment of the child is possible only with proper parental attitude.

The needs of the parents are paramount and great effort is made to remove anxieties centred around finances, medical diagnosis, community reaction, training and education.

A social worker assists parents, careful to make sure they do not become too dependent. She acts as a "safety valve" for hostility generated by unhappy public experiences.

Parents are urged to send children to Sunday school and later to a sighted nursery school. The earlier the blind child can mix with sighted children the better. "This is the first outside contact for the child and it has proved very important," says Miss Scott. "The sighted child learns as much as the blind. Not all blind children mix well, but our answer to that is that not all sighted children act this or any age mix well. The ratio is the same."

Vice-Presidential Nominees, Lodge and Johnson, Proving Parties Made Wise Choices

NEW YORK (CP) — When 1936, to the U.S. Senate. He re-Henry Cabot Lodge and Lyndon Baines Johnson were chosen as vice - presidential candidates by the Republican and Democratic conventions in July, there were groans from some of the party faithful.

But as the election campaign nears its close, many politicians are congratulating themselves on their prescience.

While it seems unlikely that either Johnson or Lodge has the appeal in swing votes one party to another, they have helped stir up enthusiasm within their own parties.

The Democratic, particularly, needed something to remove the disagreeable taste left in many Southern mouths by the choice of Roman Catholic—Senator John Kennedy — as their presidential nominee and his commitment to improving the lot of Negroes.

It took some time, but reports suggest Johnson has effectively prevented a split in the Democratic party's southern wing over Kennedy's selection. And in the northern and western states, Johnson seems to have overcome much of the suspicion created about his future loyalty to Kennedy.

Many Republican strategists, including Vice-President Richard Nixon himself, believe they need five victory about half the undecided states of the electorate plus the support of as many as possible of the Democratic voters regarded as lukewarm towards Kennedy and Johnson.

A combination of Nixon and Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York, many say, would have been the "dream ticket" to accomplish this. But Rockefeller, perhaps with eyes on the 1964 presidential stakes, refused to play.

The enthusiastic response to Lodge's addition by Republican voters offset the impression that the party was manning its second-best material. Lodge responded to a bombardment of invitations to tell, in fewer lives of doing and his listeners never seem to tire of hearing, how he has been battling the Communists for the best part of eight years as U.S. ambassador to the UN.

"No one is going to take over the United States and no one is going to take over the world," Lodge reassures his audiences.

And with praise for Nixon, "who knows how to stand up to Premier Khrushchev," the message is that only the feeble would wish to change horses in mid-stream for the untried Kennedy-Johnson team.

Lodge, 58, is a product of some of New England's leading families. His grandfather was a senator, his father a poet. A man of independent means, Lodge worked as a newspaper reporter before being elected first to the Massachusetts legislature and, in 1936, to the U.S. Senate. He resigned his seat to join the army in 1942. Six years later, he took his seat from him. The victor was John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Lodge married Emily Sears in 1935. They have two sons and eight grandchildren.

Baines Johnson, 52, was born, raised, educated and taught school in Texas. He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1937 and served there, being re-elected four times, for 12 years with brief time out for active service in the army in 1941-42. He married Claudia (Lady Bird) Taylor, in 1934. They have two daughters.

He went to the Senate in 1948 and soon acquired a liberal Democratic party's leader in that body. When the 1958 Congress elected Democratic majorities in both houses of Congress shifted to the Democratic while the Eisenhower Republicans held the White House and cabinet, Johnson has had a powerful influence on the shape of legislation.

Johnson's big main campaign themes is: "Give us the chance to show you what we could really do as a Democratic president."

It is the Texan's role as a conciliator, working behind the scenes to heal differences and settle bills that both his fellow senators and the administration support—that has been his chief claim to fame these last few years and is the reason why "liberal" Democrats have no reservations about him.

They wonder whether, as vice-president, he would have to go so far in placating southern conservatives that he, a man who make no secret of their dislike of the Republican party, would promise would be much the same as in recent years.

Whether Johnson's performance on civil rights is an asset or a liability is a matter of argument but there seems little question that he has won the Negro American cause on the issue by his insistence from the late 1940s (called it a prediction) that if Nixon is elected, a Negro will be the next Democrat.

Among southern whites, this is the strength of Johnson's appeal: conservatives back into the Democratic fold; Negroes and many parts of the U.S. felt they were being bribed.

Johnson has been careful to keep out of trouble with high-pressure campaigning such as: "You can bet your bottom dollar the fundamental rights of every American citizen will be equally and fully protected under the Constitution, regardless of race, religion or where he lives."

No Direct Commitments Made on Polaris Missiles

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The British government is pledged to the fight alongside the free world, but it is not letting whistling independence mar its position on the international scene.

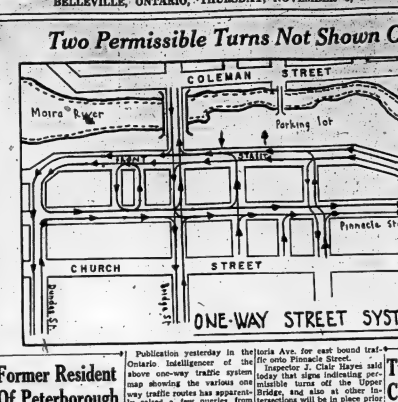
In the speech from the throne, read by the Queen Tuesday, Prime Minister Macmillan's conservative government promised to work for the improvement of East - West relations and called for closer co - operation with the United States in the "defence of peace."

Before the contents of the speech, which contained few surprises, could be considered by the House of Commons, the prime minister moved to head off any embarrassment to the party by announcing an agreement to provide a base in Scotland for American nuclear submarines equipped with Polaris missiles.

Macmillan, noting anxieties among the members, emphasized that the decision by the U.S. to use the missile would be taken without prior consultation with Britain.

The announcement brought a surprised reaction from Washington, officials said the U.S. had not made no such direct commitment.

In the Commons Wednesday the foreign minister, the Earl of Home, was expected to explain away the conflict. He declared: "The idea that there is any difference between the prime minister's statement that although he is sure there would be consultation and that it is possible, it could not necessarily be consultation before the time of emergency."



As was expected, the missile base announcement brought immediate reaction from Moscow. Russia accused Britain that the projected base at Holy Loch on the Clyde will be "dangerous" and "an inevitable retaliatory blow" if used for aggression.

Much of the proposed legislation announced in the throne speech already has been before some time. Controversy during the session is likely to centre mainly on the proposed increases in pensions and other social benefits. The increases would not be large.

COMPLETES HEARING

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — The board of transport commissioners completed hearings Wednesday on a proposal by Canadian Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways telegraph offices in Fort William with a promise that a judgment will be handed down as soon as possible. The proposal for merging the two offices was made by the telegraph companies and opposed by the Commercial Telegraphers Union.

Two Permissible Turns Not Shown On Map

Former Resident Of Peterborough Awarded Medal

LONDON (CP)—A former Peterborough, Ont., carpenter, now Nottingham City policeman, was presented with the Mountbatten Medal of Merit, the highest award of the Royal Life Saving Society.

Tall, lean Richard Cooke, 38, was handed the medal by Earl Mountbatten for his dramatic rescue last year of a elderly couple who were swept into the rushing waters of a Nottingham River.

The medal is awarded only once a year to a Commonwealth citizen.

Cooke, who moved from Peterborough to Nottingham in 1950 because his English-born wife was ill, joined the police force in 1952 after unsuccessfully trying to set himself up in carpentry.

Cooke had been released from his apprenticeship shortly before the rescue and was told not to swim under any circumstances.

Although the rescue story was featured by most British newspapers at the time, Cooke's Canadian nationality was never mentioned. He said: "I regret my penetration ceremony began Wednesday, an official of the lifesaving society spotted the Canadian Army cap-badge ribbons on Cooke's tunic.

He phoned George Drew, Canadian high commissioner, in London, who arranged to meet Cooke, his wife and two of their four children, after the ceremony.

Cooke married his British wife in 1944 while he was stationed near Nottingham with the Canadian Garry Highlanders. They moved to Peterborough the following year.

Chief Claims Statement Made Was Exaggerated

TIMMINS (CP)—Police Chief Gordon Crocco said Wednesday Toronto lawyer's claim that feelings here over the Feener case have reached a "powder keg stage" is "exaggerated out of all proportion."

Hugh Latimer, defending Owen Sound police officer on a charge of murder in the knife-slaying of Kay Chouinor, 26, said Wednesday Timmins would be the best possible site be moved out of Northern Ontario to Toronto because of local feeling.

These feelings of the people in Timmins are no higher than at any other murder trial, Chief Crocco said. He regarded Mr. Latimer had been listening to much of the evidence concerning the situation.

Feeney, 24, has been committed to stand trial at the winter assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court, which opens here on a Cochrane.

Mayor J. E. Brunetie said that he could hardly believe his ears when told of Mr. Latimers statement.

"There is no reason to suggest that if it did not work here it would in some other place and the victim was a resident there that the people in the community would not stand up and protest," the attorney-general will never let justice be swayed by such a petty argument," the mayor said.

Witnesses at the preliminary trial say there was no malicious feeling shown by townspeople, only by Roderick Chouinor, the brother of the murdered girl. Onlookers were merely curious and not hostile, police officials except a remark by Chouinor.

Publication yesterday in the Ontario Intelligencer of the above one-way traffic system map showing the various one-way traffic routes has apparently raised a few queries from motorists who have pointed out obvious omissions.

Members of the city traffic committee today admitted that the map omitted showing the turns which will be permitted when the system goes into effect Sunday morning.

One commission was a right hand turn off the Upper Bridge onto Front Street, and the other is a left hand turn from Victoria Ave. for east bound traffic onto Pinnacle Street.

Inspector J. Clair Hayes said today that signs indicating permissible turns off the Upper Bridge, and also at other intersections will be in place prior to the one-way system going into effect.

Another point raised was about turns at the Four Corners. Left hand turns will be allowed onto Bridge for traffic southbound on Front, but no left turns will be allowed westbound traffic at the Front Street intersection. The map accurately shows all the turns permitted at this intersection.

Ville d'Anjou May Be Small But When It Holds Election Charges Are Big-Time Style

MONTREAL (CP) — A slambang municipal campaign flashed as it began in suburban Ville d'Anjou—with incidents, dispelling claims as to what went on—and a libel suit.

Ville d'Anjou is small, but there was nothing small about its first council-elect election, which saw Mayor Ernest Crepeault returned to office along with his full slate of candidates for six aldermanic posts.

Mayor Crepeault tallied 907 votes to 506 for Gerard Bertrand, the candidate of the newly-formed Anjou Municipal League.

A Crepeault candidate described the election as "quiet" with no serious incidents reported" and police said the situation was under control."

The opposition said there were irregularities at open squats, and there was intimidation.

An AML candidate said league scrutineers were refused entrance to polls until an hour after the polls opened.

After a point a poll was closed after a report that a gun had entered and stormed the ballot box.

The AML spokesman said the gang also stole 13 ballot books but a spokesman said at the poll said he "didn't see anything." No arrests were made.

During the morning Miss Madeleine Bleau, sister of League President Jean-Guy Bleau was arrested after she was alleged to have thrown an ash tray through a poll window. She was released shortly after.

Mr. Crepeault blamed "outsiders" for the incidents reported.

"... Certain outside elements turned what we had hoped would be a completely peaceful election into one in which a number of dirty and planned incidents occurred," he said.

"... In spite of these ... the day was very calm.

The mayor Tuesday night said criminal proceedings have been filed for alleged libel said to be contained in a statement by a group opposing him in the election.

"My lawyers filed suit against the Anjou Municipal League at the 6.00 p.m. P.C. in criminal court claiming $100,000, damages from the league and its officers," said Mayor Crepeault.

The suburb's 2,500 eligible voters elected a mayor and six aldermen after a campaign that had all the earmarks of confusion of the old-style Quebec campaign.

The charges and counter-charges were familiar, the moves and counter-moves dizzying, as the municipal and provincial political implications puzzling.

Mayor Crepeault, one-time president of the Union Nationale party's Federation of Youth Associations, said the town was prospering and if there were any financial mixups, it was because the population boomed from 800 in 1956 to nearly 9,000 today.

RECOVERING AFTER SCISSORS OPERATION — Plucky miner Henry Wenzel sits up in a Vancouver, B.C., hospital and talks with newsmen after losing his arm in a mine cave-in at Britannia Mines, B.C., Monday. 'The Shady Lady' Left Free To Seek Her Final Decree As Judge Dismisses Action

TORONTO (CP)—The case of "the shady lady," who said on television she was a professional divorce co-respondent and later denied it in the newspapers, was thrown out Wednesday, leaving her free to seek a final decree in her own divorce.

Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson dismissed the Ontario attorney-general's intervention in the divorce of Mrs. Sean Johnson Ahlstedt on the ground that objections raised here were not proved.

The three-day Ontario Supreme Court hearing, which saw a parade of television and newspaper personalities to the witness stand, was the climax to an investigation which began last May when Mrs. Ahlstedt said on the CBC-TV show Close-Up that she had posed as a co-respondent, charging $100 for her services.

The attorney - general's office demanded the appearance of the woman — interviewed incognito from the CBC. The CBC declined to identify her.

Her name was turned up by the Telegram in a copyright article. She was identified as a 27-year-old model who used only her name Sean.

She told the Telegram and police she faked the role of co-respondent.

HAS TWO CHILDREN

Mrs. Ahlstedt said she kept her identity secret because of her parents and two children.

When the story broke, Toronto Newspaper Guild referring to Mrs. Ahlstedt as "the shady lady," said that she had "lied on her own" because she had kept her face in darkness on the show and was not on divorce problems.

Attorney - general Roberts ordered a search for the girl, and Mrs. Ahlstedt was found, but the newspaper refused to turn over photographs of Mrs. Eleanor Sean. Mrs. Ahlstedt was cited in connection with three different divorce applications.

Mrs. Cass denied ever acting as a co-respondent and the last to have been released from hospital, Theodor Nastmok, 47, was jailed for 10 days and fined $1,000 for faking divorce evidence.

In the interests, Attorney-General Roberts appointed a Queen's proctor to sit in on any future Mrs. Ahlstedt proceedings and Mrs. Ahlstedt, who had already been granted a decree nisi, sought her second husband.

ORDERED INVESTIGATION

Mr. Justice J. T. Walsh ordered the hearing into allegations by Mrs. Roberts' department chief.

Mrs. Ahlstedt was not a credible witness; that adultery did not take place and that the co-respondent, Laura Simpson; that the picture of Mrs. Ahlstedt in her divorce application is not that of Laura Simpson—that the picture was obtained by collusion, fraud or other wrong-doing.

Mr. Justice Walsh said that the objections against Mrs. Ahlstedt's final decree nisi should have been proved. Mr. Justice Wilson reserved judgment. Counsel did not say what her final decree from Ivan William Ahlstedt, 31, Toronto real estate agent, being will be brought on the first court day after the final disposition of the attorney - general's case or following lapse of time for appeal.

Pierre Berton, associate editor of Maclean-Hunter Ltd., has testified that he had been asked by George Rosen of the Rosen Agency Ltd., to find a professional co-respondent for the show and recommended Mrs. Ahlstedt, who named Cy Verge.

Mr. Berton denied telling Mr. Berton that Mrs. Ahlstedt was "a professional co-respondent who had been used in three or four divorces for another detective agency" or to which the columnist replied:

"One of us is a liar."

CHARGED WITH ARSON

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Ronald Ferguson, 19, was remanded Wednesday to Nov. 9 on a charge of arson in the $1 million blaze last week after being released from hospital, where he was treated for injuries suffered when his house blew up.

Two of 12 Polio Cases in South Are Serious

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two of 13 polio cases—all of them children—reported in southwestern Ontario so far this year, were in serious condition.

The two, Roland Davidson, 8, and Kay Hickling, 4, both of Chatham, are in Victoria Hospital in London.

A suspected case, David Mulcahan, two, of Fletcher, near Chatham, was admitted to the same hospital, Tom Titus, 2, of Chatham, admitted Oct. 28 is under observation.

In Windsor, diagnosis of polio in a six-year-old boy brought the number of cases here to 10. Chatham reported a total of seven cases.

Two of the Windsor cases are described as not severe, and two have been released from hospital but are still under treatment.

Seven Charged With Conspiracy Elect Trial

EDMONTON (CP) — Seven members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), on strike against the Dominion Bridge company plant, appeared in court Wednesday and elected a speedy supreme Court trial for a charge of conspiracy.

The men were remanded until Nov. 8 for preliminary hearing. The charge arose from incidents in which men who have refused to work at the plant have been subjected to threatening telephone calls.

Charged are Alec Murawesky, Kurt Grapentin, Mike Masnyk, Mike Kostychyn, Pat Sheridan, Norman Berwick and John Tyler. The men were released on $700 cash bail each shortly after their arrest a week ago.

Dominion Bridge Workers in Two Plants Settle

TORONTO (CP) — Workers in Dominion Bridge Company's two Toronto plants ended a 10-week strike Wednesday night with a contract giving them a share of bonus increase over two years.

The company announced agreement with United Steel workers of America (CLC) representing about 550 employees.

The settlement parallels one reached by the company with Hamilton plant with the steelworkers last week. Lachine was the last of 11 company plants across Canada to seach a settlement.

The agreement provides an increase of three cents hourly the first year and another three cents during the second year of the contract. A retroactive wage increase will be given three months before expiry of the contract.

TO BUILD ROAD

TORONTO (CP) — Construction of a 19-mile stretch of the Frederick G. Gardiner Expressway along Toronto's waterfront will begin next year, Metropolitan Roads Commissioner George Grant announced Wednesday. The elevated highway will be built westerly from the southern terminus of the Don Valley Parkway to Jarvis Street. Cost is estimated at $15,000,000.

'Love and Lisel' Is New Play By Editor Author

TORONTO (CP) — The Royal Alexandra Theatre was the scene Wednesday night of the world premiere of the Theatre Guild's production of Love and Lisel, a new play by Canadian author Robertson Davies.

The Broadway - bound production directed by Tyrone Guthrie was accorded five curtain calls.

The author, 47-year-old editor and publisher of the Peterborough Examiner, appeared briefly on the stage in response to calls from the audience. Mr. Davies based the play on his novel Leaven of Malice, published in 1954.

After the performance, the author said he thought everything had gone well, though he had not had time to consult Mr. Guthrie for his verdict.

CRITIC CAUTIOUS

Herbert Whittaker, drama critic for The Globe and Mail, was cautious in his praise of the play. He said: "Tonight's audience will have to "get used to meeting it with us in the theatre stage."

Last month the O'Keefe Centre for the Performing Arts opened its doors with the world premiere of Lerner and Loewe's Camelot.

Mr. Whittaker described Love and Lisel as "a daziement of a play that obviously needs sorting out a bit more at the moment."

Actor Dennis King in the male lead role of Humphrey Colbatch, a Toronto lawyer, has naturally wraps a play around him."

"It's a very smart, slick play. King is playing it with accustomed richness . . ."

NEW FACADES

"Here we find the great Gothic, gentleman to our Straitsian, experimenting a la Bertolt Brecthian lines, with Mr. Davies' familiar flavors of the best book . . . upside down to accommodate this animated form of theatre."

The play centres around a false engagement announcement leaped in a newspaper of a small Canadian college town. Cobbler, with the intention of blamed for the hoax.

The unusual departure of the supporting actors move the props in scene changes.

The play next week run here the play will move to Detroit and Boston for two week engagements before opening in New York.

Interest High Over Election In India

BOMBAY (CP) — Indians are keeping a close eye on the presidential election campaign in the United States, but interest is higher in the more laudable push aid-to-Asia programs and be generally more effective.

LIKE REPUBLICAN VIEW

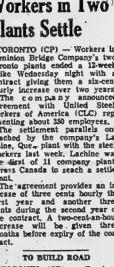
But Richard Nixon won favor with this people as he built a dam in India as readily as in California, the latter is.

Nixon also has been hailed by the fact that in President Eisenhower's protest, Eisenhower's prestige in India is generally high.

The religion issue has stirred sympathy for Kennedy, a Roman Catholic.

WORTH REMEMBERING

One columnist wrote:



"We thought that religious bigotry was still limited to and practiced only by the backward nations of Asia and Africa. That Americans should have revealed religious crusades to the high levels of democratic decisionmaking is indeed something worth remembering."

Indians feel the next president must try to win the hearts and minds of Africans and Asians.

One newspaper said:

"This is something which cannot be done by undertaking 20,000-mile jet journeys, however occasionally it may might be. Whether it is Nixon or Kennedy, the next American president will work out imaginative policies to match the pace of international communism."

"Jest a Second"

"Waiter, what's this fly doing in my soup?"

"Well, from here, sir, it looks like a breast-stroke."

Expect by Late 1962 NORAD System Will Be as Perfect As Resources Can Make It

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—By late 1962, North American air defence system against the manned bomber will be about as perfect as human ingenuity and resources can make it.

It won't be foolproof, of course. Far from it. But, experts say, it will be effective enough to make the Soviets think not once or twice but several times about making any premeditated bomber attack on this continent.

By late 1962, the two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile bases near North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., will be ready for operation and will have the Bomarcs on the launching pads.

The SAGE (semi - automatic ground environment) unit to control Bomarc flights and interceptions will be installed at North Bay.

POWERFUL RADAR

New radar equipment much more powerful than the original has already been installed in the Pinetree radar stations in Canada.

Seven new heavy radars to cover the Prairie gap and to strengthen the network far north of Montreal and Toronto will be installed. Contracts for two of these bases have been let.

Some 45 gap-filler radars to detect low-flying bombers are being installed now.

In short, there will be blanket control radar coverage across Canada and to a considerable depth. Control radar means the radar that tracks incoming bombers and guides the interceptors—manned or unmanned—to them.

RETAINS CONTROL

Radar, of course, is only a passive weapon. But the experts feel that by late 1962, with deployment of the Bomarc-B throughout the system, there will be enough weapons to back up the radar complex.

At the moment, the RCAF still does not know definitely whether it will get the American Voodoo interceptor to replace the ancient CF-100 jet.

The rating of the CF-100, now 10 years old, is so low that the government has said it will be taken out of service in 1962.

The RCAF has the unquestionability for defending the Lakehead-Windsor-Quebec City triangle—that portion of Canada which juts like an arrowhead deep into the United States.

MATTER OF SECONDS

If the Voodoo is not obtained to cover this area along with the two Bomarc squadrons, at least three U.S. Air Force interceptor squadrons may have to be based in Canada.

With the improved radar coverage, the defenders would hope to engage any enemy south of the heavily-populated areas of Canada—and far enough north so that a bomber could not launch an air-to-ground missile at a target such as Montreal or Toronto.

With increased flying speeds available both to the attackers and defenders, time has become compressed until every second is precious.

This is the cardinal reason for SAGE which is, basically, a high-powered computer.

AUTOMATIC PLOTTING

In Canada, the control radar is still mandatily operated. This means that it takes a human sight or nike minutes to plot a course for an interceptor.

SAGE will handle this process automatically in only a fraction of a second. SAGE is essential to operate the Bomarc. But it will also enable the fighter controller to give a manned interceptor a course by voice in a very few seconds.

The Voodoo is equipped with equipment known as data-link, which enables SAGE to transmit orders to a pilot without the need for a human intermediary.

The main reason for Bomarc would be to handle a saturation raid coming in at one point—that is, a phalanx of bombers. To do this, the Bomarc would require a nuclear warhead.

With SAGE, the radar system cannot be overwhelmed. With interceptors and nuclear-tipped Bomarcs, it is calculated that the defence system itself could not be overwhelmed, though some bombers would be almost bound to get through. Even at target sites in the U.S., especially Washington, there are the short-range anti-aircraft missiles such as the Nike-Hercules.

CANNOT BE JAMMED

It is unlikely that the air defence system can be jammed. But the means whereby jamming would be prevented are secret but only a few persons in defence headquarters know about them or are given access to the information.

This, and each radar, interceptor or Bomarc site and base, is the most sensitive area of air defence. No secret is more closely guarded here.

Is defence against the manned bomber obsolete?

Not by a long shot, the experts say. It never will be until it is certain that any potential enemy has destroyed all his bombers.

There is no present defence system against the intercontinental ballistic missile nor is an adequate one in sight. But even if there were, a sudden ballistic breakthrough in this field, it is felt that the present air defence system would be required as long as the enemy continued to have a bomber force.

Consequently, it is impossible to say how long the defence system against the manned bomber will continue in existence—and continue to be further developed and refined.

TUNNEL LINK — Steel rails lead into the tunnel entrance of an underground site for a SAGE electronic control unit at North Bay, Ont. SAGE, brain of the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, receives information from radar posts, computes an interception course and automatically fires the Bomarc at attacking aircraft. Batawa BATAWA — Miss Jean Armstrong, Miss Bertha Armstrong and Miss Bessie Miller, of Ottawa, were weekend guest with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Duncan and family spent the weekend in Toronto.

Batawa fellow workers and friends will be interested in the arrival last Thursday of the new steam generating unit. This equipment is of the latest design and completely automatic. Installation operations are underway.

Last Monday evening, Mr. Neville, District Inspector of Separate Schools was guest speaker at the graduation presentation of awards in the Recreation Hall.

WARNS BRITAIN

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio warned Tuesday night that the planned British base for Polaris-carrying United States nuclear - powered submarines will be the target for "an inevitable retaliatory blow" if it is used for aggression.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Henderson spent Sunday at Foxboro with Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey of Canniton were Tuesday guests of their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Akey.

Mrs. Robert Hall, Jr., has returned home from the Belleville General Hospital. Her many friends are pleased to know she is recovering nicely.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Peter Stallworth and family in the loss of a husband, father and grandfather, in the passing of Mr. Peter Stallworth, after a brief illness. He will be missed by his many friends and fellow employees at the Canada Cement Plant No. 3. He, with his family, lived in Point Anne for many years before moving to his home on the Front Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Barr and sons of Toronto spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradshaw.

Mrs. Wesley Reid is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

The weekly euchre club was held at the home of Mrs. James Sero. Winners were Mrs. Helen Whalen, Mrs. Edna Bradshaw, low, Mrs. Nellie Breach.

After euchre the hostess served refreshments and a pleasant evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. William Juby, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Keene, Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey of Canniton, attended the annual county Orange banquet of Lennox and Addington, and trukey dinner held at Enterprise on Friday evening, in the community hall. Over 200 were in attendance. After dinner was served, the chairman, Mr. Barr, County Master, called those present to order and Mr. Earl Keene showed pictures of the 12th of July held in Kingston on July 9th, which brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Keene, of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey, Canniton, Mr. Archie Polmateer, Mr. Dancourt Thompson and Mr. J. N. Bentley of Belleville, spent Saturday afternoon in Omemee. The men attended a filed Cross meeting of the R.B.P. held there Saturday evening with over 100 in attendance.

ACTRESS WEDS

SALINAS, Calif. (AP)—British movie actress Jean Simmons was married Tuesday to Hollywood director Richard Brooks. Miss Simmons was formerly married to actor Stewart Granger.

Assoc. Opposes Licensing Small Craft

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Tourist Association Tuesday went on record as opposing compulsory licensing of small pleasure craft operators.

The association's general meeting unanimously accepted a resolution introduced by Robert W. Kelly, manager of the Allied Boating Association of Canada, asking for deferment of government action in this respect.

The resolution said licensing would affect many members of the tourist industry, create hardship without accomplishing significant safety while there was nothing to prove it would reduce boating accidents.

The CTA plans to urge the department of transport to stimulate the improvement and expansion of small craft law enforcement and education.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Reid of Hallowav, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison.

Master Jackie Cole entertained a number of his little friends on Tuesday when he celebrated his 4th birthday. A very enjoyable afternoon was spent. Games were played and lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dovey of Rosmore and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris, motored to Montreal on Friday last and spent the weekend with the former's uncle and aunt, the Rev. and Mrs. W. E. G. Dovey, Marsha and Billie.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Spencer, were ten hour guests recently, of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Striker.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Christopher on the arrival of a baby boy.

Mrs. Jack Cole was hostess to a brush demonstration when about 12 ladies attended. Mrs. Cole served refreshments and all enjoyed a pleasnt evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Spencer called on Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hubble on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Harold Garrison was a guest on Thursday of Mrs. Townsend of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Langsbeer, Belleville and attended the anniversary service in Hallowav Street Church, in the morning.

There was no service at Wallbridge Church on Sunday owing to anniversary services being held at Stone appointment.

Lizards and Filth Share Lagos Slum With People Who Live in Tin-Roofed Huts

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAGOS, Nigeria (CP)—Brown, crested city and night and the 18-inch-long lizards with orange heads and tails scampered around on the walls of the tin-roofed shack, peering through cracks at the persons inside.

Naked children splashed through the filth created by a backed-up open sewer. Two teenagers slept on the broken seats of a dilapidated bus.

"Take the other side, too," a young Nigerian said angrily to the Canadian photographer taking a picture of this Lagos slum. The Nigerians, are so ashamed of their slums, in fact, that they built high fences around them for the benefit of visiting dignitaries.

"The other side" referred to by the young Nigerian was the fine new construction along the waterfront and in various squares scattered around this inland city of 365,000.

APPALLING HEAT

Though the contrast between rich and poor is marked, it is still not as glaring as that found in some Middle Eastern or Asian countries.

The people for the most are reserved and gentle. The police are only strict. One Briton who has lived here a long time said he would rather have his wife walk alone through Lagos at night than through London or Montreal. No drunks are seen on the streets.

To a Canadian, the heat is appalling. Even in the so - called cool season, temperature and humidity rarely drop below 80, even at night. To Nigerians, there are only two seasons—rainy and dry.

Lagos, capital of the newest Commonwealth country of some 36,000,000 people, appears a happy, gentle one. The vast amount of work that remains to be done.

Little business is done in the afternoon because of the heat. Despite this, Nigerians sleep little. The paved streets are NIGERIAN SLUMS—Nigeria, African Commonwealth country which became independent October 1, is faced with a major problem of eradicating city slums. WOOLER — Mrs. Helen McColl spent three days last week at Mr. Elic Hubble's, home, with Mrs. Cecil Gainsforth.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bryant spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Powell and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Badgley.

Mrs. Charlie Jarvis left on Wednesday to visit her sisters Dill and Treas Trilman, for a couple of weeks, in Burlington.

Miss T. Oakes of Mimico, was a guest of Mrs. G. R. Putnam, over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Austin spent a few days in Toronto with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Denyes spent Saturday afternoon with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. Minah, in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Putnam, Jenie and Jerrilyn spent Sunday with friends at Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubble spent the weekend with Mrs. S. L. Terril, who returned with them to their home, at Long Branch, to spend a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dorland, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dorland attended the Grashow wedding at Brighton on Saturday.

Sympathy goes out to the family of Mr. A. Smith, who passed away on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Brown and family, of Eganville spent Sunday, with Mr. and Mrs. C. Dunn.

The third annual meeting and banquet of the Boy Scouts Association, Prince Edward District was held Friday evening, Oct. 28th in the Legion Hall, Colborne.

Those who attended from here were Mr. and Mrs. V. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. H. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. J. May and Mr. and Mrs. J. Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dunn and Mrs. Hart were Thursday evening guests of Mr. S. L. Terril.

Kennedy Avoids Grandiose Claims of Victory, Crowds

Editor's note: Geoffrey Gold of The Associated Press Washington bureau has travelled with both presidential candidates. Here he attempts to pinpoint some differences in strategy and approach.

By GEOFFREY GOULD

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Senator Kennedy's camp is suffused with an air of quiet confidence in these final days of the U.S. presidential campaign, but there is no attempt to exploit it or display it ostentatiously.

Quite the reverse, in fact. It seems to be Kennedy's policy, and it is followed by all his aides, to avoid grandiose claims of victory.

The Kennedy people keep saying they expect the result to be close. They decline to claim easy victory in any state, though usually state party officials do it for them.

Nor do they try to make much of the huge and tremendously enthusiastic crowds Kennedy, the Democratic candidate, draws almost everywhere he goes. Rather to issue their own crowd estimates or even solicit them from police officials. They let the press do that for themselves if they wish.

NIXON DIFFERENT

This sort of playing it cool and close to the vest is considered policy of Kennedy and his strategists. But weekend press stories emanated from the camp of Vice-President Nixon, the Republican nominee, to the effect that he does not expect to carry most or all of six big northern industrial states and will have a winning margin in electoral votes.

The stories contained a detailed rundown of how Nixon associates figure his chances in all the sections of the country. There has been at least one report that Nixon himself was the source of these stories, but associates say they should not be attributed directly to him.

The stories got wide display, in the interest of achieving wide coverage. The Associated Press asked Pierre Salinger, Kennedy press secretary, whether the senator or any of his aides desired to give their own estimates on a state by state basis.

Salinger's reply: "We don't care to play that game."

NIXON REFERS TO CROWDS

Nixon, at almost every speaking stop these days, takes note of the crowd he has drawn, or mentions one at a previous stop. He says if such a crowd turns out for him he is sure to carry that state.

He also often says he senses a strong tide running in his favor, that he is certain of victory Nov. 8.

Kennedy, on the other hand, never mentions crowds in his speeches. He appears so eager to get his message across that he will hardly even let a crowd roar its approval as long as it might want. He cuts it short and makes no special effort to deliver.

At each Nixon rally an aide finds a police official and gets crowd estimates from him. Then he circulates the figure and the official's name among the reporters covering the rally.

This makes things easier for the reporters, but they sometimes find that some of these crowd estimates are grossly inflated by exuberant local officials.

8 Blind Children This Fall Entered B.C. Public Schools Using Textbooks in Braille

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Last summer 20 blind children romped about Vancouver community playgrounds, turning summersaults on trampolines, splashing in and out of wading pools and eagerly taking part in handicrafts with sighted children.

Still others went to regular summer camps to enjoy fishing, hiking and other outdoor sports once considered out of their domain.

This took place in a community where 10 years ago ninety school teachers balked at the idea of taking a blind child into a class.

Today the blind child is warmly welcomed by both teachers and students, the result of a patient struggle by community leaders, parents and Eileen Scott, social welfare supervisor here for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

BRAILLE TEXTBOOKS

Eight blind students this fall registered in regular public schools. Others are attending elementary classes and still others in the provincial school for the blind. No other province can match the number of blind students attending public schools and using textbooks written in braille.

"Naturally, these students are exceptionally bright, but the fact that they are in public schools proves that blindness is not the dreaded handicap once believed," says Miss Scott.

The children involved are from a group of 115 victims of retrolental fibroplasia between 1946 and 1955. All were prematurely born and suffered the diseases which affects the optic nerves and causes blindness—when they were given either too much or too little oxygen while in incubators.

A safe ratio has been calculated and the disease now is not the threat it once was.

SIGHTED BUDDIES

Use of the summer playgrounds for children was the brainwave of a parent and the Vancouver Parks Board. Each blind child was given a sighted buddy who picked him up at home and took him to the playground.

The plan satisfied two needs:

1. It filled the spare hours when blind children tend to sit around the house isolated from friends made at pre-school nurseries or Sunday school.

2. It took many of the blind children out of the restrictive life of attending only the provincial school for the blind and pushed them into the wider circle of their own neighborhood.

It also helped the parents, often plagued by worries of community acceptance of their children.

The program was planned and directed by Miss Monica Linderman, assistant director of the Kitsilano Community Centre here.

SENSE OF BALANCE

"The two hours a day the kids were at the park were the most active," she says. "The first day we introduced the sighted children to show them what it was like to be blind.

"The group, which ranged in age from 5 to 15, took part in relay games, singing, crafts, games such as blind man's bluff, and tricks on the springboards and trampolines.

"One of the most fantastic things about the course was that these children never seemed to hurt themselves. They always remembered where obstacles were and where they placed things."

"This," said Miss Scott, "is free of most anything they do—roller skating, judo or dancing. They concentrate much better than sighted children and have a much keener memory.

"The trampoline was the most popular. At first we tied a rope around the waist of the blind child. But later we took it off. They did somersaults in the centre, using the voices of the kids around the edge and the feel of the trampoline to guide them away from the edge. They have a terrific sense of balance."

This summer program, which will be expanded next year, was the first such attempt made on the North American continent, perhaps in the world, said Miss Scott.

2nd Thurlow

SECOND THURLOW — Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell called on Mrs. Frank Hendricks, Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. David Craig enjoyed Sunday dinner with Mr. Robert Hart and family of Orillia, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Greatrix called on Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Greatrix, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills, with many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Clarke.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woods, Belleville, were Thursday night visitors of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Peoples on Saturday night visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson and Terry, Belleville, had supper on Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Stevens.

Mr. Sterling Denby, Mr. and Mrs. Moulton, Belleville, were recent supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Craig.

Mrs. Corah Howard, Mr. and Mrs. J. Chumbley were Sunday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hogg, Trenton.

Messrs. Donald Leeming, accompanied by Arnold Mitchell, James Reynolds and Herb Trewhend, members of the milk producers, in this district, attended the funeral of Mr. Roy Lick, of Oshawa, who was secretary manager of the Milk Producers of Ontario for the past 30 years. He will be greatly missed by the association.

FUN FOR ALL — The trampoline has become a popular piece of equipment for summer playgrounds in Vancouver, taking part in a revolutionary program to integrate sighted children into normal community life. Initially a rope is tied around the child's waist. Later it is removed and the child uses the feel of others standing by and the feel of the trampoline to remain in the centre while performing tricks. (CP Photo).

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Broach, of Trenton, visited with Mrs. Jeffery, at the home of her son, Mr. E. Jeffery, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Chumbley and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, were Saturday night visitors of Mrs. Corah Howard.

Several parents and pupils of the Douglas R. Atkins school, gathered about 2.30 on Thursday afternoon and presented their teacher, Mrs. H. Goodfellow, (nee Thelma Pearl), with a lovely breakfast suite. Al though taken by surprise, Mrs. Goodfellow voiced her appreciation for the gift. Later, several ladies were invited to the home of Mrs. William Lazarsky, for coffee and light refreshments. Mrs. Archie Greatrix, Mrs. Thomas Whittle, poured coffee. A social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ray, spent Sunday supper hour with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chappell, of Stirling.

Master Brian Atkins spent a recent week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Simmons, Kingston.

Mrs. William Leslie, Mrs. Simmons, Mrs. R. Leslie, Joan and Bob, Belleville, were Sunday visitors of Mrs. William Donald son, also Mr. and Mrs. H. Thomson and Mrs. J. Donaldson.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ray were Wednesday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Rumbell, Belleville.

Miss A. Mitchell and Mrs. D. Atkins, attended the Holstein Friesian banquet at Centenary, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Winston Pulver, Beverly and Howard, attended anniversary services at Holloway St. Church, Belleville, on Sunday, and were dinner guests of their aunt, Mrs. McCurdy.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Weathers on the birth of a son, at Trenton Memorial Hospital.

WELLINGTON

Men's Club Discusses Business

WELLINGTON—St. Andrew's Church, Wellington, and Christ Church, Hillier, Men's Club met last Wednesday evening at the home of W. A. Devern with the president, Mr. Gerry Springer, presiding.

The meeting was opened by the Rev. I. J. Rogers.

A number of important items of business were discussed. Bert Evans and Gerry Springer were appointed to deal with a number of rectory repairs and improvements. Mr. Roy Adams, the new manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, in Wellington, was welcomed by the president.

It was decided to change the date of the monthly meeting to the second Wednesday evening in the month. The next meeting will be held on November 9th at the home of Gerry Springer, and the December 14th meeting will be held in the Wellington town Hall, at which time the annual banquet will be held.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Devern served a delicious supper. Thanks were tendered by Warner McFaul.

Play Ottawa Saturday

Larks Will Go All Out

MONTREAL (CP) — Rookie coach Perry Moss of Montreal Alouettes is convinced the road to Vancouver lies through the projection room of the club's headquarters on downtown Mountain Street.

Football men everywhere generally go for films in a big way. But few have developed as intense an interest as Moss for what action the camera catches.

For Montreal's Big Four playoff game Saturday in Ottawa against the Rough Riders, a semi-final starting at 1 p.m., Moss has sent his backfield coaches into daily one-hour film sessions with the team's defensive halfbacks.

STUDY DEFENCE

They join the film clips of Montreal-Ottawa games hoping to come up with a flexible alignment to jam the Rough Rider attack. What the Als tried during the season's campaign was obviously inadequate. Ottawa won three and outscored the Als 154-99 in the four games.

Defence is also the big concern in the daily 2½-hour drills Montreal holds at the club's training camp.

Kay Brown, Montreal's director of development, said:

"Our defensive players are going to be going both ways Saturday, so Jim Van Pelt doesn't score now unless they win. We've got to have our best in there all the time."

Two-way rookie halfback Howard Cissell suffered a hip injury in the final game of the season but may play.

Saturday's winner goes against Toronto Argonauts in the two-game total-points final.

CBC Will Televise Grid Games

The CBC today announced TV coverage for Big Four and WIFU play-off games.

Montreal will play in Ottawa on Saturday, Nov. 5, in a Big Four "sudden-death" semi-final game. This game will be seen on the full network at 1.00 p.m. EST.

Blackouts: Ottawa and Cornwall.

Also, on Nov. 5, Edmonton and Calgary, will play the final half of their two-game, total-points series, at Calgary. This game will be televised on the full network beginning at 4.00 p.m. EST. Calgary will be blacked out.

On Saturday, Nov. 12, Toronto will meet either Montreal or Ottawa in the first of a two-game, total-points final playoff series. This game will be seen on the Eastern football network at 4.00 p.m. EST. It will be blacked out in Cornwall and in the city of origination. (Ottawa or Montreal). It will be blacked out in Sherbrooke if the game is in Montreal.

Winnipeg will meet Edmonton or Calgary in the first of a best-of-three WIFU finals series on Nov. 12. This game will be seen on the Western network only at 4.00 p.m. EST. Blackout: Edmonton or Calgary.

The second game of the WIFU finals will be seen on Monday, Nov. 14, at 9.30 p.m. EST on the full network. It will be blacked out in the city of origin, Winnipeg.

The second and final game of the Big Four finals will be played in Toronto on Saturday, Nov. 19. It will be seen on the full network — if there is no third game in the WIFU finals — at 1.00 p.m. EST. If there is a WIFU game on this date the Big Four contest will be shown in the east only: Toronto, Hamilton, Barrie and Kitchener will be blacked out.

If a third game is required in the WIFU finals it will be played in Winnipeg on Nov. 19 and will be telecast on the Western network at 3.00 p.m. EST. It will be blacked out in Winnipeg. The Eastern network will pick this game up in progress at the conclusion of the Big Four contest.

The Grey Cup will be played in Vancouver on Saturday, Nov. 26, and will be telecast on the full CBC-TV network, with no blackout restrictions.

Junior Trophy On Display

Belleville Kenmore, 1960 Ontario Baseball Association Junior "A" champions, have received the championship trophy and credit their way by defeating Hamilton in the provincial finals.

Both the trophy and crests are on display in the Paul Mercier's Frond Street store window.

The club will be honored here shortly with the presentation of jackets.

Revised Squirt Team Rosters

Because of the large number of boys wishing to play in the squirt section of the BMHA this season it has been necessary to expand the division from eight to 12 teams. Starting this Monday night the squirts will play three games at one time, rather than the usual two.

Following are the revised lineups. Harry Baker's are home now unless they win. We've got to have our best in there all the time."

Indians Trim Hershey 6-1

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Springfield Indians scored three goals in each of the second and third periods to defeat Hershey Bears 6-1 Wednesday night for their fifth straight American Hockey League victory.

The Indians, winners in 10 of their last 11 games, upped their league lead to three games over deadlocked Cleveland and Quebec.

After Jack McIntyre put the Bears in front 1-0 at 5:20 of the first period with a Springfield player in the penalty box, Indians bounced right back.

Bill McCreary found the mark on a long shot that goalie Al Miller fumbled and slowed to bounce in at 6:06. At 7:24 Bill Hurlbut added a short shot.

Springfield led 3-1 at the end of the second on Harry Publicover's goal at 18:42. Bob Kabel, Art Stratton and Pribhirsy scored in the final period to complete the rout.

Bay of Quinte Basketball

Picton earned its first victory in the new Bay of Quinte intermediate Basketball loop at home last night by shading Belleville Lightfoots 52-48 in a thriller.

It was a nip and tuck battle all the way through with never more separating the two top-notch clubs. Lightfoots led 12-8 and 23-20 at the end of the first two quarters but Picton pulled in front 36-32 in the third quarter and maintained the four-point margin for the final 53-48 score.

Twenty-four fouls were called in the game, 15 to Picton, with each team counting on six foul-shot attempts. Kane of Belleville fouled out of the game in the third quarter.

The Picton scoring was well distributed with Bryant's 11 points giving him top honors. Vanalstine and Elson had nine apiece.

Don Master collected 13 points to lead Lightfoots. Farnsworth had 12 and Smith 10.

The teams!

LIGHTFOOTS (48): Smith 10, Farnsworth 12, Savage, Marner 2, Kane, Salter 2, Reynolds 2, Scrimgeour 2, Masters 13.

PICTON (52): Fawcett 5, Moore, Bryant 11, Dingman 1, Scott 3, Reynolds 2, Laundrey 4, Vanalstine 9, Hopkins 6, Elston 9, Smith.

Will Try Irish Sea

TORONTO (CP) — Helge Jensen, 22, of Toronto, who holds the English Channel swim record of 10 hours and 23 minutes, will make an attempt to swim the uncongured Irish Sea next year.

Coach Steve Sellors said Wednesday Jensen's home-and-home meet will try sometime during 1961. He master the turbulent Irish Sea which rebuffed eight attempts by three top - ranked swimmers in 1960.

Jensen will also try to break the record of 8 hours and 30 minutes across British Columbia's Strait of Juan de Fuca in June, and in February will compete in Acapulco international swim at Mai-Eight at the invitation of the Argentine government.

NEW YORK (AP) — Florence Chadwick of San Diego, who swam the English Channel in both directions, says in Sports Illustrated that "I'm quite convinced I'll never have any more channel swims."

She made her assertion in an article describing her recent failure to swim the Irish Sea from Ireland to Scotland.

ADDED PROTECTION

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta communities are investing more money in fire protection. The provincial fire commissioner reports there now are 238 municipal fire departments, compared with 153 in 1953.

Pro Golfers Will Adopt Pension Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's professional golfers will soon score a world first—a retirement pension scheme.

Dick Borthwick of Hamilton, president of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association announced plans for the scheme Wednesday night following conclusion of the club's annual meeting.

Borthwick said the plan will be inaugurated next year.

No other country has a retirement pension plan for its golfers," he said, "not even the United States."

Eric Gillespie, a member of a CPGA council working on the scheme, said both the professional and his club will contribute. The pro will be able to take his pension from one club to another.

Gillespie said the plan, which provides a retirement age of 65, will be in full force by April. He said one of the organizers of the plan, particularly in its early stages, was Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League and an honorary member of the Royal Canadian Golf Association.

Joe Noble of Thornhill was elected president.

PAISLEY, Scotland (AP) Chic Calderwood, British light-heavyweight titleholder, stopped Rolf Peters of Germany in the fourth round Wednesday night and moved closer to a shot at Archie Moore's world boxing championship. Calderwood, the No. 1 contender, floored the German for the third time in the round and fourth time in the bout before the fight was stopped.

No Wonder The Club Loses Money

SUDBURY (CP) — Chico Kovmurok, 18-year-old assistant trainer with the Sudbury Wolves, is probably the highest paid player in hockey. He gets 20 cents a game to sit on the end of the bench.

Wolves need Kozurok to help fulfill the Eastern Professional Hockey League's complicated rookie rule this season.

The rule requires a team to carry two rookies and three players with one year of pro hockey experience or less. The Wolves have the three one-year players but only one rookie — right winger Jimmy Pappin who played last season for the Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

To get his second rookie, coach Murph Chamberlain signed Kozurok to a five-game tryout and gave him $5 per signing. Each time the wolves play, Kozurok dutifully puts on a team uniform and skates around before the start of the game. Then he sits down at the end of the bench. In effect it means the Wolves use only 14 players, one fewer than the team is allowed.

Kozurok hasn't been used yet. Actually he hasn't played hockey since he performed for playground bantam team several years ago. But he stands six feet, two inches, and doesn't look out of place.

With the Wolves he's officially listed as assistant trainer, a job that pays no salary. He has been with the team for several years as the stickboy.

Wolves are trying to line up a legitimate rookie from either Toronto Maple Leafs or Detroit Red Wings, the team's two National Hockey League sponsors.

Sport Snapshots

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plans are afoot here to bring intercollegiate football competition to the national level next spring in the first step of what is hoped will be an annual Canadian college championship tournament.

R. J. (Dan) Phillips, athletic director of the University of British Columbia, and his basketball coach Jack Pomfret, are trying to arrange the tournament.

It would be part of a plan to help bring about formation of a national athletic union embracing the Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Union, the four-college eastern group of McGill, Toronto, Queen's and the University of Western Ontario, the Ottawa-St. Lawrence college group and the Maritime union.

Phillips said the intention is to bring one team from the Ontario-Quebec conference, one from the Ottawa-St. Lawrence group and two from the West to the initial tournament. The Maritimes would be brought in eventually as financing permitted.

MAY BE TELEVISED

Eastern schools have expressed interest and the western union has approved the idea.

A committee has been established at UBC to investigate the possible revenue sources, including rights for a national television broadcast of the tournament games.

Basketball and football are the two major spectator sports played in Canadian universities now and it is felt they must be able to draw strong public support to help carry other sports with less spectator appeal.

Eventually, football may be able to produce the big gates to carry the ball on a national scale. In the meantime, basketball may get the first chance.

The intercollegiate football final that got airborne last year with help from a commercial sponsor is best on the grid.

An East-West game for the Vanier Cup will be played this fall, but whether it can be billed as a Canadian championship depends on whether McGill wins the eastern football title.

McGill has invited the University of Alberta, western champion, to play in Montreal Nov. 12 for the cup, but up eight years ago for East-West competition with the hope it would develop into a national championship game.

For six years it was contested in pre-season games as the "Paraplegic Bowl" between UBC, which then had the only western college football team, and an eastern university.

Last year, Alberta and Saskatchewan returned to football competition, the cup suddenly became the emblem of the national college crown and the game became a post-season affair.

WEST OUTCLASSED

Western Ontario shipped UBC 34-7 before a small, rainswept crowd in Toronto. The Toronto Star picked up the tab but sponsorship has since been dropped because of opposition from eastern schools.

Phillips said there was also opposition in the East to the idea of playing a western team at all because they feel we're so inferior.

UBC football coach Frank Gnup said this is true and it may take several years for the West to catch up. Both feel, however, that a continuing national contest might speed improvement.

"I feel sure it won't fizzle out," said Phillips. "It will be a slow building process, but it's going to come. A national college athletic union is going to come, too."

BOSTON (AP)—Vern Law, the tall, calm deacon with Pittsburgh Pirates, today won the Cy Young Memorial Award as the outstanding pitcher in the major baseball leagues in 1960.

He polled eight of 24 ballots cast by the selection committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Left-hander Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves, the 1957 winner, got four votes and Ernie Broglio and Lindy McDaniel, both of St. Louis Cardinals, one each. It was the first time in the award's five-year history that no American League pitcher failed to gain a vote.

Law, 30, an elder in the Mormon Church and nicknamed the Deacon by his teammates, had a 20-9 won-lost record with a 3.08 earned run average for the season. He worked 18 complete games in 35 appearances in leading the Pirates to the national league pennant and contributed two more in their world series triumph over New York Yankees. The balloting is based only on regular-season performance.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Said the Ottawa man:—"We'll take the Alouettes Saturday, maybe blow the first one to Argonauts in the first game, then clean their clocks in the second for points, then away to the Grey Cup."

Said the Argonaut man:—"The mighty offensive team which unleased almost unstoppable power against the Larks last Saturday will not be denied. Supposing Ottawa beats the Larks in the sudden death do, which they probably will. Argos will unleash their tremendous offensive on Ottawa and win either by points or two games in a row."

Said the reasonable man:—"Montreal should be the immediate concern of the Rough Riders. Remember, they came up with some fine blocking and their crushing defeat last Saturday—and they're liable to upset the Ottawa apple-cart."

"On the other hand, the Rough Riders, who are the most consistent team in the Big Four, are and must come up with a display that crushed Argonauts a week or so ago. That I think they can do—and will do on Saturday against the Als."

The fact remains, as Bob Simpson puts it "Now we can get down off that Vancouver cloud and start playing some football." There is a lot of mumbling and groaning down Ottawa way over what might-have-been but it seems to me the Riders should shelve the Argonaut problem and concentrate on the dangerous Larks of Montreal.

Remember, the Als scared the living daylights out of Rote, Mann, Gilchrist and company last Saturday by scoring two touchdowns in the first four minutes of play. At that the score was tied 21-21 at half time.

As one Ottawa writer puts it. "Riders' disciples took consolation in the fact that they have never lost two stinkers in a row. They looked shaggy in Toronto, then bombed the Argos in Ottawa. Continuing the cycle they looked shaggy in Hamilton, should bomb Montreal in Ottawa; once around again they blow it in Toronto, but rebound mercily in the second game of the finals."

Then he adds in very small type, "and then blow the Grey Cup, if the cycle lasts."

The Argonauts, too, have their cycle. They played like the Canuck Football Club team of the Ice Hockey squad a couple of weeks ago, then in second-half tornado play blasted the Larks last Sunday. And don't forget they have an extra week off, a mighty important item.

In any event, should the Riders win over the Larks, the Ottawa-Argonaut series of clashes should produce some terrific football.

Riders will likely concentrate on hogtying Tobin Rote but there is still the bulldozer rushes of Cookie Gilchrist. And if Thelen and Stewart can get "on the loose" well —anything could happen.

But, as somebody mentions, if the weather man decides to muddy the atmosphere to the extent of a downpour of rain and leave a soggy, muddy amphitheatre for the gridiron gladiators to cavort in, what happens?

Argos biggest offensive weapon is the pass-and-run play, although you cannot deny the bone-jolting, crunching of Cookie Gilchrist has helped a lot. And would the heavy going slow up Mann and Shatto and by the same token the heavy plunging and running of Stewart and Thelen?

The word from out west has it the Winnipeg Blue Bombers will defend the Grey Cup in Vancouver. Peg stories say the Bombers are stronger than the club which defeated a none too impressive Hamilton Tiger-Cat team a year ago. Calgary and Edmonton fashion the playoff opposition for the Bombers, but from here it looks like the 'Peg.

OHA West. Group Meets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sam Slaco, a seldom-used left-winger who played industrial hockey league until this season, is the new hero in the Windsor Bulldogs lineup.

Slaco slammed home a goal at 3:44 Wednesday night which proved to be the eventual winner, giving Bulldogs a 5-4 victory over Chatham Maroons and sole possession of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Western Division.

Windsor now has eight points and Chatham six, meanwhile Bill Flick and Mickey Roth paced Stratford Indians to a 3-0 victory over Woodstock Athletics to move the Indians into third place with four points.

MEETING THURSDAY

Clubs in the eastern division were idle but, Don Hughes of Stratford, convener of the western division called a meeting here tonight to discuss a request by the eastern group for an interlocking schedule. Only Galt, Oakville and Belleville remain in the eastern division after Welland and Whitby withdrew.

Windsor's victory broke a first place deadlock between the two clubs. The Bulldogs administered both Chatham losers.

After Slaco stretched the Bulldog lead to 5-3, Maroons made a last-ditch attempt to get back into the running with a tally at 11:51 by George Montague, Al Cullen, 18-year-old Windsor goalie hocked all the Maroons' six attempts at the end.

Bobby Brown scored twice for Windsor, Fred Hildebrand and Jack Caskey were the other two who got by goalie Bennett.

Montague marked two for Chatham with Early Towers and Cliff McArthur adding one each. Referee Rev Hamilton gave each team four penalties.

Woodstock's blanking in Stratford lifted the visitors in fourth place, but, they were minus regular goalie Dunn along with Harrison and Taylor.

Indian sharpshooters were Flick and Roth, with veteran Flick counting a pair. Williams was the only absentee from their lineup.

Stratford took most of the 11 penalties, but seemed to have no difficulty shorthanded.

Leafs Shoot For League Lead Tonight

Hawks Tie With Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks are back in first place in the National Hockey League but Toronto Maple Leafs are the team to watch at the moment.

The Black Hawks rallied for two goals in the last 10 minutes Wednesday night to tie New York Rangers 4-4. The tie gave the Hawks 15 points, one more than the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens who were idle.

The Leafs, who have finished in second place in the NHL the last two seasons, were held to a 2-2 tie by Boston Bruins at Toronto.

The lone point, the 13th of the season for the Leafs, put them in a position where they can tie Chicago for the leadership with a victory against the slumping Canadiens at Montreal tonight.

SINKS LOW SHOT

Ron Stewart scored Toronto's first goal in the first period when his shot, inches above the ice, found an opening between goalie Don Simmons' pad and the post.

Defenceman Tim Horton let go a 15-foot shot that Boston's Dallas Smith and skittered in behind a surprised Simmons for the second goal less than two minutes from the end of the second period.

Bronco Horvath got both Boston goals. In the first period he took a goalmouth pass from defenceman Bob Armstrong and rifled a low shot that Johnny Bower managed to kick out. But Horvath grabbed the rebound and flipped the puck past Bower.

Horvath's second goal, which tied the score early in the third period, was near-perfect. He took a pass from linemate Vic Stasiuk just outside the Toronto crease, pulled Bower out of the nets and nonchalantly shot the puck in the open net.

WORSLEY INJURED

At Chicago, Ranger regular goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley held the Black Hawks in check with brilliant goaltending until he was forced out of the game with a back injury at the start of the third period.

Chicago's Ab McDonald and Murray Balfour beat former U.S. Olympic goalie, Jack MacCartan, in the final 10 minutes to tie the game.

Worsley, who made 32 saves in the first two periods, was not seriously injured. He was released from hospital after examination.

At 11:36 of the final period McDonald knocked down a high pass with his hand and blasted a 15-footer past a helpless MacCartan.

Balfour's goal came with barely two minutes to go when he took a pass with his back to the New York nets and nudged the puck into the corner of the net.

Bill (Red) Hay and Eric Nesterenko got Chicago's other goals while Camille Henry, Brian Cullen, Dean Prentice and Andy Gadsby scored for the Rangers.

The Toronto-Montreal game is one of two scheduled for tonight. Boston plays the Red Wings at Detroit.

OLYMPIC STAR NOW PRO

SEATTLE (AP)—Roger Christiaen, who with his two younger brother Brilly helped lead the United States' hockey team to a gold medal in the Winter Olympics, signed a professional hockey contract with Seattle Totems Wednesday.

The Christiaen brothers, from Warroad, Minn., played with the Western Junior Hockey League Totems in a five-game tryout this season.

Roger, 25, signed his contract after Totems agreed to place Billy, 22, with another hockey club. The young Christian is to have a tryout with the Minneapolis hockey squad.

CALLS OHA MEETING

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Don Hughes of Stratford, convener of the western division of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series has called a meeting here tonight following a request by the eastern group for an interlocking schedule. Only Galt, Oakville and Belleville were left in the eastern group after Welland and Whitby withdrew.

Jackie Parker Sparks Eskimos Win

Spurs Defeat Cardiff 3-2; England Ties

LONDON (AP) — Tottenham Hotspur, glamor team of English soccer, defeated Cardiff City 3-2 Wednesday night and took its unbeaten run in the English First Division to 15 matches.

The London team now has 29 points out of a possible 30 and is six points ahead of its nearest rival, Sheffield Wednesday, at the top of the standings.

At Newcastle, the soccer teams of England and Italy tied 1-1 in an international game for players aged 23 and under.

England's tying goal was hotly disputed by the Italian team and threatened to spark a brawl.

Left - Winger Bobby Charlton dropped a corner kick into the goalmouth. Palermo goalkeeper Roberto Anzolin caught the ball, but English centre forward Joe Baker bundled him into the net.

Belgian referee Van Nuzel awarded a goal. The white Italian team surrounded him and dragged him back to the goal to see Anzolin, who was flat out on the ground.

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos, with quarterback Jackie Parker up to his old destructive tricks, belted Calgary Stampeders 30-7 Wednesday night for a 23-point lead in their Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final series.

Parker, one of the sport's sensational players ever to hit Canadian football, guided Eskimos with some brilliant work, throwing one touchdown pass and picking up 254 yards on nine pass completions.

Eskimos carry their big lead into the second game of the two-game total-points series in Calgary Saturday afternoon. The winner goes against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a best-of-three final to determine the western representative in the Grey Cup classic at Vancouver Saturday Nov. 26.

The Eskimos attack was so crippling that it brought this solemn observation from Calgary coach Steve Owen:

"They kicked hell out of us."

Eskimos took advantage of Calgary fumbles in the cause, freezing weather, which seemed cooler because of a stiff breeze. The Stamps fumbled three times, losing two of them.

A crowd of 16,018 saw backfielder Cowboy Woodruff lead Eskimos with two touchdowns, one on a 96-yard run with the kickoff opening the second half. Fullback Johnny Bright and Normie Kwong scored one touchdown apiece, Tommy-Joe Coffey kicked a field goal and three converts.

Ed Bill McKenna scored Calgary's touchdown on a 37-yard pass from quarterback Joe Jaap. Doug Brown converted.

Eskimos grabbed off two of Kapp's losses, 26 completed in 50 of 25 heaves for 245 yards. The Stamps rolled up 256 yards along the ground compared with Eskimo's 255 total.

Edmonton opened a 14 - point lead in the first quarter with Woodruff scoring on a 37-yard touchdown pass from Parker, and Bright barging over from Calgary's two-yard line. Kwong picked up the only score of the second quarter, plunging from the one-yard line.

Edmonton kept up the pressure with Woodruff taking the second-half kickoff on his own 16-yard line and rambling behind several blocks to score.

Calgary tackle George Hansen, 22, suffered a severe leg bruise in the third quarter play and may not play Saturday.

ATTENDANCE DOWN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attendance at British Columbia Lions WIFU games here fell slightly this season. Total attendance at league and two exhibition games was 268,837 compared with 281,523 last year.

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Patriots announced Wednesday they have had no word on their hopes of acquiring WIFU quarterback Don Allard. A Patriots spokesman said the team had not been able to obtain Canadian waivers on Allard, who finished the season with Regina of the WIFU last week.

Hockey Hints

By Lloyd Percival

GORDIE SETS THEM UP

A famous American football coach, matching Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings with a game practically all by himself, said, "This Howe is great because he is a creative player. He makes things happen the way he wants them."

The coach was referring to one of the great secrets of Gordie Howe, something every hockey player should take to heart and remember well The secret? The smooth skating Red Wing, when he gets the puck, is always trying to make a play. He never just blazes down the ice and hopes for the best as do most young players do.

If you watch Howe closely you will note that he always makes the defensive player he must beat come to him. He rarely skates to the man. Gordie knows that if he can make his opponent come to him his chance of beating him is better.

Howe invites a check so that he can set the pattern for the play. Just as you must try to make the goalkeeper move first so should you try to make the defensive man ahead come to you. For more hints about how this great star plays the game send a stamped, self addressed envelope and 10c c/o this newspaper for my bulletin, "Magic On Skates".

Wolves Clip Kingston 6-3

SUDBURY (CP) — Ken Girard's two goals paced Sudbury Wolves to a 6-3 victory over Kingston Frontenacs Wednesday night, moving Wolves into second place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League race.

Jim Pappin, scoring his seventh goal in the seven games he has played since coming from Rochester Americans of the American League, Tom McCarthy, Don McGregor and Air Clery added a goal apiece.

Kingston's goals were all scored in the first period. Stan Maxwell, Barry Ashbee and Jack Kane were the marksmen.

It was Kane's second goal in two comings in the two games he has played with Frontenacs. He was elevated from Clinton Comets of the Eastern Amateur League.

OTTAWA (CP)—"I hope we'll beat 'em."

Coach Frank Clair was being modestly optimistic about Ottawa Rough Riders chances Saturday against Montreal Alouettes.

"I've also seen the Big Four football semi-final he said:

"Everybody wants to get into this game and have to cover with —it's going to be tough."

"We've been going through some new plays" he added, saying that concentration will be placed on "passing defence and running defence."

A rash of knee injuries, weakening the Ottawa ends, and Montreal quarterback Sam Etcheverry were big problems.

ONE END OFF

Defensive end John Jefacic "is definitely out." Lou Bruce, also sidelined with an injured knee, "will be dressed but it's doubtful whether he'll play."

Meanwhile, it was learned that Montreal coach Perry Moss has

Yankee Manager Quits

NEW YORK (AP) — George Weiss, who teamed with Casey Stengel to produce 10 pennant winning teams for New York baseball Yankees, has resigned /Wednesday as general manager.

Roy Harney, who served as Weiss' assistant the last two years, will be named as his successor within a few days.

Weiss will remain with the club in an advisory capacity. He still has five years remaining on his seven-year contract.

The move has been anticipated since it became known that Yankee co-owners Dan Topping and Del Webb had adopted a compulsory retirement plan which inactivates an employee who has passed his 65th birthday. Weiss was 66 last month. Harney is 58.

That also was the reason for Stengel's dismissal last, month. Casey is 70.

Weiss, in contrast to Stengel's blistering remarks, said the move to his new home in Minneapolis-St. Paul.

"I wasn't fired," he said at a press conference.

"I don't think I am less capable than I was, let's say, four years ago, but I want to take things a little easier. I am satisfied and happy."

Topping praised Weiss for being "a hell of a guy for the Yankees."

Name Dewitt Reds Manager

CINCINNATI (AP)—William O. DeWitt is the new general manager of Cincinnati Reds of the national league. He succeeds Gabe Paul, who resigned Oct. 19 to become general manager of the new Houston club of the National league.

DeWitt, 36, until recently was president of the Detroit club of the American League.

The announcement was made by Powell Crosley Jr., principal owner of the Reds.

DeWitt left the Detroit club Oct. 19.

He said the club was owned equally by three groups and that John Feiser of Kalamazoo, Mich., wanted to become president and make him his assistant.

DeWitt, who was with St. Louis Cardinals for 20 years said he had been assured of "freedom of action" in his new post.

DeWitt said he is pleased that Fred Hutchinson is manager of the Reds.

LET FANS CHOOSE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Dem-Wyo.) said Wednesday the fans, through a popularity contest, should be allowed to pick two members from Washington Senators to play here when the team moves to its new home in Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Frick Slaps $1,000 Fine On Aaron

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick has slapped a $1,000 fine on Henry Aaron, Milwaukee Braves' outfielder, for failing to live up to a commitment to play with an all - star team barnstorming through the south.

Frick also handed out $500 fines Wednesday to Charley Neal and Maury Wills of Los Angeles Dodgers for the same infractions. He ordered Lee Mays, a Milwaukee outfielder, to quit the Caguas team in the Puerto Rican League and join the barnstorming tour.

The reason for Aaron's big fine — twice that of the other players—was because it was the second such infraction by the Braves' star. He was fined $500 last year for failing to go through with a barnstorming agreement.

The players had been advised to appear in a barnstorming tour of two Negro all-star teams.

At Milwaukee Aaron described the fine as pretty "tough to take."

"This is the second time in two years I've been a victim of circumstances," Aaron said at his home. "I've had a bad back for a long while and just couldn't play this year. I turned in a medical report (to the commissioner) and that's all I could do. The fine is tough to take."

Regarding Player Suspension

U.S. Clubs Defy League

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—The Kitchener Rens a special meeting will be held in Toronto Sunday to discuss the failure of the United States Amateur Hockey Association to live up to an agreement with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Eight players suspended by the CAHA have gone to the U.S. to play without releases, contrary to an agreement between the two organizations, the news release said.

Under terms of the agreement, which is recognized by professional hockey associations and the Ligue Internationale Hockey Glace (International Ice Hockey League), the U.S officials are obliged to enforce the suspensions, it adds.

The Toronto meeting has been called by CAHA president J. W. Roxburgh of Simcoe.

The suspended players, all from senior teams of the Ontario Hockey Association, are Erwin Grosse, Gord Haidy, and Rene Pepin of Windsor; Ken Laufman, Bob Forhan and Murray Davidson of Kitchener; Gerry Sharp of Chatham, and Ron Muir of Belleville.

"We are prepared to take drastic action," the story quotes Roxburgh. "As far as I know, none of the eight players asked for releases. They just took off."

The subject of Canadian playing in the U.S. without permission was discussed with U.S. officials last May at the CAHA annual meeting.

It was understood from the meeting that the USAHA would enforce Canadian suspensions.

Ralph Dupas Stops Kerwin In Seventh

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Rocking welterweight contender Ralph Dupas of New Orleans stopped Canadian welterweight champion Gale Kerwin in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-rounder Wednesday night.

Dupas, the No. 4 contender, weighed 146½. Kerwin, an Ottawa boy, who now fights out of Valley Stream, N.Y., scaled 154½.

Referee Frank Kercheval stopped the bout in 1:37 of the seventh round. Blood was streaming from Kerwin's nose and left eye.

The eye split apparently hampered Kerwin. He appeared unable to halt the double-barrelled barrage of his speedy opponent.

Dupas was in control all the way, scoring heavily with a steady stream of left hands, occasional right-handed leads and frequent combinations to the head and body. Kerwin's best punch was a left hook and a straight right to the head, but neither found their mark very often.

The Associated Press card had the 25-year-old Dupas winner of the first six rounds.

Roxburgh said he believes clubs are openly defying the USAHA.

Coach Says Runner Not To Blame

WINNIPEG (CP)—John Manchielle, adviser and coach of Vancouver runner Harry Jerome, says he is to blame for Jerome's so-called bad manners and terrible press relations.

Manchielle said in a Winnipeg interview that he also takes Jerome off the hook for the doubt surrounding a pulled muscle that kept him out of the Olympic 100-metre race in Rome last August.

"I'm the guy who told Harry not to talk to reporters before a race. If he was to say he'd make mince meat out of the opposition, he'd be branded as a braggart. If he doesn't talk, he's called spoiled by sports writers.

"Harry is shy. Both Bill Bowerman, his coach at Oregon University, and myself want to bring him along right. After an event, he's the most amiable kind of boy you would want to meet."

Boston's Bronco Horvath, whose goals gave the Bruins a 3-2 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs, Chicago's Murray Balfour, whose late third-period goal gave the Black Hawks a 4-4 tie with New York Rangers.

Irish Win Over Marlies By 9-5 Score

TORONTO (CP) — Andre Champagne's three goals powered Toronto St. Michael's College Majors to a 9-5 victory Wednesday night over their crosstown rivals Toronto Marlboros to place them on top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A section.

St. Michael's, tied with Guelph with four points, took the lead after 54 seconds when Champagne fired in his first marker and never never behind in the contest before 500 fans at Ted Reeve Arena in suburban East York. The Majors led 3-1 at the end of the first and 7-2 going into the final frame.

Other St. Michael's marksmen were Bruce Draper, with two goals, and Duncan MacDonald. Larry Keenan, Jack Cole and Mike MacMillan.

Sunny Osborne netted three times for the Marlboros, who remains in a four-way second place tie with two points. Howie Menard and Gary Jarrett also scored.

The Majors' attack peppered Marlboro netminder Bob Perani with 43 shots, nine of which found their mark. Jerry Cheever stopped 16 in the St. Michael's goals. The teams split 12 penalties.

Viewers Must Like Actors To Make Series a Success

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Cy Howard is an articulate, fast - moving young man-about-television who thinks he has discovered the secret of making popular situation comedies, even though the jury—the viewers—is still out where his two new and current projects are concerned. (They are Guesward Ho! and Harrigan and Son on ABC.)

"The test of all television shows," declared the crew - cut producer, writer-director - actor in does the audience like the people in the program?' Audiences just won't sit down and watch performers they don't like.

"You can get away with any kind of a plot if the characters are right. And one of the tricks in making a hit-type show come off is to start with characters who are so well established in the minds of the viewers that they know all about them."

IS DEFINITE TYPE

Howard confessed that in casting Harrigan and Son he chose Pat O'Brien to play the father because the actor "brings to the program all his years in motion pictures which have established him as a definite type of personality."

Audiences are accustomed to family setups in TV situation comedy, and one way to take advantage of this familiar frame is to make switches within it. For instance, Howard had the idea of making the "mother" role in the show that of the older woman who is the young lawyer's secretary, and the "kid sister" role, the father's secretary.

"And if the show goes well, he added, "in three years we can have the girl and the young lawyer fall in love and get married and we're set for another run with O'Brien playing a grandfather."

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—The Englishbred Slan won the Ontario racing season's final turf event of the 1960 season when he drove home before 5,988 fans at Woodbine Wednesday.

Jesus Mary, leading up to a point a quarter of a mile from home where the turf track has to cross 25 feet of the dirt track before hitting the inside turf again, spilled his jockey at the cross-over. Jockey Charlie Boland, just back after breaking two ribs in a workout spill, escaped injury.

Boland said his horse shied at the sight of the muddy dirt track and threw him. Fortunately following horses were able to avoid Boland.

Detin was second and West Four third in the race, the last card of this season which ends Nov. 24.

AT THE BELLE — Savage From the Amazon — All cats are hunters, even the fireside tabby! In the jungle in Brazil, Walt Disney lensmen found the Jaguard to be the prince of predators and they reveal him in all his beauty, tenderness and fierceness in "Jungle Cat", in Technicolor, one of two Disney features showing tonight, Friday and Saturday at the Belle. Also a very special treat, Walt Disney's second feature, "The Hound That Thought He Was a Racoon", is just for fun, in Technicolor, too!

AT THE McCARTHY — Alan Ladd and Dolores Michaels, stars of the action-packed "One Foot in Hell", a Twentieth Century-Fox CinemaScope, DeLuxe Color release opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, Ind. Twentieth Century-Fox hit is "The High Powered Rifle", featuring Willard Parker and Allison Hayes.

AT THE PARK—Patrician Owens, left, let her hair down before a peeved Jeffrey Hunter and Vic Damone in "Hell to Eternity," story of hero of Saipan, held over 'til Saturday at both 20th Century Theatres, Park, Belleville and Century, Trenton. Complete shows 7.00 and 9.20 p.m.

Carol Heiss Is Taking Over Henie Studio to Make Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Folks are feeling nostalgic around Fox Studios these days. Stage 15 is getting iced up again.

Stage 15 is where Sonja Henie swirled and skimmed her way through a series of money-making movies. The rink has been boarded over since the petite Norwegian left the lot in 1961. Now it is being refurbished for a new star who wasn't born when Sonja was in her heyday.

She is Carol Heiss, the pretty New Yorker who won the figure-skating championship at last winter's Olympic Games. She has been signed to a movie contract by 20th Century-Fox. Her first assignment: Snow White and the Three Stooges, a version of the familiar fairy tale.

How is she preparing for it?

WATCHES SONJA

"I skate in the morning and see Sonja Henie movies in the afternoon," said Carol. "I was only 4½ when she made her last movie, so my sole acquaintance with her pictures was on the late, late show on TV. Now I'm seeing them all to pick up pointers on what I should and should not do in the movie."

Her reaction to the films is that her predecessor was clever and talented, but skating has come a long way since.

"She was a sensation in her time and really made figure skating into a big sport," Carol remarked. "But the things she did were simple by today's standards.

"She was considered amazing when she did a single axle, which is skating forward, making a turn in the air and ending up backwards. Nowadays girls do a double axle and the boys are even doing triples."

Leafs Add Six Players

TORONTO (CP)—International League champion Toronto Maple Leafs have added seven names to their baseball roster for next season.

All of them are unknown quantities. In the pitching department they have Don Johnson, 19, who had a 4-2 record with Lakeland last season in Class D Ball. There are also southpaws Richard Beres (4-5) from Burlington and Julius Grant (13-8) from Reading, and right-handers Glen Rogers (3-4) and Don Schaefer (3-10), both from Mobile.

Also in the field is infielder Antonio Martinez, a .260 hitter at Minot and outfielder Ken Elsein who hit .258, including 13 homers, at Lakeland.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, November 4

General tendencies: Until noon you are all too apt to want to break up existing conditions and to dash off to new scenes, new working materials and new personalities which would be most unwise. However, later you can accomplish a great deal by a very calm, rational, precise and detailed course of action. Get property fixed up better.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — This is one of those days when you would do fly off at some temporary pleasure instead of tending to business, which would be very unwise at his time, since after lunch there are excellent opportunities open to you for advancement.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — If you become angry with one at home, or upset over some property matter in A. M., this could hold you back in career matters. Be wise and carry through with plans made. P. M. Go out socially and meet the right people — state your goals.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A secret anxiety could keep you from making the right contacts today and getting ahead faster. The latter part of the day can, if you have risen above annoyance, be fine for social and romantic pleasures. P. M. help the truly needy.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Listen to the good ideas of a family comrade this morning instead of following suggestions of adviser who is not so well informed. Follow through with the best. P. M. get out socially and meet interesting and influential people.

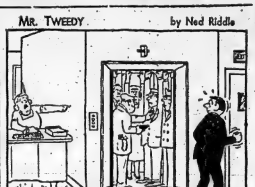
Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — It is possible that you may get into an argument with higher-up, since you feel that he, or she, is in your power. Take it easy. The future will prove differently. P. M. get together with Big - Wigs and further your chances for success, too.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Put aside dull doldrum work this morning and be off to places and people who can help you to advance in your career. P. M. plan the future more wisely with the information you have garnered. Be more modern in your approach.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — An ally who is generous and wise gives you good ideas how to ameliorate both business and personal life. P. M. be with individuals who know their business and perfect minutiae.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Be sure to handle matters with associates, as well as personal affairs, astutely for A. M. though both may be crowding in on you. Take partners out to dinner and come to a far better understanding in a nice atmosphere.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 20) — If you stop wasting time, you can get the data you sorely need at this time. Go after it! Many fine opportunities are open to you and you can meet the right people if you don't waste a moment of this precious day and evening.



Capricorn (Dec. 21 to Jan. 20) — Better figure out minutely how much money you can spend over the weekend and plan to stay within your budget. P. M. start out on your social whirl or sports with a happy heart and spread sunshine wherever you go. Have fun.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It would be very wise to give an ear to the suggestions of an associate with much experience and wisdom. Follow them. P. M. fine for looking into property and family affairs. Get everything in best order possible.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Get daily duties done as early as possible so that you can free your time for calls, shopping or looking into new outlets, etc. Evening is then fine for having a very good time with friends! you truly like.

If your child is born today — he, or she, will inherit a wonderful mind and want to do big things in life, but you must early teach to harness the energies so that too many things are not being worked on at the same time, thereby defeating own purpose. Teach to whittle projects down to practical size and to specialize in one sphere of endeavor. Then the chart becomes a truly remarkable one, with great success in the offing and considerable fame. Latter part of life is opulent.

Interim Subsidy By Govt. May Get Rails Off Hook

Action Could Avert Country-Wide Strike

OTTAWA (CP) — A temporary subsidy may be paid by the federal government to get the major railways off a multi-million-dollar hook and avert a possible country-wide rail strike later this year.

The idea indicated Thursday night by a reliable informant as Canada's biggest single labor scrap moved relentlessly toward a mid-November crisis and an October strike deadline.

The subsidy would be a contingency plan aimed at covering the cost of settling the railway wage dispute with 111,000 of their so-called "non-operating" employees, those who do not operate trains.

It would be paid in event a crippling strike against the railways and preserve their revenue position while a royal commission studying rail problems comes up early next spring with what is expected to be a long-term solution.

DESLIKE COMPULSION

It is understood the government favors a subsidy idea over special legislation that would impose compulsory arbitration — the least desirable and palatable solution in the eyes of the Canadian Labor Congress.

The dispute, heading now into its second year, has moved to the brink of a strike over terms of bargaining and conciliation without any agreement on the main wage issue.

A federal conciliation board headed by Justice J. V. H. Milvain of Calgary, recommended a 30-cent-an-hour settlement over a two-year contract ending in 1961. It provided for a two-cent hourly boost retroactive to last Jan. 1, plus five cents an hour from Sept. 1, 1960, and four per cent May 1.

This was accepted by the 15 union "non-op" negotiating team headed by Frank H. Hall of Montreal, but flatly rejected by the CPR and CNR.

The railways claimed their employees were already well paid in comparison with similar work-

Former Florida Judge Arrested On Murder Count

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Joseph Peel, former city judge of West Palm Beach, Fla., was arrested here today on murder charges of murder in the 1955 death of a Florida judge and his wife.

Circuit Judge C. E. Chillingworth and his wife, Marjorie, vanished from their West Palm Beach home June 15, 1955. Police said circumstances indicated they had been kidnapped and slain.

Sheriff James Turner said Peel apparently came here to join James Donald Miles, 31, an Eau Gallie, Fla., builder. Miles, the sheriff said, are also under $25,000 bond in Florida on charges that they conspired to murder a Florida executioner, Floyd Holcomb, 35.

Florida authorities said it was Holcomb who last month blundered out to two undercover agents that he and another man were hired to murder Chillingworth.

According to the story, the men took the 57-year-old judge and his wife four or five miles out to sea, weighted them with chains and threw them overboard.

Holcomb later repudiated the story.

Public Housing Policy May Be Revised

TORONTO (CP)—The Metropolitan housing and welfare committee Thursday proposed sweeping revisions in public housing policy, one of which would provide for acquisition of private dwellings for conversion into low-rental living units.

The proposal would allow for lease or purchase of both houses and apartment buildings. The accommodation would be used to house families now occupying space in new Metro housing projects, many families experiencing relocation from an area undergoing redevelopment.

Revision of the public housing policy would require approval of the Metropolitan council and Housing Authority, and the provincial and federal governments.

Another proposal would allow private builders to construct individual housing projects and lease them to the Housing Authority. An offer already has been made under the arrangement.

Under the recommendation two large blocks would be reserved for public housing would be leased to private builders, sold to private developers. Revenue from the sales would go toward purchase of smaller sites for public housing projects.

KILLED IN CRASH

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Three persons were killed and 46 others injured when police clashed Thursday night with a crowd demonstrating against President Jorge Alessandri's anti-inflation program. Demonstrators, trying to reach the centre of the city, attacked the police with clubs and stones. Police replied with tear-gas and fire bombs and finally opened fire after several of the police were slashed.

THE WEATHER -

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: An intense low - pressure area centred over Lake Superior dominated the weather picture over Eastern Canada. In Northern Ontario scattered snowflurries will continue today. Partial clearing took place during the night over southern Ontario but cloud is expected to develop again today. Little change in weather is forecast across the province Saturday.

Weekend Weather

TORONTO (CP)—A mixture of cloudy skies and rain today and Saturday and a promise of sunshine Sunday are the weather prospects for Southern Ontario and the northeast, the weather office said today.

The mixed weather outlook results from a low - pressure system centring near Kansas City. The disturbance has brought cloudy skies to the Windsor area. Rain also has fallen in Chicago, to the east and Chicago.

The rain is expected to spread over Southern Ontario from today following by night in the Lake Erie and southern Lake Huron regions.

The weather office forecast for Saturday but there is a possibility of rain ending by Sunday and as far east as the Kingston area.

By Sunday, the low-pressure system is expected to be east of the province and fair to mild will follow sunshine.

Temperatures during the weekend are expected to be in the mid-30s during the night and the mid-40s in the day.

New Tale From the Vienna Woods Has K. Ousted by Malenkov, Zhukov

VIENNA (AP)—Rumors of a successful coup in Moscow by an anti-party group circulated here today. There was no confirmation from any source.

The rumors said former Premier Georgi Malenkov has taken over from Nikita Khrushchev in under arrest. Gen. Georgi Zhukov, the Soviet defence minister, was reported appointed premier. Khrushchev also is said to have taken place at 4 a.m.

There was no hint where the rumors originated.

Monitoring services of the BBC reported Moscow radio transmissions normal. British government sources said they have heard no whispers whatsoever of any Soviet government changes.

The speculation came as leaders of the Communist world began assembling in Moscow for celebrations Monday marking the 43rd anniversary of the Russian revolution. Unofficial activities the Red leaders are getting down to discussion on differences that have risen over ideological strife ogy between the Soviet and Red Chinese governments.

Correspondents in Moscow reported Thursday that there was no signs of any governmental upheaval. Westerners in the Soviet capital have, however, noted signs of discontent in high places with the way Premier Khrushchev has handled relations with the United States.

Khrushchev himself is thought to be out of Moscow, although said in London. He told a British trade union chief, Frank Cousins, Oct. 26 he was about to get off the Black Sea for a few days' vacation.

CONSTITUTIONAL PARLEY TO SEEK COMPROMISE

Delegates to Meet Again in January

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton and the provincial attorneys-general agreed Thursday to seek compromise solutions to the problems of constitutional reform.

In order to do so, they defined the scope of the problems at a two - day constitutional conference and agreed to meet again Jan. 12-13.

And in doing so, they agreed, they had gone farther along the road to constitutional reform than any of their predecessors, even though the road is still long.

The 1960 constitutional conference opened here with the federal counterpart failed in agreeing on what points are at issue, and on what points there is no dispute. It put these into a kind of statement of principles, to be studied by each of the provincial governments over the next two months.

NOT MADE PUBLIC

The statement was not made public. The conference agreed here Wednesday, Oct. 26, the year that the delegates should not spell out their arguments publicly, but leave them for adjustment.

Premier Saskatchewan's attorney - General Walker, in a statement to reporters after today's adjournment, said his province opposed the idea of unanimity in all constitutional amendments. To adopt it, he said, would give each province the power to veto over all others.

He said Saskatchewan never wanted power to delegate some of its constitutional rights to the federal Parliament and refused from Ottawa some federal authority. If Quebec was afraid of federal encroachment on its civil code, it must be granted power to nullify within its borders any objectionable federal enactment, he said.

But while taking three positions in a press release, Walker agreed later in the

Expect Belgium and Russia To Assail UN Congo Report

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Belgium clouded its anti-Soviet retary-General Dag Hammarskjold from East and West today by attacking as the General Assembly prepared to take up charges by the United Congo side-shows Belgians are prodding the African state to the brink of disaster.

The report by the Indian chief of the UN Congo mission, Rajeshwar Dayal, was released in multilingual of personalizing Col. Joseph Mobutu, Belgium and the Soviet Union are expected to assail the secretary-general's report when the assembly meets up for debate in the assembly Monday. There were unconfirmed reports Thursday that even sooner.

Belgian delegate Walter Loridan declined to comment on Dayal's report, but he indicated his sponse by the West would be automatic.

The great danger is this policy was to start even a local Soviet attack with conventional forces could have mushroomed quickly into an all-out nuclear war.

Now NATO is putting more emphasis on conventional arms to meet a conventional war situation.

Diplomats say de Gaulle is looking some years ahead to the time when possibly there will be no American troops in Europe. De Gaulle is said to feel that in such a case the defence of Europe will have to rest with the Europeans alone.

The Germans take a similar view privately, but publicly reject this countenance any U.S. military withdrawal from this continent.

This matter is important to Canada because of the presence of the Canadian brigade in Germany, soon to be armed with a new strike plane, and an infantry brigade which next year will get rockets capable of carrying nuclear warheads. It would seem unlikely Canada politically could keep them in Europe longer than the U.S.

Hartness said Thursday Canada has "at the moment" has no intention of withdrawing its forces from Europe. Many of the country change, Canadian officials say, but the government always delivers its promised 12 divisions to NATO.

Canadian officials see as essential the continued partnership of Germany in NATO because for many in a few years will be nearly rearmed.

The Germans generally have antipathy for Canadian forces on their soil. Many of the troops there is still an anti - German sentiment in Canada.

Germans Tremble at Thought U.S. Might Withdraw Soldiers

BONN (CP)—The Germans almost tremble at the thought that the United States might change its foreign policy, especially in regard to the defence of Western Europe and Berlin.

"This is why any hint out of Washington that the U.S. might withdraw its forces from Western Europe causes the Germans to hit the panic button.

And diplomats say this is the reason behind President de Gaulle's proposal to create a French-style nuclear defence.

These have some of the views Defence Minister Harkness has heard in talks this week with British, French, German and NATO officials.

The Europeans, especially the French and Germans, feel that as long as there is an American soldier in Europe the U.S. will automatically be in a defence Western Europe.

But they have some doubts that, if all U.S. forces were withdrawn, the U.S. would automatically be drawn into a war in the event of Soviet aggression.

Some officials here have launched a conventional ground force build-up in Europe to keep U.S. understandably might not be keen on drawing a nuclear war if they could fight only a nuclear strike against Russia.

But Harkness has said the West would use nuclear arms against a heavy conventional ground attack. This military view met with a response, NATO officials now think, must be accepted.

In other words, NATO's military planners have gone back to a trip - wire concept of defence. This concept held that only light conventional forces are needed in Western frontier to warn of Soviet attack and that nuclear re-

Hoodlums Wreck Montreal Club, $10,000 Damage

MONTREAL (CP) — A gang of hoodlums armed with baseball bats and clubs broke through the downtown Chez Parée nightclub early today, wrecking everything they could lay their hands on.

The violence was believed connected with similar night-club wrecking in the city's underworld racket.

A police spokesman said about 30 hoodlums broke into the club at 3 a.m. He estimated damage at $10,000.

The hoodlums broke through the glass doors of the downstairs St. club, threw a piano over the bar, overturned 20 tables, ripped and several tables and chairs against walls, broke almost all of liquor bottles and smashed mirrors.

They then fled through a back door.

"We are all married men," said a waiter, "and can't afford to tangle with them. Nobody knows who they are and who they will stop at!"

Police said it was the most daring raid since the protection racket came into the news some months ago.

Delegates Sharply Divided On Who Should Pay the Shot

TORONTO (CP)—The four-day convention of the Canadian Trucking Association ended Thursday with spokesman for the tourist industry that the trucking industry is leadership should come from private enterprise.

C. E. Smith, manager of the government's tourist and convention bureau called on the delegates to apply pressure to the federal government to award increased spending by Ottawa on the industry.

He suggested the CTA educate its members to act as a lobby to bring government action.

But Rex E. Gross, Manitoba's deputy minister of industry and commerce said he felt it was up to private enterprise to give leadership to the industry.

Mr. Smith said the amount of money Canada spends on industrial promotion is not adequate, and "even represents only a small portion of the revenue taken in by the federal government from the tourist trade."

"In this important endeavor, I cannot help but feel that the chief beneficiary of the tourist trade private enterprise—must be the trucking industry," he said.

Khrushchev himself is thought to be out of Moscow, although said in London. He told a British trade union chief, Frank Cousins, Oct. 26 he was about to get off the Black Sea for a few days' vacation.

B. F. Richardson of Montreal, suggested a full-fledged federal

IMMIGRATION ACT OVERHAUL LIKELY TO BE DELAYED

May Conflict With Bill of Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's planned overhaul of the Immigration Act likely will be delayed until Canadian courts and government officials have had a chance to determine any conflict between it and the legislation conflict with the Canadian Bill of Rights.

It is also learned here that the act's overhaul could be preceded by some form of public inquiry at which individuals and organizations interested in immigration would be able to present their views on future Canadian immigration policy.

These two developments could mean that a revised Immigration Act might not be ready for submission to Parliament at the coming session. However, the government might table a draft bill and leave it over for discussion at the 1962 session.

Since passage of the Bill of Rights in the last parliamentary session, there have been a variety of legal opinions on whether the bill conflicts with the Immigration Act.

TWO APPEAL

Two individuals ordered deported by the immigration department have taken appeals to the Supreme Court of Canada on grounds that their rights under the Bill of Rights have been abridges.

They are 29-year-old Mrs. Yuet Sun Loule of Hong Kong, ordered deported after she gave birth to a son because she automatically became a Canadian citizen, and Mrs. Rebeka Rosenberg, 53-year-old Russian - born University of British Columbia lecturer.

Mrs. Loule contends that the Bill of Rights grants her the right to care for her child in Canada and that deportation would destroy and that the system operates in an arbitrary fashion, much of it behind closed doors. She is the racial discriminatory provision of the act is inconsistent with temporary Canadian policy.

Some quarters think they are likely to be changed. Immigrants would like to see some of them changed. But while they're restrictions should be eliminated and to what extent.

The growing number of young Canadians who will enter the labor force during the next few years is something prevalent. Canada needs immigrants at the high rate of 150,000 persons coming forward in the post-war period or should the country be reduced when economic unemployment increases?

If a public inquiry takes place, it is expected that some of the views advanced will be reflected in future amendments to the Immigration Act. The immigration department itself has been working on draft amendments for some time.

Would Freeze Debts

TORONTO (CP) — Freezing of debts while the debtor is unemployed will be sought by the Toronto and District Labor Council.

The council said Thursday that it will approach the provincial government through Metro Toronto Council to begin in 1961, but a special staff will be hired immediately to plan the curriculum.

Protestant Church Leaders Oppose Denying Presidency to Catholics

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of Protestant scholars and church officials said Thursday it will be unfair Protestantism, the United States Constitution and religious liberty if a Roman Catholic is denied the presidency because of his faith.

"We feel bound to warn against the folly of any test of religious life if it becomes established that a member of the Roman Catholic minority is automatically excluded from the presidency," their statement said.

"As Protestants we fear that Protestantism will be narrowed and embittered in so far as it becomes identified with political anti-Catholicism.

"As Americans we fear that the deliberate severing of the presidency to Protestants would signify that our religious pluralism has failed. It is a denial of the fullness of the religious liberty for which our constitution provides to set up a tacit religious qualification for the presidency."

Among the 11 signers of the statement were Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike of California; retired Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of Washington, D.C., who have been critics of some Catholic policies.

The signers also included Protestant theologians Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr of Union Theological Seminary; Dr. Paul Tillich of Harvard Divinity School; Dean Liston Pope of Yale Divinity School and Dean John C. Bennett of Union.

Cost Of Living Boost Is Biggest In Four Years

Index Hits Record Peak Largely Due Food Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — The cost of living in Canada hit a record high point Oct. 1 as the consumer price index climbed nearly one per cent over the previous month.

The bureau of statistics reported today the index rose 0.9 point to 129.4 on Oct. 1 from 128.4 a month earlier, with increases felt in all sectors of the consumer budget. It was the biggest monthly jump since 1956.

Most of the increase came from a two-per-cent rise in food costs which the bureau described as a seasonal increase.

The index of consumer prices, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, now is 11 per cent higher than the Oct. 1, 1959, level of 128.6.

FOOD PRICES UP

The bureau said food price tags rose in September on eggs, meat, meats, bananas, citrus fruits and lower prices for apples. Canadian-grown vegetables, lamb and veal, did not go upward, says the bureau.

The index of food costs to a record 125.8 on Oct. 1 from 123.2 a month earlier. The food index then was 1.3 per cent above the previous peak of 124.4 one year earlier.

Other major components of the general consumer price index also climbed during September, the bureau reported, about one-fifth of one per cent.

The biggest single rise in living costs followed a decline in industrial wages during August. The index of industrial wages, salaries and salaries at Sept. 1—latest figures available—stood at 140.7 compared with 177.6 a month earlier and 135.2 a year earlier. The wage index is based on 1949 average wages equalling 100.

Apart from the rise in food prices, the part of the consumer budget most affected in September was clothing.

The index of clothing costs advanced three-fifths of one per cent to 111.2 from 110.5 between Aug. 1 and Sept. 1.

Costs of both rents and home-ownership moved upward, causing the index of shelter costs to rise to 140.1 from 144.2 a month earlier.

The index of household operations rose 0.2 per cent to 123.3 from 123.3 under the pressure of higher costs for telephone, gas and some household supplies and services. Fuel and lighting costs continued to drift downward.

The index of miscellaneous items rose 0.2 per cent to 125.6 from 125.4 between August and September. Increases were felt in tobacco and cosmetics.

The index of 30 industrial materials, based on 1935-39 prices, equalling 100, fell to 238.8 on Oct. 21 from 241.7 on Sept. 30. The drop reflected lower prices for products at terminal markets declining to 243.0 from 218.0 in the same period.

Build School For Slow Learners

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto board of education Thursday night approved plans for the construction of a new type of high school for slow learners in the city's east end. The school is intended to go to university.

Construction will begin in 1961, but a special staff will be hired immediately to plan the curriculum.

Second Man In Holdup Is Arrested

OSHAWA (CP)—A second man sought in connection with a CNR station holdup and shooting here last month was captured Thursday by provincial police.

William Michael Turchin, 23, of Oshawa, was arrested at Central Patricia on Sawtooth Lake in Northern Ontario. He is charged with robbery with violence.

Percy Thompson, 59, CNR stationman from Belleville, lost a leg because of shotgun wounds received in the holdup. The leg had to be amputated above the knee.

Last week John Thomas Allman, 21, of Oshawa, was jailed for three years for his part in the holdup. He admitted acting as a lookout for the masked bandit.

4-H Members Fare Well at Ottawa Fair

Members of Hastings County 4-H Clubs made a very creditable showing in exhibits and in the Inter-County livestock judging competitions held on Monday and Tuesday at the Ottawa Winter Fair.

In exhibits in the potato class, Rita Hickey of Bird's Creek, placed 1st; Mary Hickey, 4th; Dorothy Brooks of Frankford, 10th; Robert Sager and Elizabeth Sager, of Madoc, 13th and 14th, and Ed Sherwin of Rossmore, 17th. There were 38 entries.

In oats, Allan Johnston of Harold, placed 7th and Ron Heath of Stirling, 13th.

In forage, Ralph Brooks of Madoc, was 4th and David Fahey of Madoc, 20th.

Bruce Fowler of Foxboro, won first prize in the grain corn class and South Hastings Forestry Club was first with its Forestry exhibit.

In the Inter-County Livestock Judging Competition the Hastings team, Robert Sager, Ed Tobin and Gerrard Forestell, of Madoc, and Janet Bertrand of Marmora, won second. Renfrew county was the winner, with Carleton third, Prescott-Russell and Frontenac 5th.

The Hastings county boys also did well individually with Robert Sager of Madoc, being the top man in the competition. He also was awarded a gold medal for high man in cattle judging. Gerrard Forestell won a gold medal as top man in beef and Larry Bertrand just lacked a single point from being high man in sheep judging.

High School Activities

By LENORE DIXON, MARY SPEARMAN QUINTE

The graduation dinner for students who received their junior diplomas at Commencement was held Oct. 31st. After the delicious dinner, including roast turkey and all the trimmings, the chairman, Mr. E. Kerr, introduced the guests at the head table and welcomed all. Mr. Arnold Caverly proposed a toast to the graduates and Jamie Gill responded appropriately on behalf of the class. Mr. A. O. Drysdale, chairman of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board brought greetings. Under the direction of Mr. B. Turcotte, the following musical selections were given: a piano solo by Lenore Dixon, trio numbers by the Trefolo-Aitney Trio, Mary Spearman, Gwen Wilson), and a violin solo by Jim Kerrison. Our principal, Mr. L. F. Reid, introduced the guest speakers — Leslie Anderson, Joan McDonald, James Phillips and Ronald Spearman, graduates of Quinte Alumnae. Words of appreciation to the graduates from Home and School Association were given by Mrs. Kerr and Robert Michaud to which Mr. A. Cranston responded.

At the recent football game between Quinte and Bloomfield High School and "that school across the bay" we regret to report that one of our cheerleaders, Claudia Durant, in an excited moment, grabbed the whistle, the name the band, under the leadership of Mr. Pyrcher, livened the students' interest with several enthusiastic numbers. B.C.I. fans say "When the Saints Go Marching In" without realizing their encouragement to our teams "Saints" and "Little Saints". Speaking of football, the day before the game, the Key Club busied itself giving painting the goalposts and scoreboard. Somehow, after the game, they were turned a delightful yellow and red color. Thanks Bayside, B.C.I. fans.

Last week was "United Nations Week" with the main theme being East-West relationships. Assembly was held on Wednesday, Mr. Harvey Putnam of Canadian Interests put on skinions on the theme by means of words and film. This past summer he was one of a number of men and women selected to go to Africa to do construction work. Commenting on the film, Mr. Putnam stressed the physical and spiritual needs of those new nations. On the whole, it was an educational assembly enjoyed by all.

In closing, let us remind you that since Commencement, graduation dinner and football games are over we are once more able to settle down to academic tasks including (perish the thought!) examination preparation.

Discuss $800 Bill Submitted By Company

TRENTON — A Mr. McKay and Mr. De Rivera, representing the firm of Bradford-Hoshall, appeared before council's committee-of-the-whole meeting last night to clarify an account of $845.36 which the company submitted to the town more than a year ago.

The account represents damages caused to the sewage treatment plant which the firm constructed, when sludge from the bottom of the bay was pumped into the excavation by the Onta-Ice-Aire Ice Cream Co. The Bradford-Hoshall Co. was working under the firm of Gore and Storrie, which in turn, was working under the direction of the Ontario Water Resources Commission. The Marine Commission was working under the direction of the federal Department of Public Works.

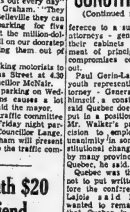
Mr. McKay has submitted the bill to companies concerned with no results. Authorities of each disclaim responsibility.

Council discussed the onus of responsibility at length before adjourning Mr. McKay and Mr. De Rivera to the council chamber where Town engineer at the time the incident occurred was Eric Alderesy. Mr. Alderesy has since resigned from his post as a city engineer, to say that the matter company dumped its silt in the middle of the night and had no chance to direct the operations.

"I know they dumped it in the hole all right," said Councillor R. J. Whitley. "The fire chief and I got in the hole to look at it and I fell in the hole and nearly drowned."

Council decided that since it had nothing in writing to back up the claim from the company it could not authorize payment. It was "licked before it started", and tabled on the Bradford-Hoshall representative for assembly.

Mr. De Rivers admitted that the contract had netted his company $200,000.



"Aren't you pitting the hand that fed you?" asked Councillor Vagn Lange. "What percentage of $200,000 is $800? You can't collect from the dredge company, now you're jumping us".

Councillor D. R. Fraser asked council to confer with the town insurance company to see if it would pay the disputed claim.

The Bradford-Hoshall men agreed to wait until council can contact the insurance company before taking further action.

Girl Injured

TRENTON — Two-year-old Monica MacAuley of R. R. 3, Trenton was resting comfortably in Trenton Memorial Hospital today after having been knocked from her bicycle by a truck as she was returning home from school yesterday afternoon She suffered bruises and abrasions.

Council Briefs

Next Monday night council will consider a request from the town's retail grocers that a third reading be given to their bylaw authorizing an all-day Monday closing for that grocers' Peter Bogdanske, spokesman for the grocers, said that the grocers are anxious to have the bylaw passed before January. He said that the local appliance and furniture firms were going to petition for Monday closing before the first of the year.

Council will ask town solicitor Roderick Campbell to take steps to have the sewer at 172 Front Street demolished. The house has been condemned by the Board of Health, the building inspector and the fire chief. As the property is on the bank overlooking the collation is involved. It is owned by the Coleman estate.

Council backed a request from the County Council that the federal and provincial governments be asked to provide larger grants for hospitals.

Council granted a request from Jim Ulrich of R. R. 1, Trenton to conduct a "draw" at Ulrich's Hall, Time at the Country Club. All proceeds will go to charity.

Council will award a contract to the B. W. Powers Co. for supplying furnace oil for 14.9 cents per gallon.

W. P. Johnson, who lives just outside the town's eastern boundary, has written to council claiming he has had an assessment $200 for the use of the town hall and by "tacking" onto the Bayview Dairy sewer. Council will assess the dairy for another $200 and put it "right it out" with Mr. Johnson.

Town council now finds that it should not have passed an air pollution bylaw without first submitting it to the health minister. A 30-day waiting stage also took after approval by the minister before council may pass the bylaw.

Will Widen Quinte Street To 40 Feet

TRENTON — Town Engineer Walter Murray was received permission from council to ask the Ontario Municipal Board to widen Quinte Street to 40 feet when it starts road improvement in this area. The widening would extend from Dundas Street to Albert-St. The Public committee will consider a suggestion to install parking meters on the south side of Quinte Street and one side of Stewart Street.

Councillor Lange asked that the committee also consider not having parking on over-parking after 6 p.m. on Friday. He also suggested that the five-cent rate for parking meters be changed to five cents an hour.

"I feel we should leave the parking committee's decisions alone" said Councillor Allen.

"I get bawlings out every day" said Councillor Graham. "I could tell me that in Belleville they can get an hour's parking for five cents. We've had an over-spending for a RCAF payroll on our doorsteps and we're driving them out of town."

"I object to asking motorists to move off Dundas Street at 4 p.m.," said Councillor McNair.

"Changing for meters after Wednesday afternoons causes a lot of confusion," said the mayor.

"Just ask the traffic committee to take off the Friday night parking fee," said Councillor Lange.

Councillor Graham will present the complaints to the traffic committee.

Fine Youth $20 After Friend Shot on Hunt

TRENTON — Donald Shepherd, 18, of R. R. 1 Brighton was fined $20 and costs and his gun confiscated in court at Brighton yesterday.

On Oct. 16, Shepherd, his brother Stephen 21 and friend Donald Hall 19, of of R. R. 1 Brighton were hunting. Shepherd's gun discharged and wounded Hall in daily thighs and left hand. Dr. W. A. Gray of Trenton removed two bullets but has not been able to remove one bullet from Hlindall's one thigh.

Want to Build Apartment Despite Ruling

TRENTON — In spite of a ruling early last summer by the Ontario Municipal Board denying a petition from G. A. Weaver and R. F. Whitley that they be allowed to build a second apartment house on the rear of their Queen St. apartment, the men have asked council to approve their plans. The ruling of the provincial board was influenced by the lack of sewage facilities and the local planning board. They set out that accommodation is at a premium in the area and that Trenton people are going to Belleville to live, or they are living in trailer camps.

Council feels that since two persons living in the vicinity of the proposed building appeared at the hearing with the Municipal Board and voiced objections, that council is entitled into the board's decision to deny the request.

"I suppose that this apartment would accommodate children?" asked Councillor Lange.

"If somebody doesn't accommodate them they are going to get somebody to fight your next war!" said Councillor Graham.

Council will consider the request at its next meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Flood, Dundas St., West, had written to council asking: "Please give us the boundaries so that council will not seemingly wanting us to live in comity. Two years ago we asked the town to fix driveway. We have lost several dwellers rather than car off the street to our property. We have been unable to obtain a permit to make our home safe by constructing a driveway as we lack 275 square feet of land. If we have to, we'll make a letter to the effect that the corporation would sure make a good lawyer."

WANTS CHANGE

"Why don't we pass two or three bylaws cancelling Florida to obtain a permit to make our home safe by constructing a driveway as we lack 275 square feet of land. If we have to, we'll make a letter to the effect that the corporation would sure make a good lawyer."

WANTS CHANGE

"Why don't we pass two or three bylaws cancelling Florida to change the zoning by-law at once" asked Councillor Lange. "I'm a few years we'll be down to where we started with no zoning bylaw at all!"

"Each case is an individual case," said Councillor Fraser. "There's a tendency for multi-unit construction in this area."

"It's up to the planning board to make the zoning bylaw stick to it," said Councillor C. V. Graham, but your suggestion is like stocking out of a pig's ear. The older parts of town are different now. There is no place to waste."

Mrs. Flood has a legitimate complaint about her driveway," said Mayor Richard Nelson. "I've asked for action for over a year. What happened?"

"I've asked the engineer to do some'thing," said Councillor Mc-Nair.

"Me, too," said Councillor McNair.

"I'd like to drop the sidewalk at that point," said engineer Walter Murray.

"Well, don't make the same mess of it as you've done on my property on Dundas Street East," said Councillor McNair. "That's the first and it's the worst job ever done in Trenton."

ference to a suggestion that all attorneys general go back to their cabinets with the statement that they are willing to make compromises could be worked out.

Paul Gerin-Lajoie, minister of youth representing Quebec's Attorney General, Antonio Barrette, himself a constitutional expert, rejected the proposal and put in a position of isolation by Mr. Walker's proposal. The delegate from Quebec was unusually in some cases of constitutional change was supported by many provinces in addition to Quebec, he said.

Quebec was the only province not to put written proposals before the conference. Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said his government wanted is remain flexible, and that Quebec is no longer the holdout province in constitutional conferences.

The conference agreed unanimously that provisions concerning language and education in the North West Territories Act should be made amendable only with unanimous consent.

The main disagreements were over what other provisions of the Act should be amended and entrenched. In setting down the agreement and disagreement, the conference communique said, the conference had a function it could recommend to the federal and provincial governments as a basis for constitutional amendments and the transfer of all amending authority from Britain to Canada.

Ontario's Attorney - General Roberts left the conference at its noon adjournment, carrying the statement of principles, back to Toronto in his briefcase. He said he was pleased with the meeting, but that something he thought would be endorsed by his cabinet colleagues.

Obituaries

WILLIAM EARL McMASTER
Ivanhoe (Centrefield)

IVANHOE — Residents of Ivanhoe and surrounding district were shocked and saddened by the sudden and untimely death of William Earl McMaster, occurring October 30th at the General Hospital, Belleville.

As a popular and successful general store manager and citizen, his loss will be keenly felt and hard to fill He has served the public well. He has competently filled the offices of Trustee, Public School Trustee and Huntingdon Township Councillor.

He was a faithful member of Beulah United Church, and served as S. S. Superintendent, S. S. teacher and at the time of his death was recording steward

He was a keen sportsman and an ardent base ball and hockey fan.

It was due chiefly to his interest and efforts that an Ivanhoe softball team was formed. He was never too busy to arrange transportation or to attend the games.

Mr. McMaster possessed a genial personality and enjoyed the affection and trust of a host of friends. He was a loyal friend, citizen and husband, father, daughter, Mrs. Lewis (Marion) Normen (Helen) Hall of Oshawa, Mrs. Donald (Irene) Chisholm of Rollin, two brothers, Harry McCullough of Oshawa, Francis McCullough of Lonsdale and one sister, Mrs (Dr.) R. W. (Helen) McQuay of Whitby. Also seven grandchildren.

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was ahead on a broad front in light morning trading today, although most gains were held to a minimum.

On index, industrials were up .56 at 491.96, base metals .57 at 153.74 and western oils .36 at 82.40. Golds were off .39 at 90.34.

The 11 a.m. volume was 607,000 shares compared with 580,000 at the same time Thursday.

Canada Malting — strong throughout the week — jumped seven points at 64. Imperial Oil was ahead ¾ at 54¾, and Alberta B.C. Power and Canadian Oil improved ½.

Steico lost ½ at 8¢ and Canada Packers B, Montreal Locomotive and Consolidated Paper all eased ¼.

Hudson Bay provided much of the strength among base metals, up ½ at 46¼, with International Nickel up ½ at 50¾.

Golds followed the trend set by Hollinger with a drop of ¾ at 20¾, while senior uraniums were little affected.

Great Plains was the strong point among western oils with a 70-cent gain at 10½. Pacific Petroleum went ahead 32 cents at 10¼, while Calgary and Edmonton eased ¼ at 13¾.

The market went ahead on a broad front Thursday.

On index, industrials were up 2.26 at 491.96, golds were up 1.20 at 90.67 and base metals were up .56 at 153.97.

Chartered Trust took industrials by storm with a jump of 10¾ at 85¾—it was up two points Wednesday — on sales of 225 shares. The company's chairman said he knew of no reason for the jump.

Banks, steels, utilities and pipelines all moved ahead in a quiet industrial section.

Among banks, Bank of Commerce was up ½ at 53 and Imperial Bank went ahead ½ at 41¾, while Royal Bank eased ⅜ at 67¾.

Algoma found support to raise steels higher—up ¼ at 38¾—with Steico up ¼ at 9¢.

Among pipelines, Trans-Canada was up ⅜ at 19.

Golds continued to follow an upward path, but with none of the verve that has marked them in recent sessions. Giant Yellowknife gained ½ at 13¾ and Campbell Red Lake was up ¼ at 11¾. Dome and Kerr-Addison both eased ¼ at 35¾ and 14¾. Noranda was among among base metals, up ⅜ at 41¾, while Hudson Bay and International Nickel both eased ¼ at 45¾ and 50¾.

Senior uraniums were narrowly higher.

SPECIAL OCCASION — Yesterday evening's parade of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" proved to be doubly significant. Not only was it the occasion of the Area Officer's annual visit but the Corps was presented with a flag, a gift from the Belleville Chapter of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club. Shown above are (left to right): Commanding Officer Robert Bracken, RCN (SB), assistant area officer; Lt.-Commander Joseph Jeffries, RCN (SB), Area Officer; Lt. J. G. Donovan, RCSC, commanding officer of "Quinte," receiving the ship's clock from Jim Williamson, president of the Belleville Chapter of St. LAC, and Pat Perry, secretary of the local car club.

ers in unsold stocks. They also contended they lacked the money to meet such an assessment which they said would cost $30,000,000 a year at the end of the contract in 1961.

The unions promptly began polling their members to get authority for a strike. The votes are to be returned by next Tuesday.

Indications are that the 15-union negotiating team will get the two-thirds majority required to call a strike.

The last transcontinental tieup of both railways by the "non-operating" unions in 1950 when they walked off their jobs to get the five-day work week. That strike was settled after an emergency session of Parliament imposed what union officials viewed as compulsory arbitration.

However, in the current dispute the general situation is different. The unions have accepted a wage increase much smaller than the 25 cents an hour they originally sought last November — and it has the backing of a conciliation board appointed by the government.

The railways can't raise their rates to get extra money to cover the cost of the higher wage bill—because the government has frozen rate increases until the royal commission has reported.

The royal commission, headed by Regina lawyer M. A. MacPherson, was set up in May, 1959, to inquire into the problems of Canada's railways and freight shippers.

The commission is said to be aiming to make its report to the government by April.

In the last wage fight between the unions and the railways in 1958, the railways were able to settle the wage claims by getting a 15-per-cent boost in freight rates. But there was also a storm of protest from all provinces except Ontario and Quebec against the boost in freight rates that the government put up $200,000,000 to back the increase.

The royal commission is studying all facets of the rail problem—including teh problem of Western Canada's export grain rates, which the railways say are so low they are losing $70,000,000 a year.

Motor Club Presents Ship's Clock to Sea Cadet Corps

Yesterday evening the presentation of the ship's clock was made to the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" by the members of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club, Belleville Chapter. Chapter president Jim Williamson, accompanied by secretary Pat Perry, made the presentation to Lt. J. G. Donovan, commanding officer of "Quinte" at the Corps' weekly parade.

The clock, which was formerly in a Great Lakes ship, is a Belleville-area expedition of the ship's company and a visit to the various lectures and classes scheduled for the evening the Area Officer addressed the ship's company. He complimented the officers and men on having gained the general efficiency of the ship since his last visit of over a year ago.

The cadets were cautioned to remember that they were wearing one of the finest sea boot presentations in the world and to conduct themselves at all times in a manner worthy of this privilege and honor. Clean minds, clean body and a neat appearance at all times were the first things which a Sea Cadet should consider and practise, the RCN officer said.

Lt. Commander Jeffries added the cadets that because they were Sea Cadets did not mean they were not also obliged to join the Royal Canadian Navy. He emphasized the point that a Sea Cadet should first think of obtaining a good education before considering a career in the Navy, adding that a sound education would prove a benefit to any lad no matter what career he should choose.

He complimented the Corps on the fine work in acting as hosts and organizers for the recent inter-corps church parade, sports day and band competition which drew over 300 Sea Cadets, some from as far away as Cornwall, together for an experience in the comradeship which is so typical of the Navy.

In conclusion the Area Officer said that he felt the local Corps had a very excellent thing going for it and the top corps of its size in Ontario in view of the enthusiasm and direction with which its activities were being conducted, in order to maintain this good work he stressed the importance of good and regular attendance on the part of all cadets and the culmination of those who did not attend regularly from the corps.

The local Sea Cadet Corps is sponsored by the Belleville unit of the Navy League of Canada, which is one of the eleven agencies in the Belleville United Appeal.

Bank of Canada Interest Rate Climbs Again

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada interest rate, climbing for the sixth straight week, advanced Thursday to 3.47 per cent from 3.38 last week with the sale of $95,000,000 in 91-day government treasury bills.

The rate, an indicator of conditions in the short-term money market, now has risen more than 1¼ percentage points from its low-water low of 2.19 per cent on Sept. 22.

The rate, minimum charge by the central bank on its infrequent loans to chartered banks, is set at one-quarter of one per cent above the average yield on the weekly sale of 91-day treasury bills.

Eight Hastings Teams Compete In 4-H Contest

Eight teams from Hastings County took part in the 4-H Junior-Club Competitions at Guelph and made a creditable showing.

In the dairy class Hastings was represented by three teams, Tweed Calf Club, Stirling Calf Club and Marmora Calf Club. The Tweed representatives, Owen Ketcheson and Don Parrell, of Moira, placed 119th; Stirling Calf Club, Joe Hagerman, Harold, and Jack Wood of Ivanhoe, were 130th; and Marmora, represented by Marjorie Bird and Ken Bedore, were 34th, out of 77 entries.

The Motra Grain Club representatives, Glen Chambers of Plainfield, and Philip Horrigan, of Roslin, placed 22nd out of 38 teams and North Hastings Potato Club representatives, Mary Hickey of Bird's Creek, and Sandra Wood of St. Ola, placed eighth out of 17 teams.

The South Hastings Forestry Club, Elizabeth Sager of Madoc-junction, and David Brooks of Frankford, were 5th out of ten entries.

There were two Hastings County entries in the tractor competition, with the Motra Club, Bruce Coulter of Foxboro, and Larry Desmond of Carrying Place, placing 3rd in 33 entries, while Allen Johnston and Glen Hagerman of Harold, representing the South Hastings Tractor Club, were 33rd. Bruce Coulter of Foxboro was the top man in the competition.

Some Positive Thinking

The inquiry into the ills of the domestic automobile industry has been quite active under its one-man commission, Dr. Vincent Bladen of the University of Toronto.

To date, many representations have been made before the commission. Some, the domestic auto manufacturers' representatives and the parts manufacturers' association, have demanded higher tariffs against British and other foreign cars. Others, representatives of the manufacturers abroad, and of Canadian industries which rely upon the export trade for their existence, have been against the raising of tariffs for fear of retaliation against Canadian products.

All of these arguments are to be expected for they are not new and have, over past years, proven to be reasonable but costly, to the Canadian consumer.

A new proposition has come forth however, and its implications and results indicate that someone is thinking of the consumer as well as of the industry.

To date the domestic approach to the problem of cheaper competition from abroad has been to raise the price of these imports to the point where they are less expensive than those produced in Canada. Too little thought has been given in the past to the prospect of considerably reducing the cost of Canadian produced cars to the point where they are competitive, pricewise, with the imports.

The idea has come from the Chrysler Company and the United Auto Workers Union and consists of the integration of the Canadian auto industry with that of the United States and other countries. The preferable source which such integration could take would be the duty-free import of American cars, which sell for under $1,000 in Detroit than in Windsor, into Canada providing that the equivalent value of Canadian cars and parts goes into cars in the North American market.

This proposal, which is admittedly radical, is not without practical and political problems. These, however, should not be insurmountable to solve. At the cost of the loss of the dubious and expensive power of domestic models being totally assembled in Canada there would be a specialization of parts manufacture for the American firms by the current Canadian car factories. Thus the American firms would be able to take advantage of the relatively cheaper Canadian labor in the production of a number of their parts and, in turn, be able to sell to a new market.

In our eyes this would mean greater employment of Canadians in the parts industry, since they would be producing for a larger overall market. It would also mean more employment for American workers in the production of a greater number of units. It could also lead to increased advantages for the auto industry in both countries through the production of lower-priced parts which could compete favorably on the world markets.

The scope of the idea is virtually unlimited and is certainly the result of inspired and positive thinking. It might be possible for the automobile firms to work out the necessary details and enter upon a new era in which both the consumer and the industry benefit jointly by taking a positive approach to competition from abroad.

The next step is for positive action to implement the thinking.

Cut-Rate Parking Fines

The Kingston—City Council, with the avowed intention of removing "some of the frustration for the motorist who returns to his car a minute or two after the metered time and finds a ticket on his windshield," has devised a cut-rate overtime parking fine. If the motorist can get the ticket to the police station within half an hour of the time it was issued, he will pay only 25 cents instead of the regular $1 fine.

The idea is praiseworthy. We hate to think, though, that even in the best peppered of the motorist who arrives at the police station 31 minutes after the parking ticket was issued, because he has been delayed ten minutes in a traffic jam. Perhaps, it will be argued, that this danger automatically imposes a more severe penalty on those who overpark during rush hours.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE NEED THE POSITIVE APPROACH

"Do we have to eat again?" many reasons, but chiefly because of his insistance that there is no such thing as overpopulation. He thinks rather of underpopulation. The thing we need to do is to see that the hungry peoples of the world is not to reduce our population, but to increase our food supply. And this we can do. This old planet of ours is producing more than enough plants than it now does and it could be a better world for the increase, not a poorer world.

Thinking negatively we live in a world filled with fear. Let us not try to rid ourselves of problems but to solve them. We live in the most wonderful age humanity has ever known; surely we can find the hungry now that we have learned how to produce abundance.

Miracles of the Universe
Spectrum of a Star

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their exploitation, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 17

The Sun is 93,000,000 miles away. The Sun is a star and shines like all other stars and for the same reason.

We cannot help but see the Sun because it is so close, and because it is so close we can very carefully examine it. Because we can carefully examine it through high powered telescopes, we know a great deal about it.

We know it is 1,407,000 miles in diameter, it has a density of 1.4 times the density of water, it is composed of hot gas; that gas is approximately 75 per cent hydrogen and 25 per cent helium (authorities differ on the percentage); it is 640 billion years old (this as a guess); is a yellow and middle-aged. We know its absolute or true luminosity or magnitude; we know how much it weighs. It is a middle-sized, wise (looking down onto the north pole from above); it is circling around the Milky Way once in 200,000,000 years at a local speed of approximately 48,000 miles per hour. The Sun has spots up to 100,000 miles in diameter and "flames" that leap out to another 850,000 miles high. We know all of this and more because we can see the Sun so easily and examine it minutely.

But how do we know what stars are made of that are billions or trillions of miles away? Through the rubi kidg do astronomers know? Through our feel, or by way of those distant stars, yet we know of what atoms they are composed, and something of their temperature, density and distance.

ANALYZE STAR'S LIGHT

How?

Answer — each star is a ball of hot gas and as such it gives off light. That light can be analyzed and from the analysis of the star's light much can be told.

What can be told, for example, whether a star is rotating; (2) the gaseous circumstances; (1) The density of the stars; (2) The absolute size of the star; (3) The star's diameter; (4) The rapidity and direction of the rotation of its spin; (3) Whether the star is moving towards us or away and at what speed; (6) Of what the star is composed; (7) The star's temperature; (8) Its color and age.

That's a fair amount to find out about a star which may be millions and millions of miles away.

How is it done?

Answer — in a general way! You will need three instruments to do it:

(a) a powerful telescope;
(b) a prism (a triangle of glass);
(c) a camera equipped with a spectroscope.

(Dr. Heard, Director of the Dunlap Observatory outside Toronto, studied and describes spectography as taking part in three parts, and that's how I think he does. Dr. Heard directs what is also the largest telescope in the world).

THE TELESCOPE

The telescope will be pointed at the area in which the star is known to be located (let's say the star cannot be seen with the naked eye). When the telescope has located the star which we want to study we are set to go. The telescope is really an instrument designed to collect and concentrate as much of the light as possible and it is really a bit like a magnifying glass will collect and concentrate the beams of the Sun's light. (So will a burning glass but generally burn a hole on a surface). Now, we have a strong beam of star light, coming from the telescope.

THE PRISM

We direct that beam of light through a prism of glass shaped like a generous wedge of pie (called a degree prism). The light goes in one side of the prism of glass and a single beam of white light but as the beam passes through the glass, that single white beam gets spread out like an open fan and a rainbow of colors appears as the light spreads onto a screen beyond the prism.

THE CAMERA

The camera photographs, with a long exposure, the "rainbow" of light spread out by the prism on the screen. The band of color can be projected onto a photographic plate).

A telescope refracts and disperses light — (splits up and bends) the light and so a prism does. What your eyes see as a rainbow, the camera sees only better, (A drop of mist in the air is sort of a prism — billions of prisms form only the rainbow). The camera does however, create one large rainbow). The camera however, sees the rainbow of light from a star better and more clearly and it (the camera) what the same rainbow is.

The rainbow that the camera photographs of the star's light is called a Spectrum. The spectrum of each star is rather similar. The greatest differences in spectra are caused by the different temperatures of the different stars.

By looking at the spectrum of a star, some of the star's characteristics are revealed clearly and unhesitatingly. In the next article we will discuss what we can learn from the spectrum, by spectra exist at all and how they differ.

To be continued.

A Prayer For the Next U.S. President

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

O Lord, whichever one it may be, give him a star to steer by.

Drain away the passion and the hate flowing on all sides of him.

Make cool the fevers of dissension; make charitable the followers of his party.

Unite us, not for war or victory, but for righteousness; and we cannot fail.

Give him the courage to do the right as he sees it, not seeking the favor of men or the applause of nations.

O Lord, whichever one it may be, bring him to walk straight in the darkness of these days, with only a star to guide him; and bring the voices that are not Your voice; casting out the hands that are not Your hands.

For there are many, O Lord, who take Your name in vain, even as in the past; who make of You a God of war and violence and bigotry; and all these things in Your name.

We are troubled; we are torn; we have lost the way.

The world has become a terror unto us; we are strong, and rich, and never before have we been so weak; we are wise, and never before have we been so ignorant.

We have the conceit of strength, the arrogance of power, the vanity of human wisdom; but none of these shall save us, O Lord, from the mighty empires of the past.

Only a man shall save us, even as we have been saved before.

Only a man who has the manliness to admit his weakness, but humble and contrite before You; who knows that his power is from You alone.

Let him see a sign; let him know Your children are everywhere, under the sun; as trouble, as torn, as lost as we.

Let him know that the enemy is not outside us, but inside us; not in the world, but in the heart, in the mind, in the passions; and purify him and his tongue will tell us the way of truth.

And give him the courage, but of gentleness, but of Your commandments, but of unhardest of all: To love our enemies.

In Your will our peace.

Mr. K. Proved Busy Shopper

Dayton Journal-Herald

It took a seven-ton truck, a bus or two and two station wagons to carry Nikita Khrushchev's packages to plane and ship when he left Dayton yesterday.

In the bag and crates, the unacknowledged world champion automobile tires, saucers, antifreeze, radios, portable television sets, and a few souvenirs. They wouldn't say what was in others, except a sort of bundle three feet to lift them. Well, maybe four feet.

He probably included two or three suits whose pants did not require as if made for an elephant. He surely had some new shoes, for he appeared in Dayton in shoes as waxing. Shirts that fit, even expensive, must have enlisted him in the list.

Surely, he took along a silk-lined overcoat for cold Kremlin mornings. If smart, he took a deep freeze, packed with large chops, steaks, frozen rolls, peaches, strawberries.

Then, again, maybe he didn't. He might have got home, opened the door to that deep freeze, contemplated the supper he was going to have, and promptly began to make plans to defect, himself, on his next trip over.

Says Smoking Clears Mind

Ottawa Journal

Smoking may shorten life, but it may also make it brighter, recent research suggests. Prof. J. H. Burn of Oxford University believes that smoking clears the mind.

The scientific correspondent of Manchester Guardian reports that experiments conducted by Prof. Burn and others indicate that the main effect of nicotine on body tissues is that of releasing hormones such as adrenalin. This conflicts with an older theory that the drug works on the central nervous system.

Prof. Burn's theory is that since the parts of the brain that affect consciousness are rich in the natural stored hormones, these parts are stimulated by smoking. A temporary "superconsciousness" results.

Prof. Burn does not, however, attempt to defend tobacco against charges that it causes cancer. The pipe and cigar smoker, if smoking makes people think more clearly, why does it also make them think clearly enough about the dangers of smoking to give it up?

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SPINAL TAP ROUTINE IS SAFE AND EXTREMELY USEFUL

"Dear Dr. Molner: Are spinal punctures dangerous? What diagnostic information do they provide? — M. S."

Spinal puncture is done very often these days. It is usually performed, it is not dangerous. In the history of this procedure, it carried a factor of danger of 1%. This has been true of every so many medical techniques — including removal of an appendix was a dangerous procedure. Heart and brain surgery once were utterly impossible. But we have learned how.

So the spinal tap, or spinal puncture is both safe and extremely useful in a good many ways. One very basic reason for spinal puncture is in the administration of an anaesthetic. This prevents pain in certain parts of the body without affecting other areas. Just negulting the patient to cooperate in some instances. It also permits anesthesia where it is needed without the problems involved in respiration.

One basic fact disclosed by such a puncture is the presence of fluid in the spinal column. Another is the pressure of that fluid. When the spinal fluid is clear, as it normally is, the case, or whether it has turned to pus, or contains blood.

The presence of red blood cells in the fluid indicates a hemorrhage somewhere in the central nervous system. The presence of pus is an extension of the brain itself, the brain and spinal cord together constitute the central nervous system.

If white cells are found in the fluid, this indicates infection or inflammation of the tissues of the central nervous system, and the type and number of cells are clues to the nature and severity of the condition. Tests for various types are counted when a spinal tap is made.

In addition, laboratory tests are made to detect or measure germ organisms, the presence or quantity of proteins, salt and other components. The danger of pain, for example, appears when the virus affects the central nervous system. Tests for syphilis likewise are at times made with the spinal fluid

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard it said that anyone with high blood pressure should not have a baby. Is this true? — Mrs. W."

TODAY'S TALK

Y GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DEAD WEIGHT

The world has never asked me for my opinion as to what is the matter with it, But if it ever does, this is one thing I shall say: "It carries too much dead weight."

I have rarely left on a long trip but what I soon discovered I was carrying altogether too much luggage.

As one sets for his testing race, he first demands — and tries to carry only that which shall help him to win.

I was pleased when the flat, topped desk first came into vogue. The old style had its many drawers in which to bury important things. A man must clean up as he goes if he wishes to go far and fast.

I have met books that I do not feel will add something to what I know. I am willing to be entertained, but I want to grow at the same time.

The great skyscrapers I view from my own 38th floor office window, have hundreds of feet into the air, are carefully constructed so a pound of unnecessary weight is not there.

Worry is dead weight! And nearly one-half of every worry is too much. Regret is dead weight. Fear is dead weight. So is dead weight. Dissipation is dead weight in one way or other, we all carry it.

Before you go to bed tonight think this over carefully. How much you will carry the dead weight that slows you up and makes you that much less a strong and able woman!

Get rid of your dead weight and you will be surprised at the strength that you will feel!

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

While some rascals don't look like rascals at all, but like decent, honest citizens, there is a shifty individual looks shifty, male or female. Why, then, do people do business with obviously shifty characters?

The answer may be that those who do business with shifty individuals are looking for a little fraudulent advantage or even illegal profit, and are therefore willing to overlook the acquaintance of mine has been convicted of a number of counts of cajolies he bought recently from less than a month's wear lost the shape and the fading apart in the way cheaply made clothes do. Even one of his business conferences I learned that he was involved in an accident at the plant in which his clothes were damaged, and that he was being sued him to buy a new suit and charge it to the firm.

After flopping around, he found a shifty gentleman in the clothing trade who agreed to sell him a suit for $45 and give him a bill for it.

Naturally, the shifty gentleman gave him a bill, which accounts for the necessary lodgment of the buyer, who has to appear in outraged fury at $75 suit should look so bad so soon.

U.S. Rivals Crack Jokes

Ottawa Journal

Although the American election campaign is being fought by two earnest, almost solemn, young men, campaign jokes still flourish.

At a charity dinner in New York several of the rival orators took their usually serious manner to make jokes at their own expense. Mr. Nixon said he resented Fred Astaire's charge that both candidates were "scared kids" because "after my first television appearance a friend of mine said I had the worst beard since Sal Mineo's." Kennedy said he had deserves to be given a vote on the ground that anyone who voted Republican could "go to hell". Mr. Kennedy said he had sent Mr. Truman a telegram saying "I have noted with interest your suggestion as to where those who vote for my opponents should go. While I understand and sympathize with your deep devotion, I think it is important that our party be kept free from raiding of the religious farce.

A county in Quebec, also its chief town. All authorities agree the word is Malecite and that it means, "rhebome or retreat of dogs." It is alluding, perhaps, to its fine hunting grounds.

COFFEE FOR THE WARDEN — Hastings County Warden Earl Sager, reeve of Madoc township, has big smile as he is being served at the annual warden's banquet held in Madoc Armour-ies Thursday evening. Also in the picture are Mrs. Grace Holmes, aunt of the warden, along with two members of the Haris-Riggs Institute, caterers for the banquet.

County Council Members, Officials and Guests Honor Warden at Annual Banquet

Emphasis was on the home front at Madoc, Thursday evening, as close to 300 persons — Hastings county councillors, county officials and other guests — attended the annual warden's banquet in honor of Hastings county Warden Earl Sager, reeve of Madoc township.

Not only was a big percentage of the food "home grown," and prepared by a Madoc district women's organization, but the entertainment for the most part was also local, and a Hastings county man — Arthur Duncan of Tudor-was the guest speaker.

Held in the Madoc Armouries, the annual warden's dinner drew guests from all parts of Hastings and also from adjoining Prince Edward, "garden county" of the province.

Genial county clerk treasurer, Eric S. Denyes, was in his best form as chairman for the evening's program which included the warden's address of welcome with response by Reeves W. J. Davis of Bangor, Thomas Burnside of Madoc Village, and Charles Long of Tyendinaga.

The toast to the guests was proposed by Tweed Reeve Douglas Spencer with reply by Deputy Mayor Robert Temple of Belleville; A. A. Moore, warden of Prince Edward county; Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton and Hastings county Judge J. C. Anderson.

Sidney Reeve Harleigh Hamilton introduced the guest speaker with thanks to the ladies being expressed by Marmora Reeve William A. Shannon. Response was by Mrs. Allan Franks.

As the county's first bachelor warden, most of the evening's activities for many good natured jibes from the various speakers.

Chairman Eric Denyes asserted the dinner was the best warden's banquet ever put on by a bachelor.

Entertainment was provided by group of Madoc district entertainers including Mrs. Philo Harris as pianist, Mrs. Walter Armstrong, Mrs. Harold Breit, Kelvin Tanner, Dorothy Kerr, Harold Harris, Clifford Wannamaker and Patsy Alexander who favored with a step dance routine.

Even Warden Sager got into the act and with Mrs. Walter Armstrong sang that old favorite, "Juanita."

Professional entertainment was provided by the Silvertones of Toronto, a comedy accordion and violin team, which kept the audience in stitches with their many routines. The Silvertones appeared through the courtesy of H. J. McFarland.

Guest speaker Arthur Duncan was in top form in his favorite role as a story teller. Emphasizing the importance of humor in every walk of life, Mr. Duncan nevertheless ended on a serious note, urging the blending of the skills, crafts and cultures of New Canadians with Canadian cultures handed down for generations.

WELCOMED BY WARDEN

"If the cultures brought to Canada by new Canadians are blended with those of this country, Canada can become one of the greatest countries of the world", Mr. Duncan said.

In his address of welcome Warden Sager stressed the importance of the social aspect of gatherings such as the annual warden's banquet. If only the world leaders would sit down together as at a warden's banquet many of the great tragedies of the world would be averted, he said.

Actually, he said, the warden's banquet was the way of county council in expressing its appreciation to its many officials.

"As a result I am happy to extend banquet invitations out to the many people who assisted in providing services for the county during the past year."

The gift of county councillors to their warden was a lazy boy chair.

Speech Therapist Gives Talk To Retarded Children's Body

The public meeting of the Belleville Association for Retarded Children was held recently at the Belleville School for Retarded Children.

President of the association, Mr. Alvin Parkhurst, presided and reports from the committees were received.

On Friday, last week, the three teachers at the Belleville School for Retarded Children, Mrs. C. Lynch, principal; Mrs. C. Gibson and Mrs. R. Durand, made a trip to the Ontario Hospital School in Smith's Falls. The teachers saw movies, talked with teachers, visited classrooms and observed kindergarten to grade six classes at work.

Mrs. R. Fildrell is the supply teacher at the Belleville school.

Mrs. T. Stovell reported that there are plenty of volunteer helpers for the school. She expressed thanks to Mrs. L. Jones, who bakes and decorates all the birthday cakes for the school children.

Mrs. R. Coulombe, chairman of the Young Adult Program, told about the enjoyable Hallowe'en party held two weeks ago at the school. A number of the young retarded adults will make a trip on Monday afternoon to the Bowl-O-Drome, courtesy of Mr. Bill Bateman, to try their hand at bowling.

Mrs. A. Geen, of the Publicity committee, will arrange for "adoption" by the local associates of two children attending the Smith's Falls Hospital School. These children will receive Christmas and birthday parcels and cards and any necessary clothing or equipment.

A report was made of the recreation activities during the past month. Mrs. A. Parkhurst, chairman, had arranged for the afternoon of horseback riding by the school children at the Circle B Ranch. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Follwell's home. On Wednesday afternoon some of the children use the swimming pool at St. Albert College.

Renovations and repair work for the school are still being done by the men of the Lions Club and association members. The school opening date of Saturday, Nov. 19th, has to be cancelled because the repair work will not be completed by then. The opening will probably be some time in January.

After the business was completed the guest speaker, Mrs. C. McDougall, speech therapist at the Toronto Hendrickson School for Retarded Children, was introduced by Mrs. T. A. Macbold.

To begin her talk Mrs. McDougall stated that correct speech is speech that differs so much from the rest that it draws attention to itself to have how it is said rather than what is said. As a therapist, therapist, the speaker's aim is retarded children's speech is to teach and train them to have intelligible, acceptable speech to make the gathered as easier.

Some causes of poor speech in retarded children are omission of final sounds, lisping, stuttering, cluttering, slurring or running together of words, a cleft palate, which can sometimes be repaired, hearing, distracting grimaces, such as blinking, tongue, nasal noises, loss of hearing, whispering, and a low pitch or voice. More brain power is needed to speak one word than to move fingers, wrist and head in a arm. It is a very difficult task that is taken so much for granted. Learning to speak does not come instinctively but is developed through imitating.

Speech training must begin early in life. All children, and especially retarded children who find speech difficult, must learn to make use of the diaphragm, the chest muscles, the vocal chords, the hard and soft palate, the jaw the teeth and the tongue. During the first year babies cry, coo, make nonsense sounds and babble. Mothers should write down the vowel sounds and babble noises and make words from them that the child will easily learn. By four years of age a child should speak well. Up to nine years speech correction can be made with retarded children but after that age the poor speech habit has developed so well that it is difficult to remedy.

USE MANY DEVICES

Speech therapists use many teaching devices. Games of all types are used, toy animals, pictures, the piano, feathers, ping-pong balls, a tape recorder, the telephone, and most of all praise and reward bring results. Experyone at the Toronto Metropolitan School talks. The cab driver who transports children, the postman, and the teachers all talk slowly and in sentences to the youngsters.

Since Mrs. McDougall is the only speech therapist at the school she spends only one-half hour per week with each class. Naturally, more could be accomplished if more time was available. Children learn to talk from parents. It is the parents' duty to make sure that their speech is correct and proper, at the right speed, in the normal tone and pitch of voice. Baby talk should never be used and things named correctly, e.g., dog not doggie.

Mrs. T. Shorten thanked the speaker and then coffee was served.

The association has named the building on John Street The Belleville School for Retarded Children. It is important that it be known that the Belleville school is not connected in any way with the Ontario Home for Mentally Retarded Infants in Plainfield.

Camera Club Makes Study Of Portraits

The members of the Belleville Camera Club have been studying the field of portraits. Following this theme, the November meeting was an actual "shooting session" under the guidance of the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Dick Lumbers, professional photographer. Mr. Lumbers demonstrated the effects obtained with basic lighting situations and poses and then the club members took over. Miss Penny Cavers was a patient and photogenic model.

Winsome Lewis-and Pat Kirkpatrick served coffee while several slides were shown and Pat picked to send to a competition in Brantford.

At the December 6 meeting, there will be another club competition on the subject of "People at Work".

Hastings Boys, Girls Bring Home Many Ribbons

The 4-H Livestock Championship Show was held at the Ottawa Winter Fair on Friday. The Hastings County entry of 28 calves and 8 swine was only a small portion of the show of more than 800 entries but the Hastings boys and girls came home with a sizeable share of the ribbons.

In the Guernsey class, Joan Vanderwoort of Trenton, showed the Grand Champion Guernsey calf. The Grand and Reserve Champion Angus heifers were exhibited by brother and sister Jim and Sandra Wood of St. Ola.

The remaining calves placed well up in the second and third prize groups. The club members were as follows: Hereford — Suzanne and Ken Bedore, Marmora; Paul Doyle, Marmora; Bill O'Brien, Coe Hill; Glenda Nicholson, The Ridge; Dwaine Campbell, Coe Hill; Guernsey: Joanne, Brian, and Larry Bertrand, Marmora; Shorthorn: Sheila Slater, Foxboro; Ayrshire: David Murray, Stirling; Holstein: Blair and Bill VanWyck, Belleville; Kevin Thompson, Corbyville; Ron Keefe, Anne Sutherland, both of Stirling; Joe Hagerman, Harold; Garry McComb, Bonarlaw; Clare Treverton, Plainfield; Allan Thompson, Moira; Garnet Geen, Roslin.

In the 4-H Swine Show, Agnes McKeown of Springbrook had the Reserve Champion pair of gilts. Paul McKeown had a first and a second prize gilt while both Ron and Robert Hamilton of Trenton exhibited second prize swine.

The quality of the livestock represented in Hastings County was a credit to the farm people and an indication of the desire of farmers to improve their cattle and swine.

C.W.L. Donates Aid, Plans Future Bazaar

POINT ANNE — The November meeting of the Point Anne C.W.L. was held Wednesday evening in St. Anne's School, Point Anne.

The bazaar, which will be held late in November, was discussed in detail.

Every second Sunday of the month, the Catholic W.L. will receive Holy Communion in a body.

The Civic Action took immediate steps to assist the Sword family, who were burned out on Tuesday.

The president, Mrs. J. Finlan adjourned the meeting. Euchre and refreshments followed.

Melrose Wool Warp Woofers Hold Meeting

The second meeting of the Melrose Wool Warp and Woofers was held at the home of Mrs. McLaren on October 27.

The roll call was "Show a sample of material and tell why you think it is wool." Pressing booklets were distributed.

The discussion was on the preparation of wool for cutting. All material must be straightened by pulling crosswise threads until one that will go all the way across is found. The material must also be shrunk. For a heavy material for a straight skirt and a soft material that will drape softly for a full skirt. Always buy a good quality material.

GUIDES TO PATTERNS

The person who is slight and has an average height is able to buy a wide choice of styles. Someone who is tall and thin should have their lines going crosswise. Someone who is short and fat should have the lines going lengthwise. Always buy a standard pattern which is clear and complete directions. For a first time sewer buy correct hip measurements. For a full skirt buy correct waist measurements. Patterns are proportioned to fit the different figure types.

The home assignment was work on record books; buy material and check weaver; buy pattern and write name on it and required pieces; and study pattern and instruction sheet.

The activity was invisible mending.

The third meeting of the Melrose Wool Warp and Woofers was held at the home of Mrs. Howard on October 22. Miss Lane was present at this meeting. The roll call was, "One wool material and its weave." The next meeting is to be at Mrs. McLaren's on November 2.

CUTTING GUIDE

Always lay the pattern with the grain of the material. If the pattern is not on the grain the garment will be on the bias and then your garment will never hang correctly. Always make a skirt on the up and down of the material. Before laying the pattern on the material pin the darts in place and pin the sections of the pattern together. Hold up to the person. Make any alternations necessary and then lay the pattern on the material following the directions on the pattern and the instruction sheet.

Pin the pattern in place and cutting carefully, cut from bottom to top. Cut out on notches. Leave one pip of material above the kick pleat to prevent it from sagging. Always cut, stay stitch and sew with the grain. The lining should also be preshrunk. It is shrunk the same as cotton.

Papers telling how to set up the record books were distributed. The home assignment was work on record book; shrink and press wool and lining for the skirt.

HIGH STANDARDS

Home Turned Into Studio For Artists

MONTREAL (CP)—The split-level suburban home of Jessie Lavigueur has been temporarily turned into a studio showing the work of five distinctly different Canadian artists.

Mrs. Lavigueur, who calls herself an ordinary housewife, believes this type of exhibition fills an urgent need in a new neighborhood where there are no art galleries.

"Many of the people in this area are seeing the works of these Canadian painters, for the first time," she said.

The painters are Leon Bellefeuil, Jean Paul Lemieux, Henriette Paulenux-Masse and Gentile Tondino. The sculpture in Mrs. Lavigueur's living and recreation rooms is the work of Stanley Lewis.

Mrs. Lavigueur began to interest herself in local arts activities after recuperating from a serious illness a few years ago and feeling a need to get out of the house."

EARLY INTERESTED

With the encouragement of her husband and two adolescent sons, she threw open the fine arts courses and began to organize play readings, drama groups and art appreciation classes.

The black-eyed brunette chose to call herself a "self-taught artist who touched me personally."

"When I saw the work of Jean Paul Lemieux I felt very close to him. He paints a Quebec I know and love — wide, open spaces, with rather wistful Canadian figures."

She said she had followed the work of Leon Bellefeur for many years and that it has gained wide acceptance in Europe.

Henriette Paulenux-Masse is a young painter who started out as a nun.

"I saw her work in the Stable Gallery and loved the light effervescence of her style."

Gentile Tondino's style is "semi-abstract — wide, open spaces. I have watched his development from dark, somber trees into something decisive with great character."

Women Seen Best Salesmen Of Real Estate

VANCOUVER (CP) — An all-women real estate firm here is out to prove that women are the best salesmen.

On the theory that women buy between 80 and 97 per cent of the residential real estate dollar, Mrs. Edith Woodsworth, Mrs. Joey Ashdown and Mrs. Marianne Linnell formed their own business with an all-women staff.

Now, three years and five additional salesmen (women) later, they are even more convinced.

"Women understand what women want when it comes to a home," said the vivacious Mrs. Linnell. "A woman doesn't want just a house with so many rooms, but a house that is a personal reflection of her personality and the way she pictures herself living.

"A salesman will show a house that has the required three bedrooms and den, but often it leaves a woman client cold.

"A woman shows a house that has emotional appeal as well as the required number of rooms."

MEN NO PROBLEM

The three female experts have nothing but praise for the husbands of their clients. If the house is structurally sound and he is financially able, the man goes along with his wife's choice in almost every case.

"A salesman," said Mrs. Linnell, "must look at a house with none of the same emotion with which her clients will view it. Nonchalance is out."

The partners are all in their 40s, all with teen-age families, and two members of their staff have grandchildren.

They find humor in some transactions.

"Like the time we sold a house for a lady who had a cat which loved the house.

"We had to tell the place with applause written in all the documents agreeing that the cat could continue to live there and receive tender loving care for all its natural life."

Here's a typical example, an attractive daytime dress in discplined cotton, the geometric print in black and white against a brown ground. The belt is of black patent and there are shiny black buttons on the cape - like, buttoned - over sleeves.

The slim skirt offers a nice contrast to the breadth at the top, a feature of the silhouette in so many of the new season collections.

BCIVS H-S Assoc. to Hold Panel Discussion

The BCIVS Home and School Association is holding a meeting in the board gymnasium on Monday, November 7th starting eight o'clock.

There will be a Panel Discussion. The topic being "Your Child and the Law". Sitting on the panel will be a lawyer, representative from the Children's Aid Society, probation officer, and parent. The moderator will be the Rev. Morgan McPherson from Tabernacle United Church. Questions to be dealt with will be, (1) What legal responsibility do we have to our children? How is a child dealt with in a court of law; (2) delinquent parents or delinquent children and (3) What is parental neglect?

There will be group discussion following the panel.

Refreshments will be served. This meeting is open to the public.

B and P Women's Club Presents Brief to Premier

Wooler W.I. Entertains Sister Groups

On Wednesday evening the Wooler Women's Institute entertained in the club room, ladies from three different Institutes. There were 70 ladies present. The guests were from Uxbridge, Codrington and Colborne Institutes.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner. There was a short business discussion and Mrs. Gerrard Finlan gave a report on the short course "The Third Meal," which will take place during the month of November at her home.

Mrs. Henry McColl, convener for the evening, led in a singsong and Mrs. Charlie McColl read a poem entitled, "Sermons We See."

Mrs. Bryce Hazelwood of Codrington, played a piano solo, "Some Enchanted Evening." A vocal duet and skit entitled "Dearie" was given by Mrs. Robert Burkitt and Mrs. Milton Burkitt of Brookford. This was most amusing.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Herman Morrow introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Gordon Isham, from Colborne, who is the district president and the present time. She spoke on "Pennies for Friendship" and asked why build our lives — wide, open spaces, with rather wistful Canadian figures."

She said she had followed the work of Leon Bellefeur for many years and that it has gained wide acceptance in Europe.

D.E.S. Sponsors Successful Tea, Bazaar

WELLINGTON — Lakeside Chapter 31 held its annual tea and bazaar in the Masonic Hall on the afternoon of October 26th.

Mrs. Olive Chunnell, W.M., received and welcomed the many guests. Mrs. Henriette Archard received the fees (in the absence of Mrs. Ida McFaul).

The hall was prettily decorated with autumn flowers.

The domestic table, in charge of Mrs. Reta Parks and Mrs. Ida McCartney, assisted by other O.E.S. members, was loaded with tempting delicties of all kinds.

The serving tables with their many attractive aprons and other numerous articles, were in charge of Mesdames Allison Turpin, Beste Hodgson, Lottie Gilbert, Olga Brown and others.

The white elephant table was most popular and the many articles on it were sold by Mesdames Ruby Vick, Anna Hoffman and Vera Gibson.

The sweetest table of all, the candy table, was in charge of Miss Olive Chunnell, Mrs. Helen Greenfield.

Tickets were sold on two baskets of groceries by Mesdames Ruth Archard, Dorothy Brimley and Myrtle Alexander.

The fish pond, a popular spot for the children, was in charge of Mrs. Sylvia East.

The tea table was most attractive and was covered with a beautiful white linen cloth, centred with a lovely arrangement of yellow 'mums, (donated by Mrs. Lockyer and later sent to Mrs. Ida McFaul, who is in the hospital), and flanked by either side with tall yellow tapers in silver holders.

Pouring tea at intervals during the afternoon were Mesdames Ruby Young, P.D.D.G.M. of Colborne 52 of Brighton; May Ferguson, W.M. Quinte; Phyllis Bateman, Belleville 55; Susie Down, Helen Harris Lodi Mowbray and Miss Norma Foster, P.M.'s of Lakeside No.

Conveners of the tea tables were Mrs. Isobel Davern and Mrs. Helen Harris. Those serving were all members of Lakeside Chapter No. 31. Kitchen was in charge of Mrs. Jean Way and Mrs. Hazel Palmer, assisted by members. Mrs. Jarvis McFaul attended to the replenishing, assisted by other members.

The draws on the groceries were won by Mr. Brummel of Cherry Valley getting 1st prize and Mrs. W. A. Davern 2nd.

The door prizes went to: 1st, Mrs. Bev. Gibson; 2nd, Mrs. Gordon Channell, and 3rd, Mrs. Clifford Cleave.

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY ST. UNITED W.M.S.

The November meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Holloway Street United Church was held at the church on Tuesday. The president, Mrs. T. F. Townsend, presided. The meeting opened with quiet music with Mrs. Hobbs at the piano.

Reports of secretaries were read and business dealt with. Mrs. Kilbank reported 35 calls in October; Mrs. Johns read a paper on Christian leadership. Mrs. Kilbank was chosen delegate for the rally at Wallbridge.

Mrs. Mitchell presided for the program planned by her group, and she gave a call to worship.

Mrs. Mccormick read John 3, 16-22; Mrs. Westover, Eph. 4; Mrs. Parliament Matt. 24.

A duet, "Lift Up Thine Eyes To the Hilltops," by Mrs. Townsend and Mrs. F. Jeffery, was much enjoyed.

"Into All the World Together" was the theme for a paper given by Mrs. Mitchell.

Mrs. Martin spoke on Mrs. Thompson's trip to the Netherlands and other places; Mrs. Bell on "The Ship Under the Ocean" from a book by Dr. Grant. These papers were all taken from the Study book and proved interesting.

Mrs. Mitchell closed this splendid meeting with these words: "Warmest greetings for God; expect great things from God." All were invited to stay for a cup of tea and social hour.

WEDDING COSTS

A conservative estimate of expenditures for a wedding, for catering and honeymoon, for the average wedding in the U.S., is $600.

Town-Country Club Girls Elect 1960-1 Officers

The first meeting of the new project, "The Club Girl Enterprise" was held at the home of the leader, Mrs. Harmon Montgomery.

Linda Shepherd gave a treasurer's report.

All offices were declared open and elections were held. The new president — Mary Montgomery; vice-president — Linda Shepherd; secretary — Beverly Dulyer; treasurer — Margaret Walker; press reporter — Carol Green.

It was moved that whenever a girl gets her county honors she will receive a pair of dressmaking shears. The club decided to retain its old name.

The next meeting is to be at Ida Waterhouse's on Saturday night at 7.30.

The goals of the club were discussed. Some of these were: table arrangements; introductions; better conversation; more successful entertaining; sew recipe; table setting and service; being a good guest.

The project is to make a reference file and a record book.

The requirements of the members and the proper methods for measuring dry ingredients were discussed.

The meeting ended with a social half-hour with Marsailles Margaret serving lunch.

West Hastings W.I. 'Workshop' Meeting Held in Wallbridge

By MRS. PERCY MacAULLEN

TRAWDON — On October 31st, 15 ladies from six branches of West Hastings District Women's Institutes, attended two workshops in the Sunday school room of Wallbridge United Church.

Mrs. M. Frances Hucks, supervisor of foods and nutrition of the Home Economics Branch of the Ontario Department of agriculture presided the meeting, with the theme, "Eat to Live".

In the afternoon Miss Hucks gave home economics director for Hastings County was present.

Those in attendance from Wallbridge Branch, included — Mrs. Percival Phillips, president West Hastings District W. I., Mrs. Morley Phillips and Mrs. R. M. McCullough, from Tudenham; Mrs. A. Martin and Mrs. A. Sine; Bay of Quinte; Mrs. John Hall, vice president of Trent Valley area; Mrs. Morris Wallis, Mrs. Ernest Gurnis and Mrs. Preek Whitechurch; Mrs. E. B. Finkle; Stargrove; Mrs. Roy Hoffman, secretary of the district and Mrs. Charles Rose; River Valley; Mrs. Gerald Brooks, Mrs. Ernest Rose and Mrs. Percy MacAullen, publicity officer of the district.

WORKSHOP EXPLAINED

The group was seated at long tables and the leader graphically explained the purpose of the two particular workshops which was chosen by Ontario, At the annual convention of F.W.I.C. they chose "Food", as their slogan as the A.C.A. had adopted "Freedom from Hunger".

for a five year period. The Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario chose a special study on "Good Food for Health" and "Better Use of Food Supplies" for a 5-year period. To date seven years have reported on service, based on "Eat to Live". It is hoped that these two particular types of workshops will spread the information to others. The Home Economics department is to improve our daily eating habits.

The speaker spoke briefly re days of World War II and what is at that time, a plentiful and available food supplies on the basis of rationing.

During the past 15 years a new crop of homemakers have appeared and many of the younger women will appreciate help. Special items discussed were: Food Value of Cheese in the diet, adults do not require calcium like growing children, Canada Food Rules, a list of foods necessary in your daily eating habits.

Each lady was given a selection of useful material and this included a booklet "Good Food for Everybody" and those who have studied this subject are convinced that good food makes a difference. The nutritional contention depends primarily on the food that the individual selects. Food is needed for energy, growth, regulation and maintenance of health.

GOOD STUDIES

Canadian studies of food show, that many families spend large amounts for poor food value. Food it is cheaper to follow the patterns presented and thus have good healthful meal for both children and adults.

Miss Hucks gives suggestions for variety in meals and said that getting the right food was the problem, is distributing it equally over children and adults. She said that in 1939, doctors noted that scurvy was practically unknown in Canada but decreases were set forth for catering to the children and the use of good posters. The speaker told of vegetables which have disappeared from the markets and she outlined the value of vegetables and how the department of Agriculture has increased the quality and handling of vegetables. It is advisable to plan your garden and plant vegetables you like and that were given suggestions for each month. A list of fruits available and various suggestions for substitutes in their own particular institutes.

Some time was devoted to any questions which were asked, are the children getting enough milk? Answer by an your own home. Choose your vegetables from the grocery shop that you want to present your family with a complete meal. Introduce new foods occasionally your material around that you have available.

"Eat to Live," has about 15 different departments and each of these has a study in itself. the conveners have a wide field for their activities, during the year. It was suggested that at the meeting this winter, that a few main thoughts be given.

The president, Mrs. P. B. Phillips voiced appreciative thanks to Miss Hucks for her valued leadership, during the two sessions.

Mrs. A. H. — My husband sings our son anywhere, any time.

Mr. A. H. — She leaves the dirty work to me.

Mrs. A. H. — We have a 7-year-old son and I worry about what my husband is doing to him. My husband believes in constant correction to make an impression.

Last Saturday we went to Atlantic City with another couple with two children, and a boy Donald's age and a little girl of 5. As we walked along the Boardwalk a strong wind came up and we stopped to put sweaters on the children. I remembered I had left Donald's sweater in the car. Just showing one road to self-discipline than physical assault. Self-discipline is the physical assault. And self-discipline is the only thing that will permanently relinquish the job and must be the child on power side right from wrong himself. Another objective in the family play is the possible initiation of it. Suppose Donald has been punished for a misdemeanor or suppose he was bursting with energy because his mother has kept him from the ferris wheel? We don't know. We haven't suggested our colours. Mr. H. didn't stop to find out, either. A child, no matter his size, needs to be able to explode once in a while, too. Donald's mother is entitled to read him to "socially approved" outlets, and away from the game-calling and plotting that that come naturally. A slap may silence him, but it doesn't correct anywhere.

Mrs. H. — I will be more embarrassing if Donald gets punched in the nose some day by somebody else for picking out something insulting. My wife says she hopes I forget the slap. I hope he didn't.

All I know is that he's picked up a lot of fresh talk and better learn where to use it. He doesn't when we're out in a crowd he can say any old thing I want to nip that fast.

And I don't believe in long speeches and explanations or in waiting a few years to tell him he shouldn't have talked like that. I only want to upset Donald enough to make him think twice before he makes a move. She gets him all mixed up with her sort ideas. She says he'll grow out of it, no matter what he smashes and what tricks he plays.

With her he's never sure whether he's right and what's wrong. I leave him no doubt.

The Council: "All's fair in love", they say. That applies to discipline, too. If it's guided by love for your child — and not some leftover anger — it's usually all right.

Mr. H. is defending one of the basic laws of learning, that is, associating cause and effect. But, in view of the fact that Donald is learning a few other things, from the quick public slap, his father might do well to consider alternatives in correcting a young boy.

Donald may be learning that it's O.K. to say things as long as he's loud enough. And Dad's extra loud voice none of the other fathers slap children in front of their friends. And anything Dad hits you for is wrong and whatever he doesn't hit you for is right. Those are some of the finer effects of strongarm discipline. It might not hurt Donald to be the punishment.

We suggest that Mr. H. try the quieter method first of selecting Donald up short — a warning, a reminder, even a look. Then, if that doesn't work, bring the road to self-discipline through physical assault, if you must, but only as a last resort.

Mr. A. H. — I'll be more embarrassing if Donald gets punched in the nose some day for picking out something insulting. My wife says she hopes he forgot the slap. I hope he didn't.

QUESTION BOX

Question: A recent article of yours struck home! Here's my problem: I received a gift from a friend two months ago on the occasion of my fifth wedding anniversary. Before I got around to thanking her (she lives many miles away) my mother died and in the confusion that has followed I have not written to her. Your article brought it to my mind, and now I am wondering what to do! How do I square myself for being so unpardonably rude? Mrs. F. W. G., Scranton, Pa.

Answer: I do not think your rudeness could be called unpardonable in the light of your thoughtless, perhaps, but you have a valid reason for having been so. Write to your friend immediately, and explain the circumstances behind your apparent lack of appreciation for her thought. I'm sure she will understand, and forgive.

Question: How long should you wait for a late guest when you are entertaining at dinner? Our dinner was finally served at eight o'clock, mumbling stupid excuses. My other guests were obviously restless and hungry and my dinner was a mess. Should I have waited for these people?—Mrs. T. D. L., Toledo, Ohio.

Answer: No, you shouldn't. Because the guests who arrived late were rude is no reason for you to be. And it is a rude person who keeps your guests waiting an hour for their dinner. Now, granting that an emergency may cause a person to be late, a telephone call can always be made to notify a hostess. Too many people cultivate the unpardonable habit of always being tardy. Usually it's because they just don't care. In future, tell fifteen minutes and no longer, for those who arrive after that, you will not wait for it. Just a suggestion: To avoid future embarrassment and annoyance, it might be wise to strike the always late couples off your list. Don't invite them again.

Neighbors' Aid Plans Future Activities

2ND THURLOW — The October meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the hall last Thursday with a large attendance. Mrs. R. Portt was hostess. The president, Mrs. Gerald Stratton, presided with Mrs. A. Grenitz at the piano. The president welcomed all and thanked Mrs. Portt for being hostess for the meeting in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. M. Dent acted as interim secretary and read correspondence. Arrangements for the 30th anniversary of the Aid were made and included a pot-luck supper with a hot and cold dish from each member.

As before, a program will be arranged by the charter members, Mrs. Fletcher Reid and Mrs. E. Joffery to show slides of trip which they, with their husbands, enjoyed to the East Coast this summer.

A $5 cheque was received from the Shannonville Fair Board for the booth used at the fair. A euchre, with Meadames S. Ray, E. Howard as hostesses, was arranged for November 11 at the Aid hall. Also, a Melrose euchre will likely be held at the Shannonville school on November 18 was announced. The treasurer, Mrs. R. T. Boldrick, gave the year's financial statement, with nearly $200 being raised and over $400 expenses for painting the school, buying card tables, blinds for the year, leaving about $70 on the balance for the year.

Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. A. Greatrix audited the books and found them all correct.

All offices were declared vacant and Mrs. M. Dent read the slate of officers, for the coming year. Mrs. Lemming conducted the installation of the new officers.

The president took the chair and asked Mrs. E. Leeming and Mrs. D. Leeming to take charge of the program. Mrs. D. Leeming was in charge called on Mrs. Harry Grills who gave a talk on a recent trip they and the Leemings had taken to the Flowing Match at Springfield, Simcoe, Niagara Falls and other places enroute.

HOSPITAL DISPLAYED

Tables were arranged with several bringing their hobbies or suggestions for displaying them on the tables, with cakes, rocks, flowers, aprons, crochet work and vegetables, being the most attractive.

Prizes were given with Mrs. Robert Aikins receiving 1st. A prize for the one whose birthday was nearest to the date of the meeting was received by Darlene Chamberlain.

Mrs. R. T. Boldrick took charge of selling the articles with each one bidding for the article of her choice. This proved profitable and lots of fun.

ST. ANDREW'S W.A.

WELLINGTON — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's W.A. was held at the rectory on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Pritchard took the chair in Mrs. Stover's absence.

The meeting opened with a prayer by Mrs. Pritchard, followed by the Lord's Prayer and the members' prayers. The Scripture readings, taken from St. Matt. 22, were read by Mrs. Pritchard. Reports were given on J.A. by Mrs. Rogers; a Halloween party was enjoyed by the Junior Auxiliary in the town hall Tuesday afternoon. Little Helpers' report by Mrs. Upton, are having their annual party Monday afternoon at 3.30 p.m. The W.A. will provide food for the party.

Mrs. Tripp reported for her Girls' Auxiliary. They are doing cupcakes with wee Scots for bazaar that year. Mrs. Ogley reported she had 50 calendars for sale. It was announced that the W.A. of the "Lotus Helpers" for the coming year.

Mrs. Upton read a letter from the "Living Message" secretary, after which everybody joined in the Lord's prayer.

Miss H. Hewton read a chapter from the Study Book, "Africa."

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

A slate of officers was submitted by Mrs. Rogers for the nominating committee, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Upton, who conducted the election of officers. Results were as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. Pritchard; secretary, Mrs. Hare; assistant secretary, Miss Nash; treasurer, Miss H. Hewton; Dorcas and calendar secretary, Mrs. A. Ogilvy; Girls' A., Mrs. S. Tripp; J.A., Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Hare; Little Helpers', Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Upton, "Living Message," Mrs. W. King.

Mr. Rogers gave a few remarks on the need of Sunday School, after which it was moved that the meeting be adjourned for the Sunday School. Mrs. Rogers presented $5 to the treasurer from the Dorcas. Mrs. A. Fralleigh of Brighton, a former member of the W.A., who is now in Germany.

Mrs. Pritchard thanked Mrs. Rogers for having the meeting in her home. The next meeting will be in December at the home of Mrs. W. Ainsworth.

Lunch was served by the hostess, vote of thanks to last year's officers who retired.

Those who were to bake in November will bake in January, according to the pot-luck supper.

The exchange of Christmas gifts will be limited to 50 cents each.

After the meeting closed lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. R. Portt, and Meadames F. Millard, D. Aikins, J. Chamblay and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell moved a QUESTION: I'm sorry to bother you but I have mislaid my recipe for Chicken Celebrities — now, that is most certainly the wrong spelling but I want to catch the mail, so won't look it up I want to serve it to 40 businessmen. I have a chicken, Miss Moore, that would be easier for my husband and his friends that want the chicken . . . Doreen G.

ANSWER:

Your spelling of Cacciatore was a good try.

FRIDAY

Baked Halibut Fillet or Steaks; Sauce Tartare; Crumbed Tomato Casserole; Buttered Rice; Cole Slaw with Chives; Butterscotch-Tu-All Pumpkin Pie (see Tuesday); Coffee.

CHICKEN CACCIATORE:

(Serves 8) (bracketed amounts will serve 4)

Two (10) 2 1-2 to 3 pound ready-cooked roasting chickens; 1 cup, 4 tablespoons; (1 1-4 cups) olive oil; 2 (1 cup, 5 ml.) minced onions, 3-4 cup (3 3-4) minced green peppers, 2 (10) minced cloves garlic; 2 (1) no. 1 2-1-2 can tomatoes (excess liquid drained off through strainer and used for some other purpose), 3 (1 1-2) tablespoons (3 tablespoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon (2 1-2) pepper, 1-4 teaspoon (1 ml.) ground anise, 2 (5) bayleaf, 1-3 teaspoon (3 1-3) leaf thyme (optional), 2cm (1-2 inch) piece cayenne. In hot fat in large frying pan (s) brown chicken evenly. Add onions, green peppers and garlic, brown lightly. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer uncovered for 30 to 40 minutes until chicken is tender.

QUESTION:

Can you help me Mary I was at a tea the other afternoon and the hostess served what she called "brownies". It was a thick layer of chocolate in between, well, was it a cake mixture? I'd like to make some. Chocolate icing and it was delicious . . . Mrs. Y. B

ANSWER:

I think the following is a reasonable facsimile.

BROWNIE MIXTURE:

1 1-4 cups sifted cake flour, 1-4 cups white or light brown sugar, (firmly packed if brown), 4 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 1-3 teaspoon double-acting or 1 teaspoon single-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cups shredded cocoanut, 1 cup chopped walnut meats.

Sift flour, 1 cup of the flour and 1-4 cup of the sugar Cut in butter until mixture is the consistency of coarse meal. Pat firmly into an ungreased 9 x 9 x 2" pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr for 15 minutes. Beat eggs until light. Add remaining sugar gradually, beating constantly with same bowl. Mixture is light and fluffy. Sift remaining 1-4 cup flour and the baking powder together and fold into cocoa mixture. Add vanilla, cocoanut and nuts and mix thoroughly. Spread on top of warm baked layer. Bake again and return to oven. Bake 20 minutes longer or until lightly browned. While warm spread with chocolate icing (below)or barely melted bitter or semi-sweet chocolate. Cut in 1 1-2" squares while warm. Let stand in pan to cool.

CHOCOLATE ICING:

Melt 3 squares unsweetened chocolate over hot water boiler, and add to it 1 cup icing sugar, 1 egg beaten, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Remove from heat at once Spread while warm.

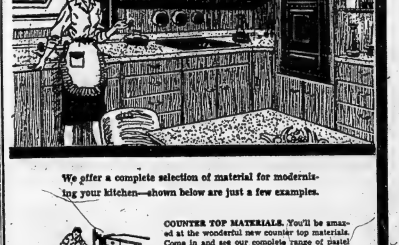
MADOC JUNCTION— On the evening of October 29th, between 50 and 60 neighbors and friends gathered at the school to honor the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Goodfellow, (nee Thelma Frost).

Mr. Thomas Bridges was chairman for a short program, which consisted with community singing, with Mrs. Murrey Mason at the piano.

Readings were given by Mrs. Harry Hickey, Mrs. Kath Johnson and Miss Marilyn Reid. Misses Brenda and Sharon Cleveland contributed a lovely vocal duet.



At this time Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow were seated at the head of the school, and an appropriate address read by Mrs. W. Martell, while Messrs. Keith Johnson, and Murray Martin, on behalf of the community, made the presentation of a hostess chest, satin cushion, and tri-light floor lamp.

Thelma and Harvey expressed their thanks.

After a few remarks, Mrs. W. Harlow, on behalf of Eagleton Women's Institute, presented Mrs. Goodfellow with a white and gold electric wall clock. Thelma again expressed her thanks, and remarked how she had always enjoyed attending and assisting in the work of the Sunday School.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow also received a few individual gifts.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

TRIM SHIP — These two Sea Cadets put the finishing polish on the ship's clock at the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" barracks last night. Able Cadets Glen Camelford and William Parrent are the two "spit and polish" lads. For story on the presentation of the ship's clock to "Quinte" see the local news section.

MOUSETRAP — There's not much hope of escape Robinson (18) and Collin Allenby (23). Watching the for Roger Ling (centre) of Moira Secondary action are Gerry Jones (33), William Elliot (27) and tacklers close in at yesterday's junior football game at Robin Blaker (28). For story and another action shot Moira Secondary School. Making the tackle are Larry see the sports page.

COUNTING UP — Barry Simpson and Joan de Fe count greenbacks taken at the BCIVS tea canoe Wednesday afternoon. Barry, president of the BCIVS Students' Council, which sponsored the dance, said proceeds of $21 will be turned over to the local United Appeal.

Sea Cadet Corps 'Quinte' Is Complimented on Fine Show in Inter-Corps Sports

The officers and men of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" were last night complimented by Lt.-Commander Joseph Jefferies, RCN (SB), Area Officer, on their fine show in promoting inter-corps activity as a result of their inter-corps sports day held in October. He credited the corps with being one of the most active in Ontario and urged the Sea Cadets to carry on the good work, as they were showing every indication of becoming one of the finest corps of their size in the province.

The local Sea Cadets, who most every Thursday evening at Front Street, have been challenged by the cadets of RCSC "Quinte" were last night Halloweil" of Picton to a sports day Nov. 13. "Halloweil's" crew won the "Cock of the Walk" award at the competition in Belleville and the local cadets are eager to return the compliment.

The local corps has seen much increased activity this training year. Besides the regular training in seamanship, boatwork, communications and other naval topics there have been several cruises up the Trent Canal aboard the corps' own 32-foot power launch, and another all-day cruise aboard two Sea Cadet building on South craft through the Murray Canal to Presqu'ile Point and Lake Ontario. Then, of course, there was the Trafalgar Day church parade, sports day and band competition.

Scheduled for the future, besides the trip to visit the Picton Corps, is the Remembrance Day parade with "Quinte" supplying the guard of honor and a Leading Cadet and Petty Officers get-to-gether with all hands of these ranks from other corps being invited to "Quinte" or, a weekend for various activities.

Also scheduled for the near future is the ship's annual Christmas party, which is one of the highlights of the year's activities.

Membership in cadets is open to lads between the ages of 14 and 18 years, with the exception of lads of 13 who are allowed entry if they are in grade 8. A number of "new entries" have joined the corps recently and there is still room for more. Any lads interested are invited to go to the Sea Cadet building on the regular Thursday parade at 7 p.m.

A six-week course is given to "new entries" to acquaint them with the activities of the corps, naval terminology and the history of the RCN. Following successful completion of this course each lad is fitted out with a uniform and other gear and is promoted to the rank of Ordinary Cadet. This entitles him to participate in the other courses for advancement through the ranks and in the many activities of the corps.

Along with the naval subjects given are a number of other interesting activities such as sports and rifle shooting. Lined up for the winter sports activities will be a hockey team for inter-corps matches. "Quinte" is currently the inter-corps hockey champion for this area.

The local corps offers the lads of this area an interesting and rewarding experience with the opportunity, of attending summer camps at regular RCN bases on the east coast as well as a number of special courses in naval aviation, communications and seamanship.

Torque Talk

by DOUG PHIPPEN

Automobiles, whether large or small, expensive or economical, play a most important part in the life of any Canadian community in transporting its people either to and from work or for pleasure. It is not surprising, therefore, to find more and more high school students taking an interest in cars although mostly, perhaps, from the hobby point of view.

There are, of course, a number of different aspects from which a high school car enthusiast can take his interest in cars. Perhaps it consists merely of keeping the family car clean and shiny by a few hours' attention every Saturday afternoon. Then it may be that you are interested in pulling apart some old clunker to see if you can get it running. Or one might be interested in tuning or modifying cars to give better than normal performance.

A few, no doubt, have a keen interest in the use of cars competitively either for the drags or for racing such as is done by sports car enthusiasts on closed tracks or strips.

Whatever your interest in cars, this column is for you. It will contain information concerning them. Questions, news of any automobile clubs, driving contests, technical problems, and driving programs . . . all will be handled in this column. So if any of you have any questions, suggestions or news drop us a line or give us a call and we will see where it goes from there.

Of particular interest would be projects shy of you who are building or renovating cars or rebuilding or modifying engines are engaged in either as individuals or as a group or class project.

The opening of the new Department of Transport's driver examination centre should be of interest to any who are hoping to obtain their driver's or operator's permit in the future.

I don't think that anyone wants to be a square on wheels when it comes to driving. In fact, some public opinion to the contrary, it is a fact that high school students who have received proper instruction and have a good knowledge of the Highway Traffic Act and the Rules of the road" have proven to be the safest and surest of drivers.

The local Department of Transport office has a wealth of material available for the novice driver. In fact much of the information which is available is also of value to us who have been driving for some time. It just goes to show that one can always improve on his driving ability.

In the interest of showing that teenagers can be just as good, if not better, drivers as the rest of us, the names of any high school student or teenager who passes his driver's test with flying colors (ie. with no mistakes on his written sign recognition test, and 10 or fewer penalty points on the driving test) will be published in this column. A running count will be kept on the number of students so qualifying from each high school and at the end of the school year it might be interesting to see which school the highest percentage of good drivers is from.

Every year in Kingston the St. Lawrence Automobile Club handles the running of a teenagers' "roadeo". Perhaps the local branch of that club might be persuaded to do the same in Belleville some time next spring? I'm sure there must be every bit as keen a group of drivers from the local high schools as from the Kingston district, if not more so. Perhaps there might even be a run-off between the best of the two cities with a champion declared?

Democracy Demands Good Education

The foundation of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce is the free enterprise system, which is another term for Democracy. The Chamber is constantly on guard against individuals, groups, or organizations seeking to restrict freedom of the individual. The following excerpts from the Royal Bank's monthly "Newsletter" point out the need of a good education to maintain democracy in Canada:

Democracy in Canada is more than the right to vote; it is more than national self - government. Democracy is a way of life for free and upright people who take pride in governing not only their country but themselves.

It is natural to feel that things happening in the world are so big that the individual gets lost in the maze of complex problems and issues. But those who wish to remain democratic free men will not give way to fatalism of the ennuiltude which is the mark and symbol of tyrannies. The fundamental principles of democracy is that decision, direction and action do not come down from rulers, but up from millions of John Smiths. In a democracy, personal effort is significant.

But how shall people govern themselves and their country unless they have learned to do so? Enlightened mass decisions are clearly impossible without widespread individual education. It need not be education in the com-

Teenagers Help UNICEF, United Appeal by Holding Hallowe'en Dance, Tea Hop

The United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) became $81 wealthier and the Belleville United Appeal came $21 closer to its objective when two groups of teenagers held separate dances this week to raise money for them.

More than 350 kids attended a Hallowe'en costume dance at Club Canada Monday night and turned over the proceeds of $80 to UNICEF. Another $36 went to UNICEF the same night when the club's management kicked back the rest for the ball.

Wednesday afternoon, the students' council at BCIVS sponsored a tea dance and raised $21 for the United Appeal through admission charges paid by the hosts and guests from other schools who were invited to umlimber on the dance floor. Student council president Barry Simpson noted that his council tries to help out the community as its members hit on the idea of sponsoring a tea dance on behalf of the United Appeal.

Prizes were given to umpteen kids at the Hallowe'en dance, which was sponsored jointly by the Belleville Police Association, Recreation Committee, and students' council of the local high schools. Part of the fun was broadcast over CJBQ with Hi-Fi Club president Al Hall behind the "Mike". Incidentally, Peter Trill, Dave Ross, Bruce Alexander, Ann Middleton, Colin Wilcox and Allen Barclay, members of high school radio clubs, operated CJBQ's remote control hookup and the public address system.

Carol Kelly and Bob Ladouceur won first prize for the best dressed couple, while Darlene Trundale and Gerry Gibbs were the runners-up. Donna Maldaver's costume was judged the most original of the lot and Jerry Rollins had the funniest get - up. Some 30 spot dance prizes were also handed out during the evening.

Cherril Beeby, prime minister of Quinte S. S., made the presentation of $50 to Frank Nobbs of UNICEF on behalf of all the kids, and Don Flindall turned over to the UNICEF representative the club's $35 rent refund.

Although much of the music was canned, the local teenaged Rhythm Rockets let loose with some mighty fine rock 'n' roll and kept the place really jumping for a while.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ralphin recently enjoyed a motor trip to Perry Sound by way of Algonquin Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren spent last weekend in Pembroke and Ottawa. Mrs. McLaren attended a fall conference for teachers in Pembroke on Saturday, continuing on to Ottawa that evening. While in Ottawa they visited Chief Saul, Mrs. Bob Miller, who showed them the interesting parts of the city.

Many from Melrose attended the anniversary service in Shannonville on Sunday last and enjoyed the presence of the Rev. Arthur Morgan of Ottawa as guest speaker. The solos of Mr. Tom Hinchey added much to the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Willett Casey and boys also Mr. Arthur Casey of Halloway, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren.

A very large crowd attended the community shower for Mr. and Mrs. Harold McKechan in the township hall recently. A presentation of a sum of money was made. Both graciously accepted and expressed their appreciation. Mr. and Mrs. McMeghan will reside on the bridegroom's farm on the 3rd concession of Tyendinaga.

The ladies of Melrose United Church catered to the Masonic banquet in the Masonic Temple, Belleville recently.

Mrs. Carman Milligan spent the weekend in Belleville with her grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Latchford spent a couple of days with relatives in Toronto.

W. I. SOCIAL

Mrs. Leslie McLaren, with Mrs. Roy McLaren as co-hostess, entertained members of the Melrose W.I. at her home on Thursday evening. Mrs. Leslie Gnaedinger with her assistants all in costume of the 1940 century depicted the housewife's life in the year 1860. Their social gatherings 100 years ago, fancy tea-quilting, afternoon drinking affairs. They met to sew and embroider, even need braces, were extensively decorated of the entire length with beautifully assembled stitches, forming flowers, leaves and vines.

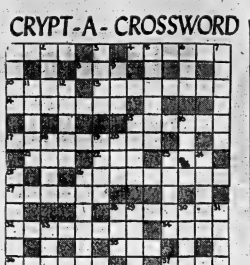
A guessing game concluded an interesting program.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Macfarlane spent Sunday last in Belleville with their daughter, Mrs. Arnold Masters. They attended service at Tabernacle United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. English, Mr. and Mrs. J. Blatherwick and Mrs. Ed. Lazier had dinner on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Lazier.

Friends and neighbors of Mr. Clem Haight, will be sorry to hear he had the misfortune to fall and is now a patient in Belleville Hospital.

The teacher, Miss Marcale and children of Melrose School, held their Hallowe'en party at the school on Friday afternoon. The mothers and pre-school children were their guests.



The home economist met with the local leaders and class of girls at the home of Mrs. Howard, on Saturday, last.

The Misses Shirley Weese, Barbara Weese and Joan Mitchell held a shower on one evening last week, at the former's home, for Barbara Pennell (nee Deville.) The girls spent an enjoyable evening and gifts were presented to the recent bride.

SUSPECT RETURNED

COLDEN, Colo, (AP)—Joseph Corbett Jr., who faces prosecution for the kidnap-slaying last Feb. 9 of Adolph Coors III, business and civic leader of this foothills city west of Denver, was turned over to Jefferson County authorities Tuesday. Corbett, 32, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men, was captured in a Vancouver rooming house Saturday.

MODERNIZE

The Kitchen — Step-saving arrangements are what every housewife wants! Plenty of counter space — cabinets — a convenient place for the refrigerator and cook stove and oven. You would be surprised how economically your kitchen can be modernized. Bill Ding can tell you! It costs nothing to ask.

Bill Ding has many ideas for kitchen wall finishes. Surround yourself with brightness. The kitchen today can be made just as attractive as any other room in the home for little money.

The Living Room — Aren't you getting tired of looking at the same four walls — for years? Don't you want something new? Wouldn't it make you happy to change the surroundings in that all-important living room? Imagine the beauty and serenity of a natural wood wall surface! The transformation can be made so quickly. Modern materials today, aside from their elegance, are made to save labor costs and therefore the all-over cost of the job. Wood paneling is what we are talking about! Come in and see our samples — Bill Ding will show you and will recommend just the material to suit your needs.

The Bedroom — You spend over one-third of your life there. Every woman dreams of pleasant surroundings in her "boudoir" where she can rest pleasantly after a hard day's work — to be by herself for a few minutes at various times of the day to break the monotony. Here again wood paneling or a softly tinted painted surface goes well. More closet space is what most women are always looking for. Sliding-door wardrobes across one end of the room can be quickly built on the job — for bought complete, all ready to set in. What do you say to asking Bill Ding for an estimate of cost?

The Bathroom This is Dad's reading room — give him pleasant surroundings — tile walls. You can make this improvement very reasonably with today's modern materials — almost any color you would want is available. Tile walls in the bathroom once were a luxury — but not so today. Come in and see! We'll give you an estimate on the completed job — and tell you how easy it is to pay the bill — almost any terms you want.

Waterproof, washable Paint can be used too for the walls in the bathroom for a minimum of cost.

DEMOCRACY

plexities of political science or constitutional law. Education starting in the family and continuing through school and every other phase of life, should produce men and women qualified in the give and take of community living.

There are critics of democracy . . . and they are not all in the totalitarian countries . . . who declare that democracy has become obsolete, that it cannot meet the issues of life today, and that it should be replaced by some sort of managerial society. They say the modern world is too complex for popular government; that it demands technocratic dictatorship.

Supporters of democracy, on the other hand, believe that society today is too complicated to be governed well except by drawing on the talents and wisdom of the people who compose it, and that these talents and wisdom must be constantly refined and cultivated through liberal education.

Education for democracy must kindle and keep alive the desire for freedom; it must fit free men and to use their freedom well. If it fails, then men will be subverted by those who undermine faith in democratic institutions, or be seduced by those who promise reward without labor.

Some of the most dangerous enemies threatening democracy are not antagonistic systems of government but failures within ourselves: parochialism, prejudice, self-satisfaction and obsession with comfort.

Democracy demands, by its very nature, men and women of wide tolerance. We rub and polish our minds against other minds, thereby giving them new lustre. Without wide, unselfish views there must result an oppressive provincialism, full of snobberies and taboos.

As we seek solutions to our most urgent problems, we turn to education for help and guidance.

It is a fatal mistake to believe that democratic education consists of teaching students some facts about our government and making them learn the provisions of the British North America Act.

The survivor of democracy depends upon the ability of large numbers of people to make realistic choices in the light of adequate information.

The principal task of education in the interests of democracy is to enlighten and discipline the minds of students, to teach them how to think clearly, to communicate intelligibly, to analyze logically, to judge decently, to decide intelligently, to cultivate their curiosity and to release their powers of creativity.

Other systems of living call for uncritical acceptance of a dictatorship's propaganda; our democratic system seeks reasoned conviction. Canada needs broadly educated men and women in all fields of endeavor, so that sound judgment operates upon sound knowledge. You who are students now will be the future prime ministers, ministers, mayors, aldermen or councillors, and in order to fill these positions in the best interest of your country and yourselves, make the most of the opportunity now at hand. Remain at school and attain the highest pinnacle possible to enable you to solve the problems of the future.

600-Acre Hunting, Fishing Oasis Reverberates to Crackle Of Gunfire in Autumn Days

INNERKIP, Ont. (CP)—The Herb Smith Game Preserve, a 600-acre hunting and fishing oasis in the heart of one of Canada's most densely-populated regions, is reverberating to the crackle of gunfire these chill autumn days.

Officially opened Oct. 15 but actually in operation since late September, the western Ontario preserve reflects a growing trend in thickly-populated areas toward controlled shooting where hunters pay for the right to stalk game within a limited territory.

Main attraction at the preserve, which surrounds two lakes and has fishing rights on part of a third, is pheasants. But every type of game animal and bird in Southern Ontario can be shot within the confines of the preserve, says Herb Smith, a resident of nearby Waterloo.

The preserve is set up in two sections. One is 400 acres located a little more than a mile south of Innerkip and about six miles northeast of Woodstock. The other is 200 acres, about four miles to the east.

PRIVATE CLUB

Within a radius of 80 miles are such cities as London, Hamilton, Brantford, Kitchener - Waterloo, Toronto, Galt, Guelph, Stratford, St. Thomas, as well as Wood stock.

"We have deer, partridge, woodcock, grouse, rabbit, ringneck and Columbia quail, a small Japanese variety," Smith says.

Great northern pike, muskies and smallmouth bass are to be found in the lakes. Two small trout streams running through the area will be stocked with brook speckled trout next season. Plans are also being made to introduce Atlantic salmon.

"But we're not going to make it easy for the average hunter," says Smith. "He's going to have to hunt for his game."

The preserve is being set up primarily as a private club with annual fees of $100 for both hunting or fishing, or $200 for both. Company memberships cost $500 each. Membership is limited to 100.

PHEASANTS BROUGHT IN

But the public will be able to hunt pheasant, rabbit and quail at a cost of $6.50 for each bird taken. Hunting all other types of game, as well as fishing, will be reserved for private members.

Although there will be no deer hunting this year, Smith hopes the department of lands and forests will permit it next year.

A modern two-storey chalet can accommodate 16 in Parlisleeping quarters. Meals are served overnight and up to 40 during the two-day hunting season.

STAND FOR HUNTERS

Within easy reach of many Western Ontario cities is the Herb Smith Game Preserve, 600 acres set aside for controlled pheasant shooting by hunters.

Map locates the two-section preserve, covering 600 acres between Innerkip and Woodstock, Ont., and another 200 acres farther east.

Hunters pay a fee to shoot game, mainly pheasants, on the preserve. It can be reached over paved Ontario highways (number-ed on the map) and by secondary roads (broken lines). (CP Newsmap).

Smith says he expects bitwees 1,000 and 1,500 pheasants to be shot this fall. The season opened Oct. 15 and ends Dec. 31. Birds were bought from breeders throughout Ontario. They were put in pens several weeks in a holding pen that can handle up to 5,000 birds.

Guides and dogs are available for those hunters who have none. Hunters may bring their own dogs.

A mile-long road has been built from the chalet into Round Lake where smallmouth bass, some perch and bluegills are found. For the duck season a small stream leading from Burgess Lake was stopped up and the lake allowed to spread. This draws ducks for feeding. Several blinds have been placed around the lake.

Fiberglass boats will be placed at the three lakes. No motorboats will be allowed.

To provide cover and cover for the birds, patches of corn, buckwheat and millet have been planted. A reforestation area has also been started with 5,000 spruce, balsam and pine.

Plane Plunges Onto Freeway, Five Are Killed

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — A small plane piloted by a Los Angeles businessman fought for more than an hour in the city sky in a rainstorm, then plunged on to a crowded freeway and exploded.

Authorities said at least five persons were killed. The plane, piloted by wealthy auto dealer Robert Yeakel, 41, burst into countless fragments near the east city limits of Ontario Thursday night.

Four cars were struck by the hurtling wreckage. Three of them were destroyed, witnesses said. One motorist was fatally injured. All four persons on the highway were killed.

Yeakel, who tagged himself "the lucky Dutchman" early in his business career, was a familiar figure on Southern California television. The main traffic artery from Los Angeles to inland cities to the east, Interstate 66, is about 45 miles east of Los Angeles.

Authorities said the victims, in addition to Yeakel, were his sons, Robert Yeakel, Jr., 17, and Jr., and business associate Joseph Taylor.

Jose Castanada, 48, an itinerant farm worker, was fatally injured when the wreckage hit his car.

Officials today still weren't sure that others hadn't died. Bodies were badly burned. They are making identification difficult.

Yeakel's Piper Comanche had been reported in trouble for some time. An hour and six minutes before the explosion, radio buffs clipped power lines on the outskirts of Pomona, darkening a large area.

Soviet Defences 'In Readiness' During Exercises

LONDON (AP) — Soviet defences were brought into a state of "constant readiness" during a recent NATO exercises off Greece to counter any attack by the United States warships in Turkey, the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star reported today.

"The adventurers of the Pentagon were warned that, in the event of aggressive activities, they would deal a decisive counterstrike," the paper added.

A Tass news agency summary of the Red Star article, broadcast by Moscow radio, said:

"Facts show that the U.S. ruling circles have not abandoned aggressive plans against the U.S.S.R. and that they are even now preparing new provocations.

"The U.S. command has decided to build in the Atlantic such an atomic submarine rocket-carrier called George Washington to arm the northern shores of the U.S.S.R.—allegedly for patrol duties.

"In fact the sending of this powerful vessel with a full load of Polaris rockets on board to cruise near the Soviet coast is dangerous playing with fire."

Chou En-Lai Denies Rift With Soviet

LONDON (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China denied in an interview Thursday night there is any rift with the Soviet Union and said the United States can have peaceful relations with China only if "it pulls out of Formosa and the islands."

The interview was taped in Peking and shown throughout Britain by the BBC.

Asked about reports in the West that Russia is worried about the rise of China's growing power, Chou replied:

"The socialist countries can not possibly be apprehensive of each other. Such common interest is to help and support each other for a common upsurge in economic construction, and continuously raise the material and cultural standards of their own peoples."

HAIR TURNED WHITE

LONDON (AP)—Horace Ford's black hair turned white after a bus he was driving and a truck collided in 1957. Awarding Ford £1,475 ($4,130) damages Thursday, the judge said: "He has had all the real enjoyment taken out of his life for the last three years." He is 32.

Presidential Election Race Produces Sharper Exchanges As Voting Day Draws Nearer

NEW YORK (CP)—The candidates in the United States presidential election race apparently have drawn up their battle lines and don't intend to change them before Nov. 8.

But the exchanges between them are definitely sharpening now as the day of decision draws closer.

A few new side issues cropped up Thursday as Senator John Kennedy, the Democratic party nominee, and Vice-President Richard Nixon, the Republican candidate, campaigned through the South and Southwest.

But the main issues were the same ones the opponents have pushed ever since the start of the race.

Kennedy, bouncing through Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma, belabored Nixon with one of the Republican's own campaign slogans: "Experience counts."

He ticked off a list of foreign-policy issues on which he said Nixon was wrong, then said:

"I think we need leadership that is better informed; leadership that is less complacent about the future; leadership that is more sound in its judgments. And we need leadership willing to face the facts."

He referred to crises that have developed in countries visited by Nixon.

"Mr. Nixon would like us to forget the fact that he did not foresee these crises or prepare to mend new policies or secure their adoption. But the American people will not forget for they know experience counts."

Nixon, on the sweep into North Carolina and Texas, again chided Kennedy for saying the economy was approaching an economic crisis.

"He may have more dollars than you have but you have a lot more cash than he has," he said during a Houston address.

"We must not follow the Pied Piper from Boston down the road to disaster."

In a prepared text of his speech, Nixon said United Auto Workers leader Walter Reuther would have a say in government if Kennedy was elected.

Kennedy was elected.

He stated:

"I can think of nothing more unfortunate for the future of this nation than for any president to owe his election to, and thereby be a captive of, a political boss like Walter Reuther. . . .

"He did not use the paragraph in his speech but his press secretary, Herbert Klein, said Nixon would stand behind the prepared text.

Evangelist Billy Graham was on the speaking platform for Nixon's South Carolina speech when the vice-president said Kennedy's remarks about the Republican position on social security constituted "one of the worst lies" of the campaign.

The Democrats have hit at the Republicans on this issue, saying they have only gone along with Democratic social security proposals because of the popularity of the laws.

On the same issue, Kennedy said: "I think the American people next Tuesday can best determine who is lying and who is telling the truth."

Nixon broached one of the new twists in the race, saying the U.S. was close to "a spectacular breakthrough" in intelligence that would change the entire phase type of observation. He did not elaborate but apparently was referring to a picture-sending satellite.

In Washington Thursday, there was a new air of optimism at Democratic headquarters. Kennedy as reports continued to come in from New York. Officials were highly pleased with Nixon's crowd-packed appearances there with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and vice-Presidential-candidate Henry Cabot Lodge.

Nixon enthusiastically erected reporters at his hotel before leaving New York by saying, "If the tide continues, I will win by one of the greatest landslides in our stories ever."

A number of political observers in Washington, however, expressed the view that Nixon's pressure Republican effort in New York so far has not changed the Democratic lead appreciably likely to carry the state.

Decision 'To Press Button' Causes Confusion In Britain

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Embarrassing confusion has been touched off by British agreement to provide a base in the Bahamas for U.S. missiles, a clear submariners.

The misunderstanding followed Prime Minister Macmillan's announcement in the House of Commons that facilities would be provided for Polaris-armed submarines at Holy Loch on the River Clyde.

Noting anxieties among the members, Macmillan stated that he was "perfectly satisfied that effective control over these missiles will ever be taken without the fullest possible previous consultation."

The word "possible" implied that circumstances might arise in which no consultation could take place, leaving the decision "to press the button" strictly in the hands of the Americans.

But the prime minister's statement surprised Washington and the American state department.

Immediately denied any commitment for consultation had been made.

The confusion focused attention on the problem of who will decide when to fire a nuclear missile.

Although there was no actual commitment in the agreement regarding the Holy Loch base, the U.S. and Britain are reported to have a gentlemen's agreement that neither will use nuclear weapons without consulting the other if there is time for consultation.

But, with the U.S. presidential election campaign in full swing, the American government dared not suggest that the British have any firm control over the mass of weapons the U.S. taxpayers have provided for the defence of their homeland.

And the British dared not admit that the U.S. has the independent capacity to trigger a nuclear war from British soil.

Joyce Davidson Right in Centre Of Controversy

TORONTO (CP) — Television star Joyce Davidson, criticized last year for letting it be thought Canadians were indifferent to the royal visit, is in the centre of another controversy.

Miss Davidson was criticized for remarks Tuesday night on CBLT-TV show "HO" when she said it was unfair to pool children's money for overseas aid, adding them raise money for UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund.

The news interview show is carried weekdays on the Toronto-Ottawa-Montreal CBC network.

Mrs. James E. Kelley, Jr., chairman of this year's UNICEF campaign in Metropolitan Toronto, protested Miss Davidson's remarks in a letter to Michael Hind-Smith, manager of CBLT-TV.

However, Miss Davidson said on the same show Wednesday night she did not want anyone to get the impression the program was criticizing UNICEF.

Mr. Hind-Smith said the station received 80 calls after the show. Twenty callers supported Miss Davidson's criticism.

Miss Davidson defended the UNICEF campaign and praised Percy Saltzman, also member of the show who supported it.

During the royal tour last year, Miss Davidson was criticized for saying on an American television network that Canadians are indifferent to this royal visit."

Police Head Gets $500,000 In Judgment

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A jury in state court Thursday awarded Police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan a libel judgment of $500,000 against the New York Times and four Alabama Negro ministers.

It was reported to be the largest verdict ever awarded by a jury in Alabama.

In awarding the police commissioner the money, the jury gave him the entire sum he had asked in his suit.

Lawyers for The Times said the verdict will be appealed to the Alabama Supreme Court.

The judgment was directed against the newspaper and the four Negro ministers collectively. What portion each defendant should have to pay if the judgment is upheld on appeal would be determined later.

The libel suit was filed by Sullivan as a result of an advertisement, which appeared in The Times last March 29 soliciting funds for the legal defence of Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

King, Negro integration leader, at that time was facing charges of falsifying his Alabama state income tax return and has been acquitted.

In his suit, the police commissioner contended the advertisement dealt with the handling of Negro college student demonstrators here last spring, subjected him to ridicule and shame.

The Negro defendants are Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy and Rev. Solomon S. Seay Sr. of Montgomery, Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth of Birmingham and Rev. J. E. Lowery of Mobile.

Congolese Want Belgians Back, Popularity of UN Administration Is Slipping

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — The popularity of United Nations operations in the Congo appears to be slipping fast enough to give the Congolese want the Belgians to come back.

This may appear broad in view of the events of last summer. First there were the anti-Belgian independence riots. Then there was the quick reaction of the UN to try to bring order to the former Belgian colony.

However, this new republic of 14,000,000 Africans obviously unprepared for self-government, the totally-unexpected often happens.

One high UN officer who gets around a lot in Leopoldville's African quarter and says he has his a finger on grass-roots thinking declared: "In less than a month they'll all want the Belgians to return."

Hundreds of Belgian settlers who fled the nation during the riots are returning and there are in the first days of independence. Many others have gone to re-open their businesses, shops and plantations. Their arrival portends an increasingly-prosperous and much-needed jobs and in Leopoldville, at least, relations between races seem happy.

The Belgians left in the belief the UN does not understand the Congolese who are sometimes malcontent, unreasonable in their day-to-day behavior.

The UN has some able men here who probably could accomplish great things if they had greater experience in The Congo and if there was a strong Secretary-General at the helm.

While not openly keeping Belgian friendship, the Congolese feel the UN does not encourage them in their independence. Is that one of its own in other countries for key technical assistance posts.

This means much time is lost while The Congo's new rulers are learning themselves with the Congolese's fun on 1,000 administrative problems created by a shattered economy, government administration, commerce and transportation system.

Progress has been slow. For example efforts to provide jobs for thousands of unemployed in the works program produced about 6,800 jobs by October. That hardly more than a chip off the solid block of hundreds of thousands of unemployed.

This may be one reason why the Congolese, including Katanga's Premier Moise Tshombe, now are saying they plan to recruit their own technical help—people who already know the country and its people. For Tshombe, who still has Belgians in his government and gendarmerie, this means getting more of them.

Another source of friction between the Congolese and the UN is inflation. The world body is pouring millions into the country, even paying its soldiers and civilians allowances in unconvertible Congo francs. Since the UN force members cannot take their money back home, they spend it all here. The effect is to boost business activity but, combined with scarcity of goods, the extra money is forcing prices up and low-paid Congolese workers are hurting.

Some Belgians, noting that the UN mission in The Congo is made up of Afro-Asian nationals, say the Congolese are getting their first experience colonial peoples.

FEAR NEW DOMINATION

Indian diplomat Rajeshwar Dayal is the representative of the UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. It often appears he is overcautious in interfering in The Congo's domestic affairs. Dayal refused to act, for example, after the UN refused to withdraw its guard around Premier Minister Patrice Lumumba to allow his arrest by army strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu.

The UN tries to be scrupulously fair. Dayal has said with regret that it calls "the man in the chair" of various Congo governments, departmental.

But it is this very kind of neutrality that angers the uncomprehending Congolese. Those in power like to use the UN force to crush their opposition, and the opposition wants to do the same thing to get back in.

Whichever way the UN jumps hardly more than a chip off the it lands on the bit seat.

Kennedy Reserves Kid Glove Treatment for U.S. President

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you judged the U.S. presidential candidates by what they've said of each other, you might get the impression that they are playing card sharks and the other a juvenile delinquent.

The kid glove treatment has been reserved for President Eisenhower. He's the one who's been in office during Democratic campaign himself Democratic presidential hopeful Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon, on behalf of Kennedy's promised policies that he "could think of no carnival confidence man selling a more phoney medicine to an unsuspecting public than Kennedy."

Kennedy has said not only that Eisenhower "is better at cut cards" before Nixon has but has represented the vice-president as a man who is "not the individual whose political "career has often been marked by a strong forward zone and mallee toward the left."

Nixon, to Kennedy, is the "trigger - happy" leader of a "reckless party."

RIPS INTO RECORD

Kennedy has made tipping into President Eisenhower's record one of his main occupations in the campaign.

But he has carefully avoided any such attack on the 34th president. This is not unusual. It's the type of tactic that Democrats use to lay off Eisenhower — even though belittling his administration's record whenever might cost him votes among admirers of the 70-year-old chief executive.

Eisenhower, once all his oratory is stripped away, is simply appealing to the voters to continue to trust his judgment to the extent of believing, when he says it, that Nixon would make a better president than Kennedy.

But Eisenhower, while phenomenally successful in getting himself re-elected twice, has never been so lucky in doing the same for his political colleagues.

Three times in a row—1954, 1956 and 1958 he campaigned for Republicans for Congress. Each time the voters ignored the Republicans and gave the Democrats control.

Frost Hoping Sales Tax Will Not Be Imposed

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost said Thursday he hopes Ontario can avoid imposing a sales tax but that there would be no alternative if the federal government refuses to get out of provincial tax fields.

In an interview, "I'm still hoping that we get an adjustment from the federal government in the tax fields unless we get our money from so that we can avoid this type of taxation.

"I think it is highly unfair that Ontario should be pushed into a sales tax when the province's share of the personal income or manufacturer's level would never be imposed in Ontario.

600-Acre Hunting, Fishing Oasis Reverberates to Crackle Of Gunfire in Autumn Days

INNERKIP, Ont. (CP)—The Herb Smith Game Preserve, a 600-acre hunting and fishing oasis in the heart of one of Canada's most densely-populated regions, is reverberating to the crackle of gunfire these chill autumn days.

Officially opened Oct. 15 but actually in operation since late September, the western Ontario preserve reflects a growing trend in thickly-populated areas toward controlled shooting where hunters pay for the right to stalk game within a limited territory.

Main attraction at the preserve, which surrounds two lakes and has fishing rights on part of a third, is pheasants. But every type of game animal and bird in Southern Ontario can be shot within the confines of the preserve, says Herb Smith, a resident of nearby Waterloo.

The preserve is set up in two sections. One is 400 acres located a little more than a mile south of Innerkip and about six miles northeast of Woodstock. The other is 200 acres, about four miles to the east.

PRIVATE CLUB

Within a radius of 80 miles are such cities as London, Hamilton, Brantford, Kitchener - Waterloo, Toronto, Galt, Guelph, Stratford, St. Thomas, as well as Wood stock.

"We have deer, partridge, woodcock, grouse, rabbit, ringneck and Columbia quail, a small Japanese variety," Smith says.

Great northern pike, muskies and smallmouth bass are to be found in the lakes. Two small trout streams running through the area will be stocked with brook speckled trout next season. Plans are also being made to introduce Atlantic salmon.

"But we're not going to make it easy for the average hunter," says Smith. "He's going to have to hunt for his game."

The preserve is being set up primarily as a private club with annual fees of $100 for both hunting or fishing, or $200 for both. Company memberships cost $500 each. Membership is limited to 100.

PHEASANTS BROUGHT IN

But the public will be able to hunt pheasant, rabbit and quail at a cost of $6.50 for each bird taken. Hunting all other types of game, as well as fishing, will be reserved for private members.

Although there will be no deer hunting this year, Smith hopes the department of lands and forests will permit it next year.

A modern two-storey chalet can accommodate 16 in Parlisleeping quarters. Meals are served overnight and up to 40 during the two-day hunting season.

STAND FOR HUNTERS

Within easy reach of many Western Ontario cities is the Herb Smith Game Preserve, 600 acres set aside for controlled pheasant shooting by hunters.

Map locates the two-section preserve, covering 600 acres between Innerkip and Woodstock, Ont., and another 200 acres farther east.

Hunters pay a fee to shoot game, mainly pheasants, on the preserve. It can be reached over paved Ontario highways (number-ed on the map) and by secondary roads (broken lines). (CP Newsmap).

Gaitskell Holds Labor Post But Foes Plan to Fight On

LONDON (AP) — Left wing Labor party rebels who want Britain to scrap nuclear weapons and its NATO alliance today sought new strategy to continue the fight after failing to defeat Hugh Gaitskell as party leader.

Gaitskell, a supporter of the government's general defence policy, kept the top party post by a 2 - to - 1 majority over left wing winger Harold Wilson in balloting by Labor members of Parliament. The 166-to-81 tally, the result of week-long voting, was announced Thursday night at the party caucus.

But even while Gaitskell was having a celebration dinner with his family, Wilson's supporters met to plan new moves.

The Daily Sketch reported that the rebels planned to form a splinter party, which would cut regular Labor ties, if Gaitskell went by nearly one - third. The paper said the left wingers would ask parliamentary leaders to treat them in future as a "second opposition."

ASKED FOR DEBATE

Such a move was hinted earlier by Emanuel Shinwell, a veteran member of the leftist group.

Shinwell and Sydney Silverman, another left winger, led an unsuccessful demand in the House of Commons for debate on a motion condemning the government's decision to provide a base in Scotland for U.S. nuclear Polaris-firing submarines.

The motion, backed by 40 left wing Labor MPs, also demanded removal of all U.S. bases from Britain. Speaker Sir Harry Hylton-Foster refused to accept the motion because it was not sponsored by Gaitskell and the official party leadership.

At one point Silverman declared Gaitskell had no right to speak for the party on defence matters. But in a small conference, held at Scarborough last week, Gaitskell adopted resolutions saying that Britain scrap nuclear weapons unless other nuclear countries do. Gaitskell took the view that Labor can win only if it chose the party leadership—and not compelled to follow convictions imposed by those not elected by the public, not by the party convention.

Father and Son Face Charges

SARNIA (CP) — Nicholas Jonkman, 20, and his father will face trial by judge and jury when he appeared with his father Monday on a charge resulting from a Hallowe'en fracas.

He and his father, John Jonkman, 45, are charged with intent to wound following an incident in which a shotgun was fired at John Vandermeer, Wayne Vervoorn, Frank Cap, Bob Shaw, Jim Vroom, Alex Vanderhoef and Tom Vanderhoef, all chard Wolsey and James Turnbull.

Young Jonkman will appear for a preliminary hearing Nov. 10. His father will appear the same day for election of trial and plea.

Meanwhile, officials at Sarnia General Hospital disclosed that Vandermeer son was released from hospital after treatment for 22 gun shot pellets in the face.

FIGURET
A.A.M. HUNTER

"See that car plate, Dad?" said Sam suddenly. "It's got the same five numbers in the same order, only our last figure is the eight."

"I thought you were asleep," His father chuckled. "We've been talking for miles, and there's something funnier still about his number. It's one more than twice ours."

Fun on the highway? Well, that's one way to stay awake. But what was the number of the car ahead?

Titans Can Take Lead

NEW YORK (CP) — Los Angeles Chargers, moving quickly after a slow start, have an opportunity to take over sole possession of first place in the western division of the American Football League tonight.

The Chargers, meeting New York Titans at the Polo Grounds, will seek to keep rolling a spirited offensive that enabled them to crush Boston Patriots 45-16 last week.

The Patriots take on Oakland Raiders in the other game on tonight's slate. Two games Sunday, Dallas at Buffalo and Houston at Denver, round out the week's AFL program.

The Titans, who have lost their last two, will be out to stop Paul Lowe, the Chargers' speedy halfback. Lowe turned in a spectacular, 76-yard scoring run against Boston and was a constant threat.

Birds Walker Led Pitchers In Batting

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Walker of Baltimore Orioles, a 189 hitter in 1959, led all major league pitchers in batting with a sizzling .368 average in 1960.

Walker, a switch - hitter, collected 14 hits in 38 times at bat, figures compiled by The Associated Press showed Thursday. He had two doubles and drove in three runs.

Walker shared batting honors with Don Cardwell and Detroit's Frank Lary. Cardwell, who played for Philadelphia and Chicago in the National League, had the most home runs among big league pitchers—five.

Lary, who hit only .182, led all pitchers in runs batted in with 12.

Baby Blues Take Title

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto Baby Blues completed an undefeated season in the Intercollegiate Intermediate Football League Thursday, downing University of Western Ontario Colts 17-13 for their sixth straight win.

The Blues, who withdrew from the league last season, clinched the league championship and the Shaw Trophy last week.

Blues took advantage of seven Western fumbles in gaining the win. They recovered all but one of the miscues.

Touchdowns by end Mike Holmes and Mike Meredith, a field goal by Phil Rimmington and a single by Jim Israel led the Varsity attack. The Blues scored all their points before Colts earned their first touchdown.

Plunges by Jim Weber and Gary Bent gave Western its two touchdowns.

Will Replace Madison Square
Plan Ultra-Modern Arena

NEW YORK (AP)—The owners of Madison Square Garden announced plans Thursday for a $35,000,000 ultra - modern 25,000-seat sports centre to replace the famous old arena by 1964.

Admiral John J. Berger, chairman, and Irving Felt, president, of Graham - Paige Corporation, which owns the garden, said they have three sites under consideration in New York City, each approximately three square blocks.

The new arena, using prestressed and post - tension concrete, would be oval in shape, with 80 per cent of the seats along the sidelines. Madison Square Garden seats about 17,000 but with the bulk of the spectators in the end zones.

Included in the planned complex would be a sports theatre seating 2,500, two other arenas with capacities of 2,000 and 1,000, a skating rink and an outdoor pool fitted for a plastic dome, a parking space for 2,000 cars, bowling alleys, and restaurants.

LAW REAL PLEASED

MERIDIAN, IDaho (AP)—The tall, slender, dark-haired young man pulsed, planned at the story again and said:

"I'm certainly pleased. That's real nice."

That was the reaction of Vernon Law, Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher, to the announcement Thursday that he had been chosen 1960 winner of the Cy Young Memorial Award, given annually to the player named as the outstanding pitcher in the major leagues.

Law is spending the off season at his suburban home near Boise, not far from his birthplace here.

N.Y. Yankees Name Weiss Gen. Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Hamey, 58, succeeded George Weiss, 66, as general manager of New York Yankees Thursday in the latest step of a youth movement that previously resulted in the firing of 70-year-old manager Casey Stengel.

Dan Topping, Yankee co-owner said Hamey would work on a year-to-year basis at his own request. No terms were disclosed but Hamey was believed to have settled for somewhat less than Weiss' reported $100,000 salary.

"I am not going to meddle with success," said Hamey, who spent 19 of his 36 years in baseball in the Yankee organization. "However, we intend to intensify our efforts in the procurement of new talent. You can't keep on winning pennants by making trades. You must develop your own."

Quebec Aces Win Over Buffalo 5-2

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces snapped their losing streak at four games by defeating Buffalo Bisons 5-2 Thursday night in an American Hockey League game.

Quebec scorers were Camille Bedard, Jean - Marie Cosette, Bob Barlow, Danny Lewicki and Alain Caron. Cec Hoekstra and Wayne Hicks counted for the Bisons.

Both teams went through the first period scoreless but Quebec took a 2-1 lead in the second period on the goals by Bedard and Cosette.

Buffalo counted once in the second and third periods, while Quebec added three others in the third. Both Buffalo goals came when Aces were shorthanded.

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Friday, November 4, 1960

League, received a misconduct penalty in the late stages of the second period for disputing a minor penalty to Frank Martin. Goalie Gerry McNeil of Quebec made 26 saves compared to 23 for Roy Edwards of Buffalo.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Welland Warriors took the withdrawal pitcher to the well once too often, as far as the Belleville McFarlands are concerned.

On receipt of the word the western division of the OHA senior league had called a meeting last night to re-open the interlocking games question, Gordie Bell was contacted on the matter.

The Macs coach was still mad. "We're not going to the meeting—and we're not interested in playing interlocking games with western Ontario clubs," he said. And he wasn't smiling when he said it, neither.

Asked regarding the hockey future of the McFarlands, Bell said he had been talking with Sammy Pollock, boss-man of the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens pro club, and Mr. Pollock told him he was trying to get the Macs an entry in the Hull-Ottawa senior amateur league.

That may sound a long way away, but actually the travel would not be as great, and in some cases much less hauls to the arenas of some of the Western Ontario clubs.

In the meantime the Galt Terriers, the fine guys that they are, will be honoring a moral obligation by playing the McFarlands here tonight.

When the McFarland management announced the club's withdrawal from senior OHA play in Galt the other night, the Terriers' executive immediately offered to come to Belleville and play the Macs tonight. Executive members like Messrs. Bardwell and Duvalle and team manager Les Gaudette, are fine men. They, too, were deeply disappointed over the actions of the Welland club and spared not a horse when they expressed their opinions of the situation.

Fans should not miss tonight's game. The admission prices have been changed to one dollar for reserved admission and fifty cents for children.

The Terriers are a well-balanced, fast-skating team with a half dozen ex-Kitchener Dutchmen on the lineup. Dutchies like "Butch" Martin, Don McGregor, "Boat" Murray, McKnight, Darrell Sly, Ted Maki, Wiggie Wylie and others round out a good squad.

The Galt team appeared to be in much better condition than the Macs the other night. They should be, they have been on skates four weeks and besides hard practice grinds have played three league games and an exhibition tilt.

A letter from Manager Gaudette this morning said: "We in Galt are truly sorry for the mix-up in the eastern division of the group. It is annoying to us here for we feel we have a real contender. We are also concerned about the Macs as we feel they, too, have an Allan Cup threat."

"In the opener here the other night we felt we were a bit lucky because of the fact our club was in better condition and the Macs hadn't yet found their new skating legs. Spectators here were thrilled by the brand of hockey served up by the two clubs and the fans of the Bay of Quinte area can be assured of some good battles when we come to Belleville Friday. As far as we are concerned we will be battling for two points.

"Messrs. McFarland, Gordie Bell and Keith MacDonald and everyone who has worked hard in Belleville to keep hockey alive, are to be commended on their efforts. You may be the farthest centre away from us, but Belleville has certainly the finest team and group of officials we have met so far."

Freddie Etcher and Davy Jones will furnish added strength for the Macs tonight. All-in all it looks like a tidy tilt and fans should not miss seeing the Macs in their first home action.

Beliveau's Hat Trick Withers Leafs

Wings Whip Bruins 8-5

DETROIT (AP)—The old-fashioned pep talk, or verbal lashing, still gets results. Especially when Jack Adams is doing the talking.

The Detroit general manager blistered the Red Wings Thursday night in what one veteran player called "a roadwire - to - hell speech."

The bellowing and shouting came between the second and third periods when the Wings were trailing Boston Bruins 5-3 in their National Hockey League game.

The Wings roared back with six goals in the third period—two short of their own league record for one period — and dumped the Bruins 8-5. The eight goal output was Detroit's biggest splurge since 1956. They had not scored that many goals against Boston since 1954.

Adams especially sits in the training room, behind the Wings' dressing room, between periods. But Thursday night he strode up and down the locker room, yelling at the players and saying they were "stinking up the joint."

IT'S A DISGRACE'

His said people were leaving Olympia Stadium because of the Wings' poor showing, adding: "It's a downright disgrace."

Some of the 8,777 spectators did leave after two periods. Many of them had been booing the Wings, who spent the first two p e r i o d s missing simple passes, passing the puck to Boston players and falling to the ice.

But the customers who stayed saw a fantastic explosion.

The win elevated the Wings to a third-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs, beaten 3-1 by the Montreal Canadiens.

It is likely that netminder Terry Sawchuk of Detroit will be benched for Sunday night's game here against New York Rangers. Coach Sid Abel was not happy with Terry's work Thursday night. Hank Bassen, who has a shutout and a tie in his only two starts, is expected to replace him.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

King Clancy, coach and assistant general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, said before Thursday night's National Hockey League game with Montreal that Canadiens' Jean Beliveau was the only guy who hasn't been playing up to his potential" this season.

"He'll start driving one of these nights—I hope it isn't today—and the whole team will start rolling."

Clancy was right on both counts. Beliveau started driving Thursday night, scoring three goals to lead Canadiens to a 5-3 win over the Leafs.

The starry centre counted all the goals in little more than 13 minutes of the first period and the win put his team at the top of the standings, one point ahead of Chicago Black Hawks.

AVERAGED A SHUTOUT

Toronto rookie Bob Nevin averted a shutout by notching Leafs' only goal at 15:11 of the third period.

In the only other scheduled game, Detroit Red Wings scored six goals in the third period to down Boston Bruins 8-5.

Norm Ullman and Gerry Melnyk scored two goals each and Parker MacDonald, Al Johnson, Gary Aldcorn and Warren Godfrey added singles.

Jim Bartlett scored twice and Gerry Ouellette, Don McKenney and Charlie Burns once each for Boston.

BEAUVEAU A SLEEPER

Beliveau, who has a reputation of being a "sleeper" until halfway through the season, has scored eight goals in 13 games this season for an average of .616 a game.

If he continued scoring at this rate he would chalk up 43 goals in 70 games—if he completes the regular league schedule.

This would be four goals less than his best season, in 1955-1956. If he improves on his latter part of the season he would need only 11 more goals to equal Maurice (Rocket) Richard's season-record of 30.

Knew Nothing of Meeting

Macs Seek Ottawa Entry

"The McFarlands were not represented at the meeting and I know nothing of what went on".

Coach Gordie Bell was referring to the meeting of the OHA senior league clubs at Woodstock last night.

A Canadian Press story of the meeting, which appeared elsewhere on the sports pages, said "Belleville would like up five games with clubs of junior "A" calibre to get their points to count in the standings".

When told of this, Bell said, "It is ridiculous. I know nothing of it. Mr. Ferland or Keith MacDonald was contacted."

MacDonald could not be reached this morning for comment.

Asked if negotiations were still going on with the Ottawa Valley Senior Hockey League, Bell said "I was talking with the league secretary this morning and was told to submit a formal application for entry in writing. This has been done."

Angered at the turn of events the other night in Galt when it was learned that Welland had dropped out of the league for the second time, Bell said MacDonald already announced the Macs would withdraw from the OHA senior league.

Bap Player For 5 Games

WINDSOR (CP)—Ron Bradd of Windsor N and D's of Ontario Hockey Association Junior B hockey league has been suspended for five games for deliberately cutting an Ont. 24 coutest at Detroit.

In the game between Windsor and the Detroit Junior Wings, Bradd allegedly swung his stick from his ice at a Detroit player who was sitting in the penalty box.

Kirk Scott and Doug Speecht of Windsor and Bob Libby of Detroit, who received game misconduct penalties in the same game, drew NO fines or single - game suspensions.

Als Claim New Defensive Tactics

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes leave for Ottawa today with a couple of new defensive wrinkles to spring against the Rough Riders in general and Ronnie Stewart in particular for Saturday's Big Four Football League semi-final.

Coach Perry Moss of the Als, interviewed Thursday, declined to discloss just what his club had in store for the Ottawa attack but he said the defensive tactics will be "varied and new."

It was believed the Als would either try to storm the Ottawa backfield with linebackers or shift the defensive halfbacks to bolster the corner linebackers on Ottawa's rushing plays.

Stewart gets off his best runs around the ends, evading the corner man to buzz into the clear in the secondary. The last time the two clubs met — here on Thanksgiving Day — Stewart scored four touchdowns and set a league record of 267 yards lugging the ball in a 31-26 win for Ottawa.

CLUB SEES FILMS

The Als had a 1½-hour field drill scheduled before leaving today and an hour-long session in the projecting room, the same routine the club has followed all week.

The game starts at 1:00 p.m., EST., with national television coverage by the CBC.

Guard Jackie Simpson and tackle Billy Shipp of the Als will return to the lineup. They sat out Montreal's last game to rest up.

Moss announced he has benched Bob O'Neill, defensive end, for the game Saturday. Either defensive halfback Wes Gideon or safety back Howard Cissell will also sit out to keep within the import limit.

Western Tail Wags Dog

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Teams in the Ontario Hockey Association's senior A western division agreed Thursday night to play 12 games in eastern division areas in an effort to keep the eastern circuit alive.

The five western division clubs were solidly against the move at the beginning of a stormy three-hour session here. The teams disliked the travel because it would mean tighter schedule arrangements and larger travelling expenses.

Woodstock, Chatham, Stratford and Strathroy will all pay one visit to both Galt, and Guelph. The points will "count in the eastern league standings only.

Windsor Bulldogs, the senior city try in the western group, agreed to play a home-and-home series with both Galt and Belleville. Here the points will still count only in the eastern league.

Len Gaudette, spokesman for the eastern league, said Galt and the other two clubs wanted new faces in their rinks in order to survive.

Plan New Golf Tourney

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A new golf tournament, with a $50,000 purse tag and a 72-hole entry, was added Thursday to the 1961 national program.

It's the Firestone Golf Classic, scheduled next Aug. 24-27 at Firestone Country Club's rugged 7,165-yard par-70 course where this year's PGA was staged.

The event, conceived as a climax to the championship season, will be an invitational affair restricted to about 100 professionals and one more than 20 amateurs.

The tournament will supplant the Rubber City Open, held annually from 1954 through 1959.

END RUN — James Rutherford (22) of Moira Secondary, pours on the steam as Bob Williams (52) and Robert Burr (21) of BCI close in to make the tackle. The action happened during the Junior COSSA championship game at Moira yesterday afternoon. (For another action picture see page eight).

BCI Juniors Win Title

BY PETER CARVER

Belleville Collegiate Institute Technical and Vocational School won the Quinte District COSSA Junior football championship by edging Moira Secondary School 12-6 in a close thrilling game yesterday.

BCI now meets the winners of the Lakeshore District for the COSSA Junior championship.

In the senior game BCI ran roughshod over a hapless Moira squad 38-0 in more or less an exhibition game.

JUNIOR GAME

Several times penalties to BCIVS blistered their scoring chances in a wide open and fast game. BCI's Larry Soule, undoubtedly one of the game's stars took a short pass from quarterback Bob Jeffery and legged the ball eighty yards to Moira's three yard line. A BCI penalty moved the ball back to the eight where the Moira line held for three ground plays.

A fumbled Moira pass behind the line of scrimmage proved costly as BCI covered the ball on their opponents twenty yard line. Good runs by Bob Burr and John Miller advanced the ball sixteen yards, and on the next play Burr plunged over for the major. Adam's convert attempt was wide.

Both teams recovered fumbles within their opponents thirty yard lines but could not score.

In the closing minutes of the half however, Moira threatened by jumping on a loose ball at the BCI five yard line. BCI's line held leaving the half-time score at 6-0.

Second-half penalties also proved costly as Lyle Adams took a pro pass and ran to Moira's ten but a penalty moved the ball back twenty yards, and BCI could not score. A good run-back on a punt gave BCI possession on Moira's twenty-five yard pass and on the next play BCI's speedy halfback Bob Ridley dashed over with what proved to be the winning touchdown. Again the try for the extra point was no good.

M.S.S. started to move in the final quarter as good runs by halfback Jim Rutherford and Colin Allenby advanced the ball to BCI's five yard line. Jerry Jones then skirted the end sweeping into the end zone untouched with Moira's only try of the game. The convert attempt was no good.

Moira had a good chance to tie or even win the game as a beautiful pass by Harold Moss just slid off Jerry Jones' fingertips. Jones was completely in the clear with no one near him. A BCI interception and a good run by Larry Soule brought BCI to Moira's five, but they were stopped by Moira's line as the final whistle sounded giving BCIVS the victory and championship.

SENIOR GAME

BCI took command from the first play in an occasionally sloppy game. Pete Weston moved the ball to Moira's 35-yard line on the tackle eligible play. BCI quarterback Patty Asselline booted the ball twenty yards for the first major. The convert attempt was no good. Gerry Hannah intercepted a Moira pass and ran to their five-yard line. Murray Hunter then went around the end for his first of three touchdowns. Again the convert was no good. This left the score at 12-0 in favor of BCIVS.

BCI opened up in the last half as John Grisham carried to Moira's twenty. Then BCI's bruising fullback William Lattimer charged ten yards up the centre for the touchdown. The convert attempt was blocked.

Hunter then took a twenty-five yard pass and scored his second major. This time Weston converted.

It was Murray Hunter once again as he charged around the end of the line for a thirty-five yard touchdown.

The tackle eligible play worked again as Weston drove to the fifty. Brian Nicholls then drove over with the final score of the game.

BCI's defence completely bottled up their opponents as Moira gained only two first downs and never threatened to score.

Moe Hunter had three touchdowns for BCI, Lattimer, Asselline and McKenzie were the other scorers. Pete Weston booted two converts.

Royals Tie With Petes; Teepees Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A third-period goal by Wayne Boddy Thursday night forced Guelph Royals to settle for a 6-6 tie with Peterborough Petes. But the tie was enough to give them the lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

In another game, St. Catharines Teepees, last year's Memorial Cup champions, scored their first win of the season, edging Hamilton Red Wings 7-6.

At Peterborough, Petes, third in the league with three points, outplayed Royals and outshot them most of the way. But Dennis Jordan was hard to beat in goal.

Royals led 3-2 after the first period, and 5-4 going into the third. They drew 18 of the 38 penalties in a fast, stiff-checking game.

Al Lebrun and Claude Larose drew majors for fighting late in the second period. Terry Oliver and Barc Plager went off for fighting in the third.

Boddy scored three for Peterborough, Doug Senior two, and Ray McKinnon one.

Guelph goals were by Bob Cunningham, Bill Gilmour, Paul Andres, Rod Gilbert, Jean Ratelle and Barry Jakeman.

Teepees won when them into a tie for sixth place with Hamilton. Niagara Falls and Marlboros.

Roger Crozier played an outstanding game in the St. Catharine's net. He was brilliant in the early stages when he turned back Hamilton while his teammates were surviving a shaky start.

John Brenneman, Paul Poole, Rick Pasnecker, Bruce Kellough, Murray Hall, Dennis Hull and Ed Megafin roared the St. Catharine goals.

Lyle Porter, Lowell Macdonald, Larry Jeffrey, Jim Dahmer and Bob Dillsbough scored for Hamilton.

Quinte Takes Senior Crown

BY BILL BURLEY

In a COSSA football game yesterday, Quinte Seniors won the Bay of Quinte championship by defeating Picton 44-6. Earlier Quinte Juniors shaded Picton out by a 13-1 margin.

SENIOR GAME

The senior game started with a long kick-off by Picton and Quinte brought the ball to centre field. Then early in the first quarter, Picton was forced to make a 3rd down punt. Bill Nicholson of Quinte received the ball and ran 11 yards, lateralled the ball to Larry Mills who also ran the Picton team for 32 yards and Quinte's first T.D. The convert was missed.

Picton then moved the ball up the field for 28 yards on a few ground runs. On a long pass from Dick Proctor of Picton, Rick Lee ran over the Quinte line for the TD and the tying points.

After the Picton TD kick-off, Bob Follwell of Quinte took to the air with two long passes to Latchford and Alec McNaught, who piled up a total of 61 yards. Once again Follwell passed to Latchford pulling it in and running for the major. Bill Green kicked the convert.

Picton was on the move again and Proctor started to let loose some long passes but Mills of Quinte intercepted one for the Quinte first down.

Follwell passed again with Green receiving and running 30 yards before he was brought down on the Picton eight. Latchford completed the play on a reverse, carrying the ball over the Picton line for the T.D. Follwell stayed in the air with Green pulling in the pigskin and running for the major. Unable to make the convert kick, Locke threw a pass to Green for the extra point. Proctor and Lee unfortunately ran two long passes for Picton and the Picton backfield started to get in on the action running long ground gaining plays. They were soon checked as the half time whistle blew.

Early in the second half Picton stopped all Quinte attempts for yardage and began to move up the field themselves. When Quinte finally got the offence. Locke took the ball on a slow play and ran through the defensive middle and over the line for the touchdown. The convert was checked.

On a Picton 3rd down punt Quinte receivers fumbled the ball and Picton lineman recovered for the first down. Picton began to march upfield where they were stopped at the 35 yard line. Both teams failed to move the ball.

Quinte broke lose once again and on a number of ground runs took the ball to the Picton six. Locke on a reverse from Follwell ran the unconverted major.

Picton backfiers made several good attempts to stop the Quinte runners but Quinte's other quarterback, Steve Thompson, took to the air with a 36-yard pass to Mike Stobbart, who ran for the T.D. to ended the game with Quinte defeating Picton 44-6 for the right to represent the Bay of Quinte at the COSSA playoffs November 11.

JUNIOR GAME

In the first quarter Picton began by pushing towards the Quinte goal line for a number of yards. But all attempts for a TD were knocked down by Quinte defence men. Both teams gained and lost yards on every other play as the clubs battled on even terms.

Then on a third down kick by Dale Coal of Picton, the Prince Edward team received a rouge for one point.

The second quarter started as the first with Picton slowly mowing up the field. With only minutes left in the first half, Bruce Symons of Quinte, ran a 35-yard ground play and was finally tackled on the Picton 45-yard line.

Then starting marching up the field and got to the Picton 11 yard line before play was stopped at half-time. The 3rd quarter was another deadlock.

Fisher of Quinte burst through a hole for a 15-yard run. On the next play, Fisher started to move again but was stopped on the three 10 yard line. After a number of unsuccessful ground plays, Picton took to the ball. Quinte linebacker Bill Burley intercepted a 3rd pass and carried to the Picton eight yard line. Fisher then on a pitchout and crossed the Picton ball on the major. He kicked his own convert. In the fourth quarter Picton once more displayed their strength by stopping Quinte back.

In the fourth quarter Picton once more displayed strength by marching Quinte downfield for 40 yards. Quinte held and the drive seemed to be at a standstill. With only minutes to play Picton were forced to kick. Fisher rushed through the Picton kicker and blocked; the attempt.

Burley received a pitch-out play to the Picton two-yard line where he was stopped. Fisher completed the play by running for the TD. The convert was blocked. Picton started moving rapidly towards the Quinte goal but time ran out with Quinte in front 13-1.

GOPHER BALL CHAMP

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Perry of Cleveland Indians served up 32 home run pitches during 1960 and is gopher-ball champion of the major leagues for the year. A record 34 home runs were hit by New York Yankee batters off his pitching.

Argos Get Sunday Game

TORONTO (CP) — The prospect of more money has led to a switch in the date for the Big Four Football Union's final playoff game here. It will be staged Sunday, Nov. 20, a day later than previously set.

The CBC, which had contracted with the league to televise regular - schedule and playoff engagements, announced Thursday night it had agreed to the change.

Toronto Argonauts, who ended the regular season in first place and received a bye into the two-game, total-points final, wanted the Sunday date.

They played most of their home games here this season on Sundays, drawing an average of more than 5,000 customers over their attendance for Saturday games. Lew Hayman, Argonaut managing director, said a Sunday skirmish would increase the league playoff pool by an extra $25,000.

The other clubs obviously went along with the proposition since a TV contract was involved the CBC had the last say.

The CBC said last week it would not change the date, in announcing the switch, a CBC spokesman said the corporation had not yielded to outside pressure. He said it was done for a variety of reasons."

"Among them were approaches by the Toronto Argonauts and other organizations, and other events requiring 'remote' coverage, such as the Santa Claus parade, the Royal Winter Fair jumping contests and a National Hockey League game in Toronto on Saturday."

Another factor was the threat of a big traffic jam, with both the Royal Winter Fair and the football game being held in the Toronto exhibition grounds.

Argonauts meet either Ottawa Rough Riders or Montreal Alouettes, who clash in Ottawa Saturday in a sudden - death semi-final.

All the playoff games will be carried on the CBC's English TV network. Saturday's semi - final, to start at 1 p.m. EST, and the first game of the final will be subject to local blackout restrictions. But the restrictions will be lifted for the Toronto game, set for 1:30 p.m. EST.

FIGHT NEARLY SET

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson said Thursday a third title fight with Sweden's Ingemar Johansson is "90 per cent set" for some time between next January and March. The likely sites are Miami or Los Angeles if the fight is held outdoors and New York if held indoors, he said. An indoor bout is remote possibility.

Joe Brown Named Boxer Of the Month

PROVINCE, R.I. (AP)—Lightweight champion Joe Brown was named boxer-of-the-month in the National Boxing Association's monthly ratings issued Thursday.

Brown set a record of lightweight title defences—six—when he defeated Cisco Andrade Oct. 28.

Runners up for the honor were Terry Downes of England, for outpointing Joey Giardello; Guillo Rinaldo of Italy, for his win over Archie Moore, and Jorge Fernandez, for defeating Denny Moyer.

Only one Canadian was included in the list, Bob Clerour of Montreal who was ranked No. 8 contender in the heavyweight division.

Moore, stripped of his light-heavyweight title because of his failure to defend, was rated 10th in the heavyweights.

"Archie has been weighing well over the class limit of 175 pounds and his defeat by Rinaldi weighed in at 190½, failing to make the contracted 185 pounds to the pain of a $10,000 forfeit loss," said Tony Petrocelli, committee chairman.

Partial list of ratings:

Heavyweight: champion, Floyd Patterson; 1. Sonny Liston; 2. Eddie Machen, 3. Ingemar Johansson.

Lightheavyweight: championship vacant; 1. Harold Johnson; 2. Chic Calderwood; 3. Eric Schoepoerer.

Middleweight: champion, Gene Fullmer; 1. Gustav Scholz; 2. Joey Giardello; 3. Paul Pender.

Welterweight: champion, Benny Kid Paret; 1. Luis Rodriguez; 2. Frederico Thompson; 3. Ralph Dupas.

AT THE PARK — U.S. Marines recreate the landing on the island of Saipan for "Hell to Heaven", story of heroic pfc. Guy Gabaldon, credited, with taking more prisoners than any other one man in U.S. military history. These scenes were filmed in Okinawa. The Atlantic Pictures production for Allied Artists stars Jeffrey Hunter (as Gabaldon), David Janssen, Vic Damone, Patricia Owens, Sessue Hayakawa, John Larch, Richard Eyer and Miiko Taka. This war drama is held over now at the Park Theatre, Belleville and the Century Theatre, Trenton in its first district showings. Show times tonight are 7.00 and 9.30.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Hooker, a three-year-old gelding owned by the Biddle Bar Farm of Toronto and ridden by 54-year-old Pat Remillard, won the featured Sun Parlor purse at New Woodbine, Thursday. Hooker defeated Admiral Athena by one-half length while the latter finished a neck in front of Eloro the Great.

It was Hooker's third win of the season. He has finished first in five races but lost two through disqualifications. Remillard twice has suffered a broken finger when the bull-headed Hooker has made an unexpected lunge during the running of a race.

Hooker paid $4.70, $2.90 and $2.20 as he ran the mile and one-sixteenth in 1.47 4 - 5 on a muddy track.

TORONTO (CP) — The mares and fillies will be in the spotlight at New Woodbine Saturday when the autumn racing program will be highlighted by the $7,500 Stakes Handicap and the $7,500 Shady Well Stakes.

The Shady Well is a dash of seven furlongs for two - year-old fillies and the Tatting Handicap is a run of one mile and one furlong for "bigger girls."

Belle O McClure, owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reuben's Misty Hour Farms, of Toledo, Ohio, is the probable favorite in the Shady Well Stakes. The American 'hvader won the $10,000 Grey Stakes Oct. 22.

Belle O McClure inched Quillopoly, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Hamford sporsman. One hundred members of The Quillopoly Marching and Cheering Society are coming from Stratford to give moral support to Hood and his filly Saturday.

Lancaster Has Clicked With Riders

OTTAWA (CP)—Crew-cut Ron Lancaster has come a long way since he stepped on the scene of star quarterback Russ Jackson and found they fitted.

Ottawa football fans all but trembled when Jackson, 22-year-old 180-pounder named the outstanding Canadian player last year, hurt his shoulder in an early game.

Lancaster, 21, who came here from little Whitewater College in Springfield, Ohio, was only starting his first year with the Ottawa Rough Riders and his league football.

But Lancaster clicked right away, guided the Riders and showed Ottawa fans they had two first-string quarterbacks.

As proof of how well he clicked, coach Frank Clair has announced he will start at quarter Saturday when the Riders meet Montreal Alouettes here in the sudden-death Big Four semi-final for the right to meet Toronto Argonauts in the final.

But Jackson, still as much a star as before, will be on hand to jump in when needed.

"It depends on how the game goes, of course, but we expect to throw Russ at Alouettes fairly often," said Clair.

Lancaster is essentially a passer; Jackson, a gifted runner, stresses the running game off the option play.

When Lancaster's system failed to click in a game, Jackson tried his and one or the other usually worked.

Boris Karloff Arriving At 50th Year as an Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Arriving at his 50th year as an actor, Boris Karloff has this to say:

"It's amazing! Imagine me, at my age—still active in my profession and commuting 12,000 miles to work! I must be the luckiest man in the world."

That's Karloff, one of Hollywood's nicest paradoxes. The archtype of horror ever since he played the tailbrowed monster in Frankenstein, he has remained the gentlest of gentlemen.

He was working on the Phantom Stage, so named because Phantom of the Opera was filmed on it.

"I worked on this stage many a time," he said. "Most of the Occasionals were shot on this Stage 12, but some of the scenes were done on the Phantom Stage. This lot holds many memories for me."

MARRIED IN B.C.

Karloff, a native of London, started on the stage at Kamloops, B.C., playing a villain.

I wondered if all the memories were pleasant ones. After all, he was and is a polished performer, yet the general public sees him in the image of the hulking, brainless monster.

"He worry about type casting?" he asked. "Good heavens, no! The monster was the best friend I ever had. I only played him three times, so I wasn't stuck with him.

LIKES TV

"Certainly I was typed. But what is typing? It is a trade mark, a means by which the public recognizes actors who work all their lives to achieve that. Companies spend millions of dollars to establish trade marks. I got mine with just one picture. It was a blessing.

"So I am typed in the thriller category. That's not a bad department to be in."

The Karloff trade mark made him the logical candidate to host the new BC series, Thriller. To perform his duties, he engages in a rigorous schedule for any person, much less a 73-year-old. He lives in London, works in Hollywood.

'One Step Beyond' Renewed For Another 13-Week Period

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Producer-director-writer-actor with a keen interest in dollar Young and Young wanted to John Newland disagree on the produce a TV program but not reason their ABC series about a western or private-eye series. psychic phenomena, One Step Beyond, has been successful.

It now is in its third season and the sponsor has just renewed for another 13-week period.

"I think that it's the ultimate in escape," said Young. "Much more so than adventure or mystery programs."

"And I think that audiences like it because almost everybody has had some experience with psychic phenomena in their own lives," said Newland. "We get about 500 letters a week from people volunteering their own experiences and I think thousands of others appreciate the show because they had thought their own experiences were unique—and odd."

WAS A CYNIC

The show started in 1958, mostly because Newland, a successful real-life incidents in the area.

It'll turned out, was interested in extra-sensory perception and similar subjects. Newland is more or less believed there is something to it; Young was a cynic.

"But we had a hard time selling it," Newland said. "Some sponsors thought such a series would bring objections from religious groups, others were afraid the American Medical Association would complain."

The program was bought, however, by a metals manufacturer, who asked only that host Newland in his introduction and closing avoid stating absolutely that the phenomena exists: "I just say that these are the facts and leave the viewers to make up their own minds."

The program is a dramatization of documented, researched

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, November 5

General tendencies: Most everyone wants to deal about doing errands, paying visits, handling matters in a very ingenious and inventive manner, which is excellent. Fine day also for sales and purchases and for whatever requires a combination of manual dexterity and mental alertness. Make sure you really finish anything that you start now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Morning is fine for gaining through proper handling of statements, reports, etc. Then call upon those who can be helpful in the furtherance of your career, come to better understandings. You can have enjoyable time with good friends.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Every opportunity is yours now for making improvements to property that will increase its value and be far more comfortable to live in. Plan wisely and get an early start. P. M. be sure you take health treatments you need. Don't procrastinate.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Make the most of this fine day. First take health and beauty treatments you need, then off to the activities you like the most, sports, shopping, visiting and the like. P. M. A wonderful time can be had socially. Be dynamic, charming.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You can get those personal affairs handled nicely today and put intimate duties behind you quickly. Then see how you can be helpful to close kin. P. M. take the time and kind to those who are invalids or are unhappy. Be generous.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You have nearly forgotten good comrades lately in the hustle and bustle of work and social activity. Be sure you get together with as many as you can today and show your devotion. P. M. ripe for sociability and entertaining happily.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — You can do a great deal to help out where civic affairs are concerned — see that you make the effort today. Also, take care of your credit affairs. P. M. dine out at some lovely place where the atmosphere is good. Have fun.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — Make it a point to take a little trip to some fascinating spot you have never visited before. Plan to take in some delightful sport. Meet fascinating people, not neglecting foreign — born who are lonely.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Daytime is best spent planning more modern methods for your daily activities so that you can be more efficient and derive greater profits from your efforts. P. M. be in company of loved one and come to far better understanding.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — The ideal day to know what your exact position is with others and to have conferences that will lead to a far better understanding between you. P. M. put dull care aside and enjoy yourself at dinner parties, etc.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) —You can easily put behind you all those accumulated little matters that nonetheless important. Get'an early start. P.M. be sure you go out and have fun with good friends. Entertain and be generous — you can't take it with you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This can be a most enjoyable day, if you will just make the effort to get off that easy chair and round up your friends. Then off to the good times that will be enjoyed by all. However, do not foot the whole bill — just do your part.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — There are many things that require your personal attention between home and family are concerned. So, be sure you get into the spirit of things and accomplish a great deal. Strive for better understanding with close kin.

If your child is born today — he, or she, will be a born salesperson, since there is quick understanding of the needs and thoughts of others and a glib tongue, to boot. However, you must early teach your progeny to finish any task or project once started before going on to the other. Once this lesson is learned, then the chart can be a most successful and happy one. Be sure you give your child a good education, especially in budgets matters.

REPEATS OFFER

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal offer to pay half the labor costs for building picnic grounds and camp areas is being repeated in the provinces for the fourth year. Resources Minister Dinsdale announced Wednesday. The federal government as usual will pay half the labor bill for such work between Nov. 1 and April 30 next year as a winter-work program.

With a 23-Point Lead

Eskimos Are Confident

CALGARY (CP) — Calm and cautious people like Eagle Keys and Steve Owen know it takes a mixture of a lot of things to produce a 2-point victory in a professional football game.

And therefore the respective coaches of the Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders, who had briefly thrown caution to the winds prior to Wednesday night's meeting of their clubs, reversed their fields in post-mortem analysis Thursday.

Keys and Owen had been very great in defeating Calgary 20-7. But the Eskimos, he said, would have to play "another good game" or the Stampeders could come back to win the two-game total-point series and go on to the Western Interprovincial Football Union finals against Winnipeg.

Owen hedged a little and decided to stay at least the team hadn't lost yet.

The consensus in Calgary was, however, that the Stampeders would find it difficult even to duplicate the second half Wednesday night when they threw caution to the winds and literally danced circles around the Eskimos.

Owen commented after the game that the Eskimos had done nothing new, but a lot of things better than usual.

And the Stampeders, he said, "just weren't covering the way we're supposed to cover."

If the club was to come back, he suggested, it would have to concentrate on moving the ball on it did briefly in the second half at Edmonton, and quit fumbling as it did all night.

Late injury reports Thursday didn't add much color to the Stampedar picture. Although tackle George Hansen was probable for the game after examination of a bruised leg, doctors said Arnie Weinmeister-Nick would not be able to play and the other starting end, Bill McKenna was doubtful.

Wartick aggravated a partial shoulder separation and McKenna injured an ankle.

Halfback Don Morris, a standout in Calgary's march to the playoffs, was to spend Thursday night in hospital for observation. He reported suffering dizzy spells after making a jarring tackle in Edmonton.

Fullback Normie Kwong was the only Edmonton casualty and he may play despite a pulled muscle in his chest.

Napanee, Trenton

Win Volleyball Honors

Napanee and Trenton schools split top honors in the COSSA Bay of Quinte Valley junior volleyball tournament at OSS yesterday, claiming the two-day crown that covered both "A" and "B" schools for the district.

Napanee captured the senior crown, defeating Trenton by scores of 9-7 and 15-13 in the finals games, after the two schools had won all their earlier bills.

Behind Napanee and Trenton, who will both be represented in the COSSA tournament, Picton and Milford.

Trenton gained revenge in the junior series by defeating Napanee 15-11 and 13-9 to win the junior championship. Picton, third, followed by Quinte, Picton and Moira Secondary School.

OSD superintendent, G. Lawrence presented the championship trophies to the Napanee and Trenton teams.

Mary Lalanski, girls' physical education teacher at OSD, convened both the "A" and "B" tournaments. She was assisted by Miss Lalanski, girls' physical education teacher at OSD, convened both the "A" and "B" tournaments. She was assisted by Mrs. Dresden era presented the championship trophies to the Napanee and Trenton teams.

Sunday School Lesson

The Integrated Personality

By ROY L. SMITH

It is not that the psychologists have discovered so many new principles; but it is that they have invented an entirely new vocabulary.

They talk about "draining the mind," and our fathers talked about "making a full confession unto God." They speak about the "integrated personality" and our fathers heard preaching on the subject of "the forgiven soul."

THE STORY OF THE PSALM

No one knows, precisely, when the 32nd Psalm was written, but once we have stripped it of its ancient verbiage and translated it into the lingo of the consulting psychologist, it sounds very modern.

Some disaster, it seems, has overtaken the Psalmist which he can interpret in only one way. Nothing can explain his misfortune except that he has, in some way been a great sinner. As a result, God is outraged.

At first he refused to admit his wrong doing, and brazenly defied God. As a result matters grew worse. Finally, in desperation, he confessed his guilt. At once he experienced a great peace, he had a sense of release, and soon he found his health returning. Then turning evangelist, he urged all those with whom he came in contact to follow his example and experience the joy that had come to him.

THE GUILT COMPLEX

Religion and psychology have at least one thing in common. Both have to deal with the question of guilt complex.

It is a common thing for pastors to have people come to them in great distress over trifles. "I know this must sound just a little silly to you," the sufferer is apt to say, "but it is very real to me, and I have to have help."

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 6, "CONFESSION AND FORGIVENESS." Psalms 32. 51. Luke 1374; 15: 11-32.

Whether the guilt complex is a result of a serious offense against good morals, whether it is a product of some trifling matter, or whether it is the product of pure imagination (and some guilt is imaginary), it all requires the same general type of treatment. The "sinner" must be convinced that his sin is "forgiven."

It was commonly believed among the ancients that "sin," in some form, was responsible for all suffering. Modern psychologists are well aware of the fact that the knowledge of wrong doing has a way of disrupting life and inducing a long chain of physical as well as mental reactions.

Relieving the sense of guilt is as effective in restoring physical health as it is in restoring mental poise and peace.

UNCONFESSED SINS

No man suffers any more than one does who goes every day with the burden upon his mind of wrongdoing. "I'm glad it's over," exclaimed the fugitive who surrendered meekly when he found himself surrounded by the police. "Being a prisoner cannot possibly be any worse than being pursued by such a memory as mine. I have never been able to get away from it, night or day. Maybe now that I'm caught I can live it down!"

THE POINT OF COLLAPSE

In the first world war, shell shock" and the medical corps despaired of ever being able to restore the victims to completely normal life. In the second world war they called it "battle fatigue" and the psychiatrists developed a few techniques that promised some measure of restoration. In the Korean war the newspaper correspondents gave it the name of "brainwashing," and then someone discovered the Pavlov had blazed the trail in experiments with dogs in which he had formed the phrase, "conditioned reflex."

In each instance, however, the point of beginning is called "the point of collapse." The scientists are agreed that every human being, except the insane, can be brought to that point. And it is at that point that healing or destruction begins.

In the hands of the brain-washers the personality is changed by the implantation of a new set of ideas and patterns which leads to destruction. In hands of good religion the personality is restored by the assurance of the forgiving grace and good will of God. Thereafter a new life begins.

The history of Christianity is replete with the stories of the guilty who have come to the point of collapse, and who have returned as redeemed men and women.

Wide Privileges Granted Convicts In New Measures

Work Day Lengthened And More Leisure Time

OTTAWA (CP)—The complexion of the federal penal system is undergoing a gradual change.

Latest attempts at improvement were announced Friday by Justice Minister Fulton. Some of the measures grant wide new privileges to convicts. Others will radically change prison attitudes. Rehabilitation efforts will be stepped up.

Mr. Fulton told the new regulations and programs do not mean mollycoddling the inmates. He said they are new measures of discipline.

Convicts who are now locked up for 16 hours a day will be faced with nothing to do but brood. They will be allowed to associate with fellow inmates in evening groups. They will take part in sports or discussions, join choirs, see movies or television.

The present seven-hour work day is being lauched. It is designed to help the convict buy something, fill chests, and begin a new sense of responsibility in a job well doing—as well as to make the federal institutions self-supporting. Convicts now work about three hours a day at work and the rest of the day back in his or counted.

WILL ENTER AREA

Each new convict entering a penitentiary will undergo a reception area, where he will remain for about three weeks. This system has two objectives:

1. The convict will be "diagnosed" by the use of psychological tests to determine his character, his educational level, vocation and background will be studied. He will be interviewed by psychologists—or, if necessary, by a psychiatrist.

He then will be classified for a certain training program and a certain type of institution. Continuing classification will ensure that the convict advances steadily if he responds properly, if he defies the system, it's back to the cooler again.

As each convict's term nears its end—both when he is paroled—he will go through a pre-release program designed to familiarize him with the social and community life from which he came, or to which the courts.

RELEASE GRADUAL

It will be a system of gradual release. Inmates will be allowed to go "outside" for dinners in rural homes. They will be permitted to attend movies or a hockey game occasionally. They will train dog classes, will be allowed to interview employers, and in some cases will be able to work outside — returning to custody at night.

"We are convinced of the value and the necessity of this program," Mr. Fulton told a press conference. "It already has been tried experimentally in a few penitentiaries with success. We intend in step up the program as rapidly as we can."

The system of reception and classification at Kingston will be started in a limited way. Mr. Fulton said it will become a major feature in the penitentiary system as soon as facilities and personnel permit.

NEED BUILDINGS

One of the big delays will be in the fact that considerable additions to which to send the new convicts and those progressing from the old, fortress-type maximum security institutions of the type at Kingston and St. Vincent de Paul, Que.

Mr. Fulton indicated that construction of these new facilities will be undertaken as part of the program. He did not estimate the cost but promised more detail the institutions to be built.

Judge Says TTC Entertainment Costs too High

TORONTO (CP) — A senior county court judge's report condemning as excessive the entertainment expenses of the Toronto Transit Commission brought a call from the mayor of Toronto Friday for any misspent money to be recovered by the Metropolitan Toronto Council.

But the transit body's vice-chairman said the judge's opinions "cannot hold water."

Judge Robert Forsyth, appointed by Metro council to conduct a judicial inquiry into the TTC expenses, held that the commission has no express authority to authorize expenses for entertainment or travelling.

He directed the entertainment bill as far in excess of the reasonable requirements of a publicly-owned monopoly.

"NOT EXPLAINED"

"How the expenditure adds anything to the TTC revenues is not explained," he said.

Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto immediately demanded that Metro council take legal action to recover any misspent money.

"This is the worst of the taxpayers and the transit riders," the mayor said.

One of Mr. Phillips' three opponents in this year's mayoralty race is Allan Lamport, vice-chairman of the transit commission.

Mr. Lamport's immediate reaction was that the judge's opinions "cannot hold water, because there is no basis for comparison with other commissions and boards generally."

CALLS IT WITCH HUNT

"The TTC has staged out for special attention by Metro as part of a political witch hunt," he said.

Mrs. Jean Newman, another candidate for the Toronto mayoralty, said the report emphasizes the need for a complete reconstitution of the transit body.

Metro council Chairman Frederick Gardiner said Metro council executive will consider any recommendations of the report based on the report and present its own suggestions to the council Nov. 15.

Arrest Two Men Carrying Guns Near Kennedy

CHICAGO (AP) — Two men carrying guns were approached by police from motels anywhere in advance and abreast of Senator Kennedy's motorcade parade Friday night through Chicago's Loop.

A platoon of security guards wrestled one of the men to the ground. An officer said he got behind him jogging along with the crowd in front of Kennedy's motor open convertible.

"When I got him," patrolman Vincent Moretti said, "he put his hand in his pocket and started to run. I think Castle has more than about 20 officers jumped him."

A loaded automatic was found in his pocket.

The man was seized as Kennedy approached the Chicago Stadium to address a huge rally.

Just an hour earlier, police grabbed a man carrying a revolver in a brown paper bag as he tried to get past gate attendants at the auditorium.

Both men said they were carrying the guns for protection and denied they intended to harm Kennedy. Police said each would be charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

ANGRY COUNCIL SEEKS LOOPHOLES IN ANNEXATION

Merriton Votes To Hire Experts

MERRITTON (CP) — An angry Merriton council Friday night voted to hire legal experts to look for a loophole in the Ontario Municipal Board proceedings that resulted in an order for the amalgamation of St. Catharines, Merriton, Grantham township and Port Dalhousie January 1.

Mayor William McIntosh said every effort will be made to find an error which can be questioned.

Merritton solicitor Stewart McInnes approved of council's action but explained that an appeal to the Ontario Court of Appeal can be entered only on points of law or jurisdiction. He said he doubted whether the municipal board had made any errors, but though other lawyers might find a point he missed.

A special council meeting was called to consider the decision of the provincial cabinet body Wednesday (Nov. 2).

"This is the loudest thing that ever happened in Ontario," said former reeve Leonard Hoare. "One of the ratepayers in the crowd the meeting. "Even the crummiest criminal has the right to a day in court. The 8,000 people of Merriton don't."

OTHERS PLEASED

Mayor Walter Gall of St. Catharines and Reeve Ivan Burgoyne of Grantham township, however, both expressed pleasure at the cabinet decision.

Port Dalhousie said he felt amalgamation will mean everything.

The merger will boost St. Catharine's population to 84,000 from its present 41,000. Premier Frost, Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender said Friday they felt nothing was to be gained by reopening the issue through another OMB hearing.

A citizens' committee in Merriton, local point of opposition to the proposed merger, had expressed concern about the possibility of tax increases if amalgamation were approved. The board's decision said tax adjustments are inevitable.

The Heart of a City

The heart of town! Familiar phrase, that. But where is it? What picture does it call to mind?

The roaring traffic boom? Thronged streets? Bustling pedestrians parading past busy stores?

Good answers these. The material heart of town is its business district. There, more accurately than in any other section, one feels a town's pulse, quick or slow, lively and progressive or tired and dying.

But there is another heart to every town, the heart that does not provide the lifeblood of its commerce so much as set the tone of the emotional atmosphere—friendly and neighborly or aloof and cool, a heart which knits many homes into one community or which leaves each lonely house to stand by itself.

The two hearts should beat as one—at a pace at once warm and lively, creating a town which is both friendly and prosperous.

That is the picture we like to carry of our home city. But there is today sad proof that Belleville's two hearts are not beating as one. The Appeal, faced with the admittedly difficult but by no means impossible task of raising $80,000 to finance the work of eleven local agencies, reports returns satisfactory from almost every section of the canvass except the commercial section.

Payroll giving is above last year. The results of the residential canvass, not yet complete, show the quota exceeded. Professional men have responded well when canvassers have called. Corporations with head offices located outside the city have been generous.

But some of the city's commercial firms and their employees have not shouldered their share of the responsibility for caring for the needs of our less fortunate citizens.

Surely, nothing more is needed to remedy defect than to state it and it should not be necessary to remind everybody that this appeal is not for one organization but for eleven. Surely, those who may not be in complete sympathy with the work of one or more of the member organizations will not for this flimsy reason penalize all of them.

Surely Belleville's two hearts can get in step, can beat with a single rhythm which denotes a healthy, happy, prosperous town. Let each one of us bear our fair share of contributions to the United Appeal and help to place our city in the ranks of other communities which have met the challenge successfully.

Members to Vote On All-Canadian Railway Union

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the 8,000-strong Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen of Canada will vote this week on whether to set up an autonomous all-Canadian union, the brotherhood's general chairman said Friday.

W. E. Gamble said a vote had been authorized by the International executive board in Cleveland "as a second-rate politician" who should not be exploiting Eisenhower's "remaining energies", in his bid for election.

Nixon called Kennedy a "Jackie-come-lately" and the "candidate of the radicals and economic policies "represent the smallest base any politician has ever tried to foist on the American people."

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, Kennedy's running mate, ignored Nixon's jeers at Democrats and turned up at a rally at Dallas,

It Looks to Him Like Murder Finch Trial Judge Tells Jurors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jurors are still divided, but the judge has told them in a taut voice it is time to vote on the Finch trial that he believes a murder was committed and he doesn't believe the story Dawson.

As they opened their 17th day of deliberation at the second trial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff Conroy, the jurors had three electrifying developments behind them:

1. Superior Court Judge Dawson, interrupting deliberations Friday, told them Russia and Communist China—were threatening to intervene in Algeria, he warned.

De Gaulle's speech disclosed that he no longer believes it possible that Algeria can remain a part of France — the Algeria Francaise dismantled by rightists who twice have staged rebellion

UNION OFFICIAL BROKE PROMISE SAYS WITNESS

Outside Support Of Strike Not Given

QUEBEC (CP) — A former union steward testified Friday a union official broke a promise for outside support to the United Steelworkers of America in its bitter seven-month strike against the Copper Rand Limited in Murdochville, Que., in 1957.

Abraham Arsenault, 41, said Marcel Sauve, USWA representative at Noranda, Que., promised support to the Murdochville strikers, saying the Noranda local would not sign a labor contract in a 111/ Murdochville had signed one.

But, said Arsenault, a month after the start of the Murdochville strike, the Noranda local, representing workers at Noranda Mines, Limited, signed a contract. Noranda Mines is the parent company of Gaspe Copper Mines.

Arsenault's testimony came in the company's $1,500,000 suit against the USWA. One of the issues is whether the parent union is responsible for its locals' actions.

SOMEONE LIED

Arsenault said someone lied to him.

"You're the biggest liar in Murdochville," he said.

For this, he said, he was kicked out of the union.

Earlier Arsenault quoted union representative Jean Gerin-Lajoie as saying the strike was given the go-ahead by the USWA headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa.

He said that at the meeting on March 15, 1957, when the strike was declared, Bedard said he had the "approbation" of Pittsburgh and a guarantee of "full support."

Lawyers maintain that contacts committed during the strike were defended and approved by the local level and therefore the parent union is not responsible for damages. Company lawyers claim the USWA directed the strike and is responsible.

Trucking Firms Against Subsidy For Railways

OTTAWA (CP) — An all-out battle is planned by Canada's trucking industry to block any federal subsidy to the railways to avert a possible country-wide rail strike, a trucking spokesman said Friday.

Charles Magee, executive secretary of the Canadian Trucking Associations, said a massive counter - attack is taking shape within the trucking industry in the event the government decides to subsidize a wage settlement between the railways and the 120,000 their 111,000 "non-op" workers.

"We are opposed to the principle of fantastic government handouts for Canada's railways," Mr. Magee said.

Mr. Magee was commenting on a Financial Post report that the government may pay a temporary one-spot subsidy to the railways to avert a strike by their "non-op" workers without legislation.

The Canadian Trucking Associations is a national body representing provincial trucking organizations across Canada.

Its members are farmers and members of the associations.

Landslide Win for Kennedy Possible As Poll Gives Him 6 Per Cent Lead

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—On election day, two separate polls tie in terms of a victory possibility, of Democratic candidate Senator Kennedy in Tuesday's presidential election.

The first poll was reported to be tired and growing hoarse as he neared Vice - President Nixon entered the final days of the gruelling campaign trail.

But the news of the Democratic candidate was nearly all good. A country-wide poll reflecting opinion in late October gave him a six-per-cent margin over Nixon. This confirmed reports which had been coming in for the last three weeks that Senator Kennedy was gaining on his opponent.

Congolese Says African Nations Plan Invasion

Collaborating With UN Denounced as Treason

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold confers today with the head of the UN Congo mission amid charges that the United Nations is trying to place the new African country under its trusteeship.

Pascal Kapolla, Congo information minister, told his nation by radio Friday there was a "sinister plot to invade the Congo" and place it under a UN trusteeship.

He said an invasion by Cuba, Ghana, Guinea and Moroccan troops was imminent and called on Congolese to "defend our republic to the death." He said any aid by nations who collaborated with the UN would be arrested and charged with treason.

Rajeshwar Dayal, Indian head of the UN Congo mission, has accused Belgium of using its troops to influence the Congo against the UN.

Dayal arrived in New York Friday night to report to his UN boss. He said earlier that he would not welcome political wrangling by Congolese nationals in the strife-torn Congo.

U.S. ATTACKS REPORT

The State department has issued a statement that it has "every confidence in the good faith of Belgium and its desire to aid assistance in the Congo."

Hammarskjold's advisory committee was to meet today to give final instructions to a 15 - man conciliation mission to be dispatched to the Congo to try to bring warring political factions together.

Dayal was expected to tell Hammarskjold that Belgium and Congo President Joseph Kasavubu oppose the conciliation mission's visit as interference in Congo affairs by nations they suspect are trying to boost Premier Lumumba, deposed Congo premier, back to power.

The explosive Congo issue was expected to come to a head Monday when the UN General Assembly discusses the situation.

Mack Sennett Of Screen Fame Dies Today

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Canadian-born Mack Sennett, 80, creator of some of the most riotous slapstick ever produced, died today at the Motion Picture County House and Hospital in suburban Woodland Hills.

He was born Michael Sinnott in Danville, Que., and he was a young man when his family moved to Portland, Me.

Against his family's wishes he went to New York to seek a career on stage.

Sennett had been in poor health for some time. He underwent major surgery for kidney stones last year.

A master of comedy, Sennett had a flair for casting. He discovered Charlie Chaplin and W. C. Fields.

His bathing beauties, Keystone cops and pie-throwing actors developed a generation of moviegoers.

Kennedy Has Good Chance To Carry Penn.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Democrats have carried Pennsylvania in a presidential election only four times in the last 100 years.

But both Democrats and Republicans obviously feel it could happen for a third time Tuesday—and this despite President Eisenhower's winning margin of more than 800,000 in 1956.

Why the abrupt flip-flop? Basically the Democratic candidate—Senator John Kennedy—has three things going for him in his drive for the state's 32 electoral votes:

1. All-out backing from the big party machines in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and from the state Democratic administration.

2. Economically depressed conditions in coal mines railroad and steel mills of the industrial state.

3. A Democratic edge in registration (by about 2,000 out of 5,000,000 voters) for the first time in Pennsylvania history.

Do Not Want To Be Considered Civil Servants

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on organization of government would find Friday that some members of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission would rather not have been classified as civil servants.

Health Minister Raymond Brough whom the OHSC, report to the legislature, said he thought employees of government boards and commissions should be civil servants.

But OHSC chairman Dr. Ian Mackenzie said a move to do that to have the commissioners "power" and then changed. What the OHSC was formed there was a definite commitment by the government that it would be independent.

Dr. Dymond replied that "I would hate to think that such clever specials in other boards and commissions would be brought under the public service act.

Outcry From Left and Right Greets De Gaulle's Hint at Dictatorship

PARIS (AP) — Angry outcries from leftist and rightist extremists greeted Friday President Charles de Gaulle's threat to take emergency powers and call a national referendum on a new course on Algeria.

In a nation-wide radio and television address Friday night the 69-year-old president justified his policy in Algeria "no longer by the French people's approval" metropolitan France, but fn Algerian Algeria."

In the end, he said, "responsibility for Algerian affairs, at every level, will be assumed by Algerians" and the country will have "its own government, its own institutions, its own laws."

To achieve this, he threatened to invoke powers entrusted to him by the constitution, to take over the French nation in dingehanded rule, dissolve parliament and issue a policy in a national referendum if he decides extremists pose a "grave threat" to the country.

"If France loses her head she would slide toward the abyss," said, apparently referring to extremist opposition.

"The most terribly imperialistic power—meaning Russia and Communist China—were threatening to intervene in Algeria, he warned.

De Gaulle's speech disclosed that he no longer believes it possible that Algeria can remain a part of France — the Algeria Francaise dismantled by rightists who twice have staged rebellion

It takes 18 days for a letter mailed in Moscow, USSR, to reach Belleville, at least so it was with a letter to Tim Vinder of 50 East College Street. Tim a grade-five student at Prince of Wales School, is an avid stamp-collector and late in August sent a letter to the Russian Premier, N. Khrushchev requesting Russian stamps.

Four stamps were enclosed in the letter which came from the Committee of Youth Organizations in Moscow.

BCIVS

As was promised, here are the results of the senior school Interform rugby. Grade 12B came out on top, having defeated 13A in two 30 cents per box.

Lower school house-league basketball is still in its semi-finals and results will be reported as soon as they are available.

From the girls' gym comes a report of the Mole-Bell volleyball game. The BCI junior team won its games while the seniors from Moira were victorious in theirs.

One spot a Wednesday morning, Little Blue Riding Hood was skipping across the BCI stage with a basket of "goodies" for her grandmother. Detective Fyfe-say, trying to smuggle the "goodies", arrested Little Blue Riding Hood and her grandmother on suspicion of "Breaking, Entering through the forest.

Following this amusing satire we were entertained by a guitar solo, a vocal duet and a second skit entitled "George and the Dragon." Chalk up another successful assembly.

Congratulations to the student Council on the success of the "Hallowe'en Hoe Down" to be out at Club Canara proved to be a record. Proceeds were donated to UNICEF, on behalf of Miss Lynda, our delegate. Something drastic has happened to the school spirit in the past few years when only 200 students are alike now seem to be 100 per cent behind the Council—BCIVS. What better example can be taken than the football game against Picton on Oct. 21. Spurred on by the tremendous cheering of the fans, our players fought as yet undefeated BCI junior team scored their fifth victory while the Picton team got only three points.

School spirit has reached an unprecedented height. Now "Let's put BCIVS on the map!"

Many Attend "Open House" At P of W School

Parents of Prince of Wales children turned out in force to "Open House" on Tuesday evening. Parents were in their classrooms early to conduct short interviews with interested parents. A general business session of the Home and School Association was called to order by President Mrs. Kay Rodwell. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary Miss Naomi Hoare. The stage and auditorium windows have been newly-decorated with drapes by Mrs. Lorne Thor Hansen design. The new public address system is now installed and in working order.

Attendance was taken. The junior banner was won by Mrs. Slack's grade 1 class and the senior banner by Mr. Lotti's grade 8 class.

One teacher arrived at the last moment, after having had an unplanned scenic tour of the city, due to Mike change in bus routes.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames Lena Murray, Vera Reynolds, Helen Hunter, Dodd, Phyllis Stephenson, Mrs. Lotti, Donald and Dorothy Grant.

Home-Grown Strawberries Sold On Market

Strawberries in November is the mark of gardening achievement of Mr. Nelson Reid, Frankford, who has offered garden fresh Strawberries on the Belleville farmers' market. Price quoted for the fresh strawberries was 50 cents per box.

The strawberries grown by Mr. Reid are from plants at Red Ridge. After being set out the end of August, the plants have sufficient foliage for winter protection. Heavy rainfall has protected the berries during chilly fall nights.

ELECTION TUNE

ing with Eisenhower, New York's Governor Rockefeller and others and Nixon seemed to be offering the theme of "a common cause."

"Mr. Nixon's running — not President Eisenhower but Mr. Nixon."

Kennedy, apparently encouraged by a survey published Friday that showed the Democratic contest edge over Nixon, made his first appearance of the campaign in "A Democratic tide is rising" theme, pounding away at it.

Kennedy contended at one point that while Republicans tried to attack Mr. Nixon, as a high speedsters, the Eisenhower government "spent 40 per cent more than Harry Truman and more dollars than ever before in defence federal employees."

His hand protected by medicated bandages from the cuts and scratches inflicted in handshakes with the crowds, Kennedy was due to be rescued by police from a Democratic rally in Buffalo early Friday to his brother Robert in Chicago.

CHARGES OF HEADLINE

Nixon told a Texas audience he had seen a headline that read: "Kennedy Leading in Texas."

"Then the very next day, Nixon said, "in the very hurry manner he has, very innocent-ly he said: 'You know, if I'm elected president and Lyndon is vice-president Eisenhower about how to stop these slumps during that he's predicting."

Nixon said Kennedy's economic policies amount to a "take-away-from-the-poor, program" which will result in "more jobs, more and clothing costs."

In Fort Worth, Tex., the vice-president told a laughing crowd: "They say there's no vote every tombstone in Texas, but we're going to lick 'em in Texas . . . we've got to win it if we're to win." Democrats here, but ours are Republicans. We are not trying to vote any dead ones."

Nixon referred to a full-page advertisement in a Dallas newspaper listing Democratic supporters of Kennedy and the vice-presidential partner, Lyndon Johnson. Herb Klein, Nixon press secretary, said the Dallas Republican organization found that the list contained the names of "at least" two dead persons.

CLOSING DAYS

In Casper, Wyo., Nixon accused his opponent of changing positions on several issues. He added:

"We can't have a jumping jack as president of the United States of America."

Now flew from Texas to Wyoming to Washington and California, Nixon will go on Monday and Kennedy arrived in Virginia from Oklahoma to go on to Ohio and Illinois and is in New York and New Jersey today.

Election Day is a big day for Nixon in Cleveland and Pittsburgh, two Democratic strongholds claims that streamlining government would produce savings to finance increased expenditures in several fields.

"Where will this young genius acquire the knowledge, experience and wisdom to do the things he will make such vast improvements over the work of the joint chiefs of staff and the President's civilian and service men who have given their lives to this work?"

TRUMAN SAYS NIXON

Truman delivered a speech sharply criticizing Nixon at a Pittsburgh rally. He said Nixon apparently does not have confidence in himself.

"If he does, why should he find it necessary to campaign on the shoulders of Eisenhower and to pretend that a vote for him is really a vote for Ike's third term for Ike?"

The former president said Eisenhower's energies should be reserved for matters of greater service he might care to give the country.

"It is a tragedy to see them drafted for the personal advancement of a second-rate politician to a job that is much too great for his ability."

SAYS ELECTION LOST

He said Nixon "has manoeuvred against—and would protect—virtually every measure to give a decent break in life to the people who need help most . . . and that is when he lost this election."

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, said in Detroit that Nixon had brought his name into the campaign as a sort of desperation to a losing field.

Scouting Activities

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

BOY SCOUTS AUXILIARY

A complete Scout group is a Cub Pack, Scout Troop, Rover Crew, group committee and last, but by no means least a Boy Scouts' Auxiliary. This used to be known as Mothers' Auxiliary, but as the organization grew, ladies who were interested and anxious to assist in the promotion of this great World-wide Movement to "build better boys" made the title 'Mothers' a little misleading. Today many auxiliary ladies are not mothers, just dedicated ladies who are very important to the success of the Boy Scout Movement.

During the past few years Belleville auxiliaries have, under the careful leadership of Mrs. Eleanor Blaker, proven themselves to be indispensable to Scouting. There are still a few groups who do not have an auxiliary, but we are confident that the newly elected president, Mrs. Hilda Murphy, will move forward a 100 per cent during the year with her success.

At this time of the year elections are the order of the day. We have two reports on record from Belleville for 5th and 182nd Boy Scouts' Auxiliaries.

182nd TABERNACLE

The first meeting of the fall season for the Boy Scouts' Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. L. Andrews.

President Muriel Andrews opened the meeting with the Mo-Derry Prayer. After the secretary read the minutes and the treasurer reported another successful financial year, Helen Wall moved and Audrey Mc-Clelland seconded the motion that the following slate of officers be elected for 1961:

Mrs. Muriel Andrews, president, Rita Winstanley; vice-president, Nora Grayson; secretary, Grace Williamson; treasurer, Noreen Stolik-Boy; assistant treasurer, Jean Lott; sunshine chairman, Irene Pringle; social convener, Freda LaRue and publicity, Dorothy Miles.

Noreen Stolker moved that the annual membership fee be raised to the District Boy Scout Auxiliary. This was seconded by Laura Lott, and then the meeting was closed with prayer.

Muriel served coffee and cookies.

The report this as submitted to show the friendly and active hall atmosphere these meetings held in.

19th PARKDALE

The election of officers, for 1961, of the Parkdale Auxiliary was held in the Parkdale Community Hall.

Mrs. Marg Hutt, chairman of the election committee, introduced Mrs. Cora Calthorpe, president of Belleville District Boy Scouts' Auxiliary Executive Board, who took a big part in installing the incoming officers of 1960-1961 as follows: President, Mrs. E. Brooks; vice-president, Mrs. Andrews; treasurer, Mrs. Hyatt; secretary, Mrs. Gilbert; assistant secretary, Mrs. Loe; sewing convener, Mrs. Voyle; program convener, Mrs. Mc Mary; press reporter, Mrs. J. Hultquist; sick convener, Mrs. McMillan and telephone convener, Mrs. M. Thompson.

Mrs. Brooks thanked everybody for their co-operation and congratulated the new officers. Mrs. Hultquist thanked the hostesses; Akela Jim Hultquist and Mowgli Lorne Laton at Cub Camp last summer and also Cubmaster Apple Day. Lunch was served by Mrs. Thompson.

PARKDALE CUB PACK

The Parkdale Cub Pack had a very well planned Hallowe'en party for the Cub Pack. The best costumes were judged by Sam Collins and Bill Prentice. The winners were Cubs Larry Thompson, Dale Thompson, Larry Jewell, Tommy Hyatt.

Movies were shown by Akela Jim Hultquist and refreshments were served.

In Texas saying the union leader "would have a lot to do with calling the tune in the White House." If Kennedy is elected.

Although Nixon didn't use the phrase in delivering the speech, press secretary Klein said that is still the vice-president's opinion.

Elect Directors At Weekly Meet Of Kiwanians

TRENTON — At Thursday night's meeting of the Kiwanis Club, directors for the 1960-61 year were elected.

Carl Weese and Jim Cockrane will serve two-year terms on directors and Lex Platt, Gerry Ireland and Steve Herman one year terms

Lieut.-governor Al Weaver inducted Al Laney and Jeff Hunter of Trenton into club membership. Mr. Weaver told the new members that the club emphasized spiritual and human values rather than material values. He stressed the club's responsibility for service.

During the meeting devoted to committee reports, Les Platt, chairman of the Boys and Girls work committee, told about the progress of the club's activity with the Trenton hockey league.

In reporting on the safety program, Jim Cockrane said a bicycle camera club was preparing a film on bicycle safety for elephant as the theme. The Kiwanis club will assist Belleville club in the Lieutenant-Governor Batawa schools.

Jerry reported on a recent meeting of the Community Coordination Council. He also said that the club could place a wreath at the cenotaph on Remembrance Day.

Carl Weese, chairman of inter-club activity, gave a run-down of the Lieutenant-Governor Port Hope bowling game. Les Quinton said that the golf committee was having 10.000 visitors cards printed for distribution to the local churches.

Mr. Coward also reminded the members that the Kiwanis club of the district are in need of transportation to meetings in Belleville on the second Monday of every month.

Ralph Wills, vocational chairman said that his committee was working with the vocational guidance officer at the high school. He said "that the club should sponsor a 'careers day' soon, and that a film on the electronic industry would be shown at the high school. Students will be taken on a tour of the industries and the Kiwanians will be asked to speak on their respective professions to small groups of students. Ted Snider read a letter from a student giving several tickets to the community concert for students.

Hold Poppy Day Concert Sunday Night

TRENTON — Keg Craddock, vice-president of Branch 110 of the Legion, reports that a grand array of talent has been assembled for the annual Poppy Day concert, which will be held at the Legion Hall tomorrow night.

Dave Manning and his guitar will be on hand to entertain the younger set with roll enthusiasm. Judy Lynn McKnight of Belleville will again demonstrate her talent at tap dancing. Miss Marjorie Stirling will help the Mayrow Sisters of Stirling in providing vocal entertainment. Many other youthful artists will help round out the bill.

Mrs. Ruth Ann Leighton has devoted long hours to practice to ensure the night's success. The show starts at 8.30 p.m. A silver collection will go towards the purchase of poppies for next Saturday's sale.

IN MEMORIAM

GORDON. — In loving memory of our dear husband who passed away (Jack) Gordon, on Saturday, November 5th, 1955.
Only time has passed between
To write how much we miss you
Only God knows the pain
To forget the day we lost you
Will never be forgotten by us
Every day in some small way
Memories of you keep our way
Thoughts absent, you are ever near.
Could we have given if we could say
Hello Jack in the same old way
Sadly missed and ever by your wife
Mary
To sit with you and chat awhile
To see you have a husband
Cherish him with care
Then you'll never know the heartache
That you see his wasted chair.
Sadly missed by his wife Gladys
With love we will never forget
God has him in His keeping
We have him in our hearts
Sadly missed by wife Jean,
Daughter Frances and son Donald

THE LEGIONARY

1. Why should I wear a poppy?
   When you wear a poppy or display a poppy wreath you honor the war dead and you help the living.
2. How do I help the living?
   Your contribution provides quick help for needy veterans and their dependents.
3. Just what does this help consist of?
   Any veteran may appeal to the poppy trust fund for emergency aid such as food, shelter or medical expenses. There are also bursaries for their children's education in deserving and needy cases.
4. Doesn't the government provide pensions for veterans?
   Yes. In fact many veterans do get pensions. But many others, although handicapped, do not. However, no pension can provide eventualities such as fire, a long illness on the part of the breadwinner or other medical expenses.
5. Does any veteran or dependent get poppy fund help?
   Yes. In fact 75 per cent of all cases involve veterans who are not Legion members.
6. Does all the money raised through the sale of poppies and wreaths go into veterans' welfare?
   Most of it does. However, expenses such as cost of poppies and other supplies naturally are deducted.
7. Are campaign expenses high?
   Campaign expenses are unusually low because all work is voluntary.
8. How much of this money stays in the community?
   About 70 per cent. The rest helps veterans by going to the maintenance of Legion service bureaus across Canada.
9. What are Service Bureaus?
   They are Legion departments which give any veteran or dependent help with pension, treatment and other problems. They deal on his behalf with the Federal Government. There is no charge to the veteran or dependent. The experience of service bureaus in handling such problems enables the Legion to keep a close check on veterans' legislation and recommend changes where changes are justified.
10. Can poppy money be used for anything else?
    No. The Legion's constitution stresses that these funds must be held in trust. They are subscribed by the public. They are held in a bank account separate from that of the branches and cannot be used for any other purposes than stipulated above.
11. How much should I give?
    We suggest that you give according to the dictates of your conscience. You might remember that the cost of all the things the poppy fund provides is much higher today than it used to be. Therefore, it takes more to do the same job. So give freely.

United Appeal Reports $43,084 Now Collected

The latest returns from the United Appeal office as of 5.00 p.m. yesterday show the following amounts reported division by division: national corporations — $10,035.00; railways — $17.00; special names — $30.00; residential — $6,040.00; payroll giving — $17,853.29; public service — $886.80; professional — $2,329.00; business — $3,463.03. For a total of $43,-084.12.

While returns are by no means complete in many of the divisions it is noteworthy that whereas many individuals and organizations have contributed their fair share toward the overall objective, on the other hand there are many who have contributed far too little, stated Publicity Chairman Ernie Gurnett, this morning.

It is hoped that many of these will be prepared to reconsider and supplement the amounts they have ready contributed by mailing further contributions to the United Appeal headquarters, Post Office Box 42.

A special word of commendation is due to the ladies who organized and canvassed in the residential blitz. There are still some returns to come in from the blitz but it has already exceeded the amount which was expected from this section of the campaign.

The United Appeal officials are particularly concerned with the response to date from the business divisions and from the railway employees. It is hoped that something will still be done to rectify this situation.

Market Active, Eggs Selling At 65 cts. Doz.

The growing season has ended and now farmers are relying on this year's crop to bring them produce to carry them through the winter's trading on the local market. Reports from the farms reported in the outlying areas, helping one to improve the color of the apple crop which now, for the most part, has been harvested.

Today's market was active although the sky threatened to release a deluge of rain and the chilly temperature aided by a slight breeze, hinted that Old Man Winter isn't too far away.

Egg prices were raised by farmers said, they almost invariably do in the fall, and throughout the winter. Eggs were selling at 65c cents a dozen for the extra large variety, 60 for large and 55 for medium. Some egg vendors were asking a few cents more, others less.

Apples were in good supply with Macs going at 75 cents a basket, Snows 80, Spies 90, and Talmen Sweets 75.

Potatoes were $2.50 a bag or 50 cents a basket. Tomatoes were ons $3.50 a hamper; cauliflower, cabbage and lettuce (one cent per a head); carrots were 30 cents a basket and a few tomatoes were offered at 50 cents a quart. Pumpkins were priced over a wide range from two bits to more than $1, depending on size — and there were some big ones.

Bond Markets Slip Slightly

Canadian bond markets slipped slightly this week after scoring good gains Thursday and Friday.

The Canada conversion loan 4½-per-cent bonds due Sept. 1, 1983 were quoted at 99⅝ to 99¾, down from 99⅞ to 100 last week. Government of Canada 5½-percent bonds due April 1, 1963, were quoted at $104⅝ to 104.85, down from $104⅝ to $104.90.

Frank "Whitey" Deacon, Chief Clerk at CNR, Retires

Frank "Whitey" Deacon, chief clerk with the Canadian National Railways at the Belleville division, was guest of honor at a retirement party held at Club Cascade Friday evening.

Mr. Deacon, has been chief clerk at Belleville since the retirement of Newton Thompson three years ago. He joined the railway as a call boy back in 1911 and within two years had quit his job twice before deciding to stay with the railway on a permanent basis.

During his term with the railway he has served as call boy, machinist helper and as junior clerk before becoming chief clerk three years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Deacon live at 10 Patterson Street.

Mr. Deacon's hir working days with the CNR ended, Mr. Deacon says he "will take it easy" for a while and then with Mrs. Deacon do a bit of travelling before settling down to retirement. During the summer he expects to catch up on a lot of fishing. He is going to keep his buoy around the house", Mrs. Deacon promised.

Two Marlbank Homes Razed, Hotel Damaged, by Flames

MARLBANK — Fire starting in the upstairs of a rooming house raged out of control Friday afternoon in this village 20 miles northeast of Belleville and before it was extinguished two houses were razed and the Marlbank Hotel was damaged.

No one was injured in the blaze which was fought by two fire departments for the better part of the afternoon.

The fire apparently started in the upstairs of a double house owned by Mrs. Flora Slinchcome and engulfed a neighboring house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Robinson before spreading across the street to the Marlbank Hotel. Fire departmen. from Tweed and Tamworth fought the blaze, assisted by volunteers from the village and district.

The entire upstairs of the Slinchcome home was blazing and filled with smoke when the fire was discovered and few household articles were saved in the Slinchcome residence or in that of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beckwith, living in the other half of the double house.

Yesterday Mr. Beckwith celebrated his 82nd birthday.

The heat from the blaze quickly ignited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson who moved to the village quite recently from Toronto.

Carried by a stiff breeze, the fire then spread diagonally across the street, where it ignited the Marlbank Hotel owned by a Mr. Shell.

Firemen played water on the building to keep exposed wood from igniting, but the heat was so intense that wooden siding beneath metal sheathing was set afire.

No estimate of the loss was obtained.

OUTCRY

in Algiers in an effort to enforce a stiffer policy on the Paris government.

His new attitude outraged the rightists, who want to keep Algeria French at all costs, and displeased leftists, who are demanding negotiations to end the war at once.

De Gaulle repeated his offer to allow the Algerian rebels to take part in negotiations "with the condition that first of all we agree to stop killing one another."

The exile rebel government refuses to negotiate a ceasefire, which would involve laying down its arms, without prior political conditions.

Only Friday the Nationalist premier, Ferhat Abbas, in an interview from Tunis, declared there was no question of further negotiations and predicted a long war.

Car Is Struck By CNR Train, Driver Escapes

William G. Fairbairn, 6 Third Street, Belleville, escaped injury Friday evening when he was able to jump from his car after it stalled on the tracks on the 2nd concession of Sidney and was struck by a CNR eastbound train.

The car was almost completely demolished when struck by the speeding train.

Mr. Fairbairn told provincial police that the automatic transmission on his car failed as he was about to cross the double track. Unable to move the car either forward or back he was forced to jump to safety as the eastbound train bore down on the crossing.

At Stirling last night a car driven by William Webber, 327 Church Street, Stirling, jumped the curb in the downtown section of the village and crashed through the plate glass window at Whitehead's restaurant.

was not bound to abide by his views. But he said he was entitled to comment under the law and the state constitution.

One point covered by the judge was the testimony of John Patrick Cody, a Minneapolis bookie who was a key state witness. Cody testified Finch and Miss Tregeli paid him to kill Mrs. Finch. He said he took their money but had no intention of committing murder.

HIRED BY DEFENDANTS

The defendants say they hired Cody to try to seduce Mrs. Finch or in some other way to get evidence that could be used against her in a divorce action.

"To my mind," the judge said, "the testimony given by the witness John Cody regarding the purpose for which he was employed by the defendants was much more believable than the testimony of the two defendants."

Cooper later remarked: "In all my years of legal experience I have never heard a judge address a jury in that manner—especially when human lives are at stake."

Cooper won't be sentenced on the contempt counts — each of which could mean five days in jail—until the trial ends.

The first trial ended last spring when the jury was unable to reach a verdict after 37½ hours. The present jury has been out more than 60 hours.

New One Way Traffic System Goes Into Effect Tomorrow

Watch those one way streets hand turns, while left turns will also be permitted from Front onto Bridge Street.

Adequate directional signs have been erected at all intersections and directional arrows have been painted on roadways clearly indicating the permissible flow of traffic.

Rebuke To The Belgians

While a child should learn to walk before he attempts to run, once he does run he should be permitted to take his own tumbles.

In homely language, that appears to be the basis for the report of Indian diplomat Rajeshwar Dayal to the United Nations Assembly on the Congo situation.

It has long been obvious that the Congo was granted independence before its people were ready for it. Basically, the Belgians are to blame. They may argue, probably with accuracy, that a delay in granting independence would only have provided revolt and bloodshed, but this does not absolve them of failure to adequately prepare an educated native against the day when the people as a whole would demand self-rule.

Having raised this objection to the manner in which the Belgians discharged their responsibilities in the Congo, it may appear inconsistent to criticize Belgian nationals for returning to the Congo and playing influential roles in advising Col. Joseph Mobutu's army-backed council of college graduates in that area, though, is to take a superficial view of affairs. Once the Congo was granted its independence, it became the wrong time and the wrong place for Belgians to endeavor to interfere in the government of the country. That country is the property of Dayal, and we are entitled to draw the conclusion that, when Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold tabled the Indian's report without any additions except correspondence between himself and the Belgian Government and himself and the prime minister of Katanga, this indicates he endorses Dayal's view.

It is to be hoped that in this stand by Hammarskjold will be backed by the majority of UN members, particularly by the countries of the West. It may well prove that the Communist bloc seizes on this report as giving some color of support to previous Red criticisms of the situation in the Congo. That, though, might not to be permitted to betray the West into backing Mobutu instead of accepting the carefully considered views of its own representative on the scene. Perhaps, if Mobutu and his Belgian advisers are checked, this may pave the way for Lumumba to make another bid for power. It is permissible to regard this possibility as highly undesirable—but this should not result in a policy of expediency which would back Mobutu solely because he is opposed to Lumumba.

In the final analysis, it may well be that Lumumba is basically right, in that the future welfare of the Congo demands a strong central government, rather than a loose federation of states based largely on tribal divisions. Months ago the Manchester Guardian summed up the Congo situation in two succinct sentences. It said that Lumumba's cause deserved a better man, and that Prime Minister Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga was a man worthy of a better cause.

What's Wrong With Roast Beef?

L. T. Evans, sales manager for H. J. Heinz Co. of Canada, one of the nation's largest food firms, has come to the defence of Canadian restaurateurs. Too many people talk about the lack of a distinctive Canadian cuisine, he told the annual convention of the Canadian Restaurant Association, but the same people who want roast beef for a banquet.

Mr. Evans evidently moves in different circles from most of us—and we envy him the distinction. We would prefer his roast beef banquet diet any time to the customary chicken or turkey in this section. What is wrong with roast beef, anyway? It may not be distinctly Canadian, but it is as much Canadian as is anything.. Mr. Evans' remarks remind us of the time three or four years ago, when a group of touring U.S. newspaper editors called at Belleville and were entertained at the Hotel Quinte. Some local official had the good sense to order roast beef—and the editors were unanimous in their assertion that the meal was the equal of anything they had tasted in Canada.

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE FUTURE FOR THE RACE

She was sitting at the bar sipping an Old Fashioned as she sent into the restaurant. When I saw her she was still at the bar, now burning incense and the crackling with the battered

She is a typical specimen of all [illegible] family" in these recent [illegible] She is a healthy girl, its dress full in the old days— and still is—to see a man who has become so completely enslaved by his appetites that he must have a continual allowance of liquor to keep his daily life bearable is satisfactory. But the female barfly is an even more pathetic and revolting creature.

The so-called emancipation of womanhood led many women down by trying to imitate men in their self as well as in their achievements. Fifty years ago the women who drank hard liquor was almost non-existent. Alcoholism is still more prevalent among men than among women, but the increase in the use of liquor among drinking women is a terrible reminder of what the future may hold for the nation. A drunken father can ruin a home, but a drunken mother can keep a home from coming into existence.

This is a much more serious problem than most people believe. If we think that it will all work out with the passing of time we are right—but it will not work out the way we want it. We cannot make evil continue long; bring forth wholesome life. Good does not grow out of evil nor evil out of good. Consequences may be delayed, unhappy Days.

Miracles of the Universe
A Star's Rainbow

BY HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Minister of Mines of Ontario

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE II

Astronomers can tell a great deal about a star just by looking at the light a star gives off.

Each star (including our Sun) is a large ball of hot gas which gives off radiation or light. Some of this radiation can be seen by man and some of it cannot be seen. From the light that we can see can be directly or indirectly determined many of a star's characteristics, which way it is moving, how fast it is away, which way it is moving and at what speed, of what gases the star is composed, what is its temperature, its density, its color, its age and so forth.

All of this information can be gathered about a star even though it is billions of miles away, even though we cannot touch it upon it in the laboratory, or even though we cannot see it with the naked eye as we can the Sun.

A star gives off light, a telescope finds this light and collects it and places it at the eye piece where it can be seen. This light may then be directed through a prism or glass and although the light may enter the prism as a single beam of light it emerges as many beams of light of different colors, and is projected upon a screen or photographic plate, as a rainbow. This rainbow is called a spectrum. The spectrum of a star is a band or color changing through red, to yellow, to orange, to red, and crossing these colors are lines, some like little lines, some strong wide lines.

SPECTRUM REVEALS SECRETS

From these colors and these lines can be read like a book on a star — (sometimes with astonishing accuracy).

As discussed in a preceding article on light that light travels in waves. Waves differ in their form but in the distance between each wave. If the distance between each wave is 4,000 angstroms and approximately 7,000 angstroms, man can see these waves.

These longer waves are called infrared, infrared heat and radio waves. They are sent out in longer wavelengths than the visible light. In the same way as saying longer wave length.

Shorter waves can be created which will not show all the colors but only certain narrow ranges of colors, and these show up its lines.

On the other hand, the spectrum can include the whole range of colors from violet on the left, to red on the right.

A spectrum can be created that will show dark lines superimposed on the band of colors. These dark lines the astronomer judges the character of the star. The depth of the lines, its temperature and as well the chemical elements and its motion in the line of sight.

FACTS INTERPRETED

Each element such as hydrogen, magnesium, carbon, nickel or beryllium, when excited gives off certain distinguishing characteristic wave lengths. The light of the star is blended as we see it with the light of the element. If we could split up this blended light into its parts, like in the case of a rainbow, we are able to tell which elements are present giving off the light. Depending upon the color and line relationship we can also tell the temperature and the pressure of the gases of the star. In the same way, we may be able to tell the density of the star.

Gas under pressure, when excited electrically or heated, produces a spectrum which contains only lines. On the other hand, when the gas is at high tempers ure, all the lines appear as we have a continuous spectrum, red, red first then violet.

The key to this business of interpreting the spectrum lies in the fact as you will recall, that all stars are made of atoms, billions and billions and billions of them.

These lines represent light which started out deeper in the star but which has had to pass through layers or atmosphere of the star because it became absorbed by atoms there present.

Thus, an atom can give off light and it can also absorb it. The atoms down deep are giving off light and many of the atoms on the surface and around the star will be absorbing some of this light. Each atom will absorb only the kind of light it will give off. Down deep then, the atoms down deep will show up as a band of colors ranging from violet to the left to red on the right and the lines superimposed upon this band of colors ranging from violet to the left to red on the right are caused by the atoms in the star absorbing the light which started out from inside the star but was absorbed by the atoms and the atmospheres of the star by atoms of the same kind.

CAN CALCULATE SPEED

The secret of the spectrum is the relationship of the lines and the colors.

When the lines, which normally appear on the spectrum in certain places shift their position slightly to the right towards the red end, this is called the "Red Shift" or "Doppler Effect" and indicates that the star is moving away, and from this, we can calculate its speed. Similarly it will shift to the violet end (the left) if the star is moving towards us.

From the "Red Shift" it is estimated that the farthest galaxies are moving away and some are approaching. It appears that the more distant the galaxy the greater the speed of recession. Thus, from the shift, much can be told. It is a little like discussing the weather's condition as a doctor puts a stethoscope against a patient's heart.

To be continued.

Must Change UN Voting

Vancouver Sun

The Gabon Republic has a population of 417,000; Cyprus, 602,000; Iceland, 180,000 and the Congo (ex-French), of 790,000. Yet they are entering the 14 new members accepted by the United Nations last month, and therefore in the General Assembly they will have an equal vote with the United States, Britain, Russia and the United Kingdom.

Of the new members, only two — the Republic of the Congo (ex-Belgian), with 13,553,000 and the Malagasy Republic, with 5,184,000 exceed 4 million in population. Only two others have fewer people than Toronto.

Seven of the 14 are fragments of the former French "communauty" in Africa, and most of them are heavily dependent. The case of Congo has in the matter of Katanga, of fragmenting still further. The Gabon Republic, however, is only distinction is as the home of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, and the make up of six not particularly compatible states.

If they do break up, do all the fragments qualify for UN membership?

And, reducing the matter to the ultimate absurdity, if Pitcairn Island's population of 66 is granted self-determination by Britain, would it too qualify?

These questions have already been given a good deal of consideration in the Times of London, and inevitably they must soon be asked in the United Nations itself.

Most of the new African members, like the Congo, are countries which are almost completely without experience in government, political stability. At the very best they become captive votes for one or other of the big power blocs. At worst they can completely distort the General Assembly.

What was beginning to be done during the last round of new admissions is now as plain as a barn door. The world organization should not store away its standards of membership.

To go back now, and demote some of the turbulent small fry would be sort of senseless game with diminished voting power might touch off a storm of recrimination, provocations and counter propaganda.

But the point must be where the UN can afford not to take that risk.

A river, lake and village in the Kenora district. The word is of Algonquin Indian origin, meaning "wife's father." The Indians at the time the lake was first seen with white families which were probably white water lilies.

20 YEARS AGO

November 5, 1942

While the Empire is fighting for democracy in Europe, one of the agencies that has been teaching democracy at home, is the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament which this year is to hold its Twentieth Session in McMaster University in Hamilton from December 29 to 30. The Training officer for this district is J. W. Moore of Bowmanville who will be glad to supply information to boys who would be interested in attending this great annual event.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Belleville Y's Men's Club was held in the auditorium of the YMCA last evening with President Homer Thomas in the Chair. Secretary J. E. Short of the "Y" personally thanked the Y's Men for their continuance of their annual Y Men's Hallowe'en Frolic this year. He stated perhaps the most successful in the history of the Frolic, number in attendance was concerned, over 1,000 children and adults being present to enjoy the evening entertainment," revealed Secretary Short.

It has been suggested that the Argyll Light Infantry unit might take over the membership of the local basketball team in the Ont. Basketball Association. There are several tried and proven cagers in the unit and games could be played on the spacious floor at the Armouries. There are also two seasoned basketers as El Wickerson, Owen Atkin, Abe Tobe, Louie Marsakas, Eddie Schreider, as well as others available who are enlisted members of the unit.

George Rose of Woodtons Corner near Marlbank, recently sold 35 cattle at a buyer in Picton. Mr. Rose found out that it would cost just $100 to ship the cattle by rail. Being a thrifty gentleman, he decided to drive the beasts to Picton. He arrived outside Belleville and rested the cattle in a pasture over night. Next day he fed them and the total cost for driving the cattle from his home to Picton will be $25. It might well have been an epic of the Covered Wagon Days. Remember this is 1930 not 1850.

Ottawa Mail Is Too Heavy

Sherbrooke Record

No close estimates of the amount of mail sent out under Frank "7" 21 government agencies in Ottawa are available. But any business man who finds his desk flooded with circulars and other "information" from these agencies can well believe that if the other departments were assessed for the useless mail they sent out, the Post Office could save many increased costs expected in the near future.

If each department head was debited with the value of the services rendered, he might think seriously about the necessity of some of these wonderful printed effusions from Ottawa.

Curtailment of these publications would not only reduce the burden on the office, but would cut down the expenditures for printing and stationery.

Fast Service By Airmail

Vancouver Sun

The chance to say something nice about a government department does not arise too often; the chance to say it about despatching of two documents that came even less so. So it is with pleasure we take the opportunity to commend the staff of the offices of Canada and the United Kingdom.

A newspaper airmailed in London in the morning of last week was delivered to The Sun office at 9 o'clock the following morning.

This is the fastest service we have seen so far, but mail from London consistently reaches us by the afternoon of the day after despatch.

And that's a lot faster than the mail from San Francisco or, sometimes, Seattle.

SURGERY NEEDED IN SEVERE HEMORRHOID CASES

"Dear Dr. Molner: What about the different methods of hemorrhoid treatment, cutting, cauterizing, etc.? — T. H. C."

I think you mean injections, rather than cauterizing. Injections to shrivel the dilated veins that constitute hemorrhoids is a possible treatment in some mild cases. Sometimes, however, the injections bec-me irritating as the hemorrhoids themselves. In severe cases, surgical removal is the only successful method. The operation is not considered a bad one, time, I grant, but it gives more complete relief later. Surgery also affords an opportunity to correct fissures if they exist.

"Dear Dr. Molner: The top tips of my ears are scaled out. Can an operation correct this? — L. E."

Any good plastic surgeon can give you expert advice on the subject, so consult him as to feasibility and cost. The point I want to make is that a person with protruding ears is inclined to be more conscious of them than is warranted. He wonders why. But other people, looking at you, don't even notice them.

"Dear Dr. Molner: In your discussion of mastectomy (surgical removal of the breast) you failed to discuss the developing of an abnormally large breast in a man, such as the surgery. Why does it occur in some cases and not others? Is there any relief or cure? — J. S."

It's one of those "sometime" things. It results from obstruction in the tubes that allow the flow through the veins, in certain instances. The surgical result usually when an extreme amount of tissue has had to be removed, subsequent formation of scar-tissue is the cause. It cannot always be predicted or prevented.

In some cases, physiotherapy has been helpful. Sometimes an elastic sleeve covering the whole arm is used, just as an elastic stocking is sometimes used on a leg.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My last visit to the hemorrhoid out-patient clinic was very successful method. The operation is not considered a bad one, time, I grant, but it gives more complete relief later. Surgery also affords an opportunity to correct fissures if they exist.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What about the different methods of hemorrhoid treatment, cutting, cauterizing, etc.? — T. H. C."

I think you mean injections, rather than cauterizing. Injections to shrivel the dilated veins that constitute hemorrhoids is a possible treatment in some mild cases. Sometimes, however, the injections bec-me as irritating as the hemorrhoids themselves. In severe cases, surgical removal is the only successful method. The operation is not considered a bad one, time, I grant, but it gives more complete relief later. Surgery also affords an opportunity to correct fissures if they exist.

The surgical result usually when an extreme amount of tissue has had to be removed, subsequent formation of scar-tissue is the cause. It cannot always be predicted or prevented.

In some cases, physiotherapy has been helpful. Sometimes an elastic sleeve covering the whole arm is used, just as an elastic stocking is sometimes used on a leg.

"Dear Sir: I work with elderly people and I notice that the worst part is a strong odor, often like ammonia. What is the cause of this — O. H."

Many oldsters, whether male or female, have this condition due to prostate trouble or cystitis (sagging of the bladder).

The result is a puddling of urine in the bladder, incomplete emptying, which in turn results in chronic irritation and infection. Ammonia is a byproduct of this stagnation.

Certain medications may lessen the trouble, or surgical correction of the basic trouble is often the best relief.

KEEP EXPECTING THE THINGS MOST DESIRED

Anticipation is what fires the imagination, picturing events as they occur. It also keeps us alive to ourselves. Throughout life interests must keep our mind fed and swalling all opportunities that come our way. Many of these opportunities, however, must be created, and many a one has a surprising.

There must be a conclusive reason for good thinking and discovery! It is this constant hope and desire that keeps our mind active and alert.

If we bear in mind to keep expecting the things most desired, we can be sure of attention and the promise of rich rewards. But we must not be afraid to keep searching for knowledge with sincerity and readiness to keep out life interests must keep our mind fed and swalling all opportunities that come our way. Many of these opportunities, however, must be created, and many a one has a surprising.

John Mason Brown once stated that "The only happiness comes from absorbing yourselves for a purpose."

Michael Faraday in her inspired little book, "The Readmaster," wrote this: "After all, what do we ask of life, here, or indeed hereafter, but leave to learn and to communicate with low men and with ourselves, and to have the chance to look up into the face of God?"

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

When TV westerns and super detective stories, both of them strictly remarkable for the number of fights with which they almost invariably conclude, pass to the great television studio in the sky, and three years ago, my fellow townsman with whom I have lunch and predict the fate of mankind all agreed with me that we were in for a spell of distinctly the like of which had never been seen before. We demanded, could the public sit back and watch, for hour after hour in the afternoon of the day after day after day, people punching, socking, clouting and bolsting the villain right over the bar with the bad guys and the law, without becoming involved? Could good citizens in offs, spronning the six shooter at their belts, thok it swing at six cattle rustlers; if smooth, brilliant, well-dressed private eyes, men of the purest character even if they do have some petty chic lady friends, relied on such assistance as their fists and bloodlums armed with tommy bigdoms with whom I have every public would respond. Should we not have seen scrape, loafers, bums, in the parks, the cafes, restaurants, on buses, in theatre lines, at baseball games, at fire games, even in homes?

As a policeman friend of mine of thirty years on the force tells me there has been his bar with me for the past few years than in any time in his career, and he has had a varied and exciting the fight out of us, by vicarious satisfaction.

Government encouragement, to make people realize that the incoming workers—as well housed, made comfortable, furnished to their interests, given interpreters and afforded opportunities to advance in so matter what their origin.

This leaves two propositions for consideration: As it only because of the bounding health of the West German economy that these unskilled workers are being encouraged to come? Or is it the service of the unskilled workers which helps to maintain the amazing economic health of West Germany?

Reich Mecca Of Unskilled

Victoria Daily Times

While Mrs. Ellen Fairclough was telling a Canadian audience the other day that Canada has no room at present for the peasant, a West German economist was outlining his views on the need for immigrant labour to a Christian Science Monitor correspondent.

The industrialist, not named in the report, was Professor Wilhelm J. Emlyn Williams, that as far as West Germany was concerned: "Human labour is our greatest asset. That includes foreign labour."

Currently, Mr. Williams reported there are 218,000 foreign labourers in West Germany, 15,000 more than a year ago. About 30 percent of them have come from Italy, others from the Netherlands, Austria, Spain and Greece.

West Germany, it appears, has become a Mecca for unemployed, unskilled workers from all parts of Europe. Futhermore, the many-power agreement on industry has led its industrialists, with

Want Grants, Hate Taxes

Rideau Dominion

One of the most hopeless wastes of time that we know of is the fault with governments spending money as we'll as we've always thought we may be members of groups that are at the same time asking the same government for a grant in aid of some pet activities. We grouch about our heavy tax bills and at the same time approve of some scheme or other at or other project on the ground that the government will reduce taxes if it has a large financial grant. We forget that the government has no "grants" except out of our pockets in the first place.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

CONDITIONING

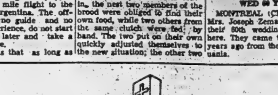
Some kinds of birds take much longer to mature than others. An eagle remains in the nest for about three months and then must take lessons in hunting before it can shift for itself. A gannet is fed by its mother for 4 1-2 months. A redwinged blackbird leaves the brood after 13 days and a chestnut-sided warbler may go when only six days old. But these parents help their young to forage for some time after this. There is really no definite age at which young birds become independent. Some are forced to look after themselves while yet very, very young; others are pampered by their parents.

Chipping sparrows and yellow-throats come into this last class. Many weeks after they should be independent the immatures are still following their mother and father around, demanding attention.

INDEPENDENCE NECESSARY

However, the majority of parents though they seem cruel are actually kind, shoving their offspring away just as soon as they are able to pick up food. This independence is necessary, particularly for migrants that must go soon after acquiring proper flight feathers; travel hundreds of miles and discover for themselves suitable spots for both resting and feeding.

Watch the actions of families on a feeding tray. The young are introduced to the food and fed for a few days, then helped to a certain extent for several days more until they know enough to take sufficient food for themselves, and finally pushed away by the parents whenever they come near. This treatment puts them into a condition to fend for themselves.



A GOOD EXAMPLE

The necessity for early independence is illustrated by many of our shore birds, the golden plover being a good example. Adults leave their nesting grounds in our arctic tundras before the young are equipped for the 8,000 mile flight to the pampas of Argentina. The offspring, with no guide and no previous experience, do not start until a little later and take a different route.

The truth is that as long as food is put into the mouth of a young bird it will make no attempt to feed itself. An experiment was made with a family of birds. Very soon after leaving the nest two members of the brood were obliged to find their own food, while two others from the same clutch were fed by hand. The two put on their own quickly adjusted themselves to the new situation; the other two continued their infant behavior, begging for food up to the age of 7 1-2 months. How like human children this is!

Holy Rosary Hears Report on Civic Action

The October meeting of Holy Rosary C.W.L. Parish Council was held in the meeting room with 17 members and four visitors present. Mrs. E. Schreiber presiding, called on Father Maurice to recite the opening prayer.

Mrs. A. Eves reported 71 paid up members. Mrs. J. Thompson reported $10 in prizes given to the school children for the highest marks in religious study. Mrs. W. Smith gave a report of the Civic Action meeting she attended. It was decided by the C.W.L. nursery to be started in the near future.

The ladies from the Legion of Mary times to explain the special Sunday at St. Anne's Church in Point Anne on Nov. 13, 1960.

It was decided that the business for the meeting be closed.

Harmony S.C. Presents Honor Certificates

The Harmony Studio Club met at the home of Mrs. E. Veley, 11 Holloway Street, Thursday.

The chairman welcomed the guests and the various reports were received.

Mrs. Veley was sorry to report the death of Mrs. Gurney Reid. Mrs. Reid was a member of the Harmony Studio Club and was a past treasurer of the organization for eight years. Sympathy of the club is extended to Mr. Reid.

Mrs. Bolton the club's annual "Congratulatory Meeting". Mrs. Veley introduced her sister, Mrs. Leslie Pope, of Trenton, who entertained the honored guests and the remainder of the program was a running commentary on some of their visits this past summer. The colorful scenic pictures of the Algonquin Park and Minden area; the historic pictures of Jamestown, Plymouth and other places, depicting the story of the early England; and Eastern Canada were both entertaining and educational.

Marina Bongard expressed thanks to Mrs. Pope.

Marilyn Bongard played "Waltz in A major by Brahms, and Mrs. Bongard played Kuhlau's "Rondo."

Karen Flindall rendered "Two Guards" accompanied by Peter Bach: "Valse in G" by Chopin and Rosemary Bongard.

Mrs. Veley spoke of the $50 scholarship being given by the organization. She stated that many would be listening and appreciated the students that are playing each Tuesday evening.

HONOR STUDENTS

Cards of congratulations from the Ontario Registrar for the 1960 Conservatory examinations. Those obtaining that honor were as follows: Grade one, Susan Sweet; grade two, Bonny Lee Faulkner; grade three, Stewart "with"; grade four, Jim Sweet; grade five, Sharon Bailard; grade six, Stephen Flindall; grade nine, Roger Ling; grade ten, Wayne Vance.

Veley Harmony Studio Club presented congratulatory cards to those students who have successfully completed their first sight, nine or ten, and have received honor certificates. Those students are: grade eight, Brenda Bongard; grade nine, Sharon McDonald and Roger Ling; grade ten, Wayne Vance.

Mrs. Lois Bradshaw, an old student and winner of many certificates, presented certificates to those pupils present who had successfully passed the Conservatory examinations this year.

Refreshments were served.

Wedding

POST — EMERSON

Calvary Temple, Belleville, was the setting for a pretty wedding scene, for a quiet wedding when Faith Mae Emerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elliott, of Stirling, was united in marriage to Alfred Clair Post, also of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Post of Moira, Ontario. The Reverend Laurie Price officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

The sanctuary of the chapel was rendered by the Reverend Hope Price, of Calvary Temple, who accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Walter Warren, of Stirling, couple of the bride, during the signing of the register.

The bride was attractively attired in powder-blue lace with matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Rose, who was gowned in royal blue with corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Gwellyn Post attended his brother as groomsman.

Following the ceremony, the happy couple left for the United States via Montreal, through the Adirondacks to Philadelphia, and the Blue Ridge Mountains of Pennsylvania, to Cleveland, Ohio, and home by Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Post will reside in Belleville.

Club Activities

KEEN AGE CLUB MEETING

The November meeting of the Keen Age Club of Tabernacle United Church was held on Wednesday in the church parlor with the president, Stella Burley presiding.

Jean Joyce conducted the worship period which was chosen from the booklet, "Christ and You," by W. Fraser Munro. The problems of disciplines are unobserved as an increase recurs and yet a large extent they vary with the degree which the disciple lives. In many ways the present period of history is extraordinarily difficult for the practice of Christian discipleship. It is never easy for the disciple to be at his Master but these days confront one with some unusual problems. Two world wars and their aftermath have had a chilling effect on moral idealism. Fear, the stern and restrictive morality of the past there has been a swing in the opposite direction. Freedom has run riot. Science, which promised great things has proven itself incapable of being the world's savior. We have learned to split the atom before we learned to unite mankind and the result is constant fear, and a universal fear that the human race is on the road to self-destruction.

Secularism and materialism are rampant. Secularism is "this world-ism," the belief though the present world were everything. That the world is a self-sufficient largely physical, secularism tends toward materialism, living as though things and the accumulation of them were of prime importance. It is not a conscious philosophy so much as it is a climate in which we live. There is a great progress in physical science and material wealth but little advance in understanding and appropriation of spiritual power.

Yet ever against the dark cloud of confusion stands the disciple. He views it calmly, not recoiling in fear or alive in such an age, not impatiently waiting for the end. In the midst he declares with confidence, "My times are in Thy hands."

There have been other eras of confusion, fear and uncertainty. The light of the Gospel of Christ has never failed to clear away the fog. In the book of Acts, the Bible says, "The light shineth in darkness and the darkness does not overcome it." It history has not been a story of a period of confusion is standards and values is no excuse for black out. The light is there, and it is the Church it sounds a challenge to disciple.

"The times in which our lives are living

Are a chastening rod,
The world, confused and distressed,
Arise, O Church of God."

The meeting was closed with a prayer of reassurance that the Way of the Master is the guiding light to true discipleship.

Routine points of business were discussed which included the Christmas Tea and the annual all church 'Frosty Fair' being held on December 3rd.

A home bake sale was held with much merriment and high bidding taking place for goodies. The proceeds were turned over to the Building and Maintenance Fund.

A social hour followed with refreshments being served by the hostess committee.

Remarks Candidate's Wife Gets Tired of Hearing

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks a political candidate's wife gets tired of hearing:

"I can see what she sees in him—but what does he see in her?"

"Don't you find campaigning with your husband real exciting?"

"Put your shoes back on, Effie. We hit the next town in five minutes."

"Today you act as judge at the county fair apple pie baking contest. You'll have to sample each of the 27 entries, or if I were you I'd skip breakfast."

"Your smile has been slipping a little, honey. Don't worry, it's only just a bit harder? Remember, sweetie, you always inspire confidence in the voters."

"Now that you've met the common people what do you really think of them?"

THAT HAT

"I wonder where she got that hat—at a Salvation Army rummage sale?"

"We know you must be awfully tired of chicken and peas, so we fixed up a real luncheon surprise for you—lamb and peas!"

"That's the next stop, Effie, tell them what beer land your grandfather worked as a coal miner—but don't mention about him abandoning his wife and nine children."

"I like the other candidate's wife much better. At least she knows how to dress."

"That looks like a Paris original all right—left over from the French revolution."

NO MINUS

"Better put away the mink and wear your old cloth coat at the next stop, Effie. They got a lot of unemployment there."

"I hate to mention this, honey, but you're chewing a piece right through my last speech. If your girdle is that tight, get a looser one."

"Is that his wife or his mother? Public life must be hard on wives. They usually look older than their husbands."

"Wake up, Effie. Put your shoes on quick. Here we go again."

This — and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It's some time since "I and "I indulged in White and that exercise which included the ramblings of thoughts unleashed by items picked up from here and there. So often we would like to have a particular item or issue that reaches up and report on it in depth, but we can't not be original, but it might be interesting.

Particularly startling is the October issue of the UNESCO Courier with its startling report of "racism". Several of its issues have been devoted to this "social cancer of our time. It gnaws away slowly and insidiously until it invades the whole organism of society and erupts in violence and hatred.

The executive board of UNESCO recently adopted and issued the following statement: "The executive board of UNESCO, noting with great concern the recrudescence of manifestations of racial hatred, anti-Semitism, and discrimination, which have occurred in various regions in recent months, particularly in the Union of South Africa, leading to serious social disorder and loss of life — Recalling the terms of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and of the Constitution of UNESCO, which condemn all discrimination against any person on grounds of race, religion or sex — calls upon the governments of all Member States to take all steps in their power to combat every form of racial discrimination, anti-Semitism, violence and hatred which may occur within their territories."

An editorial states: "Neither anthropology, nor biology — nor for that matter any branch — offers the slightest justification for racial dogmas, which are based on discredited scientific notions or emotional irrationalism. The full facts still need to be placed before every person so that the menace of racism may one day be eradicated." There are thirty-three pages of pictures and factual reporting as well as scientific information on this subject which completely permeates most of the dangerous and explosive threats throughout the world. UNESCO is now, and has since its inception been working towards the solution of this problem. We wish that a copy of the October issue of the UNESCO Courier was made available to every secondary school and home in Canada.

UNESCO does not believe that children are born with prejudice, so they are striving to teach the teachers throughout the world who in turn have such a great influence "I and I" hopes that our Board of Education and our schools are availing themselves of all the aids offered by UNESCO in this vital area of education. Also every effort within the means and capacity of UNESCO are being bent to the goal of world peace through possible medium. The racial mind is a "counterfeiter of reality".

It is unfortunate that some people whose task in life is to entertain and whose influence it is to put a foot in their mouths when they open them on subjects they do not know. A Canadian woman performer seems to have put her foot in her mouth by saying the wrong thing than she should her performance. We wish that she had discussed it been with us at the radio station. Then we would have had cause in with his UNICEF Tree and his theme song "The share of "shell-out" and he knew to the last cent how people children and how much they could afford to give. Perhaps we'll be wiser when we've grandchildren for a younger generation. We must be misguided as well. Maybe Danny Kaye who has contributed so much of his talent and time to this UNICEF could put a word in on the right track.

Maybe Miss Davidson meant no constructive harm when because no matter how worthy the project, man has yet to find a fad in costume called for treats that in his hand a tree. Yet so it appeared, covered with UNICEF. He said after labeling his handful of candy — "I am collecting for the Red Cross". Isn't that sad? We are told we have to go indeed, but we cannot help but wear keep them.

A weekend thought from Sir Julien Huxley: "Racism is based on the same belief that inspired Hitler — and that is the inherent and permanent superiority of some race and the inferiority and permanent inferiority of others".

Rose Making Demonstrated At Moira W.A.

The October meeting of Moira W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. A. Mumby, with 11 members and seven visitors present.

The president, Miss B. Holbert opened the meeting in the usual manner and welcomed Mrs. Tucker, District President, and the other visitors.

It was decided to have the children canvass for the Blind.

Mrs. A. Mumby presented the following program: music by Miss, "Harbor Lights", Mrs. Tucker D.P., spoke on "Citizenship", Mrs. Mumby, "You Ain't Seen Nothing Yet"; reading by Mrs. J. Holden, "Flower Arrangement."

Mrs. Morris gave an interesting demonstration on making paper roses Zach lady making a rose.

A small gift was presented to Mrs. Tucker.

Hostess and assistants served refreshments.

Massassaga W.A. Told of Edmonton Trip

A meeting of the Massassaga W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. George Flower on November 2nd, with Mrs. Wilmot Flower, presiding.

There were 18 members and one visitor present.

The guest speaker was Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, who is president of Presbytery W.A. She gave an interesting account of her recent trip to Edmonton to attend a Presbyterial meeting in Alberta. She stressed that the reason she had this wonderful opportunity was because she always accepted every opportunity and challenge which the W.A. had offered her.

She was thanked by Mrs. Norman Salisbury.

Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Salisbury, Mrs. R. Way, Mrs. M. Davidson and Miss Judy Davidson.

A social hour followed.

SPEAKING OF THE SEA

"Outside the ocean lies. It looks like the back of a great animal wrinkling its skin of water."—Ben Hecht.

The conversation had turned to the sea and the lure it held for men.

Someone mentioned the fact they had heard that the fishermen of the Sea of Galilee now fished with radar and nylon nets. Another brought up the subject of fishing today; how one ardent fisherman prizes a fine collection of hand-wrought fishing rods, made by himself with help from no one. He makes five and six-sided ones from split bamboo, including the ferrules and constructs the bets with much precision. (To be exact this fisherman is Dr. Carl A. Frische, president of the American Sperry Gyroscope Company.)

Then a young father spoke up with a pride that shone in the bluest of blue eyes.

"I'm from Newfoundland, and my family have been fishermen for generations back. It used to be very dangerous work. More so than now. Ten or say a great-uncles were drowned at sea. In those days they used to sail with a cargo of codfish down around the Great Horn, then across the Pacific to China for spices, in exchange. They sailed, then, with the Newfoundland before taking it to England. The Americans had their own ships and did the same, so there was no use of selling spices to them.

"The Cape was the tricky spot. Ships that was crossed, the worst was over. You see, the two currents of the Atlantic and the Pacific meet there and it's a race to great waves and winds so fierce that many are destroyed.

"But now, in Newfoundland, the men just fish near at home, mostly around the Grand Banks. In our village of 600 there has been only one drowned at sea and I can remember, as men have great respect for the sea (those who haven't, don't last long!) but they know just how to treat it. For instance, they will bring back a fishing boat so loaded with fish, that the rim of the boat is only inches from its above water, with the men bailing and bailing out the water that dashes in.

"What fish do they catch chiefly?" he was asked.

KING SALMON

"The king of the sea fish is the salmon," he said, "which comes once a year inland to spawn. They always come back to the same spot where they were born for this. I've caught some as large as 30 pounds, though their usual weight is about seven pounds. Actually, the smaller they are, the older they are. That's why there are so few big ones! You don't live long in the sea.

"Does this work bring good pay?" someone asked.

"Usually, the fishermen are paid two cents a pound for their catch. In the stores the prices will be 10 times that. But, that is the way it is. It's the same here, as far as I can remember".

The talk now veered to the navy and sailors.

Said one sailor: "My 24-year-old son, who is with—the navy is at present taking special navigation courses. He knows, by no idea whether he will stay with the navy though." As much as I try to tell him that life is the same all over, he seems to be fired with the idea of seeing foreign lands, whereby he can impress the growing need, there here are the threat of unexpected political crises. I refer to the recent blast at Windsor.

Dr. Scott asked if I subscribe to consider and to discuss with him the urgent requirements of need for immediate expansion if the district is to meet the demands of the growth of Belleville.

A question period indicated that the audience was receptive to the urgent requirements of their hospital. Many questions were asked and the desire for more information was expressed.

Dr. Donald Scott Addresses Madoc W.C.

MADOC — Dr. Donald M. Scott, president of the medical staff at Belleville General Hospital, addressed the Women's Institute of the Presbyterian Church in Madoc this week.

Dr. Scott reviewed the history of the hospital and retracing the history of its progress step by step over the past 75 years. He caught the imagination of his audience. Too few people in the district, it was pointed out, are aware of the amazing, even spectacular record of B.G.H.

Dr. Scott devoted considerable time with facts and figures, illustrating the tremendous growth of the hospital during and since the war. Few people realized how the extra burdens being coped with because of the unprecedented growth in population, both throughout the county and the city of Belleville are mandated. The audience learned that in spite of the new wing population has grown so rapidly that there is little or no cent right now, instead of only 80 per cent. This fact is becoming more and more acute with the rapid growth of this area. The question period was one concise and challenge because, over and above the plan to maintain the growing need, there here are the threat of unexpected political crises. I refer to the recent blast at Windsor.

Dr. Scott asked if I subscribe to consider and to discuss with him the urgent requirements of need for immediate expansion if the district is to meet the demands of the growth of Belleville.

A question period indicated that the audience was receptive to the urgent requirements of their hospital. Many questions were asked and the desire for more information was expressed.

'Toll Gates' Talk Given At L.W. Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the United Lutheran Church Women was held in the parsonage, 27 Melrose Crescent.

Devotions and a short topic "The Only True Religion," was presented by Mrs. A. Bartleman.

After a brief business meeting the chair was turned over to Mrs. Herbert Hamilton, Devotional Fever and Mrs. Max Woodruff, delegate to the Ninth Biennial convention of the U.L.C.W. held in Kitchener the end of September.

Main speakers at the convention were Miss E. G. Price, Pittsburgh, Pa.; the Rev. Clifton Meek, Winnipeg, Manitoba; and Mr. Roland Hoover, Toronto, Ariz., who is now attending Waterloo Seminary.

The theme of the convention was "Highways of the King". On these highways there are four important gates:

Toll Gate No. 1 — decision, to interest as many women of the congregation as possible; to give of their time and talents in the work of the Lord.

Toll Gate No. 2 — development. To use the material available in various women's Bible Work.

Toll Gate No. 3 — dedication. To do as many projects as it can do and look after the various jobs around the church.

Toll Gate No. 4 — donations. To give freely as much as possible to help the Lutheran mission fields, colleges, home for the aged. Money is the most effective and most economical gift of all.

Mrs. Bartleman thanked the delegates for their most informative report of the convention. After the meeting adjourned, lunch was served by Mrs. Linderman and Mrs. Heidbohmer.

FALLS, UNHURT

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two-year-old Danny Erickson lay contentedly in a crib in Children's Hospital today as doctors marvelled at his apparently unscathed condition after falling from a third-floor window.

The 27-pound child fell Wednesday from the apartment of his grandmother, Mrs. Viola Shields, while he and his mother, Mrs. Dee Erickson, were visiting.

A Lift for Living

'Meek Shall Inherit the Earth'

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

On Tuesday the citizens of our nation, (the U.S.) will again exercise the right of choosing their chief executive. There is something inspiring in the sight of millions of people going to the polls in orderly, sober fashion to cast their votes. We with Mr. Khrushchev might have remained to see it.

Ours, to be sure, has been a political campaign not always conducted on the highest plane. Some things have been done and said unworthy of a great republic.

But in a few weeks the bitterness will have passed, mud will go about their business and the country will carry on. Whatever our party preferences, we ought to thank God for the privilege of living in a land which still believes in settling its political issues by ballots rather than bullets.

What the result of this immediate election will be we do not presume to predict. But looking farther ahead, we make bold to place our bets on what we confidently do say we are guided not by the votes of the current polls, but by the wisdom of Him who knew life, and realistically than any other person before or since to this day. That Galilean Figure, looking from the hearts of men and also at the horizons of history, made this prediction: "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth."

SEEMS IMPRACTICAL

Such an assertion would make the election bettors of our day smile in derision. To say that the meek will be the ultimate rulers of America and of the earth seems to the most unpractical and preposterous statement which could be made. The idea of meekness as the road to victory appears so absurd that a magazine some years ago in the spirit of irony offered a framed copy of this third Beatitude to any meek man who had the good sense.

Let us try to be clear as to what the Master meant by the word "meek" when He said: "they shall inherit the earth."

Clearly Jesus could not have meant that when He said: "take my yoke upon you and learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart" He was inviting persons who bluster and are heavy handed" to team up with Him and share His strength. The Revised Standard Version of the Bible translates the word "meek" here as "gentle." And the Hebrew derivation of the word suggests "being molded." The meek man is the God-molded person who brings his strength to the point of gentleness.

Gentleness is a mark of real strength. We see this in our be.t modern motor cars and our giant liners which start without fanfare and glide to a stop. In Scott's "Ivanhoe" the sidling inward does not carry the wounded knight off the field but caused him intense pain. But when the giant came, he lifted the sufferer like a featherweight and without a jolt bore him away to safety.

Jesus taught and demonstrated the gentleness of true gianthood. And this is a push out power-seeking age needs to learn.

The meek, whose strength is thus molded and trained to gentleness, are blessed because they get more values out of their own natures. Their passions are under such control that they are not at war against the barriers of their limitations and cramping energy which might be otherwise wasted in battering themselves well in hand. They can direct their heads to more things.

"JUST BURN US UP"

The meek inherit more of the earth because their passions are anger and thus escape so many of those experiences which we say, "just burns us up." Queen Elizabeth I once said to a courtier who had lost his temper, "Ah, Sir Philip, anger often makes men wise but it always keeps them poor."

Moreover, the God-tempered meek persons are blessed because they get not only more values out of themselves, but also more co-operation from others.

Daniel Prohman told a dramatic incident in which the actress Modjeska figured. At the climax of one of her scenes the curtain failed to descend. It was most embarrassing. The audience began to laugh. Modjeska at the stage and responsible. Modjeska met the fellow a few moments later, she slapped his face. "Naughty, naughty." Thereafter, she had the whole company with her, body and soul.

The old proverb has the truth. "He that ruleth his spirit, (a greater) than he that taketh a city." It is the long pull the figures that most firmly hold the hearts of men are the rulers of the spirit like Socrates, Moses, Saint Francis of Assisi and above all Jesus of Nazareth.

If worldly men are too blind to believe this Beatitude, then "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth" after the proud have killed themselves off trying to possess it.

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, the editor and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, not with character, enunciated by guidance counsellors and social workers

Mrs. N. S.—We can't get him inside a church any more.

Rabbi K.—It is difficult for me to see. It's for fanatics.

Mrs. N. L.—We have five children and we brought them up in a God-fearing and faithful members of our church. Ralph, our youngest, is now 18 and absolutely refuses to set foot in the church any more. Ralph is not in his friends, a bunch of those beatnik kids who don't believe in anything except beer and boogie music.

Three of our children are married and have given us grandchildren. It's gotten so we try to keep the youngsters away from Uncle Ralph because he's so mocking and blasphemous.

We can't have him around at family gatherings. He only starts arguments about religion, calls us idiots and morons.

What has happened to him? Will he ever find his way back?

Rabbi L.—I'm afraid I'm not clear about the importance of God and the church in a man's life.

*** * ***

Ralph L.—Church leaves me cold. It's an absolute waste of time. I get more out of sitting in the library reading Shakespeare or Robert Frost.

Can't my mother leave me alone? My mother says I argue. She didn't tell you that they kicked me out of high school for ever trying to "save" me and tell them to save their breath. If they want to go to church, I'll be happy to keep out of the way. I'm different, I think it's all primitive, quaint folklore. I had my bar mitzvah and all that.

And just because my friends are people who play instruments and enjoy jam sessions, they aren't beatniks. I want to find our inspiration from music, whether it's jazz or Gregorian.

My mother has nothing to fear. I'm seeking guidance. I'm looking for truth, but in my own way. I can't swallow that Biblical hocus-pocus.

*** * ***

The Council: Here is the eternal debate between the believer and the skeptic. Ralph is saying that what's good enough for his parents is not good enough for him.

There is nothing wrong with his refusal to accept his religion "on faith" and without question. What's wrong is his intolerance and belittlement of those who take an opposite stand. Some highly intelligent people still want to accept the faith of their fathers in a newly tied package, and hope to pass it on to their descendants, unmodified and untampered with.

To them it's a sacred trust.

In between the two extremes of unquestioning obedience and complete rejection, one finds still more people of brains and good will trying to adapt their ancestral creeds to their present day needs.

But to pooh-pooh all organized religion is a bit foolhardy for a young man who has not yet found anything to take its place. He admits he needs guidance. He prefers to go after it as a do-it-yourself project. He will find he also needs solace and comfort and strength. It's a tall order and Mozart may fall him at times. Generations of doubters before him found that the God of all religions is more reliable, more available on short notice, than a sonnet, a statue or an operatic aria. Even Ralph's idols, from Shakespeare to Gerald, concede that.

The Council not press the issue. All teenagers need targets and Ralph has chosen one which can't shoot back on the spot.

In addition, he's enjoying the "rise" he gets out of his family. There's a heady feeling of power, and perhaps years of being forced into church and religious conformity by his parents.

When his bitter feelings are spent, Ralph may find a more brave and constructive way of showing his independence than mocking his family's piety. He may well find that his quest for truth leads him back to where he started.

So when the long road is but a long loop leading back to the same old time-tested landmarks. The detours have proved dead end.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

Question: I am entertaining a group of my club associates at a small luncheon. It is to take place in my home. Should I wear a hat, or does that mean that I would be Mrs. P. H. Alberta, Canada.

Answer: When entertaining in her own home a lady never wears a hat. Most of the guests probably will do so. Whether or not they remove them depends upon how informal the party is.

Question: I was married in September and have just returned from my honeymoon. I have been introducing my new husband as "Mr. John Green." A friend tells me that she knows this is wrong, but she herself doesn't have an idea of how it should be done. Can you tell me?—Mrs. G. H., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: As your husband's surname is naturally the same as your own, it is not necessary to mention the name at all. All you have to say is "Mrs. Jenkins, may I present my husband" or "Mrs. Jenkins, my husband."

Question . . . Being a bachelor I try to pay my social debts by having small dinner parties in my home. I always serve wine with each course. Some of my guests have annoyed me by turning their wine glasses upside down on the table to indicate that they do not wish any more. Is this a new social observance? To me it seems extremely rude and I am wondering if you agree with me?—Mr. T. C., New York, N.Y.

Answer . . . I most certainly do! I can assure you that it is not a new "social observance." Turning the wine glasses upside down is a rude and conspicuous way of saying "no more," and definitely slamms the person who does so as one who is socially inexperienced (or who just doesn't care). The fact that one does not wish more wine can easily be indicated by a quiet "No, thank you" when it is passed to you. This is all that is proper — or necessary.

Chapman's W.I. Tea, Bazaar Successful

TWEED—Chapman's Women's Institute held a successful bazaar and tea on the evening of October 20th.

The township hall was prettily decorated with yellow and blue, the Institute colors, arranged by Mrs. M. Coughlin and Mrs. Cook.

The bazaar tables along the one side consisted of many things for sale; potted plants, aprons, mittens, crochet articles, candy, cookies, cakes, pies, home made bread, which soon disappeared.

ATTRACTIVE TEA TABLE

The tea table on the other side with its silver candelabra and floral centrepiece added to the attractiveness of the hall. The smaller tables were arranged from the head table to back of the hall.

Those pouring tea included the district president, Mrs. Robert Tucker, and the past presidents, Mrs. Albert Martin, Mrs. Sam Dadoe, Mrs. Harry Coulter, Mrs. Stan Bateman and Mrs. Mitchell Rankin.

The district was well represented with members from Quinte W.I., Tyendinaga, Shannonville W.I., Shelzdon W.I. and Roslin W.I.

There were tickets sold on various things and winners were as follows: satin cushion, won by Mrs. J. D. Donnelly, donated by Mrs. Wilson Kelly; floral centrepiece, donated, by Mrs. A. Martin, won by Mrs. Holmes of Tweed; angel cake, donated by Mrs. Ivan Bird, won by Tom Kelly, won by Mrs. W. L. Ketchenon; fancy plastic handbag, donated by Mrs. Harry Coulter, won by Mrs. Bob Woods of Tweed; door prize, 10 pounds of potatoes, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, won by Mrs. Wilfred LaBerge, of Thombury.

LETTER:

. . . Here is my recipe for Angel Food (recommended) . . . Mrs. K. S. T.

ANGEL FOOD:

(Mrs. K. S. T.)

One cup sifted cake flour, 1-2 cup sifted sugar (sift together 3 times), 1-4 cup (8 large) egg whites, 1 1-4 teaspoons cream of tartar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 teaspoon almond extract, 1 cup sifted sugar. (Note: Eggs must be at room temperature). Beat egg whites till very foamy. Add cream of tartar, salt, vanilla, and almond extract and continue beating at high speed until egg whites hold very definite peaks. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time and continue beating until all is just blended. With rubber scraper fold in flour-sugar mixture, about 1-4 cup at a time, fold in lightly but thoroughly. Pour into ungreased 10 x 4 inch tube pan. Bake 40 to 45 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Invert pan until cake is cold before removing from pan.

ing powder, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter, 3-4 cup milk, 4 apples cut in eighths.

Mix and sift dry ingredients, work in butter with tips of fingers, add milk gradually, mixing with a knife, toss on floured board, pat and roll out, place apples on middle of dough and sprinkle with one tablespoon sugar mixed with 1-4 teaspoon each of salt and nutmeg, bring dough around apples and carefully lift into buttered mould or 8-pound lard pail, apples may be sprinkled over dough and dough rolled like jelly roll; cover closely, and steam one hour and twenty minutes; serve with Vanilla Sauce.

LEMON MERINGUE SQUARES:

1-2 cup butter or margarine, 1-2 cup icing sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon lemon rind, grated, 1-2 teaspoon salt.

TOPPING:

2 egg whites, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-2 cup chopped nuts.

Cream butter or margarine and sugar together. Add egg yolks and blend. Stir in flour, grated rind and salt. Spread butter mixture in a 9" pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 5 minutes. Beat egg whites until stiff, gradually beat in sugar and lemon juice. Fold in nuts. Spread over hot, partially baked butter and continue baking at 350 deg. for 25 minutes. Cool then cut into squares. These may be cut into 3" squares if desired, and served under a scoop of ice cream for dessert.

Crescent Rebekah Lodge 1960-1 Officers Installed by D. D. Pres.

At Thomasburg on the evening of October 24th, an impressive ceremony took place when the officers of Crescent Rebekah Lodge were duly installed by District Deputy President, Sis. Mary Plumpton, and her installing staff of Quintenea Rebekah Lodge, Belleville District No. 4.

Lodge was organed in regular form with Noble Grand Joyce Fisher welcoming over 90 Sisters and Brothers.

Larger baskets of 'mums, white, mauve, bronze and gold framed the dais of the Noble Grand and the vice-Grand.

The D. D. President, Sis. Mary Plumpton, was introduced by P. N. G. Sis. Joyce Letchford, and presented with a corsage of white carnations by Warden Sis. Ila Calvert, and officially welcomed and escorted through the guard of honor, seated to the right of the Noble Grand.

Sis. Joyce Fisher, N. G., requested that Sis. Dorothy Fisher, P. D. D. President, and Bro. Cecil Green, P. D. D. M., of the Madoc District No. 45, have an honorary seat to her left.

At this time, Sis. and Bro. Willard McTaggart, recent bride and bridegroom, were presented with a gift of a lamp, from the lodge.

Following general business, Crescent officers vacated their chairs and D. D. President and the installing staff took charge. The installation was capably exemplified with D. D. Marshal Sis. Orese Adams. Much was added to the beauty of the installation by the duets of Sisters Nina Neal and Maxwell Shilla.

The elected and appointed officers were each presented with a corsage, before being installed in their respective chairs. The Noble Grand-elect received a corsage of red roses from her husband and children.

1961 OFFICERS

The officers for the coming term are: — N. G. — Frances Kellar; V. G. — Leah Fisher; recording secretary — Doris Lawrenson; finance secretary — Eileen Coulter; treasurer — Eileen Green; warden — Isobel Martin (Jr. — absent); conductor — Bernice Boothe; musician — Verle Mumby; chaplain — Lillian McTaggart; color bearer — Ethel Slingerland; R. S. N. G. — Joyce Letchford; L. S. N. G. — Edna Relenaar; R. S. V. G. — Ila Calvert; L. S. V. G. — Margaret Geen (Sr.); inside guard— Marion Morton; outside guard — Ellen Kincaid; P. N. G. — Joyce Fisher; and degree captain — Harry Coulter.

The new Noble Grand gave an inspiring address and expressed her appreciation to the lodge for election and will endeavor, with God's help, to fulfill her obligations.

A sincere thanks to all who assisted prior to and after the installation, and to Sisters Ethel Slingerland for making corsages.

P.D.D. President, Sis. Mary Plumpton, in her message, compared the little lodges to that of a big forest with the little pines. Sisters Joyce Fisher, P.N.G., and Leah Fluke, V.G., presented her with a gift.

Sis. Joyce Fisher, P.N.G., was called upon and expressed her thanks to the lodge for her jewel and assistance during the past year. Sisters Mary Jeffrey, PNG, and Leona Brough, PNG, presented her with a gift from the lodge.

Sis. Ila Addey, N.G. of Quinteina; Sis. Gladys Rice, N.G. of Tweed; Sis. Dorothy Fisher, P.D.D. President; Sis. Annie Rose, P.D.D. President; Sis. Orese Adams, D.D. Marshall; Bro. Cecil Green, P.D.D.G.M. and Bro. Ronald Fluke, N.G., all spoke briefly, wishing for each all success during their term of office.

Gifts to the lodge Grand were from D.D. President, her mother and family, aunt and mother-in-law.

At the close of lodge, the Sisters and Brothers retired to the lower hall which was beautifully decorated with large baskets of 'mums and potted plants. So while background the emblems of the lodge were used and the pillars of the hall decorated with evergreens bearing nosegays of yellow and white 'mums.

LOVELY HEAD-TABLE

The head table was lovely with a large rose centrepiece and pansies flanked by pink fan-shaped candleholders with green candles. The place cards were trimmed with pansies. The side tables also carried out the same decorations.

A delicious banquet was convened by Sisters Joyce Fisher, Joyce Letchford and Janet Fraser.

The D.D. President expressed sincere thanks to the Crescent Sisters.

During the banquet, birthday wishes were extended to Sis. Margaret Drummond, mother of the District Deputy, and to Sis. Merle Kinsley.

Your Car

Never Take Distributor For Granted

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Dependable, satisfactory car operation just isn't possible when the ignition distributor is not kept at its peak.

In fact, inadequate distributor service is the leading cause of reduced gas mileage, speed loss, hard starting, stalling, missing, backing and overheating.

True, the distribution is an efficient, durable precision mechanism. That's probably why it is so often taken for granted. But without attention it can't go on operating properly. It needs some help to fight moisture, corrosion, carbon, dirt, heat, wear and vibration.

Distributor cap, terminals, rotor, breaker arm, condenser, points, advance mechanism, plug cables — any one of these parts can be responsible when you are blaming the car engine for all your troubles. Keep in mind that a distributor tuneup every 2,000 miles can actually cut your car operating expenses. And it's certain to add to your driving enjoyment.

S.C. writes: "You have spoken about crankcase air cleaners a few times. Where are they located on my car?"

(A) On your car there are two crankcase air filters. One is in the breather pipe near the opening and the other is in the oil filler cap.

M.D. asks: "I am buying a new car next month, and I would appreciate some advice, particularly the don'ts about driving the first 1,000 miles."

(A) Don't drive at a sustained speed for long periods, don't confine yourself to slow, poky operation or attempt very high speeds and don't be timid about driving the car at a brisk pace.

From Mrs. H. W.: "When the gasoline people speak of octane ratings, what do they mean?"

(A) Octane is the term or number used to rate the burning speed of gasoline. In other words, the lower the octane value, the more rapid the gasoline will burn in your car engine.

A. J. writes: "The term 'average (or normal) driving conditions' is used frequently in my car owner's manual. Just what is considered average or normal?"

(A) When total mileage consists of approximately two-thirds highway and one-third city driving, it is accepted as average.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, public education has been a principal concern and its support a sustained policy of our city, province and federal governments,

Whereas, it is becoming increasingly recognized that ignorance and freedom are incompatible, and an efficient school system in each community is vital to the preservation of our Canadian way of life.

And whereas, the observance of a special Education Week each year affords opportunity for parents to visit schools, for community leaders to discuss critical school problems, and for general re-appraisal of public education with a view to its betterment.

Therefore, I A. McLean Haig, Mayor of Belleville, do proclaim the week of November 6th to 12th to be Canadian Education Week in this city.

Dated at the Mayor's Office the 5th day of November, 1960.

A. McLean Haig, O.B.E.
Mayor

S.S. No.2 Pupils, Parents Enjoy Wild Life Slides

AMELIASBURG — The pupils of the intermediate grades of S.S. No. 2, Ameliasburg, entertained all the pupils of the school and their parents and friends in a social evening on Hallowe'en, in Redeemville Church.

The program was opened in the usual manner followed by an interesting chairman's address by Mr. Hippen.

The children, dressed in costume, sang a chorus of Hallowe'en songs, under the leadership of Mrs. Rorabeck. An interesting and educational essay on UNICEF was ably given by Gwen Ward, a student.

Mrs. Emery introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Wallis, a well-known naturalist, who showed slides of wild life, accompanied by her witty and educational commentary, explaining and describing each slide with an unlimited knowledge of her subjects.

Its beautiful coloring and natural setting, with the subjects totally unaware their privacy had been invaded, showed the perseverance and patience that Mrs. Wallis used to capture such outstanding pictures.

Mr. Landry, chairman of the school board, thanked Mrs. Wallis for her interesting and educational slides and talk.

Mrs. Tenney, the principal of the school, thanked the staff for their work in helping to prepare such an enjoyable evening's entertainment, the children for their music, and the parents for attending.

The W.A. added a generous donation to the proceeds of the evening, swelling the fund for the UNICEF.

BAR ORATORS

VICTORIA (CP) — The civic parks committee has rejected a suggestion for a "speaker's corner" in Beacon Hill Park here, similar to the long-established soap-box area in London's Hyde Park.

Public acceptance of 7-Up soft drink products in Belleville and district has necessitated the purchase of new trucks to augment distribution. At the same time the bottling plant, 119 Station Street, has been complete modernization with new water treating facilities, stainless steel mixing tanks and fully automatic bottling equipment installed. Seen above in front of the Station Street plant are recently purchased delivery trucks with divers.

Rawdon

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Sharp received news of the death of their son-in-law, Mr. Earl McMaster, Ivanhoe. The funeral was held Wednesday, Nov. 2, in Reubb-Ivanhoe Church, Several Rawdon relatives and friends were in attendance.

Messrs. Arthur Couch, Lyle Couch and Harvey Couch spent a couple of days at Verdun, Que., and attended the funeral of the farmer's nephew, Mr. Stanley Couch.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas MacAdam, Earl Street, are the parents of Lakefield, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Earl McAdam.

Mrs. Donn 3 Johnson spent a day last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos McKeiger, Peterboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jeffs and Jean spent a recent day in Toronto.

On Sunday morning at Mount Pleasant United Church the Sunday School delegates to "Camp Oaks" near Paris, Ontario, gave their reports at the Sunday School period. The delegates were Mrs. Milford Wrightman, Mrs. Harry McAdam and Miss Diane McAdam.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Terry and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pryar enjoyed a recent motor trip to the north country.

Carmel W.A. held its meeting at the Jubilee Church Hall with Mrs. Jack Armstrong in charge of the devotional.

SPECIAL CLAIM

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — This town 25 miles north of Toronto had a special appeal in asking the Canadian National Railways for an old steam locomotive to put on permanent display here. The first steam locomotive in Ontario ran from Toronto Aurora in 1853.

Kingston Names New Industrial Commissioner

KINGSTON (CP)—City council Thursday approved the appointment of E. T. A. Whitaker as industrial commissioner.

Mr. Whitaker, of Hamilton, was the successful applicant among 42 who applied for the newly-created post. He has been active in a number of related fields—banking, insurance, general office administration and operation of his own wholesale and import agency.

He also has been at times secretary manager of the Guelph board of trade and general manager of two other business firms.

NORTHERN SPUDS

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — An ambitious plan to expand potato production in Northern Ontario has been launched in the Timiskaming area. Ode farm at Englehart this year yielded 250 bushels to the acre, and another at Elk Lake produced 300 bushes an acre.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Miller, (nee Shirley Stewart), Toronto, have adopted a little daughter, Cathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Heath had supper on Saturday evening with their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heath and Carol.

Mrs. G. W. Jones, Stirling, spent Monday and Tuesday with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones.

On Friday night, the pupils of Mrs. Cora Reid held their Hallowe'en party in the afternoon at the Union School; while the 9th Line pupils held their party at the school in the evening. Later that night some persons, as yet unknown, were heard lurking around some of the 9th Line homes. On Saturday night they were around again, upsetting outside plumbing and fences; the Union School was broken into and the water pump broken. Provincial Police are investigating.

Several school-age tramps and ghosts visited Rylstone on Monday night, but these were orderly and respectful.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reid and George; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heath and Carol, were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mumby and family.

Agnes McKeown has returned home from Ottawa Winter Fair, where she won the reserve champion prize on her pair of Yorkshire gilts. The gilts, belonging to Agnes and her brother Paul, were also 2nd in the Hastings County Unit, in the county showing.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thomson and Andrew, 12th Line, called on his brother, Clarence, his wife and family, on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wally Jackson and Allison of Oshawa, were weekend guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Petherick. Mrs. Jackson and Allison remained for a few days.

WELLINGTON

United Church Marks 102nd Anniversary

WELLINGTON — The day was beautiful, the congregations were large; the minister was inspiring and challenging. It was Sunday, October 30, and the occasion of the 102nd anniversary of the Wellington United Church.

The Rev. D. Mansell Smith, B.A., B.D. D.Th., of Campbellford, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, was the guest speaker, and delivered two most helpful messages.

The morning theme was, "What Is the Church?" based on Ephesians 4. The evening theme was "Sin and Its Consequences," based on Romans 8.

Dr. Smith expressed the opinion that most of the trouble causing our confusion and misery in the world today was the result of sin. "Man sins because he does the wrong thing in the sight of God; he also sins because he fails to do the things he should do," declared the speaker. "Man needs to seek God's guidance and do His will."

The minister of the church, the Rev. A. Poulter, preached at Campbellford in the morning, but was present and conducted the service in the evening, and expressed the appreciation of the session of the church to Dr. Smith.

Music was rendered by the choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Jack McNeill. Mr. Reg Bishop sang a solo in the morning service and Mrs. Gorham rendered a solo at the evening service.

Th church was tastefully decorated with baskets of lovely chrysanthemums.

TRADE BOOSTERS

MONTREAL (CP)—West Germany's tourist information office in Canada distributed 342,700 promotional folders and posters in Canada in the first eight months of this year, to stimulate tourist travel to Germany.

Black Hawks Tangle With Canadiens

First Place Is At Stake

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks get a chance tonight to show whether they rate as a strong contender for first place in the National Hockey League this season.

The Hawks, who have never finished a season higher than second place since joining the league in 1926, started strongly this season but cooled off a bit in the past 10 days.

Tonight in Montreal they meet the Canadiens, with whom they've been swapping first place since the beginning of the season.

New York Rangers play the Maple Leafs in Toronto in the schedule's only other game. The two Canadian teams have Sunday off while Detroit and Winnipeg are host to the Rangers and Chicago goes to Boston to play the Bruins.

The Canadiens currently lead the league by one point over the Hawks. A Montreal victory would stretch their lead to two points but a Chicago win would put the Hawks back in first place.

HAWKS HAVE WON TWICE

Hawks and Canadiens have met twice this season with Chicago winning both times, at Montreal and 8-4 on home ice.

Chicago general manager Tommy Ivan says his team is better than the one which established third last season. But he's not optimistic about a first-place finish. He feels that two-thirds they're still not good enough to overtake the Canadiens.

"We've got ourselves a pretty good hockey team," he said. "We're certainly better than last season. But we're hardly thinking of first place which will be difficult to capture from the Canadiens."

Montreal has dominated the league the last few seasons, finishing in first place the past three seasons and winning the Stanley Cup on each occasion for years.

But the Black Hawks have a lot-going for them.

Their goalie Glenn Hall, although he has allowed 14 goals in the last three games, is among the best goalies in the league.

The defence, particularly big Elmer (Moose) Vasko, has shown improvement in recent season.

PLENTY OF FIREPOWER

And they have good scoring punch up front. One forward line, made up of Bobby Hull, Murray Balfour and Bill Hicke, has been very productive since united midway through last season.

Another combination which has shown class, both offensively and defensively, is that of Ken Wharam, Stan Mikita and Ab McDonald.

Then Eddie Litzenberger, who was involved in a traffic automobile accident last winter in which his wife was killed, has given defensive signs of regaining his scoring ability.

Litzenberger scored 30 or more goals for three consecutive seasons until a combination of car accident and injuries kept him to only 13 goals in 1968-69. He missed 19 games and scored only 12 goals.

This season, in 12 games Litzenberger has scored six times and has drawn assists on six other goals.

Tonight's other game could also produce a shuffle in the standings. Toronto is tied with Detroit for third place with 13 points, just three behind the Hawks.

Boston has 10 points and New York nine.

The Leafs, who had a five-game unbeaten streak snapped by Montreal Thursday night, will be looking for another scoring outburst from left-winger Frank Mahovlich.

Mahovlich, a seven-goal man, was held scoreless in two games this week.

OUT TO WIN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London Lords, beaten in the playoffs last year since they joined the senior Ontario Rugby Football League in 1956, will be out to win their first championship when they meet Port Huron-Detroit Raiders tonight in Port Huron. Opener of the two-game total points series was postponed from last Tuesday because of the muddy condition of the London field. The second game will be played here Monday night.

Riders Hold Edge To Defeat Als

OTTAWA (CP) — Perry Moss and Frank Clair laid aside their weapons of wrath, clerk and cowhide and, like old -time gun fighters, reached for their hats and were today.

Figuratively speaking, either Montreal Alouette coach Moss or Ottawa Rough Riders coach Clair will be carted off the battle-ground where their respective Big Four football teams fight a sudden-death league semi-final.

The weatherman promised ideal conditions for the spectators—temperatures of 45 degrees, cloud and winds up to 15 miles an hour. Duelling time for both teams starts at the park and 7:30 watchers on the sedewalk, except here and Cornwall, was 1 pm. EST.

On their record both of games won and points scored, Riders held an edge to win a place Nov. 22 against Toronto Argonauts in the first game of a home-and-home, total-points final leading to the Grey Cup game at Vancouver.

WON NINE

Riders won nine and lost five season games, against Als records of five won and four lost, while in the scoring columns Riders piled up 400 points and were scored on to the extent of 283 points compared to 340 and 268 against Als.

Last his players' become comfortable and that has created a big share of the week's pre - game psychological warfare to playing down this record. Moss, for his part, has labored with chalk and blackboard to come up with some clever plays.

For a time, fate conspired against Clair. Many thieves broke into the club's quarters and made off with "Hacky" film projector and well-studied films of Als season performance. But they missed a stack of team plays which lay beside the projector and later dumped their loot at the grandstand entrance.

DON'T LIKE PLAYOFFS

Viewing the long road ahead to the Grey Cup game Nov. 26 Clair and his assistant Bill Mitchell confined themselves only on the number of semi-final and final games.

"The regular schedule proves nothing under today's arrangement," said Clair. "No matter how well you do in league competition, I can still go out the window on a bad day, or an injury to a key player at any time."

Both he and Smyth favor only one season-ender—the Grey Cup game.

"I agree with Frank," said Smyth. "Two games would be better."

If after the regular 80 minutes the teams are tied, league president Sam Berger of Ottawa said they will get a 10-minute sudden death play two 10-minute overtimes. In case it is still knotted after the overtime periods, Berger said he would meet referees on the basis of their second-place finish in the regular season.

Looks to Bench

Calgary Stamps Hanging On Ropes

CALGARY (CP)—Steve Owen said all along he thought he would have go look to rookie strength on the bench if the Calgary Stampeders if they made the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoffs.

The Stampeders made the playoffs and the prediction is being borne out.

When Calgary lost 30-7 to Edmonton Eskimos in the first half of a two-game total-point semi-final Wednesday, Stampeds' ends Ernie Warlick and Bill McKenna were injured. Warlick will not play in today's second game. McKenna is doubtful.

Offensive back George Haasen bruised a leg and defensive halfback Ron Morris suffered a dizzy spells after the game, but both will be in the lineup.

The gaps in will not be easy to fill. A defensive hole, left at the centre-backing spot by the loss of the wo-way McKenna, will be filled by a serious.

Even as Eskimo coach Eagle Keys complains that his defence "definitely" is not as good as it thought it would be," any improvement in Edmonton's possibly will be to stop a radically-altered Calgary offence.

Owen is expected to put rookie end Bill Barber into the lineup for Warlick, who aggravated a partial shoulder separation against the Eskimos, with an ankle injury, may play only a limited role.

The only Edmonton injury was to Normie Kwong who hurt a rib muscle. He is expected to play but it is expected Jim Shipka and Steele Schumm will alternate in his place.

If today's game is the last this year for the Stampeders it will be by the last for defensive middle linebacker Dick Thornton who announced he will retire at the end of the season.

The day has been named Purley Brown Day and the 33-year-old 10-year veteran of the Stampeders will receive gifts valued at $2,000 from Stampeders and his fans. Among the gifts will be a vacation trip to Hawaii for Purley and his wife and lifetime season tickets to watch the Stampeders.

It will be Purley Brown's consecutive game with Calgary. All previous have played without a serious injury.

Tigers' Bees Win Title For Third Time

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cat Bees Friday night won the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate championship for the third time in four years by defeating Toronto East York Argonauts 9-5 in the second game of the two-game total-point series.

They won the round 16-12 after the first game played in Toronto last Saturday night, ended in a tie.

Bees now meet the winner of the Quebec final between Verdun Shamrocks and Cornwall for the eastern Canadian title and the right to meet the western representative for the Dominion Bowl Nov. 15.

A first-quarter safety touch and a third-quarter single provided the victory margin in Friday night's handsitting affair.

Hamilton's Ed Falchenuk broke through to ground East York's Bill Williams in the scoring frame when the Argo punter was unable to kick because of a bad snap.

Les Wright booted a single in the third quarter when Pat Vayda was unable to run out a wind-carried 75-yard punt.

Belleville Boy Signed Two Playing Cards

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Friday night refused permission to 14-year-old Bob Boyce of Belleville to play Junior B hockey this season.

The OHA executive decided to send the boy back to the midgets after learning that he had signed two playing cards for Junior B clubs, sponsored by National Hockey League professional teams.

The first card was signed Aug. 26 and filed with the OHA Oct. 6 for Belleville Junior Bs, sponsored by Chicago Black Hawks. No release was granted by Belleville midgets.

The second card for Peterborough Junior Bs', sponsored by Montreal Canadiens, was signed Oct. 10 and filed Oct. 26 with the release. The release was purchased by Peterborough for $150.

BEST STRATEGY RECORD

OWEN SOUND (CP)—The Superiest B.A.'s for Canadian bred-and-owned two- and three-year-old trotters and pacers, distributed a record of $18,780 in 1960.

Secretary - treasurer Arthur Whitesell of Tillsonburg told the fall meeting of the Superiest-W. J. Ryatt Association that's a total of 108 colts and fillies have paid up for the 1961 two-year-old events. The number of three-year-olds eligible is 81. Both are records for the stakes which were inaugurated in 1945.

Reporters 'Dreamed up' Contract Story

OTTAWA (CP)—Ted Hill, president of Sudbury Wolves, denied Friday in a telegram to Eastern Professional Hockey League president Edward J. Houston that assistant trainer Chico Kovsurok was signed by Wolves for a five-game tryout as a player at $1.

Hill's telegram followed a denial by Houston of any relation or justification of the use being made of Kovsurok, whose name has labored with chalk and blackboard to come up with some clever plays.

For a time, fate conspired against Clair. Many thieves broke into the club's quarters and made off with "Hacky" film projector and well-studied films of Als season performance. But they missed a stack of team plays which lay beside the projector and later dumped their loot at the grandstand entrance.

$2,000 for conduct detrimental to the game, Houston had ordered Wolves to explain the use of Kovsurok, 18-year-old assistant trainer who hadn't played hockey for several years.

He suggested he was concerned that Wolves might be making a mockery of the league rules by requiring each club to carry at least two rookies.

Chatham Ties For Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The sparkling offensive play of defenceman Elmer Skov Friday night lifted Chatham Maroons into a first-place tie in the west section of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series.

Skov scored three goals—one in each period—to lead Maroons to a 6-4 win over Strathroy Rockets. The loss left Strathroy in a tie for last spot in the five-team grouping. Co-holders of the basement position are Woodstock Athletics, who bowed 4-3 to Stratford in overtime in the other division encounter.

In the eastern division Galt Terriers stretched their season's win-loss record to 4-0 as they edged Belleville McFarlands 4-2 in a lonely - played game at Belleville.

At Chatham a crowd of less than 1,000 was on hand to watch the Maroons gain a tie for first place with Windsor Bulldogs. The other three Chatham goals were notched by playing coach Ted Power, Frank Spignale and Joe Malo.

SCORE FOR STRATHROY

Jack McCreight, Paul Oliver, Jack Lane and Willie Hart scored for Strathroy in the hard-fought encounter.

Ken Doig scored on a rebound at 7:06 of the overtime period to give Stratford its win over the Woodstock. It was the initial second straight victory at the Athletics' expense.

The win moved Stratford to within two points of first place. The Indians jumped into a 3-0 lead during the first period on goals by Doig and Bill Pilon. Doig coach Jack Stoddard added another for Woodstock's lone tally.

Both clubs scored one in the second, with Byrle Klinck clicking for Woodstock and Maurice Levesque for the Indians. Toby Rodgers scored the game into overtime with a goal during a power play at 6:46 of the final frame.

Woodstock had too much condition for the McFarlands in the Belleville team's second and apparently last game of the season. Bob Sender's outstanding game in the Belleville net probably kept the score from double figures.

Gar Vasey and Bob McKnight tied with two and Al Martin with a single were the Terriers marksmen. Mike Bukartiskati, Davey Jones and Billy Colvin scored for the Macs.

Both clubs after the game it was learned the McFarlands are applying for entry in the Ottawa district Interprovincial League.

Hockey Hints

HOW TO USE YOUR SPEED

Skating speed is a great asset to a hockey player. But, there are many fast skating players who never make the NHL, or even star in junior league. Why? Simply because the player does not use his speed properly.

One of the best examples of how speed should be used to best advantage is Henri Richard of Montreal. Here is one of the fastest skaters of all time. (Sports College has timed him at approximately 28 miles per hour) who is also hard to slow down with body contact or keep penned up by close checking.

If you watch the "Pocket Rocket" carefully you will see that he utilizes his speed to the full by using the open ice and by changing his pace. Usually he approaches the defence or a defenceless player in the centre at a pace a little under his fastest. Then, as he gets fairly close he breaks for open ice at full steam. Few, if any, can catch him if he times his moves right.

Try this change of pace and make your speed pay off. For more hints about Henri Richard send a stamped, self addressed envelope and 10c c/o this newspaper for my booklet, "He Skates Like The Wind."

1,004 Belleville hockey fans finally got a look at the McFarlands in action last night, two weeks late, and they heard a good one-sided hockey game, but as far as the picture here is concerned, it's as undecided an issue as ever.

The Macs, strictly from a hockey viewpoint, could not quite match the skating ability of the Galt Terriers here last night, at least for the first period and a half.

Galt took the tilt by a 4-3 score despite an improved Belleville attack in the latter stages of the game that fell just short of gaining a tie. The Terriers led all the way, 1-0 at the end of the first and 3-1 after two periods, before the Macs outscored them 2-1 in the final heat.

Picton's Mayor McFarland addressed the crowd prior to the start of the second period, "I want to thank the Galt management and team for coming here tonight when they did not have to. It is a fine show of sportsmanship", he began.

"I also want to thank you fans for your support tonight and want to tell you that we are doing all we can to keep hockey alive in this town. Only in this is going its part in keeping senior hockey here to be charged "but they will always be around when there is money to collect".

TRY TO GET SCRAPPING

I'm going to ask my management to try and get a meeting with the OHA here and with all down and talk to them. Surely there is some way this matter can be worked out", he added.

Meanwhile the Galt executive also invited the crowd to go over the complete collapse of the Eastern senior setup, asked coach Gordie Bell to reconsider before withdrawing the team from the OHA. Bell said that the three-team setup, even with games against teams from other leagues, would not prove satisfactory. He indicated that the McFarlands' main hope was to be admitted into the Ottawa Valley League.

Asked, following the game, if he was going to go along with the Galt, Oshville and Hull body - else - you - want - to - play schedule, manager Keith MacDonald replied, "Definitely not".

The only definite plans the club has at the moment are to play home and away exhibition games against Hull-Ottawa Junior "A" Canadiens next week in Hull Tuesday and back here next Friday.

Galt, in picking up its fourth consecutive win, outshot Belleville in every period by counts of 11-3, 14-8 and 16-13 for a 41-26 total. They scored the only goal of a dull first period, a screened shot by Vasey at 19.39 with Lamirande of the Macs serving a high-sticking penalty.

Brown and Marineau forced Hurley into making sharp saves when the clubs were five aside early in the second but McKnight made it 2-0 at 9.15 when the locals goofed a chance to clear from around their own net.

PLAYED STRONG GAME

Bob Senior, who played strong goal throughout, stopped McKnight on a breakaway at 12.23 but junior defenceman Larry Mavety swept puck into his own net as he attempted to clear. Mavety paired with Lamirande as Coach Bell continued to give some of the promising local kids a chance in the higher bracket. Another junior, Barry Titterson, did not dress last night.

The Macs broke into the scoring parade at 15.11 when Mike Bukaceski scored the prettiest goal of the night. Lamirande started the play and Partridge fed to Bukaceski cutting in front of the net. He tucked it in the short corner.

Belleville cut the lead to 3-2 after only 2.15 of the third when Smrke lipped in Jones' leftwing drive. Ab Martin got that one back for Galt less than two minutes later, cashing in Zuk's rebound.

Senior and Hurley traded sharp saves as both clubs played it more aggressively this period. The Macs commanded play after Senior stopped three drives around the 14-minutes mark and at 16.39 Colvin closed the game's scoring.

Keeling was off for tripping when Colvin deflected Mulholland's shot past Hurley on the power play for a 4-3 score. The Terriers continued to press until Lamirande was thumbed for playing 2:26 with a broken stick at 19.51 and Jones went along on a misconduct call for arguing the play.

TAKEN FROM NET

Senior was taken from the net in favor of an extra attacker for the final 45 seconds of play but the bombarding Macs only had taken the steam out of the rally.

Bob McKnight, with two goals, Gar Vasey and Ab Martin with each, were the Terrier marksmen. Sly Lee had two assists, Butch Martin, George Zuk and Pete Zukowski one apiece.

Mike Bukaceski, Lou Smrke and Billy Colvin triggered the Belleville attack. Roy Partridge, Jean-Paul Lamirande, Larry Jones, "Wiener" Brown, Sam Marineau and Ike Hildebrand drew single assists.

Referee Vern Goyer handed out 12 penalties in all with Belleville collecting eight, including Jones' misconduct.

Dodgers Will Switch Team

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles Dodgers said Friday they plan to switch their St. Paul American Association franchise to Omaha.

Omaha dropped out of the American Association at the end of the 1959 season. It had been a St. Louis Cardinal farm.

The Dodgers had to move out of St. Paul because the American League recently voted to shift its Washington franchise to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Boston Red Sox, who operated Minneapolis, also must relocate for 1961.

MAY CUT YACHTING

LONDON (AP)—Yachting may be exluded from the 1964 Tokyo Olympics, a Japanese delegate to the International Yachting Racing Union said Friday. Yukiaki Iwata, member of the Japanese Olympic committee, said his country is getting ready for all 22 Olympic sports but he had been informed yachting may be dropped.

Wolves Move Into 2nd Spot Of Pro Loop

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury Wolves outscored Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers 7-5 here Friday night in a freewheeling Eastern Professional League game that placed Wolves solidly in second place, four points behind league-leading Hull - Ottawa Canadiens.

The largest crowd of the year in Sudbury, 3,479, saw one of the fastest games played here this season.

Wolves were led by the Gene Ubriaco-Keke Mortson-Ken Gidard line. Each scored a goal and they killed the penalties.

Other Sudbury goals were scored by Gene Achtymichuk, Tom McCarthy, Alf Cleary and Cummy Burton.

Duane Rupp had a big night for Beavers. He scored twice and single goals went to Bob Hall, Ed Boekstra and Leon (Cheszie) Hochebert.

Kitchener held a 3-0 lead but Wolves scored three times in the first period and held the lead going into the second.

It was 5-4 at the start of the third period and Cleary's goal turned out to be the winner.

Wolves' again dressed Assistant Trainer Chico Komorok as a referee, after a petition pending against the club from the league office.

President Ed Houston is investigating the issue. He claims Sudbury's action "is detrimental" to hockey. Coach Murph Chamberlain is subject to fine and suspension.

CUP TO ARRIVE

VANCOUVER (CP)—The first Grey Cup celebrity will arrive here Sunday, three weeks early for the Nov. 26 football classic. Aboard the CPR Dominion from Winnipeg will be the battered old trophy itself which has been in the custody of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, last year's winners.

Great Night For Rookies In West Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a great night for the rookies Friday in the Western Hockey League.

Bob Goebel scored the winner in overtime at Edmonton to give Flyers a 4-3 victory over Winnipeg Warriors and sole possession of first place.

At Vancouver, rookie Gerry Ecclo scored mid-way through the last period and the goal stood up as Calgary Stampeders moved to within a single point of third place with a 1-0 victory over the Canucks.

And at Victoria, rookie netminder Don Head, a member of Canada's Olympic hockey team last spring, held Victoria off the scoresheet until his Portland teammates built up a comfortable four - goal margin. Brunet and Gerry Brisson.

"Could you tell us where they keep the Charley horses? We've never seen one!"

The Bucks went on to win 5-1. Goebel's goal for the Flyers was his second of the night. Linemates Ed Joyal and Gord Labossiere also scored for Edmonton. Connecting for the Warriors were Don Ramburak, Ray Cunningham and Ron Schock.

AT THE PARK — Beautiful Gina Lollobrigida does her best to prove to rugged Dale Robertson that there's more than one way to a man's heart in "Fast and Sexy", the romantic comedy which also stars Vittorio De Sica in Techniramia and color by Technicolor. A Columbia Pictures release, it opens Monday night at Park Theatre. The companion feature, also a first Belleville showing, is the "Nights of Lucretia Borgia", starring Belinda Lee and is also in color.

LAST DAY AT BELLE — Walt Disney's "Jungle Cat", in Technicolor, is one of two features today at the Belle Theatre. For a very special treat, Walt Disney's second feature, "The Hound That Thought He was a Raccoon", is just for fun and in Technicolor too!

TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Without an aerial attached to your television set you would be useless, yet this important piece of hardware is very much misunderstood by many people.

For example: There is one type of antenna which is designed to bring in only one channel, and you would require six or seven of these on your roof to get all the stations that can be received in this area.

To overcome this problem the "all-channel" antenna was developed — one aerial that will bring in all channels from 2 to 13. This type has become the most popular in this area, but it does have one disadvantage: it must be pointed directly to-wards the station you wish to receive.

This is no problem when you install an outside antenna rotor. By means of a control in your living room you can turn your aerial to the east, south or west in a matter of seconds. It's inexpensive to install and adds immensely to television enjoyment. CIRCLE TV SERVICE 580 Coleman St. can quickly install one for you. Phone WO 8-6791 and get those programs you've been missing!

Rosters Frozen

Player Draft On December 1st

LOS ANGELES (AP)—American-League draft rosters as of Monday are being frozen until the player draft Dec. 1.

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick is taking the step, he told reporters today, to guard against interclub raids.

"If a club has 40 players it cannot draft any," said Frick, "whereas a club with only 30 would be eligible to draft two. We'll be on a similar freeze in the National League when it expands to Houston and New York in 1962."

Frick said his action is being taken first discussed with Joe Cronin, president of the American League, and Warren Giles, who heads the National.

The freeze will have no effect on later - league trading, which starts Nov. 21 and ends Dec. 11.

DISAPPOINTED

Hank Greenberg, who heads the American League's syndicate for a Los Angeles franchise, recently expressed disappointment in Frick's recommendation that the new Los Angeles and Washington clubs be allowed to draft two minor leaguers, each in addition to his regular league team, have taken their turns.

The commissioner said he considered the Washington and Los Angeles clubs of the American League lucky to get any draft.

"According to the rules, a team must operate one year before getting draft, privileges," said Frick. "They will not be allowed to claim first-year players."

Frick said a mail vote is being taken on whether to waive the draft ban in order to help the new clubs.

"I hope it passes," he said. Frick came here a few hours in advance of Giles. Frick said he was here primarily to study the Los Angeles situation. Giles said he's going to do the same thing "and to protect our league's interests."

Sens Worried Over Injury To Pascaul

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The ex-Washington Senators are brimful with optimism over their new home but worried about Camillo Pascual.

Owner Calvin Griffith, transplanting his American League club to Minneapolis - St. Paul, wants to send his ace pitcher to the Mayo Clinic for an examination.

Pascual injured his arm in the latter part of the season and apparently has not recovered fully.

Pascual is the lone veteran of a staff Griffith admitted "needs four or five new faces." The owner told reporters Friday he looks to Pascual, Pete Ramos, Dick Donovan, Bobby Shantz and Kralick to serve as the core of pitchers.

But nobody, so far, has shown much optimism over the trade with Griffith except the fellows who want to grab his stars like catcher Earl Battey and Pascual.

LOVES THAT POTENTIAL

While he declined to guess at next year's attendance in his new big league baseball switch, Griffith labeled the attendance potential as "fantastic."

Griffith still hasn't decided on a name for the Minneapolis-St. Paul club. He has heard such suggestions as Sunyans, Moose, Twins, and Northern Stars.

His comptroller, Oswald Ruegg, offered one, to honor the name of one of baseball's pioneer families. Griffith had no immediate comment on that, but the name may catch on.

FINE CHOIR

The Norwegian Soloist Choir conducted by composer Knut Nystedt starts a coming U.S. tour at New York Oct. 16.

Minor Hockey

Four of the five games played in the Provence division of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association ended in shutout wins this morning and the other tilt was a tie.

The Black Hawks and Bruins fought to a 1-1 deadlock. E. Beatty fired the Hawk marker. R. McDougall tallied for Bruins with R. Hanna helping.

Browns blanked Quinte by a 6-0 count in the morning's highest-scoring game. P. Goodfellow and T. Herrington scored two goals apiece while J. Howe and B. Parsons had the others. Parsons also was the lineman of a staff Griffith admitted "needs four or five new faces." The owner told reporters Friday he looks to Pascual, Pete Ramos, Dick Donovan, Bobby Shantz and Kralick to serve as the core of pitchers.

But nobody, so far, has shown much optimism over the trade with Griffith except the fellows who want to grab his stars like catcher Earl Battey and Pascual.

Warm Greetings But No Gifts Says Council

CHATHAM (CP) — When Chatham Maroons' hockey team tours Russia this month it will offer Soviet dignitaries warm greetings, but no gifts, from Chatham city council.

Council Friday rejected a proposal to contribute $500 to a fund to buy such gifts.

"Goodwill we have; money we have not," said Alderman Metro Sasz.

Alderman Darcy McKeough, who will accompany the team on its visit to Russia and Sweden, agreed to extend civic greetings in copious quantities.

To officials in these countries, George W. Parry, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for West Kent, said Friday he has been told by Premier Frost that the province has made a grant of $1,200 towards the cost of the tour.

Situation Comedies Flood TV Screen, Some to Bite Dust

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is TV's season of the situation comedy. Viewers are flooded with filmed shows that are often high on situations and low on comedy.

Never have so many fictional families engendered so many silly scrapes. An expert in the field, Joe Connelly, explains:

"There are too many situation comedies this season. I think 50 per cent will be biting the dust before long."

Connelly and partner Bob Mosher have more than a casual interest in this matter. Their Leave it to Beaver (ABC Saturday) is doing nicely in its fourth season. Bringing Up Buddy is picking up steam in its bid for attention on CBS Monday nights. And Ichabod has been bought for future scheduling by CBS.

Why do Connelly-Mosher shows stand out? Point of view, friend, point of view.

SEE CONFLICT

"With Beaver, we aimed at showing the child's view of this world," said Connelly. "Buddy is the story of a young man reared by two aunts; we see the conflict of old-fashioned vs. modern values.

"Ichabod is the story of an advertising man who lives up the Madison Avenue life to retire to a New England town. He doesn't retire, of course, but keeps doing the same things he would have if he had stayed in New York. Here we see his ideas conflicting with the smalltown principles."

If their shows have a note of reality, it's understandable. They can draw on their own families (nine children between them) for Beaver.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, November 9, 1980

General Tendencies: Your mind is able today to see the logical ideas for growth in spiritual, scientific, mental, emotional or practical ways so that you have a far greater understanding of what to do in the future from this Sunday's services and worship. The p.m. is fine for getting out to see all relatives and interesting companions.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You can derive much benefit and wisdom from a religious sermon today, so be sure you attend services. Later, enjoy amusement that help you to live the Golden Rule. Also, assist those in need; good to your family, too.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Begin now to live again under the fine standards which your parents believed in. This will open up a whole new vista for the future. Plan the days and months ahead with confidence and enthusiasm. Be inspired, P.M. retire early.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You will be able to make excellent plans for the future if you attend services of your choice in a.m. Later, be sure and visit with worthwhile persons, meet interesting people. Be very sociable and alert of mind. Grow.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — If you concentrate upon the loftiest of ideals in a.m., no matter where you may be, true understanding and wisdom can be yours. Also, be sure you later are in the company of worthwhile individuals and gain prestige as an knowledge.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — By studying worthwhile material today, you can raise your level of consciousness considerably. The late afternoon and evening are then fine for cultivating the acquaintance of interesting and learned person. Be charming, kind.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Don't take any chances with your reputation today, since others are looking to you for guidance. Be sure to mingle with others for an enjoyable day at the sports or social activities that relax the mind and consciousness.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — "Seek ye firstthe Kingdom of Heaven . . ." today and then all will go very well with you. Later you can contact others and put new philosophy to work which will help you to enrich your life and be infinite happiness.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — If you get into the so-called Silence today for a while, you will get the God-given answer to each serious meditation brings. You can step out with loved ones or worthwhile friends for a most happy and inspiring day and evening.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Spend some time in A.M. concentrating upon how you can work more harmoniously with associates in the future. The remainder of the day is then ideal for having oodles of fun with the time'rea at whatever pleases you most.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Follow that inclination to help others today, since it will bring many benefits and blessings back to you in the course of time. This establishes a precedent for others to follow and you are on the right track in life.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You can make this a most happy day if you show affection to loved ones and then join with them on some happy jaunt or venture, or simply entertaining for visiting with them. Be cheerful so that you can uplift their spirits, too.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Your time and effort today should be spent endeavoring to make loved ones at home far happier, so be very thoughtful and kind. Indulge in whatever activities please them. Entertain at home or go out together socially. Grow —be happy.

If your child is born today . . . he, or she, will be full of life and enthusiasm for almost anything put everything to action, or her So it is necessary you early give the advantages of sports and other activities that channel all this energy in the right directions. The fine athlete is in this chart, whether male or female — the champion in all American sports. Give as fine an education as you can, since there is real genius here. Be understanding, helpful, too.

Monday, November 7

General tendencies: You are able today to get a very well-rounded idea how to advance in days to come in whatever department of your existence is most important. A penetrating aspect occurs which gives you the right and the power to go after your ambitions with far more resourcefulness than has been yours ere this. Keep prodding associates too.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Listen to the wise suggestions of clever of kin today with regard to dealing more successfully with those in business or creative circles, as well as how to improve conditions with loved ones. P. M. Follow them and be happy, successful.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — You are alert now to new and more efficient methods of operating that will bring you increased success and heightened prestige. Fine day to shop for what you need. Also, be sure important appointments you have made P. M. ride favorite hobby.

Gemini, (May 21 to June 21) — If you employ better methods and do necessary repairing, you can soon realize a greater abundance, and to spare. Be practical. Set up a better budgeting system, too. P. M. plan a more healthful dietary regime. Get voice improved.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You have inspiring thoughts how to get ahead today, so be sure to put them in opposition ahead of procrastinating so much. First, dress nicely and take any health treatments you need, then roll ahead. Be cheerful, sure of yourself.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Every opportunity is open to you now to clear up any problems you may have, and quite easily. Study well whatever is puzzling to you. P. M. look for new fashionable leanings, club work, philanthropic ideas or just taking your ease in real comfort.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You can realize some of your desires now if you get the aid, means or otherwise, of good friends who are in a mood to lend a most helping hand. P. M. fine for going out socially and having a whale of a time. Be charming, kind.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You can ingeniously go after a raise in pay, a contract, a sale, etc. However, it is clever to post heart today and meet with success. Get credit rating begun. P. M. close out and then have lots of fun.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Coupled with your own fine ideas today you get the benefit of suggestions from experts that will lead to real success in your field of endeavor, and you would be wise to put them into operation immediately. Act!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Follow your intuition today and you will find greater accord with associates and can work most efficiently. P. M. should be spent in the company of one you love the most. Show deep devotion. Be kind, understanding.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Since your associates have powerful planetary influences today, be sure you follow them and benefit indirectly, also. Ask for advice. Be most co-operative. Dine out tonight with those who come to real and deep understanding.

"You boys turn off that hose. Your Uncle Tweedy says he can't take a nap when he hears water running."

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — The ideal day to do your best work and get the fine results that are possible. Inasmuch as you are not happy unless hard at work, this is the day to really reap in the harvest. Think big — don't limit that great potential.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If attuned properly to your particular star, you arise feeling keen and can accomplish a very great deal. The latter part of the day and evening is fine for having a very good time at whatever amusements most appeal.

If your child is born today — he, or she, is of that genre of people who will spend much time deliberating before coming to any serious, deciding action. This chart is therefore fine for that big business man or woman, especially in dealing with products on a large scale, or the banker who has to take on much responsibility. However, early curb any tendency to indulge in self-pity just as an emotional escape.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Prepare for Your Golden Years Before Retirement Day Arrives

By THOMAS COLLINS

Shavings from the Golden Years:

"The average person spends 12 years in grade schools and often several years in college preparing for a career. This same person spends very little time preparing for retirement. Yet retirement is as important in his life as starting to work.

"Pension plans do a good job in helping people make financial preparations for retirement. But what about psychological preparation?"

Remarks — Industry is coming around to the idea that just as it must teach its young employees how to work, it must teach the old ones how to quit. But what do you teach? Butterfly catching and snapshots can't fill the void left by a paying job. And loafing can't fill anything but a hammock.

The only answer as I see it is for the worker at age 60 to start learning a new trade or a new career that will provide him a paying job . . . or else retirement must be put on a voluntary basis that allows the worker to carry on until he drops if he chooses. The educational system and not the worker's company may eventually take over the problem.

TRAGIC CHAPTER

"My husband retired in April, 1959, and we came to a spot in central Kentucky that had been our dream for 15 years. We spent more of our savings than we intended in order to acquire the country place that had been our vision. We put a five-year mortgage on the property and my husband's pension could handle it.

"Three months ago, virtually without warning, my husband died.

"I was left with enough money to get by. But I was left with a house that was not intended for a widow alone and with a way of life that has no appeal for one-half of a couple. But there is no path open for escape. The life that went before was cashed in in order to get this one".

Remarks — This is one of the tragic chapters of retirement that keeps recurring. Yet nobody at retirement time ever thinks it will happen to them.

Every major retirement project, particularly those that involve moving to a new environment to live, must take into account the future of the one spouse should the other spouse die.

LOSES FRIENDS

"In the war between the sexes that seems to rage on until our hair turns gray there is one factor on the side of them and that is usually overlooked. When the man retires from his job, he usually starts drifting away from his friends almost at once because most of his friends are connected in some way with his business or his job. The wife, on the other hand, who has been cultivating her friends in the neighborhood over many years does not lose a single one of them when her husband retires.

"So you have the situation of the husband in the process of losing his friends, leaning more and more on his wife for companionship. But she has no more free time than she has had before. This is why the husband usually wants to pick up and move and why the wife argues for the status quo."

Remarks — The gentleman has a point.

INTO THE WOODS

"Why don't you urge more people to give up their 'sunshine complex' about retirement and take their pension into the peace and beauty of the North Woods. With no more buses to catch to work, the winters do not bother you and you have the exhilaration every spring of watching the world come alive again."

Remarks — There's great appeal in many retired people in the snow-covered northern areas. But you can't sell snow to a person alone. It's not fashionable.

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW — Mr. Ralph Wellman spent Friday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gilbert, of Toronto, spent the weekend at their cottage at Allen's Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Hubble and family, of Campbellford, visited Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burkitt on Sunday.

Mrs. Wes. McKenzie spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. J. Clarke, whose husband passed away, following a heart attack on Friday night.

Mrs. Fred Jeffs suffered a heart attack at his home on Friday night.

Some 70 postmasters of zone 1 Ontario branch Canadian Postmasters' Association, held their annual meeting at Corbyville on October 28th. A business and a social session were enjoyed during the afternoon. A banquet concluded the meeting.

Among those attending from this area were: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barlow, postmaster at Bonarlaw; Mr. and Mrs. W. Hickey, postmaster at Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. W. Kellar, postmaster at Harold; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rodgers, postmaster at Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. F. Houston, postmaster at Stirling.

Miss Brenda McKeown of Peterborough, spent the weekend at her home here, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McKeown.

Mr. John Cook visited his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Cook, of Millbridge, on Sunday.

Mr. Jason Baker is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. William Burkitt, Norine and Elsie, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Burkitt, called on Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burkitt, on Sunday at Frankford. Mr. and Mrs. Eric McComb and girls of Toronto, were guests at the same home.

Friends were sorry to hear of the sudden death of Earl McMaster at Belleville General Hospital on Sunday.

Most Expensive And Exhaustive Campaign Closes

Two Travel-Weary Men Maintain Grind to Last

NEW YORK (CP)—The tough-est, costliest and most exhausting presidential fight in United States history draws to an end tonight. On Tuesday an estimated 61,000,000 voters make up their voice between two travel-weary candidates determined to maintain their killing grind to the last minute.

In the whirlwind finish, Republican Richard Nixon will concentrate on television, with a record four-hour afternoon question-and-answer telethon to be followed by a 90-minute evening TV performance.

Democrat John Kennedy, given an edge by pollsters in the presidential race, will stick to his swift circuit of New England states, ending with a 30-minute evening broadcast from Boston, his home town.

Both candidates tried to give their campaigns a lift with last-minute pledges. Kennedy proposed a big batch of federal scholarships for needy and worthy university students. Nixon outlined a plan whereby President Eisenhower would be joined by former presidents Truman and Hoover on a good-will peace mission around the west European curtain countries.

SAYS TOO LAST

Truman, completing his campaign in support of Kennedy, said Nixon's plan is a year or years too late. The 76-year-old Truman said also he planned a lecture next year and wouldn't be available. Eisenhower is 70 and Republican Hoover is 86.

Both sides exuded confidence of victory. Nixon, campaigning in and around Los Angles and then in Anchorage, Alaska, said he has a great like for Texans all the way. Kennedy, in New York and New England cities, said it was the kind of tide that would sweep Nixon into the Pacific Ocean.

Various newspaper and other polls said Kennedy is in the lead but most pollsters were cautious, suggesting a last-minute shift among Nixon's undecided voters could make a narrow victory. An exception was the New York Daily News, which supports Nixon editorially. It predicted a memorable landslide for Kennedy across the country.

In his final count of 30,000 straw votes gathered over a three-week period in the past 24 years, The News gave Kennedy 54.8 per cent of the popular vote and Nixon 45.2 per cent.

In American history, only two presidents, Hayes (first in 1872 and Rutherford Hayes in 1876, won the presidency without New York support.

RELIGION A PUZZLE

Pollsters say religion is the puzzling factor in the religious issue. Kennedy is the first Roman Catholic to run for the presidency in 32 years. The last one, Democrat Alfred E. Smith of New York, pronounced badly. The United States has never had a Catholic president.

Anti-Catholic sentiment was

Dies in Hospital After Beating Near Simcoe

BRANTFORD (CP) — Harry Edmonson, 72, died Sunday in hospital after lying all day Saturday in a ditch near Simcoe following a savage beating.

Police said Mr. Edmonson, who lives in Hamilton and also maintains a trailer home near Wilsonville close to Simcoe, was beaten Friday night or Saturday morning and left in a shallow ditch.

He was found Saturday night by a neighbor, Fred Johnson.

Police said Edmonson had left his landady in Hamilton, Mrs. Louise Eaton, that he was having difficulty with poachers coming on his Wilsonville property, a game sanctuary, and killing animals and birds.

When found the victim was under three inches of snow. Blocks police believe were thrown into the ditch.

Police said they are discounting robbery as the motive. They said a watch owned by Edmonson was found inside the trailer, the interior of which was not ransacked.

Mrs. Eaton said Edmonson told her that men killed ducks while they were hunting and on one occasion shot a pregnant doe.

Mrs. Eaton's daughter-in-law, Mrs. D. C. Eaton, said three men had told the victim this summer that they "would get him."

She said Edmonson was getting ready to return to Hamilton for the winter. He had visited the Wilsonville property this week end to close it down.

Judge Critical On Admission Of Immigrants

CHATHAM (CP) — A citizenship court in Chatham Saturday questioned the wisdom of admitting thousands of immigrants into Canada without ensuring they measured up to the minimum standards set out in the Immigration Citizenship Act of 1946.

Judge C. C. Carruthers, of London, said one-third of the 1,500,000 immigrants who entered the country after the Second World War were illiterate and have little hope of ever acquiring a knowledge of basic English and French fundamental to Canadian citizenship.

"One can't help but feel that sometimes we aren't amiss," the judge told delegates to a Chatham regional immigration conference.

A survey in Metropolitan Toronto showed that two - thirds of the immigrants have never been in English language schools, in London, said the judge, newcomers questioned about their lack of English provide specious reasons for failure to use the language of their adopted country.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Cold arctic air covers the province this morning with variable skies and overnight temperatures in the twenties. Some areas reported minimums as low as 16 degrees. A vigorous storm centre over central Manitoba this morning is moving southeastward and will cross the Great Lakes Tuesday. Although this disturbance is expected to bring cloudy weather Tuesday with scattered showers or snowflurries it also brings slightly milder air with it.

51 FATALITIES ACROSS CANADA DURING WEEKEND

Highway Death Toll Stands at 46 People

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nine died Sunday night when a loaded bus and a station wagon collided near Templeton, Que., 30 miles east of Ottawa.

It was the worst of four multi-car fatality accidents during the weekend which combined to produce almost half of Canada's weekend highway death toll of 46.

Four died in a two-car crash near Milton, Ont., and three more in each of two head-on collisions in Ontario. One of the two was a crash between an air force bus and a truck just near Toronto's Malton Airport.

A Canadian Press survey of traffic deaths from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday listed 46 victims of road, hunting and shooting accidents. A 51st Canadian died when he was accidentally electrocuted.

ONTARIO HAS 12

Ontario led the province-by-province count with 19 dead. Ontario was next with 12, Nova Scotia third with 21, Only Prince Edward Island and Manitoba were without fatalities. Alberta counted five dead, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan two each and Newfoundland and British Columbia one each.

Altogether 46 persons died on the highways. Another three — one each from Ontario, New Brunswick and British Columbia —died in hunting mishaps. One man died in a shooting accident in northern Ontario, while the electrocution death was seen of the scene of a car accident in Quebec.

The Ontario dead:

Ross Mallory, 31, and Agnes McBride, 45, both of Toronto; Fred Grainger, 58, of Keswick, Ont., in a two-car head-on crash near Keswick.

Three Toronto men, John Barbacki, 32, Jan Swiegocki, about 30, and Mikios Gyory-Kiss, also about 30, when their small foreign car was crushed and mangled under an airport transport just a few feet from the collision near Malton airport.

Henry Ingram, 53, of Dean Lake, killed when struck by a bullet fired from a high-powered rifle police said was fired by Albert Lee, 21, of Dean Lake.

John New, about 50, killed Saturday when struck by a car on Highway 401 near Pickering and carpenter Ernest Hawkins.

Thomas Jon, 44, of RR 4 Jarvis, who died in hospital Sunday from injuries received Friday night when a car struck his bicycle on Highway 6 north of Jarvis.

Stephen Lee, 18, of Toronto, when a car crashed into a hydro pole at Queen Street and Woodbine Avenue, East Toronto Sunday.

Leslie Lee, 20, Thomas youth in submitting accident in the St. Thomas area Sunday.

Douglas Lee, 20, of Toronto, killed when his sports car went out of control on a curve on Highway 401 near Pickering and carpenter Ernest Hawkins.

A passenger in the car was injured.

Ontario Labor Body Head Warns Against 'New Face of Management'

TORONTO (CP) — Labor was warned today to watch for a new face of management in which employers "may appear in a new role as the worker's friend defending the worker against his own organization, his trade union and getting legislative protection."

The statement was made by David Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, that group's convention opened here.

A text of Mr. Archer's remarks was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Speaking on the recent report of the province's select committee on labor relations and its recommendations, Mr. Archer said:

"Employers . . . will appear in a new role as the worker's friend defending the worker against his organization, his trade union and demanding and getting legislative protection.

"In the final analysis, the only weapon against this new face of management and restrictive legislation will be the loyalty and devotion of the individual employee to his union and, in effect, his willingness to withstand pressure and discrimination."

Despite a new bill enacted by the legislature to govern recharging hiring agencies, "no rules or regulations have been drafted."

He said trouble in immigrant workmen who "braved discrimination, threats and loss of employment" to organize themselves with their organized Canadian brothers.

Mr. Archer said the Builders' Exchange, in its brief to the select committee, "waxed eloquent" about the injustices done to workers by their unions. "Not one employer organization raised its voice about the sub-standard wages being paid in the unorganized garment industry where wages of 50 cents and 65 cents an hour are not uncommon."

On Election Eve Kennedy Has Big Electoral Lead on Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the eve of the election, Democrat John F. Kennedy evidently has opened a healthy electoral vote lead over Republican Richard Nixon.

But in gauging the election battle tides The Associated Press found that many states—several of the bigger ones among them—remain in doubt. A number of them are believed inclining to Kennedy, a couple to Nixon.

The survey—encompassing the judgments of AP political observers, newspaper analysts and party leaders, as well as certain poll findings — turns up this breakdown:

1. Kennedy rated out in front in 15 states with 197 electoral votes—7 fewer than the 270 minimum needed to win. In all, there are 537 electoral votes:

2. Nixon credited with setting pace in 18 states totaling 122 electoral votes—74 behind Kennedy and 146 short of the minimum needed for election on Tuesday.

3. In the toss - up class, 17 states accounting for 217 electoral votes — more than either man had to his account.

This represented a substantial pickup for Kennedy over an AP survey three weeks ago when Nixon was given a lead in 19 States with 141 electoral votes, Kennedy in 11 states with 129 electoral votes and 17 states with 267 votes were listed as tossups.

Kennedy's bound ahead could be attributed to his gaining an

Reds Display 'Silver Needles' They Say Downed U-2 Plane

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today showed off a dozen "silver needle" rockets and said they were the type that brought down Francis Gary Powers's American U-2 plane May 1.

The rockets were the hitchiest of an eight-minute parade of military might through Red Square in celebration of the 43rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Watching the parade from atop the Lenin-Stalin tomb were Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and many of the leaders of world communism, including Chinese President Liu Shao-chi.

Before the march past the tomb, Defence Minister Rodion Malinovsky in the chief speech of the day said the Soviet army and navy, "so far as technical equipment and armament is concerned, are on the most modern level of science and technique.

"They have everything at their disposal to assure the inviolability of the Soviet state," Malinovsky declared.

His words were cheered by a crowd of about 10,000 in the square. Many millions more heard the speech over the radio and the radio broadcast of the celebration.

"We do not want to attack anybody," Malinovsky declared. "But should our peaceful soil be violated by the imperialists, they will receive a retaliatory blow from which they will never recover."

Malinovsky charged that the summit meeting of the Communist "policy of peace" was in leaders Wednesday.

'SUNDAY BOMBER' BLASTS HARLEM SUBWAY TRAIN

Young Girl Killed, 18 Persons Injured

NEW YORK (AP) — A dynamite bomb exploded with a thunderous, shattering roar aboard a subway train deep underground in Harlem Sunday night, killing a young girl and injuring 18 other people.

Police did not believe it was the work of New York's "Sunday Bomber," who has been blamed for four other explosions since Oct. 2.

The bomb had been hidden under a straw-covered seat, at the rear of the fifth car of a six-car express train, police said. It went off at the 125th Street Station, in the heart of Harlem-Manhattan's Negro literary district—when the bomb exploded.

The force of the blast bulged out the steel sides of the car, ripped a two-foot hole in the floor and shattered every window but one. Big chunks of concrete were ripped from the underside of the station platform.

About 20 passengers were aboard the train at the girl sitting directly over the bomb, was killed. Seventy youths milling across the aisle from the girl were injured critically.

The girl was identified as Sandra Breland, 15, of Brooklyn. Her handbag was blown to bits.

BLOWN ACROSS TRACKS

Gorrell Jones, 15, was just boarding the train when the bomb exploded. He was blown across the platform and struck another set of tracks. He suffered head, neck and back injuries.

"It looked like the seats blew into the roof," he said. "Just as I was getting on, I turned

Three Killed In Head-on Crash

KESWICK (CP) — Three persons were killed and two injured in a head-on two-car crash Saturday near this Lake Simcoe municipality about 30 miles north of Toronto.

Dead are the two occupants of one of the cars, Ross Malton, 51, and Agnes McBride, 40, both of Toronto, and a passenger in the other, Fred Grainger 58, of Keswick.

The other two occupants of the second car, Mr. Grainger's son Donald, 21, of Toronto, and Donald Robbins, 36, of Keswick, are in satisfactory condition in York County Hospital. The younger Mr. Grainger suffered fractured ribs and other injuries; Mr. Robbins suffered head and chest injuries.

Churches Urged to Stop Competing On Airwaves and in Public Schools

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A member of the Board of Broadcast Governors Saturday night called for churches to stop using the airwaves for denominational purposes.

Rev. Emiry Davies told the Canadian Council of Churches both the television and radio media will be lost to the Christian church unless denominations stop competing and their ministers "submit to the discipline of technical training."

Dr. Davies suggested that most religious programming is leaves much to be desired.

"If it is true we have in our hands the secret to save the world from nuclear destruction it is the most exciting thing in the world," he said, "but listening to the radio one gets no impression of urgency."

"We give the impression that we are fiddling while Rome is said almost anachronistic."

The Welsh-born minister of Yorkminster Baptist Church, Toronto, was guest speaker at a dinner for council delegates sponsored by the St. Catharines Ministerial Association.

Another call for church unity was made in a report to the council on religious teaching in public schools.

Religion in the schools will "go by the board," the report said, unless the main churches can get together in inter-church committees in each province to decide what they want taught.

The report, by Rev. E. R. MacLennan, Toronto, declared it would be warned that a new meaning is being given the word "sectarian" by opponents of religious education in the schools.

Withdrawing against sectarian teaching were originally intended to be "a form of denominational teaching, the report said, but "this definition is rapidly being referred to as a sect.

The report cited a Unitarian brief presented to Calgary committee stating that reading of scripture and the Lord's Prayer is unacceptable to Unitarians, Jews and Catholics.

Ven. R. K. Naylor of Montreal said current secular influences were the main threat to the United States.

Canon L. P. Milmot of Winnipeg said Manitoba's school system is "pagan, because it took religion out." But he said religious teachings are gradually being brought into the system.

"If we leave religion out of school it is tacit agreement that religion is not important to life," he said.

Auto Penetrates 5 Feet Into Front Of Bus At Ottawa

Light Snow Not Believed Factor in Head-on Crash

TEMPLETON, Que. (CP)— Nine persons were killed and at least 18 others were injured Sunday night when a bus and a station wagon collided head-on.

The station wagon, carrying five persons, penetrated five feet into the front of the bus, police said. The crash occurred near this town 12 miles east of Ottawa on a slight curve in a highway lightly dusted with snow.

All five persons in the station wagon were killed. Bus driver Paul Poirier, 30, and three of his 17 passengers also died.

Driver of the station wagon was Rolland Lavigne, a 26-year-old laborer from nearby Hull. With him in the car were his brother Emile, 21, and two Ottawans, Normand G. Mayrand, 21, and William Sauve, 19. The fifth occupant was not identified immediately.

Later, the names of three other passengers killed in the bus were released. They were: Lorner Foucault, 18; Jean Claude Rolland, and Normand Chalifoux, 21, all of Hull.

The fourth dead person was reported to be a woman.

SNOW NOT A FACTOR

Provincial police said it not believed to be a factor in the head-on crash. A policeman said it was taking too lightly to observe a driver's vision and that most of the snow had blown off the highway, leaving it dry.

Poirier was driving a Hull Metropolitan Transport Limited bus on a scheduled run from Hull to Quebec City. At home, when the collision occurred at a point known as Templeton Hill, two miles east of this town of 3,200.

One policeman told a reporter he believed the station wagon was travelling at a high rate of speed.

"We heard a crashing, grinding noise," said Marcel Schryer, whose home was nearby. "My wife and I dashed out to see the two vehicles jammed together. We could hear people moaning."

Gilbert Fournier of Ottawa was visiting the Schryer family.

"A HORRIBLE MESS"

"The bus motor was still running," he said. "The bus was a big load. The motor is at the rear of the bus. The front of the bus is a horrible mess. The car was a complete wreck."

Provincial police constable on the scene was a constable from the Quebec Provincial Police. He declined to give his name. He mentioned to the Quinte Sanatorium.

W. H. Kyle Appointed Vice-Pres. Of C.N.R. St. Lawrence Region

MONTREAL — President Donald Gordon announced today that Montreal - born Willard H. Kyle, 57, will become vice-president of CNR's new region - called St. Lawrence Region and Omar A. Bolvin, 61, now general superintendent of the Montreal district, will be promoted to the position of special assistant to the vice - president. The new region formally comes into being on January 1.

The St. Lawrence Region, with headquarters at Montreal, is one of five regions being established across Canada under the revised organizational structure of the railway. Part of what is now the Central Region, it will extend westward to Cochrane, Ont., as far east as Riviere Du Loup, and includes lines of the Central Vermont Railway (a CNR subsidiary) in the United States.

The new region, in due course, will be divided into four additional districts, or what is known as areas. The basic principle of the reorganization calls for the delegation of more authority and responsibility to the new regional and areas, and the elimination of departmental functions into a single unit manned by a team at each level.

Up to the present, the CNR central region, embracing most of Ontario and Quebec with headquarters in Toronto, was essentially an administrative unit within the operating department. Mr. Kyle comes to his new and broader responsibilities from the position of vice - president, central region, to which he was appointed in 1953.

Gallup Poll Picks Kennedy

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Gallup Poll's final nationwide survey of the United States presidential race shows the following division of the popular vote among likely voters:

Kennedy-Johnson 49 per cent; Nixon-Lodge 48 per cent; undecided three per cent.

George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, gave the figures in a copyrighted story under his byline.

Business, Industry to View Educational System in Action

One of the many activities planned for education week this week is an Education-Business Day, Thursday, as a two-fold social visit to that which was provided for the new teachers in this city by the local Chamber of Commerce early in September. At that time, some forty new teachers were taken on a conducted tour of the city and visited the Northern Electric plant in the afternoon to see a local industry in action.

This Wednesday local businessmen and industry's representatives are offered a visit to the municipal offices in the area to get a first hand view of the city's educational system in action. What children are being taught, how they are being taught, and by whom, school policies, personnel, curricula, methods, buildings, equipment and organization; these will be shown the visitors.

Over thirty firms are expected to be participating in the day's activities which have been organized through the co-operation of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and the various public school authorities and teachers. The day will feature classroom visits in the morning, lunch at the school attended and discussion forums in the afternoon.

New One-Way Street System Functions Well on First Day

Belleville's new one-way street system received its baptism over the weekend and although the traffic of the first business day was still to be reckoned with, the consensus of police officials this morning was that the change was "functioning okay."

Police Chief Walter Probert said for the first week it was expected there might be some confusion on the part of city motorists who have been accustomed to two way traffic but felt motorists would quickly catch on to the new system.

"They will have to get accustomed to the one-way system," he said.

The police chief anticipated no trouble with strangers in the city. "They are on the lookout for traffic signs," he noted.

In any event there was no trouble on Sunday as the new system went into effect.

There were no accidents resulting from "wrong way" motorists while the system was reported by police.

Elmsdale traffic Island have been placed on Station and Front Street between the Upper Bridge and Pinnacle Street to keep two-way traffic separated, while islands have also been placed at Front and Dundas and at Pinnacle and Dundas.

2 Denbigh Men Hurt in Accident

Two Denbigh district young men Frank Meeks of Cloyne and Roger Lafferty of Vennachar are in Belleville General Hospital following a one-vehicle accident on highway 41 south of Denbigh, Sunday morning.

Most seriously injured is Frank Meeks, 22, who is reported to have suffered a broken back.

Police at Kaladar who investigated the accident said the mishap occurred at the foot of Eagle Hill a mile south of Denbigh. The car went out of control and rolled over on the highway.

The injured men were taken 30 miles by ambulance to Belleville hospital.

Educational Week

Educational Process Plays Vital Role in Modern Life

By J. RITCHIE

Chairman, Belleville Public School Board

Education Week provides us with an excellent opportunity to focus attention on this most important element within our community, and to recognize the institutions which blend together to create the educated person of 1960.

Education like all living things is a continuing process, which evolves in the home, in our place of work, in our schools, in our places of worship. It is with us every day, but Education Week concentrates our attention. As the counties and peoples of this world move closer and closer, in a physical sense with jet plane travel and communications which encompass the world in a fraction of a second, they must also move closer in a spiritual and cultural sense, as we realize the importance of living with our neighbors whether he be just across the street, or on the other side of the world.

Under these—conditions the educational process assumes a somewhat vital and greater role in our way of life. There is so much more to learn.

This age, in many ways, may be called an age of specialization, where concentration on a particular theme or subject may place its value out of all proportion, unless it also specializes, so that there is no room for education.

Let Education Week, therefore, focus attention on all of the educational process. The training and guidance in our schools and colleges, the love and warmth in our home, the give and take in our place of work, the hope and faith in our place of worship, tolerance and patience with our fellow man. All are part and parcel of the educational process, and deserve recognition, this week and every week in the year.

New Courthouse Not Finished Until New Year

Contrary to earlier expectations, the new Hastings county courthouse and county administration offices will not be ready in time for the December meeting of county council.

County officials now say that the opening of the new courthouse will be delayed until early next year.

During the summer meeting of county council it was expected the official opening of the new building would be in the first year at the time of the December meeting of county council.

Accordingly members were advised to clear out their desks in preparation for the move to the new building.

Now, it appears that the December meeting of council and possibly also the January inaugural session will still be held in the present Shire Hall.

Jobless Briton Says He Cannot Afford to Work

CHESTERFIELD, England (Reuters) — Jobless for more than three years, 36-year-old Jack Cooper said today he has a wife and seven children and just can't afford to work.

"All the neighbors think Jack should work but they just don't understand," his wife said.

Cooper said he gets just under £11 a week from unemployment benefits and national assistance plus three free pints of milk a day.

Authorities said Cooper last worked as an attendant in coal pits in May, 1957, and took home £9 10s a week.

"It isn't worth my while to work," said Cooper. "The National Assistance Board keeps badgering me to get a job — but I have a duty to my family.

"Besides, I'm quite happy as things are."

voiced in many parts of the country during the campaign, particularly in southern states where Nixon forces say they may break many Democratic strongholds in all 50 states, despite an injured knee in a Walter Reed hospital for two weeks early in the drive. Kennedy has campaigned in 47 states, all but Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Alabama, North Dakota, Nevada and Hawaii. Crisscrossing the country, each traveled more than 40,000 miles, mostly by plane.

Total campaign costs may never be known. But political observers say that total national Republican - Democratic outlays may be in the vicinity of $100,000,000 to $150,000,000. Both parties say it is the costliest campaign in history with TV taking a big chunk of outlays.

WILL BE COSTLY

The four-hour Nixon afternoon television show may cost about $230,000, Republicans estimate. The Democrats think it will be about $300,000. These are the kind of costs not covered by the previous presidential contenders.

Nixon will have Leonard Dreutzel over the American Broadcasting Company network. A telephone hookup will be installed in the screen. Listeners will be able to call collect and question Nixon, which Nixon said he would be willing to answer. The network offered equal time to Democrats but they turned down the offer saying they didn't have the money.

Kennedy has an idea of his own. He'll pick up a telephone at 8 p.m. at Boston and talk on a pre-sold station in San Francisco. This will launch what the Democrats describe as a round-the-clock "call to victory"—to place about 1,000,000 telephone calls among voters between 8 p.m. tonight and 6 p.m. Tuesday. It would be the last big push in the campaign in history.

Kennedy's running vice-presidential mate, Senator Lyndon Johnson, will close the campaign in Texas.

AUTO PENETRATES

EST and by midnight the scene was cleared of wreckage.

The car engine—what was left of it—caught fire, but was controlled by passersby who threw dirt on it until the Gatineau Hills fire department arrived.

The front part of the car was crushed and the interior wrecked. Part of an advertisement pointed on the side of the bus was in the wreckage. Remaining untouched were the words, "there's life."

Ambulances took injured persons to several hospitals in the area. Eight of the victims, none of them injured seriously, were in hospital at Buckingham, about 20 miles northeast of Ottawa.

They were identified by hospital authorities as Mrs. Henry Spencer and her son Peter; Mrs. Lesley Lajoie, Mrs. Omar Desjardins, Mrs. Henry Mines, Barbara Westphal, Gerald Bedard and Arthur Bouley.

The hospital said ages and hometowns had not yet been determined. But it was believed that most of the eight persons were from the Buckingham district. They suffered fractures, bruises and cuts, a hospital spokesman said.

Extracted from the wreckage was the bus passenger register, showing boardings and destinations.

Five passengers were en route from Ottawa to Buckingham; one from Hull to Buckingham; one from Hull to Masson; one from Gatineau Point to Buckingham; one from Gatineau Mills to Mitchell's Bridge, three from Gatineau Mills to Angers and three from Templeton to Buckingham.

More Onus Put On Pedestrians By New System

With one-way traffic now in effect in the downtown area and vehicles as result proceeding at a faster rate of speed, the increased danger to pedestrians stepping out from between parked cars was emphasized by city police today.

Under the previous two-way traffic system cars on Front Street travelled at from five to 10 miles per hour. Now with the new system traffic has been expedited and cars may be travelling at 15 to 20 miles per hour.

"With the increased speed there is just more onus on the pedestrian not to take any chances," noted police.

At the same time police ask motorists to stay in the lane in which they intend to travel and avoid cutting from one lane to another.

Even though the speed of cars has been increased as result of the one-way plan police emphasized these vehicles are still well within the allowed speed limit.

Dakota Flies Aid to Remote Eskimo Village

TRENTON (CP) — An RCAF heavy flight headed into the Arctic today to bring aid to a remote Eskimo village where three persons are reported dead and three critically ill with an undiagnosed respiratory ailment.

An RCAF Dakota from the Search and Rescue base here is carrying an Ottawa doctor to Resolute Bay, an RCAF base in the Northwest Territories, on the first leg of the mercy mission.

Also aboard the Dakota are two employees of Bradley Air Services, Ottawa. They will reassemble a two-passenger Piper Cub aircraft stores at Resolute and one of them will fly it 800-odd miles southeast of Resolute to Grise Fiord on the south shore of Ellesmere Island.

An RCAF spokesman here said the Dakota was expected to reach Resolute Bay today. He did not know the names of the persons aboard.

The RCAF said word of the Eskimos' plight reached here Thursday.

It was not immediately known whether the six Eskimos will be brought out or treated at the village. Bringing them out would require a shuttle service by the two-passenger Cub.

Dentist Says 'Baby' Teeth Not Expendable

TRENTON — Dr. John Y. Harrison was the guest speaker at the recent November meeting of the College Street School and Home group. His topic was "The Care of Your Child's Teeth."

He said that parents fail to realize the importance of the child's first "baby teeth," and considered them expendable. He said this was far from the truth as they play an important part in the formation of the permanent teeth.

Mrs. E. H. Young was elected second vice-president to replace D. C. Smith, who resigned due to business pressure.

K. M. Hemlins, principal of College Street School, announced that the School and Home group had presented a complete equipment and stock of tropical fish to the school.

Recently the group conducted a skate-o-vershoe exchange and the report of this venture was given. All unclaimed items were given to the Salvation Army.

Rescue Pup Perched Atop Store Roof

TRENTON — Lodged in jail for two hours yesterday was "Scooter," a pup discovered on the roof of a store on Front St. Miss Bessie Stackledge notified the police.

A reporter, hearing of the pup's plight, effected a rescue and took Scooter to the police station.

Details of how he got up on the roof and who owns him were unknown. Sooner has been removed to the dog catcher's quarters.

He is a pint-sized pup, black with white markings.

One police officer said he thought Sooner was a "third dog" which might explain his fondness for high elevation.

Joel Hendricks just couldn't make up his mind between Mary Elizabeth Young, left, and Betty Bannon. So he decided that he was "much better off with two." The three youthful dancers starred in the Trenton Legion Poppy Show last night.

Legion Holds Annual Poppy Day Concert

TRENTON — The second annual Poppy Fund Sunday Evening Hour was held last night in the Legion hall.

Ken Craddock, vice-president of the local Legion branch, acted as master of ceremonies. Bill Long provided organ background music for the various musical numbers.

W. J. Lawson, president of the legion branch, reminded the audience of the true significance of Poppy Day, and urged those present to remember and honor the dead of the two world wars and the Korean war.

Individual stars of the evening were Billy Manning on the guitar and drummer Archie Babcock; Charlie Kyle, mouth organ; tap dancer, Linda Hamilton, Betty Carter and Judy Lynn McKnight of Belleville; Margaret Westlake, piano accordion; Jackie Cooke and Iris Lohnes, acrobats; Debbie Scrivener, dancer; Tony Klemencic, accordion.

Tap dancing skits were put on by pupils from the Brenda Archer and Gail Hendricks dancing schools and Esther-Lillian Hendricks presented a display of ballet.

The Morrow sisters of Stirling sang several selections.

Rev. J. T. Irwin, padre of the Legion branch gave the address to the audience at the end of the program. He said that most of the important things in life cannot be fully expressed, hence people use symbols for the things that are precious to them. He said that the poppy is the symbol of remembrance, sacrifice and a love all, the symbol of sublime gratitude to those who died that others might live.

The Lord's Prayer was sung by F. C. Morrison, and the entire group joined in a grand finale "In Flanders Field" was recited by Heather Scott.

Mrs. Irene Prime of Brighton was in charge of the program.

Food And People

Today the peoples of the world are producing and consuming slightly more food per head than they did the days before the Second World War. It is believed that it should be possible to double the world's food production in the next 40 years. The world's population, on the other hand, will take 50 years to double. In other words, around the beginning of the next century, people may be better fed than they are today, despite the so-called population explosion.

These are comforting figures. But the person who presents them, E. J. McNaughton writing in the CIL. Valley, warns that there is no reason for complacency. We took Britain five centuries to treble wheat yields per acre. During the past century, during which all the implements of modern agriculture have been applied to the crop, the increase in yield was only 60 per cent. If the population expansion continues at its present rate, the number of people in the world will double every fifty years. By 2110 A.D. food production would have to be eight times as much as today. Whatever discoveries may be made, yields cannot double indefinitely, either of crops or livestock."

Mr. McNaughton suggests two remedies—rapid extension of sound agricultural practices in underdeveloped countries and "timely planning of populations."

It seems to us that we ought not to deceive ourselves that we can permit population to expand as long as the food supply keeps pace and then automatically curb population growth when it starts to outpace increases in food production. Human nature is not that simple.

One thought occurs. Everybody knows the manner in which marriages multiply and babies increase during times of war. There are, of course, logical explanations. It has been suggested, though, that a series of mass unconscious mind takes over, resulting in a sharp increase in the birth rate to build up the gaps which war will make in the population. Support for this theory has been provided by recent studies which reveal that fertility is often highest among those suffering from malnutrition, Mother Nature trying to provide many babies because the infant death toll will be high. Could it be that today's unprecedented "population explosion" is Mother Nature's way of preparing for an unprecedented catastrophe, nuclear war? Commonsense says no—but "there are more things than are dreamed of in your philosophy."

Wants Sermons Criticized

How many people beg for criticism? Mighty few. At The United Church Observer, which must be considered an authoritative publication for the clergy, wants sermons analyzed and criticized—publicly. Perhaps newspapers should send critics to church.

After preachers get out of theological colleges, the observer argues, the only criticism they hear comes from their wives, who cannot be objective, "and even if they are, husbands won't listen." The Observer maintains that without criticism the quality of preaching is bound to decline, church music will worsen, and religious broadcasting may get so bad that radio stations will have to protect themselves by overcharging them off the air.

Since the Observer asked for criticism, we will venture to enquire how, if this is true, the quality of sermons and church music has managed to survive most 2,000 years of lack of newspaper criticism.

We will also confess, sadly, that if church criticism became a necessary role for all newspaper publishers could have to get busy and hunt up men with more moral fibre than most editors. Things can get rough though right now, when critical words are limited to the performance of rock 'n' roll singers, ballet dancers and sopranos. We shudder to think sooner rises caucus after the aftermath of regular Monday criticism of Sunday's sermons.

Silence Is Golden

We have heard about a teacher who, in the best tradition of progressive education, added the following bit of encouragement to an otherwise poor report card: "Johnny contributes nicely to the general singing by his delightful listening." (Council of Education.)

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

HOLLOW TREES

Some weeks ago our commun-winds of life to reveal the true was hit by a passing hurri- strength of people as well as of cane. Not many houses were trees. The expression "tall standing, but there was covid- weather friend" is a familiar one ble loss in trees. After the to describe people who do not storm was over, I walked some stand by their friend in their through the debris, trouble comes. And we have all and noticed the large trees observed the "man or woman who seems to be the center of the family's strength — until calamity strikes — revealing his true lovableness and weakness.

The secret of real strength of character is sincere religious faith. Without faith, man is no more than a hollow tree, ready to be snapped off when the first big gusts come along. With faith, there is nothing he cannot endure.

Get ready for life's "big blows" — they are eventually experienced by all.

Miracles of the Universe Radio Telescopes

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Power Resources

This is one of a series of articles by Mr. Macaulay dealing with sources of energy and their application, in the past, the present and the future.

ARTICLE 19

There is visible light and there is invisible light.

Man can see visible light, but he cannot see invisible light. Visible light is only about 1 per cent of all possible light. Invisible light makes up the balance.

The balance is made up of radio waves, TV waves, heat waves, X-rays and ultra-violet rays. None of these man can see.

In an article entitled "Light" we discussed what man could see and why, and space does not permit repeating that material here.

As man looks out into space with his most powerful telescopes he can see over one billion galaxies (1,000,000,000) and these galaxies may have on the average, say, 100 billion stars, (100,000,000,000). That makes 100 quintillion stars in all in the visible universe! (100,000,000,000,000,000,000).

The star closest to the Sun is Alpha Centauri, 25 trillion miles away (25,000,000,000,000 miles). The farthest stars from the Earth are unnamed, but are thought by Greenstein to be travelling away from us at 320,000,000 miles an hour and may be about 36,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles distant.

VAST DUST CLOUDS

Between us on Earth and the far reaches of the universe there are vast clouds of gas and dust which we cannot see through. By vast, I mean billions (1,000,000,000) of miles in diameter. Not those comparatively little balls of wool that hover around our heads and spoil our sun bathing. Man cannot see through a cloud, and can his telescope, but a radio telescope can.

A vast cloud of gas and dust is a wall and neither man nor his telescope can see through it. The Milky-Way galaxy, of which the Sun and the Earth are a part, contains about 6 per cent of its mass in clouds and man cannot see through them. Man, therefore, cannot see a complete picture of the galaxy of which his own Earth is a part. Millions of other galaxies have the same clouds. So, there are vast reaches of dark patches through which man cannot see, because visible light from behind the cloud will not pass so that we can see it.

But invisible light will

A star or a cloud of gas may be so far away that not even powerful radio — therefore will the star never be seen! The star may have been seen by the eye but it can now be "seen" by the ear.

Hiram Kelly, a Belleville farmer dead and dumb woman "saw" — in the condition he was, could not see, she couldn't talk — but she saw Mary.

She saw by smelling, by feeling.

We "see" by seeing.

Radio "sees" by hearing.

LISTEN FOR "LIGHT"

The Oxford dictionary defines "S E E" as "Have or exercise the power of discerning objects with the eyes." It carries on for pages also along the same lines. Absolutely, man thinks he sees by his eyes — but he could not see without the equipment, seen without eyes—perhaps with antenna like a radio, or even telepathically.

After all, visible light is only a small part of light. All the light there is — is it fair to say that light which only the eyes can see is "light"? Is it not something else?

Radio telescopes listen for the "light" which stars and clouds of gas give off. Radio telescopes hear rays of light that penetrate clouds and likely great distances that light does not penetrate, clear. Also radio telescopes hear light that comes from stars so distant that it is far too great for man's eye to detect.

Today, man has with his eyes seen 6,500 million light-years away through a telescope what he thinks may be 36,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles but it is believed that the radio telescope at Jodrell Bank (England) will be able to listen over six times farther out into space than man can see (at the moment).

These radio telescopes do not "hear" sounds — instead light waves strike the machine and the machine indicates how it "feels" the light waves. An example can see the Crab Nebula and we can hear it when a star about 4,000 years ago exploded in 2000 B.C. and as we look at it, it is still giving off light from the explosion, however that is still millions now — whereas it takes the light from the Crab Nebula 900 years to reach the Earth. Astronomers are now seeing what it looked like 900 years ago.

One of the strangest sources of noise in the radio telescope is a point near Canopoeia. Nothing appears to be in the eye in man's telescope. But this is the area where Tycho Brahe in 1572 saw a star "explode". Tycho was not because of the speed of light the explosion took place long before it was seen). The radio telescope is listening to the frequencies of a star explosion — a star wreck — that man's telescope cannot see because the light given off is of too short or too long a wave length.

COLLIDING GALAXIES

Colliding galaxies that cannot be seen can be similarly calibred and detected. Two colliding galaxies is a vast group of stars (like millions of stars) passing near each other. Two galaxies so huge that each other — sort of like water going through a sieve. It's hard to picture but in the universe right now about 10 galaxies are known to be passing through each other. In the process the stars do not collide because the distance between stars is immense. But the gas in the galaxies collide and much energy is thereby released.

Cygnus A is a good example. Here are two galaxies thought to be passing through each other at millions of miles an hour, over 70,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles away. We cannot see the smash up but we can hear it as the energy is released together at 38,000,000 miles an hour.

Radio telescopes have a spectrum just as light telescopes do and by their study the universe is expanding very rapidly as the galaxies flee. Radio telescope is a huge metal dish which collects non-visible waves from outer space. It has many shapes. Its shape is unimportant. Size is. The performance may prove to be vital.

Radio telescopes are an arm of discovery — what discoveries may prove far more important than visual telescopes.

To be continued.

Population Grows Faster

Winnipeg Free Press

F. L. Lucas of Cambridge has joined the ranks of contemporary writers who are concerned over the population problem. He calls it the "population explosion of today."

This it to take a wide view of the matter. Individual experiences or the "greatest problem of today" may be the ones the individuals who hold them. An unemployed man may have considerable his own personal un-employment problem of greatest concern of today." Certainly it is the most immediate — for him.

The Second World War showed the personal that may deserve the term "greatest problem." The marshalid undoubtedly think it was their problem. From different viewpoints Hessen, Lumumba and Nasavuba may think so, too. And surely the problem of world peace, which is linked up with this, deserves consideration, for it is of great and even numberless importance.

Mr. Lucas is a professor who have written on the subject are quite right in drawing attention to the dangers of the "population explosion." Statistics are sometimes misleading and statistics on world-population trends vary. The estimates of increase as to where the general trend in world-population is heading.

But even with all of statistics, the following appears to be clear. The population of AD two may have doubled by 1650; the population of 1650 may have doubled by 1830; the population of 1830 more than doubled by 1900 and the population of 1900 has doubled by 1930.

Only half has the growth of world-population been steadily at its rate of growth has been fantastic. It not only grows bigger and bigger: it grows faster and faster.

Is it the "greatest problem of today"? Or, more likely, does it to have only one rival — the fear of nuclear war. Perhaps it is only a question of which is solved first.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

Franklin Delano Roosevelt shattered all precedents in the United States Government by being returned to White House as President of the United States for a third term. The Canadian government maintained its traditional attitude of impartiality toward domestic affairs of a friendly foreign country. However, it was expected that Prime Minister Mackenzie King, both as head of the government, and as a personal friend, would extend messages of congratulation to President Roosevelt. United States newspapers, a majority of them opposed to the third term candidature of Franklin D. Roosevelt, today hailed the result of the Presidential election as a triumph for democracy.

Mrs. Thelma Liddle, who recently was appointed to the office of Grand Electa of the Ontario Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, left yesterday for Hamilton, where tonight she will attend the reception for the Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Blanche Geddes, for her own chapter in that city. Tomorrow night in Oshawa, Mrs. Liddle will attend a reception for the Grand Sentinel.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Morgan, formerly of Toronto, are now residents of this city, the bridge the bride.

Mr. Percy Cornell, who is in training with the RCAF at Manning Pool, Toronto, spent the weekend at his home here.

Hon. George S. The road was constructed at a cost of approximately $35,000 a mile.

For the first time this year a thin coating of ice formed on the river last night and some ice floated throughout the day. The ice hardly could have been strong enough to support the weight of a child, but it is one of the first signs of winter.

Strictly Personal

Elderly Woman Eating Sundae Angers Sydney

By Sydney J. Harris

After an exhausting trip to the museum and the aquarium, we took Michael and Barbie to a restaurant for lunch last Saturday. I was tired and they were cranky, and the restaurant was crowded.

One booth was occupied by a large, elderly woman eating an ice-cream sundae. She was sitting for her space, and made her preparations to them with maddening deliberateness.

First she unbuttoned her hat and her gloves; then for her scarf; then she fussed with her hair, combing minutes later (after the waiters had all the pulverized her with glances), she began her bulk out of the booth and made her way toward the cashier's desk.

It is easy and familiar to dismiss this kind of behavior as "selfish" or "inconsiderate" — but I am convinced there is more to it than that. When we a stranger, we think about persons were conscious of their rudeness; I am sure that most of them now, not because they are more effective, but because experience has taught us that they are usually the unconscious victims of childhood habits which are patients, more than agents.

This can perhaps be seen most easily with automobile driving, the sensitivity in which our neurones show up when we drive most markedly. What does the average motorist do when he is suddenly parked; waiting to occupy the parking space he is looking for?

If no one were waiting he would drive smoothly and swiftly. But the knowledge that another car is hovering for the coveted space suddenly turns him into a slow-motion spook.

He may, light a cigaret, fool around with the dashboard controls, rummage in the glove compartment, look at the mirror, dig his keys on the floor — anything and everything to prove that he is mobilized while traffic hovers behind him, and shoots angrily around you.

We see this in most cases, aware of his delaying tactics. He is reacting unconsciously to the situation, and his reaction is probably had to experience the same frustration in trying to park, and second, because (like a child) he hates to give up a possession even when he does not want it any more.

Understanding this can make us more patient and less prone to high blood pressure in public places. But, more than that, it can make us realize that only when enough people begin to comprehend their unconscious motivations can we begin to lay our chaotic culture a "civilization."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G Molner, M.D.

DO SOMETHING ABOUT SORE FEET — NOW

"Dear Dr. Molner: I would like a copy of your leaflet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," (I enclose 5c for a self-addressed, stamped, return envelope.)

"I feel that my foot pains are abnormal for a woman of 31. I am expecting now, although I have had sore feet for years.

"But now I fear that varicose veins may develop, since there seems to be a tendency toward them in my family. My veins are quite large and close to the surface on my legs. Is there anything that can be done?" — Mrs. A. C.

I trust you'll find the leaflet of considerable use, but you give me some reason to wonder if you aren't looking for too simple a cure.

"Sore feet" is not the same as foot pains. The sense of cramps. You say that you have had sore feet for years. It isn't normal to have sore feet when you are young. Something was wrong, perhaps some fault in the boose structure, a weak arch, or the like, which threw your weight onto the wrong muscles and hence caused the soreness.

In such a case, it is certainly not surprising that your added weight during pregnancy, has intensified your trouble.

There are not too many cases of painful feet that cannot be relieved, especially if you have something done when they first appear, while you are young. Remember that the foot is a complicated structure, so it is impossible for me to guess, from a letter, what may be causing your trouble.

There is, young mother-to-be, only one sound course for you to take. Ask your physician to seek the cause. Or, if you are going to an orthopedic surgeon than a general physician, he may refer you to a specialist in foot orob'ems. Since you have had this trouble for so long, I suppose that you get help right away.

As to varicose veins, avoidance of anything that constricts the veins (round garters, etc., or girdle that puts too much pressure on veins higher up) is a basic precaution.

Also, occasionally to lie down, or even to sit down, but with your feet up on a chair or bench several times a day, is also recommended. It doesn't have to be a long period. Ten minutes at a time will give the veins a chance to regain the support that builds up, and hence minimizes the chance of their becoming varicose.

If and your doctor can readily judge this — still more vigorous measures are needed, he may specify the use of elastic hosiery or elastic bandages for the time being, to give support to the veins. Since the problem is present in your family, you are wise to take action now, rather than to wait until the problem becomes serious.

For both varicose veins or pain, and to avoid varicose veins, don't forget rectal exercise! Keep your weight down!

"Dear Dr. Molner: Could you explain why facial hairs, such as a mustache, have a tendency to grow darker while the eyebrows and hair remain brown?" — W. T.

No, I can't explain, because I don't know. Sometimes the other way round, although it's quite common for a man in the 60's or 70's to find that his beard grow (as on a hunting trip) that is a mixture of gingy-mentation the whiskers are gray something else is always re'a'n their color.

Note to Mrs. W. J.: No, "wearing a copper bracelet" does not prevent hardening of the arteries. It's one of the superstitions which still hang on.

"Don't Quit Because Of Arthritis" is the title of my leaflet designed to help all who suffer pains and aches of arthritis. For a cony write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover handling and postage.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

"LIFE BEGINS PERPETUALLY"

H. G. Wells, the English author who died in 1946, is responsible for the very illuminating sentence I have used as the title for this Talk. It appears in his "Outline of History" published in 1920.

This three-word statement has run through my mind like a new inspiration, and so I give it to you. Perhaps you will see the significance of it, we fail to understand it, and to the purpose back of all life and effort.

Unless we are willing to face a future, elderly woman at the table hour, and to play the chords of our better natures in the direction into our daily lives, we are not worthy to be handle the tasks of life itself.

Our souls must be strengthened quite the same manner as our bodies, if we would serve our time creditably.

Prolonged rest and inactivity produce decay. We look too much in the world for anything or anybody useful.

In studying the history of the world, I have noticed that the biggest men of the world have been the ones first to disappear, and the world took no too much room and served too little.

Life begins perpetually!

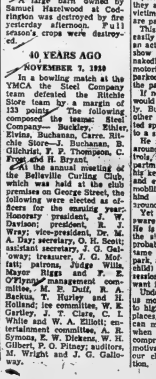
If it discourages you to think that you have passed your prime, you at least can decide to begin life anew. You can be no Yesterday — Today.

Now, you may start right now. Who is there able to hold from you the chance?

Would you like to compete with anyone less than yourself?

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK



A lady of my acquaintance can't go to sleep at night without reading a mystery story, or at least a good part of it. Sometimes as fixed as is the habit of some who take sleeping pills. This is wholly dependent upon it. So may patent, so may thousand the victims of different drugs. Even before gentle Morpheus comes softly down and paralyzes her eyelids until they fall. She has been reading so for more than twenty years.

"You must," I said to her, "have read every mystery story ever written."

"Yes," she agreed, "and many of them twice or three times."

"Then," I said, "I think there can be no pleasure reading a mystery story the second time."

"Of course there is," she replied. "You never remember who did it. You remember, since the first few pages, that you have read this before, and so you know who is the guilty party, is as big a mystery as ever, but I avoid the mysteries that you have wallowed—through in the past. I like a new story, and it is rather fun to be surprised the second time by the same old thing.

Growing Through Service

By ALMA MASON

High fellowship with God will make us safe and serene and happy. High fellowship with one's fellow man will translate and elevate the human soul; will increase its growth rapidly and surely. Lives are definitely energized and ennobled when contact with others through service to others is put in motion.

We cannot derive spiritual sustenance from God unless we develop an attitude of tolerance and sympathetic understanding for all those who we lives touch our lives daily. We cannot develop the gifted talents abscored on us at birth unless we share them with others for the God and glory of others.

Some of us, through misguided youthful habits and distorted youthful opinions and beliefs, spend long and torturous years attempting to reach for and hold the true virtues of the Christian faith. Many of us never learn that, like plants turned to the sun, human hearts become colorful and flower-like through the constant sun of generosity and love given to and shared with others. Often we never learn that concentration on self limits resources and hesitates to make the most of this earthly span.

Simple gifts and simple resources of mind and soul, carefully husbanded and cherished, scattered have an irrepressible power of increase under God's guiding hand.

How amazed many a man has been to widen his modest store of ability used in an amazing and beautiful manner because he has been eager to place his gifts on the altar of God and allow God to use them for world betterment.

Often those who we now crown with the title of "genius" started life with seemingly ordinary ability. In the hands of such people a burning desire to be of service to others blazed forth day and night and converted the ordinary talent into spectacular splendor and the humble man who possessed it into an ensindspitor, a dynamic inventor or world-renowned scientist.

SMALL GIFTS

God will bless the small gifts and increase them a hundredfold if the heart of the one who possesses such gifts is abundantly filled with a desire to help mankind.

Great talent can become a curse instead of a blessing. Today we see brilliant men and women of gigantic mental resources marching in a frightening, immense army of Godlessness. They are being trained, perhaps, to overthrow the Christian belief and to trample into the dust the loveliness of redemption of the human soul — the promise of everlasting life than the Men of Galilee died for. A Godless ideology will never destroy the rapturous spark of love that Jesus bequeathed us; the spark that has grown into a flame that has sustained and nurtured and elevated the human race for 2,000 years. Again and again the best of the Godless oppressor has tried to stamp out and obliterate the expanding and triumphant force of the Christian faith. Deposition allied against the simple faith of our forefathers may hinder the growth of God's good seed for a time but will never completely blot it out.

One does not have to be well-equipped educationally to use one's gifts to enhance the lives of others. The old hymn, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," may well apply to most of us. We do not have to go far afield to find a worthwhile niche of helpfulness to fit into. There is unlimited opportunity in any community to enrich the lives of others.

One city block usually cradles poignant humanity, people of all races, all classes, all creeds. One city block may fence grief, joy, frustration, death and disaster. It may hold in its grasp dejection, irritation or the seventh heaven of unalloyed happiness. One city block can be a challenging mission field.

In Lloyd C. Douglas' wonderful book, "The Magnificent Obsession," Dr. Hudson started an unending chain of good. When he quietly and secretly did a good deed for someone, he charged that person with a mission. Each person he helped promised to pay him by helping another person.

FORGED CHAINS

When Dr. Hudson died, it was found that hundreds of invincible golden chains of brotherly love and concern had been forged, all stretching into a love-starved world.

The greatest talent possessed by man and gifted by God is compassionate love. If added to intelligent vision and purpose, used abundantly by individuals and collectively by nations and the heads of nations, it can bless the universe clean of hatred, greed, jealously and cruelty. It can bring into realistic and exquisite being the words, "Man to Man the World O'er Shall Brothers be and Wars Shall be no More."

God gave him many little gifts
And cautioned him to cherish them;
He kept them hushed within his heart;
Secure and hidden safe, apart.

He felt them shrink and fade and die;
He felt them turn to cold, grey stone.
While his poor soul was torn and bent
With misery and discontent.

He reached into his heavy heart
And lifted out the aching gifts;
He scattered each one here and there,
On grief and trouble; deep despair.

Where each gift fell a red rose grew
His fragrance mounted to the skies,
His heart, enhanced, softened, was suddenly revived, refreshed.

The roses spread and soon a hill
Was covered with celestial bloom.
And weary travellers passed that way
To marvel and to kneel and pray.

"All for me!" Andy turned over the socks his wife had just given him. "And every pair a different pattern too. They must have cost plenty."

"Well, it's your birthday," Sal smiled. "They were all the same price, and I picked what I hoped you'd like."

Andy nodded, noticing the price tag that was still on one pair. "But twenty-five dollars, sixty-one, just on socks for me, Wow!"

That as a fine gift. Maybe you can figure out how many pairs of socks there were.

Thanks for an idea, to:

Bayview H-S Holds Panel On 'Citizenship'

The general meeting of the Bayview Home and School Association was held on November 1st with Mrs. S. Whitaker in the chair. The devotional was conducted by Mr. A. Beard. This was followed by the business session of the meeting.

Mrs. F. VanRompaey was installed as vice-president by Mrs. S. Whitaker.

Reports on the progress of the forthcoming dance were given. The meeting was advised that the dance will be held next month at the Moira Secondary School Auditorium.

It was noted with approval that the school guard is now on duty at the corners of Bridge and Farley Streets.

Reports on the UNICEF Hallowe'en collection showed just over $100 was donated in the area, to be turned in by the Bayview pupils.

Mrs. Whitaker announced that the teachers will be in their respective rooms at 7.30 on the evening of the next general meeting, December 6 for any parents wishing to consult them.

PANEL DISCUSSION

Following the conclusion of the business meeting, Mr. Howson introduced Mr. R. Bailey, who acted as moderator for a stimulating panel discussion on citizenship. The panel members were: Mrs. E. J. McLaughlin, Mrs. F. VanRompaey, Mr. L. Jouvard and Mr. S. Whitaker. Many interesting points were brought out and debated, but, in closing, all the panel members were in complete agreement that Canadian citizenship is a privilege and an honor and brings with it responsibilities and obligations.

The panel was thanked for its participation by Mrs. Dier.

After the meeting was adjourned refreshments were served by the Grade VI mothers.

Cannifton-Corbyville WMS Discusses Rally, Refugee Help

Mrs. Roy Pound welcomed the ladies of the Cannifton - Corbyville WMS when they gathered at her home last Thursday for their November meeting.

The president, Mrs. Douglas Brenton, commenced proceedings by leading the members in prayer and remembering those who were sick and unable to attend.

The chief business of the day were the final plans for the rally which is being held in Cannifton United Church this year. It was also decided to pack a second bale of used clothing for refugee use; this to be done at the church next Thursday, 10 November at 2 p.m.

The worship service was also taken by Mrs. D. Brenton with the theme being "Overseas Missions". A group of members illustrated this theme by reading various excerpts of speeches by famous missionaries to prove that overseas missionaries are really necessary to the Christian world.

The subject of the study period was "Freedom to Move". The Christian Refugee Year had been extended for another 12 months, but even so it will be impossible for them to do anything but merely touch the fringe of the refugee problem. The Rev. R. Stanley Jones has said, "We, on this continent, have no surplus of Christianity, but unless we try to bring others to Christ our own Christianity will die on our hands."

Betty Thompson in the study book "Turning World", stated that the World Council of Churches service to Istanbul has provided a clinic, a food and clothing distribution centre to help the 2,000 refugees in that area. Christian service to refugees takes many forms: individual grants to help them make a fresh start; help to start a new business of one kind or another; aid to build badly needed hospitals and vocational training. The object being to get the refugees to help themselves, and thereby keep their dignity and self-respect.

Not only does the refugee require the help of the church, so does the immigrant. Two million immigrants have entered Canada since 1945. The World Council of Churches has been studying the question of "people on the move", for the past two years. A preparatory commission on migration, consisted of people from 14 countries, has made a wide examination of the subject and it is believed that a final conference if this commission will make recommendations to the next meeting of the World Council of Churches.

The president closed the meeting.

Mrs. Roy Pound and her assistants, Mrs. T. Howard, Mrs. W. Cole and Mrs. W. Brenton served the refreshments during the following social half hour.

A vote of thanks by Mrs. D. Brenton was tendered to Mrs. Roy Pound for her kind hospitality, also to Mrs. Beverly Foster for her services as pianist in lieu of Mrs. Boyd, who was unable to be present.

Wives Have Say In Farm

OTTAWA — In the majority of 332 typical Ontario farms, women help the farmer make his decision on the operation of the farm and the farmer helps his wife make up her mind about important matters in the running of the home.

Canada Department of Agriculture's rural sociologist Dr. Helen Abell, analyzing a joint federal - provincial farm income study, adds a cogent reason for the female interest in the farm operation."

"Almost half of the farm women now do as much work around the farm (apart from homemaking duties) as when they first became farmers' wives from four to forty years so."

Farm women make a decided contribution to the labor force of Ontario farms in that 86 per cent perform some work around the farm other than homemaking.

The work which the women do includes keeping farm accounts, operating farm machinery, feeding livestock and marketing farm produce. Nearly all do some work on the farm but a few, chiefly in teaching or sales work, have returned to their perennial work in order to supplement the farm income. Not only are three-quarters of farm wives had worked in non-farm jobs before marrying.

The pervasive nature of joint decision making by the homemaker and the farm operator emerges from the survey. Some of the decisions are relatively minor, some are of major importance but all decisions affect the farm family not only in earning a living but in attaining the best possible family life, the sociologist affirms.

This joint husband-wife function operates in varying degrees depending on the specific activity but it is clear that in the majority of farm families the homemaker and farm operator merge most decisions as a team.

Implicit in her report, said Dr. Abell, is the fact that farming is indeed a family affair.

RECORD CLASSES

TORONTO (CP)—Enrolment in city schools has leaped to an all-time high, the total of 93,271 being an increase of 7,462 over 1959. This includes an increase of 764 in collegiates and of 386 in commercial schools.

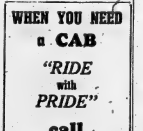
More and More People are Getting to Like Winter!

They are learning that it is the very best time to get all sorts of jobs done around their homes, plants and businesses.

Skilled workers are more readily available and, being more productive, give you better value for your dollar. Many firms also offer discounts in the off-season lull.

This applies especially to home, plant and office improvements.

But in addition to home improvements there are many other things that can be done to advantage during the winter. They include such things as maintenance of lawn and garden equipment, electrical appliances, outboard motors and automobiles, as well as dry cleaning of drapes and rugs and replacement of upholstery, to mention but a few.



By taking a realistic approach to winter work you will also be helping your community by creating employment during the traditional winter lull. When everybody works, everybody benefits.

Chap. 55 OES Installs 1960-1 Officers

On Friday evening the auditorium of the Masonic Temple was filled to capacity when the officers of Belleville Chapter No. 55, O.E.S., were installed by the retiring matron.

At the opening of the meeting the retiring W.M. Mrs. F. Berry, and W. P. Mr. B. Brickman welcomed guests from most of the lodges in the surrounding district.

Reports were given by Mrs. A. Davidson, P.M., of the auditing committee and Mr. M. Hancock, P.P., of the trustees committee.

The east was a picture of loveliness with fern and baskets of variegated mums with the Signet, chosen by the Worthy Matron, set in the background.

Mrs. Audrey Elliott, P.M. of Belleville Chapter No. 55 and Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of Ontario, was installing Grand Matron, assisted by Mr. Cyril McMullen, P.P. as Installing Grand Patron. They were seated in the east by the following Officers of Belleville Chapter No. 55: ——— P.M. — A. Davidson, B. Embury, T. Hall, E. Elliott, B. Clarke, D. McGlashon, O. Jones and J. Worthy Grand Matron — Mrs. P. Berry; I.P.M.: Chaplain — Mrs. A. McMullen; A.M. — Warder — Mrs. M. Elliott P.M.; Sentinel — Mr. F. Westover, P.P.; organist — Mrs. C. Ironside; soloist — Mrs. B. Shaw, who sang "Faith Unlocks the Door" before the newly-elected and appointed officers retired and the Chapter room and "Bless This House," after they had been installed.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The officers installed were: W.M — Mrs. L. Brickman; W.P., — Mrs. C. Booth; A.M. — Mrs. F. Johnson; A.P. — Mr. B. Cross; Sec. — Mrs. L. Pitt, P.M.; Treas. — Mrs. L. Chaplin; Cond. — Mrs. M. Cross; A. Cond. — Mrs. D. Hill; Chaplain — Mrs. B. Locke; Marshal — Mrs. N. MacDonald; Organist — Mrs. B. Grills; Adah — Mrs. M. Elliott; Ruth — Mrs. J. Warren; Esther — Mrs. M. Sherry; Martha — Mrs. V. Johnson; Electra — Mrs. I. Jones; Warder — Mrs. W. Tomlinson; Sentinel — Mr. D. Simpson; Flag Bearer — Mrs. R. Juby.

Mrs. L. Brickman, the newly-installed W.M., spoke outlining her motto, pledge and watchword for the coming year, thanking for the continued support of the members. Mr. C. Booth, W.P. also spoke.

Mrs. D. McGlashon, P.D.D.G.M., presented Past Matron Berry with her Past Matron's Jewel, complimenting her on the fine job she had done during her year of office to which Mrs. Berry replied. Mrs. L. Brickman presented her husband, Mr. R. Brickman with his P.P's jewel.

After close of Chapter, lunch was served under the convenership of Mrs. H. Darvell and Mrs. J. Bell and their committee, followed by dancing to the music of Mr. C. Thorne and his orchestra.

Tunic Sweater

By VERA WINSTON

It's hard to tell a sweater from a tunic this season without the fashion score card.

Here is one of the new type tunic sweaters, or sweater tunics, knit of striped Orlon, the lace stripes showing up nicely on a white background.

The tubular sash is lilac, and the same tone lilac is used for lined cotton knit pants that taper neatly.

The sweater can be worn with a skirt or over a jumper for a quick change.

Vancouver Girl Among Best In World

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — As a youngster, Beryl (Hap) Piper, 30 was playing softball on the sandlots of Nanaimo.

Today she has 12 trophies to prove that she's among the best women softball players in the world.

Seven years ago, Miss Piper first attracted the attention of scouts for the Portland Florists, one of the leading women's teams in the United States. After an exchange of letters with Irv Lind, the Portland coach, she joined the Oregon club.

In each of those seven years, Miss Piper has played with Portland in the women's world softball championship tournament. In 1954 the club won the title. She was named to the World All-Star team and has won just about every award possible on the diamond as she plays both infield and outfield with equal ability.

ON FAR EAST TOUR

Climax of her years with the club, she said during a visit with her parents here, was a trip to the Far East in which the Florists played games in Hawaii, Okinawa, Japan, Formosa and the island outposts of the United States service. The tour, first made by a women's team, was so successful that the U.S. government decided to make it an annual event.

Miss Piper first attracted attention while playing with a

Reports Given Of Brownie, Guide Activities

The fall meeting of the local association for Belleville Southeast District Guides and Brownies was held on Thursday evening at the home of District Commissioner, Mrs. H. T. Floyd. The excellent number of mothers in attendance expressed almost every Guide Company and Brownie Pack in the district.

Members explaining the considerable difficulties encountered in finding meeting places for all the groups this year due to the school auditorium having to be used for classrooms the extra meeting place is still required. A new Brownie Pack has been organized this year at Bayview School

BADGES EARNED

The report of the badge secretary showed that a total of 56 badges had been earned by the Guides and 34 badges by the earned by Brownies this calendar year since May 1st of this year. Fourteen Brownies were presented with their wings, which will be worn on their Guide uniforms later.

The district camp secretary, Mrs. F. Clarke, reported that two successful district camps had been held this summer, at the new Quinte Area Camp-site at Waupoos. The numbers of Guides camping this summer were as follows: at Minet's Point, at Doe Lake, three Guides at area camp, and 46 guides, two Rangers and 8 Leaders at the district camp. Mrs. C. Baker is acting as a leader of a Brownie Pack Holiday and a Guide Camp for the other districts of Belleville.

Mrs. N. Gerow, Captain of No. 1 Guide Company, has recently been awarded the Guide Commandant's license and she will attend the Provincial Camp Training Day to Hamilton this month.

Plans were made for the Christmas bake sale to be held in the market building early in December. Mrs. Parfitt kindly consented to convene this sale.

After the meeting was adjourned a most enjoyable social half hour followed.

Ladysmith team on Vancouver Island in 1941 when she caught the eye of Ivan Temple of Vjo-lante, hair creased her way to playing there. The big break came after a game against a semi-pro team from the U.S.

"The coach of the Queens came to me one day after his exhibition game and told me that if ever I needed a real player there was a girl in Nanaimo who was just about all-everything," says Lind. "I decided to have her come here for a trial and it was a real letter day for me when she decided to join our squad."

Among the trophies adorning her showcase, Miss Piper keeps a Canadian basketball champion ship award, won in 1952 as a member of the Vancouver Elites —proof of versatility as well as talent.

Mr. and Mrs. Terence Anthony Buckle are shown signing the register following their marriage in Consecon United Church, Consecon, Ontario. BUCKLE — FOX

Consecon United Church was the scene on Saturday, October 29 at 4.00 p.m. of a lovely autumn, double-ring wedding when Violette Alberta Fox, of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Fox, of Consecon, became the bride of Terence Anthony Buckle of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Buckle, of Saskatoon, Sask. The Rev. D. Pipe of Consecon, officiated before a setting of white Sharia mums. White candles in bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. E. MacDonald, organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Philip Squier as he sang, "O Perfect Love," before the ceremony and "O Promise Me," during the signing of the register.

The radiantly lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a charming bridal gown of brocaded taffeta fashioned with molded bodice having a square neckline and elbow-length sleeves complemented by wrist-length gloves. The full-length bouffant skirt cascaded into a chapel train. Her veil of French veiling, in fingertip length, was held by a semi-pillbox headdress encrusted with sequins and seed pearls. She wore a pearl necklace and carried a bouquet of white carnations, mingled with yellow Sharia mums.

Miss Juanita Fox attended her sister as maid of honor, and Miss Teresa Chambers, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They were matching gowns of emeral-green taffeta featuring fitted bodices with sateau necklines and puffed sleeves with flat matching bow headdresses; the maid of honor's accented by veiling. The bouffant skirts were in stretcher-length, and bouquets of bronze roses encircled by bronze and yellow mums.

Mr. Michael Kirpan, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Lawrence Fenniak of Toronto and Adrian Dorn of Scarborough, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in Kingerley Hall, Consecon, which was decorated with yellow, pink and white streamers and wedding bells cascading over the bridal table. The bridal was centered by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. Tall white candles in silver candlesticks, bouquets of white snapdragons and mauve mums and the white damask linen completed the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother chose a beige lace over taffeta gown, with brown accessories, and corsage of pink roses and pink carnations, for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother, who also received, wore blue silk Paisley, with navy accessories and corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip by air to the Island of Antigua, for a two weeks' stay, the bride wore a cocoa brown suit, navy beige and green accessories, and corsage of yellow and white baby mums.

Showers honoring the bride were held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Blair, Toronto and at the home of Mrs. Tom Roberts, Carrying Place.

Guests attended from Saskatoon, Sask.; Watertown, N.Y.; Toronto; Belleville; Beamsville; Shannonville; Trenton; Clarkson; Streetsville; Long Branch; Foxboro, and Cloyne.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckle are residing in Toronto.

Halloway K-D Club Enjoys Glacier Talk

The Kum Double Club met at the home of Gene and Audrey Kelly last Wednesday evening, with a large attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Woolley were guests at this meeting.

Mr. Woolley, geographer, and teacher of Grade 7 Secondary School, was introduced by Charles Huffman as "a man who knows more about the dirt in this community than we know ourselves". He proved to be a most gifted speaker, as his enthusiasm for geography caught and held the attention of all present. Knowing the majority of his listeners were interested in agriculture, he explained by map and slides, the reasons for differences in soil composition and depth.

Colored slides of glaciers on Western Canada mountains were shown in explaining how glacial action caused (1) erosion (as in the Madoc area); (2) depositing of good soil (as locally); (3) formation of lakes. Lake Iroquois once covered nearly all of these southern townships.

Drumlins, whale-shaped hills common in this locality were deposits left by the glacier. Eskers, streams which formed and flowed under the glacier, as they always dropped the soil they had been carrying at first the gravel, then sand, then clay — thus accounting for the variety of soils.

Appreciation to Mr. Woolley for an interesting talk was expressed by Roscoe Robson.

The date for dedications of the Baptismal Font was set for November 6. The next meeting is to be at the Huffman home.

Many Unqualified Persons Entering Private Nursing

TORONTO (CP) — Concern at the increasing number of unqualified persons entering private nursing was expressed Saturday by Mrs. Blanche Duncanson, director of the Nightingale School of Nursing.

Mrs. Duncanson, addressing a dinner in connection with the second annual meeting of the Association of Certified Nursing Assistants of Ontario, said "there must be complete accord" between the registered nurses and the certified nursing assistants to correct this situation.

It was too early yet, Mrs. Duncanson said, to predict the effect of the new Nightingale school's two-year course, which replaces the traditional three-year training period.

Miss M. Howell, president of the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, called a new statutory body for the nursing profession. She said the body, which would be known as the College of Nurses, would be similar in concept to the College of Physicians and Surgeons. It would be based on the principle that nurses should have the right to set their own minimum educational requirements, practices and standards.

TIPPING: A CONTROVERSIAL SUBJECT

We follow a continental procedure called "tipping." There are many who do not agree that the method of rewarding a service is the right way to do it, but, since it is an established custom, it is one with which we should conform — whether we be fore or against it! Obviously you are paying only for services rendered. Remember that the person receiving the tip makes part of his living that way. Most of it, as a matter of fact.

Today it is obligatory to tip waiters, porters, taxi drivers and especially those who perform extra and personal services for us. The hotel bellboy, the beauty parlor operator, the barber, train porters, hat check girls and errand boys also come under the heading of those to whom a tip should be given.

Follow two rules when tipping and you'll be safe, if not overly generous. Ten percent of the total bill is considered the accepted minimum these days. The more accepted percentage is fifteen for superior service, but all, never tip less than ten cents. Better no tip at all than a five-cent tip.

The following are a few suggestions that may come in handy when you offer a tip: Nothing less than fifty cents to the bellboy who carries your bag to your room. If the bags are numerous, he should be remunerated accordingly. To the hat check girl and the doorman of a hotel who procures your car for you, a tip of twenty — five cents is more or less standard. To a Pullman porter a minimum of twenty-five cents should be given for any service and fifty cents for a night spent. If he performs special services for you, he should receive more. A redcap in the station should be given what he thinks is in that particular city. In some, for example, he expects to receive anything over twenty-five cents that you give him, per bag. The rest are to his employer. The beauty - parlor operator should be tipped fifteen percent of your bill, unless the operator is the owner of the shop, then no tip is called for.

A waiter's tip should be fifteen or twenty percent of the bill. A headwaiter should not receive a tip unless he performs some special services for you, such as providing a desirable table, or overseeing a rendezvous for a dinner. Then it is customary to remunerate him accordingly.

Only a porter is tipped when traveling by air. Employees of air lines are not allowed to accept tips of any kind, for anything.

Above all, watch your manner of tipping. Don't pick a boy a dime with a sullen attitude. Accompany your tip with a smile and a gracious "Thank you" even if you are against the whole idea. However, poor service, given in a rude manner, should never be rewarded with a tip. Follow the axiom that "he who gives, is given."

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: My aunt, who has been a widow for several years, is to be married again next month. She has been very kind to me and I would like to do something for her. May I give her a shower if not, what can I do in the way of entertaining her?

Mrs. P. H.—Chicago, Ill.

Answer: It is not proper that you give her a shower. A relative should not hostess such a party. Why don't you suggest that one of her close friends give her the shower? I would suggest that you give a luncheon for her women friends (in her honor, of course), or a dinner, or an evening party for a mixed group, making it clear that it is not a shower and that no gifts are expected.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Mr. B. Y. — I can't forsake my mother.

Mrs. B. Y. — Our son deserves his chance to go to college.

Mr. B. Y. — I married Ida in life and now, at 53, I have a 17-year-old son who will be ready for college in a year. But with a 76-year-old mother to support, I'm in the middle of a three-generation squeeze.

My mother is in a small apartment which she can no longer take care of alone. She's been getting along with part-time help plus many attentions from my wife and a few neighbors. But her-arthritis is getting more disabling. Things have reached a point where, according to the doctor, she must either have a full-time companion or give up her home and move to a hospital-type institution.

I'm stymied as to where my duty lies. Any sort of a nursing home costs at least $2,500 a year. And that's about what a year of college for Eddie would require. On my salary, I can just about swing one of these expenses. To try to provide for both is the question.

What's a conscientious son and father to do?

Mrs. B. Y. — Mother Y is a dear soul who has given us all love her. But all her life she has been selfish. First by her husband and then by her son, so that she just took over and assumed all her problems on my husband.

You'd think she'd have made some provision for her old age. No. She just says, "I'll do what I can with it while it's here." And we must make the decisions.

She has a small income which my husband has been supplementing ever since he got a raise to earn money. Now we need every penny. If you think it best, we must go firm with her. If her estate affords plus a little extra from us can't substitute her, then she must swallow her pride and allow a public social worker to take charge of her living arrangements.

I'm sure some satisfactory solution can be found for my mother-in-law's predicament. But I don't want it to be at the expense of our son's education. She's had her chances. This is his.

The Council: There's a case where everybody involved is right — and the couple's own social lag in adjusting to the needs of the aged.

Mr. and Mrs. Y. represent the Caught Generation, the one which so often must support its parents, itself and its children for what seems forever.

We must for the present side with Mrs. Y. Banding together as a devoted family, the Y's should attack the emotional and financial problem from the standpoint of Eddie's future.

The dilemma may not be as hopeless as it sounds. Eddie can earn a few dollars to swell the drawing account. If he's a good student, there are scholarships to lop a good chunk off the tuition bill. And our extra unbinding. Mrs. Y herself might enjoy a part-time job during the four years of her son's campus life. This might release some of the $3,500 needed for nursing care.

As to Mr. Y's mother, there are three possibilities. Best of all is keeping her in her own home as long as possible, even if it requires help from the local Welfare Department. Next best, though physically and emotionally taxing, should be moving her into Mr. and Mrs. Y.'s own home and using the funds gained for a maximum of nursing care. A final recourse is a nursing home for which the bill could be split three ways — by the mother herself, Mr. Y and government aid. There's where a professional social worker could help.

Plans were made for some of the members to attend the fall rally of group 2 at Mt. Pleasant church and to provide one musical number for the occasion, and $100 was given to the M. & W. Fund of the church, also $50 to overseas relief. Plans were also made for catering to the Hi-C Club banquet on November 12. The annual fall bazaar is to be held on November 17th.

The Rev. W. Milley spoke briefly on the Sector plan.

Mrs. W. McCoy was in charge of the program, but owing to the illness of the hour, Mrs. A. Bailey gave a paper on the "Blind" and the president closed with prayer.

An interesting contest was arranged by Mrs. McCoy. A cup of tea and refreshments were enjoyed by the members.

Mrs. Runciman maintains a keen interest in community affairs, and enjoys chatting with customers at the post office and the store which is operated in connection with it. Although she no longer sews or knits, as she did a few years ago, she does all her own housework and enjoys working in her garden during the summer.

98rd Milestone Marked by Postmistress

CAMPBELLFORD — Mrs. Sarah Runciman, who was postmistress of the community of Meyersburg, five miles south of here, for nearly 40 years, celebrates her 93rd birthday on Saturday, November 8th.

Mrs. Runciman lives with her daughter, Miss Elsie Runciman, who took over the duties of postmistress last November. The family moved to Meyersburg from Brighton township on March 5th, 1920, and Mrs. Runciman has held the position of postmistress from then until this fall.

Her husband, Mr. John Runciman, died about 36 years ago. There are two daughters, Mrs. Alfred Bennett, of Meyers-

Trinity W.A. Plans Rally, Bazaar Sale

MADOC — The members of Trinity United Church Women's Association held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. George Fox with an attendance of 16. Mrs. Ken Gordon, the president, opened the meeting by reading a poem, "Kindness."

Mrs. Clayton Holmes had charge of the worship service. The theme was "Shine As a Light."

Mrs. A. Empey read the Bible story from the book of Philippians and Mrs. Holmes gave the comment.

During the business period sick calls were taken and correspondence dealt with. An invitation was received from Hastings to visit them on the 9th of November for the sale and banquet. Plans were made for some of the members to attend the fall rally of group 2 at Mt. Pleasant church and to provide one musical number for the occasion, and $100 was given to the M. & W. Make Every Nickel Count

By Mary Moore

A friend of little three-and-a-half year-old Geoffrey's asked him if they had a TV set. He said "No — but we've got two fly-swatters."

That ought to settle the status-seekers.

Ma, I'm trying to show how you can make every nickel count, so I served soup as a first course for my guest dinner and am relishing little mushroom soup this morning.

You see, I have this antique silver soup tureen. That alone makes soup seem important. One of the guests we had invited is English. So I thought of Mulligatawny and no sooner thought of it than a grocery list was being made.

The menu continued to be economical for I made another loaf of dilly bread (given here October 24th) and served a separate course tossed salad, then a creamy Baked Rice Pudding. I do not think the meal cost more than $2.00 and it served 5.

MULLIGATAWNY:

1-4 cup butter or margarine, 1 large onion, peeled and thinly sliced, 1 medium-large carrot, scraped and cut into 1-4" dice, 2 stalks celery, finely chopped, 1 large green pepper, seeded and chopped 2 medium-sized cooking apples, pared, cored and chopped, 1 pound raw white chicken meat (see below), 1-3 cup flour, 1 teaspoon curry powder, 1-8 teaspoon mace, 2 whole cloves, 1 10-oz. can consomme diluted with 3 can water, 2 large tomatoes, peeled and chopped, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon black pepper, 1 1-2 cups chicken broth (made from boiling chicken bones and skin — see below).

I made this in my automatic electric Dutch oven, but a regular Dutch oven or any heavy kettle is fine. Melt the butter and saute gently for 10 minutes in it the prepared onion, carrot, celery, green pepper, apples and chicken.

(Note — I bought chicken breasts which weighed 1 1-2 pounds and cost 69c. I cut the meat from the bones and chopped it into pieces roughly 1-2" square. I covered the skin and bones with 2 cups cold water and simmered them, covered, for 2 hours. I strained this and added the resultant broth — 1-2 hour during the last 15 minutes of cooking.)

After vegetables and apples and chicken are sauteed 10 minutes, stir in the flour, spices and salt and when well blended add the consomme and water and tomatoes and simmer gently until chicken is tender — about 1-2 hour. Add the chicken broth (from boiling bones and skin) and taste the soup. Fish out the whole cloves if you can find them. See if you would like it more salt. We did not. The resulting combination of rich flavors pulled us just fine and each one had 2 servings along with Dilly Bread fresh from the oven and sliced at the table.

Tomorrow I will give you the recipe for the Baked Rice Pudding we served for dessert.

Relatives Fete Young Couple

MOUNTAIN VIEW — On Saturday evening about 50 relatives, neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. B. Cairns (nee Faye Adams) recent bride and bridegroom, met in Mountain View Church Sunday School room to honor them with a miscellaneous shower.

Faye and Bruce were invited to take decorated chairs at the front of the room.

An address was read by Miss Linda Wood and Mrs. R. Wood presented them with numerous gifts.

Mr. Seymour Hamilton read the address and they were presented with a white leather Bible from the Sunday School. Both bride and bridegroom made appropriate replies, thanking everyone for the many gifts.

The ladies served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

'Retardation Phases' Topic R.C.A. Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD — The Retarded Children's Association held its November meeting at Merrymeet school, on Monday evening, with a comparatively small attendance due to the rainy weather.

The committee received several reports, including that of Mr. Roy MacLaren, who told of preliminary planning in regard to a special canvass beginning this month during the Canadian retarded children's week. Mr. MacLaren said that four service clubs, the Canadian Legion, Rotary, Lions and Kinsmen, had each assumed the responsibility of the canvass in one of the town's four wards. Canvassers will be briefed on the work of the association, and will be ready to answer questions and discuss the work with any interested persons.

Captains of the canvass will be announced later.

Mrs. O. Chambers and Mrs. F. Ladarac, of Peterborough, addressed the meeting. Both have held executive positions at the provincial level of the association.

Mrs. Chambers outlined the various phases in connection with retarded children. The first approach is to help parents in the initial stage of shock and acceptance of the fact that their child is retarded. This is a most difficult step in any case and Then, follows counselling for the young child in simple educational work. Training in the duties of the various committees, some of which have not yet been incorporated in the Campbellford Association.

Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Ladarac were introduced by Mrs. Rev. Owen G. Barrow, and thanked by Mrs. A. E. Toombs

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 25,000 to 30,000 men headed for the Laurentians or the northeastern reaches of the Appalachians Thanksgiving weekend.

Braced by whisky, beer or tea, they ventured from the concrete canyons of their urban world to breathe the fresh air, dream of antlers, fondle their carbines and boast of past hunts to attentive sons.

Out of their cars they marched into yellow fields and scarlet forests in the mountains north of Montreal or the ranges of the Eastern Townships, determined to prove they possessed the hunter's instinct of their forefathers.

Six never dreamed again.

Pierre Tremblay, 26, was wounded by a .303 bullet as he hunted with friends in Montcalm County. He bled to death before they could carry him to hospital.

Edouard Sedard, 51, stalking through a promising Papineau County thicket with six companions, was killed by another .303.

DANGER IN NUMBERS

"Too many hunters; far too many," murmured Firmin Bourque, offering one explanation for the carnage. Mr. Bourque is superintendent of fish and game for the Montreal district.

Some 125,000 game permits were issued this year in Montreal district alone. Superintendent Bourque's 100 game wardens work 18 to 20 hours a day during the season covering the 4 counties in the district.

They confiscated half a dozen moose, 12 deer and scores of rifles Thanksgiving weekend. They surprised jacklighters, arrested poachers, searched for lost hunters.

"It's police work," Mr. Bourque, 47-year-old veteran of 26 years on various enforcement agencies, said flatly. "Just like the speed cops or the liquor police—enforcing the game law."

The warden hasn't time to make the hunter safety-conscious. "Newspaper, radio and TV campaigns do that. Since they started 10 years ago we're getting co-operation from 30 per cent of the public."

The careless, the poachers, the jacklighters, the greenhorns are among the ranks of the other 30 per cent.

"We always have trouble with new hunters." The novice shoots at movements — deer, shadows, cattle, men. Sometimes even experience doesn't erase this trait.

"He'll get venison one way or another. If he can't shoot it, he'll buy it from poachers.

"After two or three years, they go out for the pleasure of being in the woods. But the greenhorn wants meat."

The Thanksgiving toll resulted from several factors. Deer and moose season both opened Oct. 10. It was a holiday weekend and there were three days of perfect weather.

Commercial Hockey League Results

The Terrors and Williams Brothers failed to snap their first - place deadlock in Commercial Hockey League action last night as they battled to a hard-fought 2-2 deadlock.

The loop's other game was a tight one too as Jones Motors handed Booth TV's their second loss in as many games by a 2-1 score.

Feelings ran high when the Williams-Terror clash and erupted into a short but lively fight at the final bell. Referees Tim Williams and Bruno McCurdy got the boys separated before any serious damage was done.

Williams jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first half of the game but the Terrors came back, scoring the tying goal with six minutes left to play. Bert Faulkner and Jackie Hughes were the Williams' marksmen with Faulkner, Gord Green and Leo St. Denis drawing assists.

Jerry Hill and Bill Vesterfelt bagged the Terror goals. Assist went to Jackie Elliott with two and Jim Sheridan Fork Irwin fired Booth TV's goal but it was not enough as Bobby Boyce and Peg Kellar blinked the light for the young fellows. Ralph Plane and Chuck Rowbotham drew assists for Booth's. Doug Defoe and Pete Weston helped on the winners' goals.

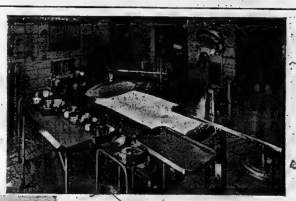
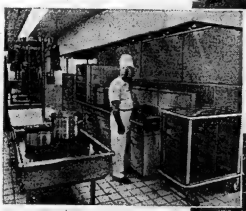
QUALITY CANADIAN PRODUCTS CONTAINING QUALITY INCO NICKEL



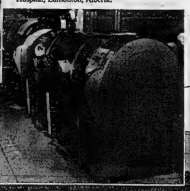
In Canadian hospitals—NICKEL STAINLESS STEEL for cleanliness inside...for lasting beauty outside

Modern hospitals now make extensive use of nickel stainless steel for gleaming beauty, utmost cleanliness and ease of maintenance.



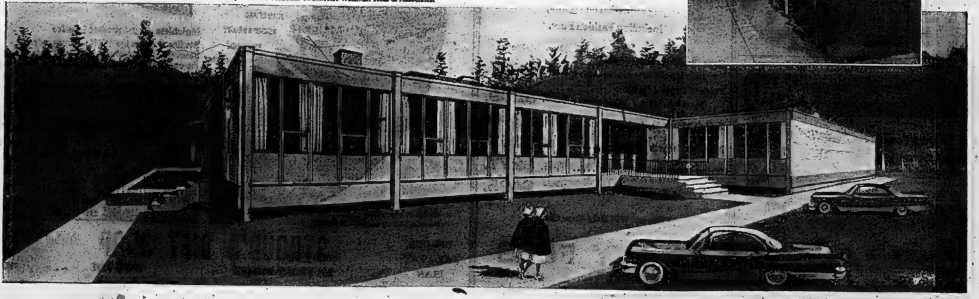
Outside, nickel stainless steel curtain wall systems resist corrosion and weathering... tend to wash clean with every rainfall... stay new-looking for years with little or no cleaning and maintenance.

Inside, nickel stainless steel operating room, kitchen and laundry equipment provide the highest possible standards of sanitation. Dirt and bacteria-breeding food particles can't get a grip on the smooth, hard metal. Inside, too, stainless steel hardware, stair railings and ornamental accessories harmonize beautifully with wood, tile, glass and enamelled surfaces.



Nickel stainless steel has a bright enduring lustre... is resistant to rust and corrosion... is easier to fabricate. That's why stainless steel containing quality Inco Nickel is so often specified for architectural applications and for hospital and restaurant equipment.

In operating rooms, where cleanliness may be a matter of life or death, you'll find nickel stainless steel equipment. Shown here is the operating amphitheatre of the Toronto East General Hospital.



Hospital kitchens like this one at the Welland County General Hospital, Welland, Ontario, depend on nickel stainless steel to protect the purity of the foods they serve.

This nickel stainless steel laundry room equipment will provide long trouble-free service in the University Hospital, Edmonton, Alberta.

THE INTERNATIONAL NICKEL COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Sport Snapshots

By TOM WATT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Goaltending offers a study in contrasts in the Western Hockey League this season with four rookies and four veterans at work with the eight clubs.

So far the rookies have fared as well as their more experienced opponents although it remains to be seen whether they will stand up to the long, 70-game haul.

While they do, however, they'll give the fans something to get excited about.

Take George Wood of Vancouver Canucks, for instance. He's just 21, a Vancouver native and only a year out of junior ranks. His inexperience shows occasionally.

It was particularly obvious here during a game between the Canucks and Winnipeg Warriors, who have Harry Lumley in the nets. Lumley is a poised veteran with 16 years' experience in the National League and he makes few mistakes. But he has been beaten frequently because his support up front was weak.

PLENTY OF WORK

He lost to Wood in their meeting here, after overtime, but he played his position with cool efficiency and only the force of numbers beat him as Canucks defeated Warriors 40 to 32.

Wood, one of the few Vancouver-bred players in pro hockey, wasn't tested severely as his mates dug in to give him that little extra support they frequently will provide when they're not sure of the man behind them. But the rookie netminder gave his fans some anxious moments.

Twice he lost his stick in goalmouth scuffles and several times he was caught far out of position —in contrast to the confident display by Lumley at the other end.

Similar scenes occur elsewhere in the league as Seattle Totems, Portland Buckaroos and Spokane Comets try newcomers in goal. Here during a game between the Totems from Vernon Canadians of the Okanagan Senior League and Carl Wetzel went to Spokane front Omaks of the International League to give the league three 21-year-old goalies.

AMERICAN PRODUCT

Wetzel, born in Detroit and a product of minor leagues there before playing in Ontario Junior A competition, was about the toughest assignment — Comets finished last the previous season.

The oldest rookie netminder is Don Head, 27, with Portland. And he came with a wealth of senior amateur experience, having played with Windsor of the Ontario Senior A League and the Canadian Olympic club that finished second at Squaw Valley, Calif. last spring.

If the youngsters watch closely when the puck is at the other end of the rink, they might learn some useful tricks from veterans such as Lumley, Dennis Riggin of Edmonton Flyers, Marcel Pelletier of Victoria Cougars and Lucien Dechene of Calgary Stampeders.

Chatham Tops West. Group; Dogs Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There are two camps today in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior western division, the leaders and the underdogs.

Chatham Maroons, defending Allan Cup champions, moved into top place with 10 points after finishing Strathroy twice, first in Chatham Friday and 3-1 in Strathroy Saturday.

The former second placed with eight points each are Windsor Bulldogs, dropping from the top, and Stratford Indians, up from third. Woodstock and Strathroy are last with two points each.

In Windsor Sunday, Stratford whipped the Bulldogs 7-5, as sharpshooting Indian Maurice Levesque hit the Dogs three times.

Windsor took the lead as Joe Zorica scored in the first two minutes of play. But the Indians collected four markers before the end of the first frame and were never threatened, although the Bulldogs outshot the 40-27.

Bill Rawson, Dick Wray, Gord Candy and Ned Cockburn were the other Stratford scorers, while Lou Bendo and Len Sheard added to the Windsor tally.

Referees Frank Udale handed out fighting majors to Rawson and Windsor's Jack Costello in the second frenzied frenzied misconducts to coach Rags Rapagnetta of the boomerangs and Wak Williams of Stratford.

Jackson Sparks Riders To 30-14 Win

Did Great Relief Job

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders again have Russ Jackson to thank for their entry into another Big Four football final.

The 22-year-old Canadian quarterback, who was almost benching a yesterday's hero in playing a relief role for import Don Lancaster, came off the bench Saturday to lead Riders to a 30-14 victory over Montreal Alouettes in the league's sudden death semi-final.

Jackson helped beat the Als in last season's comparable match but Ottawa then lost in the finals to Hamilton Tiger - Cats. This year Ottawa goes against Toronto Argonauts in a two-game total-point playoff opening here Saturday, Nov. 12.

Simple dispatch of the sudden death tilt here was that it was rushing - heavy Ottawa ground team. But mystery remained on why it turned out that way.

BENCHED BY COACH

For Riders, the ground attack was natural. Besides, a strong downfield threat in receiver Frank Clair's hand in benching Lancaster for all except one quarter. He explained that Lancaster's "off" pass would often be threat.

Montreal also stayed on the ground. Coach Perry Moss said passing sank Sam Etcheverry entered the game with an injured shoulder. But neither that nor the wind kept Etcheverry from passing in the last half.

"I was rather amazed" Clair said of Etcheverry's all-ground offensive in the first half. And it was obvious Clair had not expect for the Montreal pass defence, "We had to run to beat them," he said later.

Ottawa outrushed Montreal 313 yards to 242. The winners also had an unforeseen edge in passing, 208 yards to 87.

LED BY LANCASTER

Lancaster accounted for most of the aerial yardage and led the club to 10 of Ottawa's scoring points during a second-quarter appearance. With the 15-mile-an-hour wind at his back, he tried 12 passes and completed seven for 127 yards. Jackson completed three of six for 53.

Ottawa threw four short aerials in the third quarter before the Montrealers became thoroughly alarmed in the last quarter, which began with Riders leading 16-14. He completed eight of 14 brows, but gave a two on interceptions that led to Ottawa touchdowns in the final quarter.

Lancaster completed one 41-yard pass - and - run touchdown play with Joe Kelley and Jackson threw 13 yards to the same halfback for a another touchdown. Riders' other touchdowns came on a nine - yard Jackson pass to halfback Ron Stewart in the Montreal end zone and a five - yard plunge by fullback Gerry Nesbitt.

A 16-yard field goal was kicked by Gary Schreider, who also connected two of the touchdowns. Nesbitt got the other. Hugh Oliver pulled on a punt from the Montreal 23-yard line.

CLAIR SCORED TWO

The first touchdown gave Ottawa halfback scored both Montreal touchdowns on sprints of 30 and 10 yards. Bill Sutton of 30 and both.

Pregame reports that Montreal mobsters would try to break up the game in the late stages came to naught. Police ringed the field. But nothing happened. Shortly after the game Rider general manager George Terlen said he had been given "very reliable source" that gamblers were rigging what he called a "cleanup."

With Riders quoted as 11-point favorites in the betting over the game, Terlep said the gamblers had backed Montreal. He said their intentions were that if Ottawa won by leading toward the end of the game, they would try to incite a riot in hope that the game would be declared no Montreal.

Ottawa was leading—and piled up an even bigger lead with Nesbitt's touchdown early in the fourth quarter. But there were no disturbances.

Red Wings Push Into Lead Battle

BY LAURENT CHASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings, with curly-haired Norm Ullman heading for what could be his best season, have moved into a four-way fight for the National Hockey League leadership.

Ullman, at 24 starting his sixth season in the NHL, didn't get a goal as the Red Wings beat New York Rangers 5-2 at Detroit Sunday but he collected two assists.

They marked the 12th consecutive game in which Ullman grabbed at least one point, tying a club record set by Ted Lindsay during the 1956-57 season.

Don Simmons turned in his first shutout of the season as Boston blanked Chicago Black Hawks 4-0 on Sunday's other game.

Saturday, big Frank Mahovlich scored four times to lead Toronto Maple Leafs to a 7-3 romp over New York and notch his first two third-period goals to give Montreal Canadiens a 4-4 tie with Chicago.

The four weekend games left Canadiens in first place with 17 points, one more than runner-up Chicago, Toronto and Detroit moved to within two points of Montreal.

Boston remains three points behind the Leafs and Wings with 12 points while the Rangers are mired in the league cellar with nine points.

HOWE REACHES 436

Gordie Howe reached another milestone in the game against Rangers.

Howe, the only man to win the Hart Trophy five times as the league's most valuable player, got his 436th regular-season goal in the first period.

The goal left him 94 behind Maurice (Rocket) Richard, hockey's all-time great scorer who retired before the start of this season.

Len Lunde, Jerry Melnyk, Alex Delvecchio and rookie Allen Johnson got the Wings' other goals while Brian Cullen and defenceman Alex Delvecchio scored for New York.

Rookie Sid Abel gave veteran goalie Terry Sawchuk a rest and used Hank Bassen for the first time this season. Bassen has allowed only six goals in three games, Detroit winning two of these and tying the other.

Simmons was brilliant in Boston's victory over the Hawks, turning back 31 shots.

Orval Trasier, Don McKenney, Charlie Burns and Jerry Toppazzini got the goals for the Bruins.

WINLESS IN FIVE

The loss stretched Chicago's winless streak to five games—two ties and three defeats.

Mahovlich's scoring spree raised his season-total to 11 goals in 14 games.

Mahovlich got his goals against former United States Olympic star Jack McCartan, who worked both weekend games for the Rangers. McCarta, replacing Lorne (Gump) Worsley, who suffered a sprained back Wednesday night, had little chance on any of Leafs' seven goals.

Bob Pulford, rookie Bruce Koon and defenceman Allan Stanley also scored for the Leafs while Andy Hebenton, with two, and Camille Henry counted for Rangers.

Moore's two goals, his 14th and 15th of the season, increased his last 10 minutes of the game, which came with the Hawks shorthanded.

It was the sixth and seventh goals Moore has scored this season while the opposition was short a player. Last night, together the Canadiens have scored 16 power-play goals in 14 games.

Geoffrion and Bill Hicke also scored for Canadiens and Jean Beliveau had three assists.

Eric Nesterenko, Bill Hay, Elmer Vasko and Ted Sloan were Chicago's scorers.

American Hockey Body Will Recognise Bans

TORONTO (CP) — A stormy meeting of Canadian and United States hockey officials Sunday agreed to send fences through which Canadian players have been skipping U.S. teams without releases.

Although the meeting reached no definite conclusions, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association got invited to update a 1954 pact between the two.

The new agreement will be drafted by CAHA secretary-manager George Jackes and submitted to both national bodies at their annual meetings.

The players involved are Rene Pepin, Gord Haidy and Irvin Gross of Windsor Bulldogs; Ken Laufman, Murray Davison and Bob Forhan of Kitchener Greenshirts; Gary Sharp of Chatham Maroons and Ron Muir of Belleville McFarlands. They have been suspended by the CAHA.

PLAYERS CAN'T PLAY?

Clarence Lockhart of New York, president of the AHA, said the suspensions would be recognized and the teams in the International and Eastern Leagues will be informed that the players aren't permitted to play.

"If they don't stop them playing, we'll just have to take the case to the International Ice Hockey Federation," said Mr. Jukes.

However, Pepin's suspension has already been lifted and he will play for Toledo. Following the meeting it was indicated that releases may be given Sharp, Davison, Forhan and Muir to play for Greensboro, Laufman

Pranks Mark Grid Game

KINGSTON (CP)—Dropping of a football from an aircraft over the Queen's University football stadium here has touched off an investigation.

The ball, believed to have been taken from Queen's students who were taking it by foot to a football game in Toronto last week, was dropped during a Queen's-RMCiii University game Saturday. The ball did not land in the stadium but hit a nearby house.

Douglas Wagner, manager of the Kingston Flying Club, said Sunday the plane used belongs to the club. He said the pilot, Frederick Archibald, has been grounded and the club is investigating.

Mr. Wagner said dropping anything from a plane is contrary to federal air regulations and regulations and rules of the club. "The department of transport will have something to say about this," he said.

In another prank connected with the Queen's-McGill game, a McGill student, Peter Seeley, suffered head injuries when a railway station baggage wagon, commandeered by McGill students for a joy ride, went out of control on a hill and smashed into a telephone pole Saturday.

He was admitted to hospital and released Sunday morning.

Hull Pours On Power In E.P.L.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens gave a convincing demonstration of their superiority over the other five teams in the Eastern Professional Hockey League when they blasted the second - place Sudbury Wolves 7-0 in Hull Sunday night.

The powerful Canadiens were clear rolling into action but never whelmed the Wolves, pouring 37 shots at Sudbury goaltender Jerry McNamara against only 12 shots mounted by the Wolves.

In Sunday's other games, Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds defeated Montreal Royals 4-2 and Kitchener - Waterloo Rangers retrounced Kingston Frontenacs 9-5.

WOLVES LOST

In Saturday night's only game, Kingston edged Sudbury 3-2.

Kitchener got a third place, a point behind Sudbury. The Rangers trail the Canadiens by six points. Fourth, a single point back of Kitchener, is Sault Ste. Marie and Hull-Ottawa is another point back in sixth place. The Dollar-dwelling Royals have nine points.

Glen Skov opened the Hull scoring with a blistering wrist-shot shot from eight feet out. Gerry Desaulniers made it two the second period, his blue line slapshot rattling the back corner of the goal post and bounding behind McNamara.

Skov, Gray, Pennington, John Annable and Eslett scored in the third-period splurge.

TURN ON STEAM

Kitchener - Waterloo turned on the steam in the second period scores with a five-goal outburst in the second period after the two teams ended the first period in a 1-1 deadlock. Kingston managed two goals in the second period and one in the finale but the Rovers fired two pucks themselves in the last period to make sure of victory.

Ed Hoskwitz scored two goals for Kitchener - Waterloo with Sandy McGregor, Bob Sabourin, Dennis Olson, Don Cherry, Duane Rupp, Wayne Hall and Danny Belisle counted the others. Buddy Boone and Ron Stackhouse got both Kingston goals. Real Cheverolls and Pete Panagiotis scored the others.

At Montreal the Royals went down to their sixth defeat on home ice. They have yet to win in Montreal. Cliff Schmautz, Fred Hilts, Ed Kachur and Norm Gulimond scored for Sault Ste. Marie. Wayne Connelly and Joe Bonin were the Montreal marksmen.

Indians Lose To Aces 3-2, Reds Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quebec Aces have shown it is possible to beat the fast-traveling Springfield Indians.

The Indians had rolled up six straight victories, including a 4-0 decision over Buffalo Saturday night, when they ran into the Aces Sunday night at Quebec. The Aces promptly scored three goals in the first two periods and then held on for a 3-2 victory that boosted them into second place, four points back of springfield which now has an 11-3 record.

Providence Reds got an even break during the weekend by turning back Buffalo 4-3 in the only other Sunday game after losing to Hershey 3-2 Saturday. In the other Saturday night contest, third - place Cleveland whipped Rochester 5-1.

Michel Labadie, Georges Bouchard and Otile O'Brien gave a record of 11,386, an AHL record for Quebec, something to cheer about as they sent the Aces into an early lead over Springfield. The Indians threatened in the final period when Kent Douglas and Bob McCord scored goals.

Blazing 25-foot shot at 17:52 of the fight period by Ed Macqueen gave the Reds their margin of victory over the Bisons. Macqueen also scored earlier with a 30-foot backhander. Zellio Toppazzini also tallied twice for the Reds.

Phil Maloney, Wayne Hicks and Doug Barkley counted for Buffalo.

SCORED TWICE

At Hershey Saturday night Claude Laforge with two goals, Hec Lalande, Howie Yanosik and Willie Marshall counted for the Bears.

The Reds' first goal was scored when the Bears' goaltender Bob Perreault, making his initial start, accidentally raked in a shot by George Ranieri. Bob Beckett scored the other Providence marker.

Goalie Marcel Pallie of the Indians registered his fifth shutout of the season in Springfield's victory over Buffalo at Springfield Saturday night. Gerry Foley, Bill Sweeney, Bruce Cline and Bill McCreary scored the goals.

Eskimos Move Into Western Finals

CALGARY (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos will meet in the western football finals for the ninth time in the last 11 years.

First game of the best-of-three finals will be played in Edmonton Saturday afternoon. The second game is scheduled for Winnipeg Monday Night Nov. 14. But steps are under way to postpone it until Wednesday night, Nov. 16. The third game, if necessary, will be in Winnipeg Saturday afternoon, Nov. 19.

Winnipeg, in finishing first in the regular schedule and getting a bye into the playoff finals, won 15 of 16 games. Their only loss was to Edmonton, second-place holders at the end of the regular schedule.

Eagle Keys' Eskimos qualified for the Western Interprovincial Football Union playoff final by eliminating Calgary Stampeders in the semi-final.

Eskimos walloped Stampeders 40-21 before 20,000 fans in Calgary Saturday afternoon. A30-7 win for Eskimos in the first game in Edmonton Wednesday night gave Eskimos the two-game, total-point nod, 70-28.

CONVERTS ALL FIVE

Saturday the Edmonton touchdowns were scored by quarterback Jackie Parker, end Jim Letcavits, halfback Cowboy Woodruff, fullback Jim Shipka and halfback Jo-Bob Smith. End Tommy-Joe Coffey converted all five touchdowns and booted a field goal and a single. Vic Chapman also kicked a single.

Calgary's three touchdowns were scored by end George Talt, end Bill Barker and halfback Lovell Coleman. All were converted by Doug Brown.

In Winnipeg Sunday night it was announced that Edmonton requested that the second game of the finals be played Wednesday, Nov. 16, instead of Monday, Nov. 14.

President Gordon Lawson of the Winnipeg club said "we will be quite willing to co-operate if a number of obstacles are overcome."

Lawson said that one of the chief obstacles would be the change required in television coverage arrangements.

The time probably will be discussed today by Sydney Halter of Winnipeg, Canadian football commissioner.

Winnipeg has won the western finals for the last three years, was beaten by Hamilton in the Grey Cup final in 1957 but won the Canadian championship by beating Hamilton the last two years.

Minor Hockey

Bruins, Macs, Maple Leafs, Rangers and Quints chalked up victories in the ten - team bantam division of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association Saturday morning.

Jim Stewart's two goals sparked Bruins to a 5-2 win over the Black Hawks. F. Ritchie, G. Rutherford and B. Hallam had the other goals while D. Emerson, L. White, Ritchie and P. Thorne had assists. C. Hannah and J. Murphy scoped for the Hawks.

Macs ran roughshod over Red Wings by a 7-1 count. Richard Eves potted two goals and drew the Mass' lone assist. Other goals went to B. Bowerman, A. Mott, W. Sager, J. Lawler and J. Dorin. C. Muir scored for Wings with D. Hewitt assisting.

Maple Leafs edged the Barons 2-1 in the tightest battle of the morning. Gary Lucas fired both Leaf goals with D. Muldoon assisting on one and G. Muldoon on the other. C. LaRue scored for Barons with help from D. Adams.

Rangers downed Canadiens 7-4 in a high - scoring affair. B. Eddie paced the winners with three goals and an assist. D. Olsen and R. Smith fired two goals each while D. Chapman and R. Bennett drew assists. Jim Clark, L. Truman, B. Lancaster and T. Flindall had Hab goals. L. King, R. Salter and Lancaster earned helpers.

Quints copped a 3-1 decision over the Browns. M. Flindall, Bob Watson and D. Bangay tripped the winners' goals while Semark assisted on a pair. D. Forrest replied for Stickle replied for Browns with Maracle and Blakley assisting.

Meet In Final

Redmen Trounce Gaels

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A sudden death final at Kingston next Saturday will decide the champions in the senior intercollegiate football league.

McGill Redmen trounced Queen's University Golden Gaels 15-9 at Kingston Saturday to move into a first-place deadlock with Gaels in regular season play.

The McGill win smashed any hopes University of Western Ontario Mustangs had of being the team to meet Gaels for the title. The Mustangs, however, showed championship form as they annihilated University of Toronto Blues 34-0. Western finished in third place and Toronto, with one win in six starts, landed in the cellar.

WON'T PREDICT

Queen's coach Frank Tindall, not known as a verbose mentor, wouldn't make any predictions of his team's chances in the final against McGill.

"Right now I would say next week's outcome depends on which team survived the battle in the best physical shape," he said in the dressing room Saturday.

The clash was rugged and produced heavy casualties on both sides.

McGill stopped Queen's cold on the ground, holding them to only 79 yards. Gaels went to the air and picked up 310 yards, but only ace of 19 completions resulted in a touchdown. Cal Connor pitched to Robin Ritchie for this in the first quarter.

Ritchie also booted a 28-yard field goal in the last six minutes.

Jones Loses To Pigou

BOSTON (AP)—Parisian Marcel Pigou used youth and a late-round rally Saturday night to take a split decision over old warhorse Ralph (Tiger) Jones in a 10-round bout.

Each fighter weighed in at 159 1-4.

Pigou rocked Jones with a chopping right hand in the third round, but Jones appeared to have the edge in the middle rounds.

In the seventh Pigou was bleeding from both eyes. Jones then jarred the Frenchman with quick combinations.

Pigou came back strongly in the last three rounds, pounding Jones with both hands and taking the fight to him.

Jones rallied briefly in the final round, but didn't have enough left to make the difference.

Mack Sennett Spent Last Years of Life Broke But Proud

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Passed up by the Hollywood he made great, Canadian-born Mack Sennett spent the last years of his tumultuous life broke but proud.

In recent years, he had been working on a vast, unpublishable novel which he titled from advice of his mother: Don't Step on my Pyrana.

It might be his epitaph.

Sennett died Saturday at the age of 78.

No two men did more to create the movie industry than Sennett and D. W. Griffith. Both made millions of dollars. Both died broke and forgotten by Hollywood. But while Griffith spent his final years in bitterness, Sennett never lost the sunny optimism of his films, which always had happy endings.

REVEALING STORY

I didn't realize I was watching the ending of his life when I visited him at the Motion Picture Country Hospital a short while ago. He was bright-eyed and his white hair was cut to a youthful stubble.

"All I need is to get some circulation in my legs and I'll be back on the golf course again," he said in his gruff, cinematic way. Though he never admitted it, his favorite vice was chewing tobacco and he was chewing some that day.

Nor would he admit that he was broke. He said he was anxious to return to his sumptuous apartment which was being redecorated for him.

Actually, he had lived for year in two cluttered rooms in a faded hotel next to the Grauman's Chinese Theatre. He did his own cooking and had no car or television set. His assets included a few old movie shorts and stacks of scripts. He had sold for cash to appear with Jack Paar and other TV shows.

"They'll pay my regular salary," he grinned, "I don't work for nothing."

Yet money meant little to him. When Paramount paid him $50,000 for his life story a decade ago, he returned to his old spending ways. He acquired a young blonde wife around town and hosted parties at the Mocambo. When Paramount money was gone, he went back to his Spartan ways of life. He lived with a tax bill.

Such things didn't concern him during our last visit. Though in a shorter hospital, he remained the showman.

"I'll give you a story," he said. "Did I ever tell you how I discovered Mabel Normand?"

He had told me a dozen times, but I listened again.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Fashoway, a veteran of the Western Hockey League games, said in Victoria during the weekend he would quit Portland Buckaroos to become a car salesman in New Westminster, B.C.

By today the decision had not been made and the 36-year-old Fashoway had played his 622nd game and scored his 381st WHL goal.

Hal LaycraY, rookie Buckaroo centre who first put appearance on Seattle ice in Sunday's only game and outskated Totems for a 2-0 victory.

The result made no difference to the standings. Edmonton is in first place, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Seattle are tied for second, two points back. Portland is, two points behind fourth - place Kingsgate.

Lucile Selmaaute, Gordie Haworth and Bernie Krake teamed with Fashoway for Portland's goals while Frank Arnett and Gerry Leonard scored for Seattle.

In Saturday's two games, Vancouver defeated Seattle 7-3 and Clyde Fielder helped Totems beat Calgary 4-2.

Frank Rogers, Orland Kurtenbach and Chick Balon scored Vancouver's goals. Ben Hatskin fired the only Spokane marker. Bob Chrystal scored for Seattle and earned an assist on Dennis Riley's goal. Rudy Filion and Marc Boileau rounded out the Seattle scoring. Norm Johnston and Sid Finney scored for the Stamps.

Teepees Win Weekend Pair, Petes Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines, after a poor start in the pre-season games, is Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, this weekend finally showed the form that won them the Memorial Cup last year.

Saturday the Teepees defeated Hamilton 4-3, and Sunday defeated Hamilton by the same score to share a six-point series with Toronto St. Michael's. St. Michael's, still with only one defeat against them, beat the previously unbeaten Peterborough 4-2 in a home game Sunday.

St. Catharines' defeat of Marlboros at Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday was their third consecutive win.

The Teepees built up a 3-0 margin in the first period—they increased it to 3-0 after two periods.

OPENED THE SCORING

Teepees' Doug Robinson opened the scoring at 9:18 of the first period, closing it at 10:35. Murray Hall and John Brenneman fired the other Teepee goals.

Key men for Marlies were Howe Menard and Bill Horozay.

Saturday in St. Catharines' it was Teepees trying to make a stiff start against Hamilton Red Wings. Jim Carter spectacular work by Teepee goaltender Roger Crozier, they packed three goals into the last seven minutes.

Neil Forth and Larry Jeffrey gave the Teepees a 2-0 lead early in the second period. But Hamilton's Bowman gave Teepees their first goal at 10:45.

KELLOGG'S TIED TY

Rookie centre Howard Kellough tied it up for Teepees in the last half of the last period with a looping shot from just inside the Hamilton blueline. Then Ray Cullen hit two more for St. Catharines in the last 56 seconds.

St. Michael's College Majors ended Peterborough Petes' three-game unbeaten streak at Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday after really going into the fray in the second period.

Dave Pieper gave St. Mike's three goals, while Larry Keenan added two, and Terry O'Malley one.

Wayne Boddy fired two for Peterborough, and Dave Player and Doug Senior registered singles.

Raiders Edge London 24-23

PORT HURON, Mich. (CP)— A United States team trying to win a Canadian football championship will take a one-point lead into the last game of the final Monday.

Port Huron-Detroit Raiders recovered a fumble and kicked a field goal with less than three minutes remaining in the game Saturday night to edge London Lords 24-23 in the first game of a two-game total-point series for the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union championship.

The second game will be played in London.

Bill Bennett kicked the Raiders to victory via a 26-yard field goal. Lords led 23-21 before Bennett's boot. Halfback Terrence Frisch recovered Bob Pivesak's fumble on the London 37 to set up the kick.

Lords led in just about every department but the ballgame. It was 15-9 in first downs; 145-107 in rushing yardage and 117-79 through the air.

Gophers Have 7-0 Record Top Big Ten

NEW YORK (AP)—A year ago Minnesota's Gophers had coach Murray Warmath hanging in effigy.

Now they've hung up Iowa's previously perfect Hawkeyes by their thumbs and have the world on a string in the major U.S. college football.

The Gophers, trampled to the bottom with a 1-6 record last season, are all alone atop the Big Ten standings, having shrugged off the role with a decisive 47-19 job on Iowa Saturday.

Iowa had been ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, with Minnesota No. 3. Now the Gophers, clutching a 7-0 over - all record, have only Purdue (4-2-1) and Wisconsin (4-3) remaining in their bid for a Rose Bowl trip and their first Big Ten championship and a national crown since 1941.

GOPHERS WON AGAIN

The only apparent challenger to an immediate rise to the top for the Gophers, ranked by Associated Press as Minnesota, The Tigers, the only other 7-0 team in the nation, have a 2-0 edge in their eighth in a row and took a 20-0 lead in the Big Eight title race by clubbing Colorado 35-6.

That left Missouri still a member of the six-team conference club, which was reduced to a five-team circle in a matter ranks with the departure of Iowa and Navy. Then Duke and Army disposed of Navy 19-10. Navy, which had been ranked fourth, had won 10 in a row since the season.

Utah State (8-0), Missouri (8-0), Mississippi (7-0), Yale (7-0) and New Mexico State (7-0) are all that remain from a comparative crowd of 11 unbeaten - united teams just two weeks ago.

Utah State ended its scoring Wyoming 17-13, breaking a tie with the Cowboys' Navy, which had Yale, shooting for its first season since 1923, whipped Penn 34-0 to retain a first place tie with Princeton in the Ivy League. New Mexico State had an open date.

TOPPLED TENNESSEE

The other big upsets came in the unbeaten ranks, as Georgia Tech toppled eighth-ranked Tennessee 21-6 for sole possession of first - quarter touchdowns. Army handed ninth-ranked Syracuse a second straight setback, 20-6, and Arkansas beat 10th-ranked Rice 24-0 on a 39-yard field goal by Mickey Cissell in the final 22 seconds. Texas A&M razorbacks in first place in the Southwest Conference.

That left only five winners among the top 10 in addition to Minnesota and Missouri. fifth-ranked Ohio State smashed Indiana 36-7, Mississippi clobbered Chattanooga 45-0, and Washington rolled over Southern California 34-0.

Pittsburgh beat Notre Dame 20-13 — handing the Irish their first six-game loss string ever.

Colts Back In Top Spot, Giants Win

NEW YORK (AP)—The champion Baltimore Colts moved back into first place in the western division of the National Football League Sunday with a 38-24 victory over Green Bay before a Philadelphia Eagles edged into the undisputed lead in the eastern division with a convincing Pittsburgh Steelers 34-7 as the Cleveland Browns were downing the New York Giants 17-13.

It was a big day in Football League, Houston Oilers swarmed over Denver 45-28 to retain their eastern division lead by defeating Buffalo Bills 45-26.

In other National League games the St. Louis Cardinals swamped Washington Redskins 45-7, Los Angeles Rams downed Dallas 38-13 and Detroit Lions blanked San Francisco 49ers 24-0.

HAD TO WIN

It was a "must" game for Colts as they won their fifth game in seven starts while Packers lost their second in six starts. Colts quarterback Johnny Unitas tossed four touchdown passes.

Qvbrterback Norm Van Brocklin pitched Eagles to victory Three of Van Brocklin's tosses went to Tommy McDonald for touchdowns.

Cleveland dropped to third place as New York's defence held the Browns rushing attack to a net gain of 61 yards.

Frank Ryan passed the Rams to a quick lead over Dallas Cowboys as he lotted for seventh straight. Ryan threw 61 yards to Jim Phillips for the first score, then hit Phillips with a 58-yarder to set up the second score.

The Cardinals rolled in their third straight victory in smothering Redskins. Johnny Roland passed to Sonny Randle for three touchdowns and John Gros ran for two.

George Blanda threw four touchdown passes in the Houston victory over Denver in the AFL.

Dallas brought its record to 4-4 in the western division by its success over Buffalo. Halfback Amer Haynes accounted for three Dallas touchdowns.

AT THE BELLE — George Peppard falls in love with a confused Leslie Caron in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Subterraneans" film version of Jack Kerouac's much discussed novel of today's "New Bohemians". . . also starring Janice Rule and Roddy McDowall. The new production in Color and Cinema-Scope, has a San Francisco background. A highlight of the picture is its authentic progressive jazz score, played and sung by a number of America's top musical artists, including Gerry Mulligan, Carmen McRae and Andre Previn.

AT THE PARK — Jacques Sernas crosses swords with one of his enemies in Columbia Pictures' "The Nights of Lucretia Borgia", exciting spectacle in Eastman Color and CinemaScope. Belinda Lee stars in the title role as the wickedest woman in Italian history, and Michele Mercier makes her film debut co-star in the first Belleville showing opening at the Park Theatre today. Also companion feature starring Gina Lollobrigida and Dale Robertson in "Fast and Sexy", also in Color and CinemaScope.

15 Prospective Voters Had No Idea What Words Meant

by CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It may be a good thing that Allen Funt and his Candid Camera television crew decided to postpone their filmed political poll until a late date — Sunday night — in the United States presidential election campaign.

They asked 25 customers in an Arizona office whether a candidate known to have corrupt ties should be removed from the ticket, whether Vice-President Richard Nixon was the more retroactive candidate and whether they thought Democrat John Kennedy was the more superfluous—meaning, it was funny, but it also was a sharp commentary on human nature. Anyway, it's late now to have scruples or lack of them become a burning issue in the campaign. The election is Tuesday.

AT FULL BLAST

Meanwhile, TV continued to be full of politics during the weekend.

In addition to many long and short paid telecasts, there were the usual analyzes, interviews, projections, plus frequent plugs by each network for its forthcoming election night coverage.

Ed Sullivan gave us a tour of Chicago and Dinah Shore took us on a trip through Spain and Portugal Sunday night.

So little imagination was used on the backgrounds of the Sullivan show it might just as well have stood-in its New York theatre. But where else could you see learn that the electric washing machine first introduced in Chicago in 1907?

Dinah's show was beautiful, dignified—and slow.

Set Stage For Final

By The Canadian Press

Semi-final games scheduled for next weekend in Calgary and Hamilton will set the stage for the Canadian Intermediate football championship November 12.

Drumheller, Alta., Miners took the Western semi-final on Sunday in Vancouver when they blanked Vancouver Grizzlies 8-0.

They will meet St. Vital, Man., Bulldogs in the final in Calgary next weekend. Bulldogs, for the second consecutive year, qualified by eliminating Fort William Redskins 22-10 at Fort William.

On the Eastern scene Verdun Shamrocks took the Quebec final by ousting Cornwall Emards 25-5 at Montreal. And at Hamilton the hometown Tigers-Cat Bees took the Ontario title for the third time in four years with a 9-6 win over Toronto East York Argonauts.

The Eastern final will be played in Hamilton between the Tiger-Cat Bees and Shamcats next Saturday.

General tendencies: A wonderful day for you to get a well-rounded picture of what you want to put across and for going out and letting everyone be aware of the specific plan that you have in mind. Fine also for shopping and for winding up whatever you have already begun that has to do with the boat interests that are yours.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — If you concentrate upon how to ameliorate home conditions and circumstances, even though you have to job in the business world, this can be a most productive day for you. Also, don't forget to bring home little gifts that will enrich the way.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — You can clear up all problems of a practical affairs by concentrating on them seriously now. Then set up your appointments with care, do shopping and make the telephone calls to distant places that are necessary. Grow. Be clever.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — The ideal day to raise your level of consciousness and thereby be able to take on greater and more significant projects that will bring in a far greater income. Get the additional sources of energy and resolve to become truly affluent. You can do it.

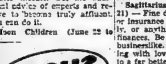
Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — All those fine inner desires you have can be satisfied, provided you put your energies to work in the right direction. Tonight is especially fine for whatever social affairs will be stepping - rooms to a brighter future. Have a good time, too.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You can truly straighten out that private worry today by calmly facing the problem and working it out intelligently instead of becoming disturbed and emotional over it. P. M. helps those who are in trouble and need a friend.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Morning is fine for getting the services of companies in whichever is closest to your heart, but give some tangible proof of your gratitude, return the favor. P.M. go out socially somewhere where you can pick up knowledge.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — You desire greater prestige, and today you can get it, if you contact the right key people. Expand. Traverse them with your rare abilities. P. M. go out and have a few of them.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — A day to work new angles that will prove far more successful than antiquated methods. Also, meet persons of different experience and culture to yours. Be careful what you write, however, and also in driving. P. M. Relax.



Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Fine day for handling tax or insurance matters more wisely, or anything connected with finance. Be practical and very businesslike. P. M. fine for being with loved one and coming to a better understanding. Be kind.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Morning until 3 P. M. is the ideal time to reach greater rapport with associates. Be co-operative and establish better conditions for yourself and them. Dine out in style this evening and receive greater social favor.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You are full of energy today and you should get an early start and accomplish a great deal. Find a good suggestion from one co - workers and follow them. You will find full speed. Strive for a far greater income.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you have very charmingly early, you can make this a most happy and successful day in the world of fun or business. Steer clear of any discords with one you love, and then the day becomes a memorable one.

If your child is born today — there is a tendency to handle everything in life from the purely emotional angle, which could mean getting hurt and being most unhappy. Teach early that

Accuse Govt. Of Withholding $120,000 Fees

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—Capt. Norman R. Johnston of the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots Sunday accused the federal government of withholding 120,000 fees from pilots in the Port Weller-Sarnia district.

He said in an interview that in 1959 the government collected about $120,000 more in fees from shipowners than it paid out to pilots in wages. He said that solicitors from the IOMMP are investigating, and hope to collect $2,000 a piece.

Capt. Johnston, IOMMP business agent for the Great Lakes area, said that he has a letter from a former transport department official which states that pilots in the Port Weller - Sarnia district do not come under the Civil Service Act or the civil service regulations. The men could not be employees of the government and employees of the shipowners at the same time, he said.

ON ELECTION EVE

apparent lead in New York (45) and California (32), both of which have Democratic governors at last time. Even now, the Kennedy edge in California was considered slim.

Meanwhile, Minnesota (11) and Iowa (9) were rated as leaning Democratic. Pennsylvania (32) and Hawaii (3) slipped from the Nixon roster into the undecided category.

This latest AP checkover was conducted during the last week and perhaps does not fully mirror Republican optimism over the nonpower's last-stage barnstorming might have had on Nixon's standing.

NO NIXON TIDE SEEN

But with the possible exception of Ohio (25), the survey did not indicate there was any real tide turning in Nixon's favor, as the vice-president said happened for Democrat Harry S. Truman and Kennedy on Oct. 21. In Ohio itself, there was some feeling that Nixon gains had wiped out an earlier Kennedy lead.

What did emerge was a picture of the religious issue rising anew after a remarkable period in the middle weeks of the campaign.

Kennedy's role in a Catholic faith was mentioned in reports from state after state.

It was believed possible this factor had strengthened Nixon's lead in Minnesota, for example. The religious question was also considered contributing to the doubtful status of such states as Texas (24), North Carolina (14), Missouri (13), and Kentucky (10).

In some of the big industrial states with heavy Catholic populations there was ground for thinking religion was a plus for Kennedy.

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Delegates from as far away as Massachusetts, New York State and Ottawa attended the semi-annual convention of Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans and the Ladies of the Orient (Oddfellows and Rebekahs) here during the weekend.

Argue Hammers At Policies Of Both Parties

TORONTO (CP) — CCF National Leader Hazen Argue hammered at the policies and leaders of the other national parties during a pre-convention conference Saturday of the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Mr. Argue said Prime Minister Diefenbaker had to be Canada's "best salesman," because "he's trying to sell the worst product—his own record."

Purpose of the conference was to provide unofficial re-endorsement of the New Party.

Mr. Argue said Liberal Leader Pearson is "just not capable of cleaning out the decadence of a party under the influence of men like Jack Pickersgill, Joe Sinclair and Ross Thatcher."

Mr. Argue threatened to filibuster government attempts to increase workers' unemployment insurance contributions, and any return in dominion-provincial tax rental agreements.

Three Toronto Men Killed, Car Crushed

TORONTO (CP) — Three Toronto men were killed Sunday as their small foreign car was crushed and dragged under an airport transport bus after the car jumped a shoulder, went out of control, and veered into the path of the bus.

Police tentatively identified the dead as John Barbacz, 32, believed to be the driver, James Verzyenni, about 30, and Mikhis Gyory-Kiss, about 30.

The air terminal transport bus was driven by Roy Hillgrove, 30, of Toronto. No one on the bus was injured.

The accident occurred just south of Malton International Airport on Malton Road.

around to look at two boys who were laughing about something. Except for that, I would have got it right in the face." .

John Cohn, 39, the motorman, said: "I ran out on the platform . . . I saw the smoke and people running out of the train. The platform was crowded. There were several persons lying there moaning and bleeding."

Police searching the wreckage found a detonating cap, which they said, confirmed that the explosive probably was dynamite.

FEW LEADS

Leads were skimpy, however. Two injured youths said they saw a man hurriedly leave the car several stops before it reached the station. The train's conductor remembered there had been a troublesome passenger who had bothered women passengers before getting off one stop before the blast.

A few hours before the Harlem explosion, a crude flare concealed in a hollowed-out book, was ignited in a movie theatre off Times Square. But it was stomped out by a patron before it had a chance to explode.

Bomb-jittery New Yorkers have been plagued by a series of explosions recently. Mysterious homemade bombs have gone off near famous city landmarks four times since early October. Three occurred on Sundays and the other on Columbus Day.

Sunday's subway blast was the first in which anyone was killed. The other explosions have injured about 40 persons.

Kasavubu Flies To UN To Oppose Afro-Asian Bloc

Eight Nations Seeking To Seat Lumumba Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A heated battle loomed in the United Nations General Assembly today following Congo President Joseph Kasavubu's arrival to oppose Soviet - backed moves favoring ousted Congo premier Patrice Lumumba.

The assembly delayed the start of its latest Congo debate until this afternoon to give the Congo chief of state time to marshal his arguments.

Kasavubu against him were Ghana, Guinea and six other African or Asian nations sponsoring a resolution to give the Congo's vacant UN assembly seat to representatives of Lumumba, Kasavubu's chief rival.

The eight nations also want Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjoeld to get the pro-Lumumba parliament back in session, believing that it will return the fiery leader to power. Kasavubu suspended parliament in September after the Congo army commander, Col. Joseph Mobutu, ousted Lumumba in a coup.

WANTS LUMUMBA

Kasavubu declared in Paris that he would call for withdrawal of troops from Ghana and Guinea from the UN Congo command.

Kasavubu also was expected to make a decision on Hammarskjoeld's Congo advisory committee to send a mission to the African state to help end the fighting by opposing factions to the assembly's recognized Congo government.

Kasavubu and Mobutu contend that the Congo is in too chaotic a state for parliamentary rule to be practical at this time.

There appeared little doubt that Kasavubu, chief of state of the Congo, would be able to speak without challenge from the floor. But if he attempts to take over the Congo's vacant UN seat, he may run into strong opposition from nations supporting Lumumba's cause.

IN FOR TROUBLE

Hammarskjoeld and his chief of staff Andrew Cordier left for Rajasthwar Dayal of India, were expected to get a going over during the debate.

Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny arrived in view a personal hand in the discussion. He was expected to blast back at Dayal's report last week which charged Belgian political, military and economic activities are fomenting discord in the former Belgian colony.

The Soviet bloc also was expected to attack Hammarskjoeld for not taking action to prevent things getting as bad as they now are. It is said the Soviets have been sharply critical of the UN operation.

Nuclear Weapons For Canadians 'Up in Air'

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Harkness said today the whole subject of nuclear weapons for Canadian forces is "up in the air".

He told reporters en route home by RCAF Comet jetliner from a 10-day European visit that he discussed the matter of nuclear weapons with NATO British, French and German officials.

It is anticipated, he added, that proposals to make NATO a nuclear force would be discussed next month at the NATO ministerial meeting in Paris.

The whole question of control of nuclear weapons is under discussion," Mr. Harkness said. "There is no general agreement on control yet.

The ministerial Canada-Industry Brigade and RCAF Air Division should remain in Europe for the time being at least. Arming them with nuclear weapons was the "big political question."

If success were achieved in disarmament negotiations, Canada's armed forces would not require nuclear weapons, at the same time, preparations had to be made in case there was no disarmament agreement.

Lethal Device Sent to Nixon Through Mails

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An explosive mailing device, set to go off at the pull of a string, was found in the mail Monday addressed to Vice-President Richard Nixon, Washington, D.C.

Postmaster T. M. Burkhalter said he was advised by an army expert the device could kill at a distance up to 18 yards if the shotgunlike powdered aluminum inside was set off.

An army ordnance officer reported the postmaster that the device, an M-15 artillery simulator, normally is used to simulate the sound of an exploding shell for army training purposes.

A note on the package, marked at San Diego, Calif., said: "Pull string to open."

The string would have drawn a matchlike lighter across a rough surface to explode the flash powder.

Wife Arranges For Arrest Of Her Husband

CAMPBELLFORD (CP)—The wife of a man wanted in connection with an armed robbery arranged for the arrest of her husband at their home on Monday.

Francis Williams, 28, gave himself up to provincial police. A warrant for his arrest was taken out three weeks ago after a robbery of the Hastings, Ont., branch of the Royal Bank of Canada in which three men escaped with $4,500. He is charged with robbery.

Another man, William Gosleigh of Trenton has been charged with armed robbery.

Campbellford is about 20 miles northwest of Belleville.

TRADE MINISTER PLANS EXPORTS SALES DRIVE

Commissioners Will Meet Businessmen

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Hees, in a "hard sell" approach to world markets, has summoned home six Canada's international trade commissioners for the largest sales meeting of the trade corps held here.

In a two-week session starting Nov. 20 they will get a pep talk from Mr. Hees, discuss export promotion strategy and then hold open house for Canadian businessmen wanting to trade new export markets with Canadian goods.

Mr. Hees, announcing the conference Monday, said it might be called "the most intensive commercial offensive undertaken by Canada."

An expected 111 trade commissioners will be coming from 81 posts in 49 countries.

TALK OVER SALES

Business men will have interviews with trade commissioners from countries where they want to expand sales, or from countries as the size of prospective markets for Canada.

The 50-year-old minister, himself a former businessman, described it as "creating salesmen with himself as "sales manager."

His announcement indicated he has a hard fight ahead for export markets to meet a huge increase in exports to record levels.

One informant put it this way: The department wants its trade commissioners to be more than hard - headed salesmen, seeking out markets, but also people who can lead to fewer "striped - pants difficulties" on the external affairs department.

This point is expected to be considered in four days of private meetings between Mr. Hees and the commissioners.

WILL INTERVIEW

Then, in the week of Dec. 3, the commissioners will take over a block of government offices to interview visiting businessmen.

Mr. Hees said he aimed at short-cutting the normal method of "letter - writing between commissioners and would-be exporters.

But Mr. Hees emphasized that the final responsibility for exporting rests with private industry, the energy of the exporters themselves.

One informant said the largest potential gains which could come from the conference would be in the field of manufactured goods. Most of the material producers were already established in export markets.

Fleming Backs Diefenbaker's Tax Proposals

TORONTO (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming Monday backed Prime Minister Diefenbaker's view that Canadians should propose their own taxes in income, corporation and succession duty fields.

Mr. Fleming told new students at the Osgoode Hall Progressive Conservative Association meeting he felt provincial governments should take responsibility for taxes they levied.

Woman Committed

WINDSOR (CP) — Mrs. Patricia Kovinsky, 19, Monday was committed to stand trial on charges of attempted murder. No date has been set.

Mrs. Gladys Duncan testified in court that Mrs. Kovinsky on a street corner said:

"She told me she wanted to kill to be sent to jail. It was important. She asked me to go with her and help."

"So she pulled a knife and got me on the face. I tried to move but she got me on the side".

Nixon Arrives Home to Cast Vote After 64,000 Miles of Campaigning

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Weary Vice - President Richard Nixon, presidential candidate in a victory after 64,000 miles of campaigning, came back to his home state early today to cast his vote and await the verdict of the American people.

The Republican presidential nominee's whirlwind campaigning quest for the presidency came to an informal, spectacular close here as thousands of cheering fans in the East were stirring from their beds to start their long march to the polls to elect a new president.

Nixon's chartered jet airliner arrived from Chicago at 12:57 a.m. after a grueling 7,200-mile tour from California into Alaska, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and back to California in the final two days of the campaign.

A crowd estimated by police at more than 15,000 waited several hours at an airport terminal and national airport to greet the vice-president and his wife, Pat.

The crowd blocked traffic for

Municipalities Present Plea For Federal Aid in Program Of Wide Urban Development

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian municipalities pleaded with the federal government Monday for leadership and financial help in massive, 30 - year program campaign for urban development and renewal.

In a brief to the cabinet, the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities suggested a huge program of capital works financed by the municipalities with help from provincial governments as well as Ottawa.

The large investment required would help check unemployment and "is not for the purpose of subsidizing unproductive work," the brief said, "it is an investment in an essential and productive segment of the national economy."

Unemployment begs for solution but the municipalities said the municipalities are hamstrung by the high cost of capital borrowing, the brief said. They had nearly tripled since 1951. Their borrowing capacity in most cases was marginal.

"Every few are in a position to proceed with urban renewal projects and some are already collecting from municipal capital works programs," the federation said.

"Should this latter situation become general, it would have a serious effect on the construction and related industries which, in turn, could spread into a substantial major volume of unemployment throughout the country."

It is vital that municipalities be able to get capital funds at costs they can afford, the brief said. The federation proposed three federal government steps:

Set up a mortgage bank to finance which municipalities could borrow at lower rates for shorter periods; make municipal bond interest exempt from personal and corporation taxation; and abolish the 15-per-cent tax now charged against municipal bond interest payments to foreign investors.

Problems in Cuba Are Seen As Blocks to Canadian Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Cuba's dwindling reserves of dollars and the trend to state - controlled trade are seen here as major barriers to the way of Canadian exporters filling new orders for latest United States trade embargo against Premier Castro's island republic.

If these factors continue, one trade official said, Canadian traders may get only a short-term advantage from the present situation.

Cuba's loss of its former dollar sales of sugar and other products to the United States cut Cuba's earnings in a minimum of dollars for much-needed industrial equipment and consumer parts for U.S.-type machines.

If Cuba can't find outlets for sugar in dollar countries quickly, Cuban trade will be severely curtailed, the trade official said.

Cuba's foreign trade earnings in currencies convertible into U.S. aren't freely convertible for finance purchases in dollar countries.

There has been a considerable increase in the number of inquiries to the trade department from Canadian businessmen interested in doing business with Cuba. Officials say they have no reports of any big new Canadian sales.

Trade experts discount-one reason Cuba hopes to sell a lot of beds sugar to finance purchases here.

The sugar from Common wealth sources in Australia and the British West Indies is still at advantage of $ a hundredweight in competing against Cuban sugar.

It is seen even more unlikely that Cuba would make early headway in selling Canada goods in exchange. Soviet crude oil in Cuban refineries is expected from the same oil companies that have sold gold gasoline to Canada.

By the same terms, officials say, the Canadian oil industry isn't likely to be enthusiastic about helping supply needed equipment to operate exports of oil refineries in Cuba.

But they see opportunities for Canadian firms in some fields to supply machinery and parts built to North American standards—if payment terms are right.

Election Climax Reached, Flood Of Words Subsides As Voters Pour Into Polls

All Signs Point to Tight Race With New Record Vote Forecast

WASHINGTON (CP) — The climactic moment has arrived.

Ten weeks of frenzied oratory has rolled to an end and been drawn to close as estimated 65,000,000 to 70,000,000 Americans moved to the polls today to pick the next president.

At opposite ends of the United States, two battle-weary campaigners, Richard Nixon and John Kennedy, awaited their decisions with quiet resignation. They had waged a furious fight. The fate was in the hands of the voters.

Democrat Kennedy was to go to bed in Hyannis Port, Mass., confidence after voting in Boston. Republican Nixon was to await the result in a $185,000 Los Angeles hotel suite—one used by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev years after voting at Whittier, California's Quaker community.

SEE HEAVY VOTE

A heavy vote was forecast, larger than the record 62,000,000 cast in the 1956 balloting when President Eisenhower was re-elected for a second term. Skies were clear along the eastern seaboard, but rain and snow were forecast—rain and snow in the West.

Tiny mountain hamlets in New Hampshire, a Republican stronghold, were to be the first to vote, at midnight vote that strongly favored Nixon. But the first official returns were insufficient to indicate a trend.

Democrat Elmo Roper gave Nixon the edge. Other pollsters, however, Democrat Kennedy suggested Kennedy had the edge. All signs pointed to a tight fight.

In a whirlwind finish, Kennedy touched all six New England states Monday and went home to a Boston welcome by a police-escorted street crowd—of some 1,500,000, the largest the city ever turned out.

STAGES TELETHONE

Nixon made his last-day emphasis on television, staging an unprecedented election eve "television "clothon" over the 125-station network of the American Broadcasting Company. He answered queries phoned in by listeners across the country. Republicans picked up the tab.

Nixon's last campaign speech completed because circuits were busy. Some 6,700 queries were to be answered in writing later.

The Democrat campaigned around the end, tempers were frayed. Nixon's reporters the campaign could be described as "quite tortuire." He shooed news reporters away from his private TV studio with demands of "clear out." He complained to his press secretary that things were moving too slow. He told studio managers there was too much program co-ordination.

Kennedy appeared in the New Hampshire community of Manchester, lashed out at publisher William Loeb of the Manchester Union-Leader. He said the publication's "scurrilous attacks" have little regard for the truth. Loeb fought back. He called Kennedy a "liar" and told reporters Kennedy lost his temper because the Union-Leader had printed his voting record "in which he voted consistently

Kennedy Waits Quietly at Home, Picture of Man Who Feels He Won

BOSTON (AP) — Senator John Kennedy waited quietly at home today for the verdict of the voters after closing one of the longest, biggest presidential election campaigns in history with a flourish.

He looked confident, the picture of a man who felt he had won.

For the second time, Kennedy cast his ballot in Boston's Cambridge district. He did it in the morning, then left for Hyannis Port, Mass., to relax with his family.

It is seen even more unlikely that Cuba would make early headway in selling Canada goods in exchange. Soviet crude oil in Cuban refineries is expected from the same oil companies that have sold gold gasoline to Canada.

By the same terms, officials say, the Canadian oil industry isn't likely to be enthusiastic about helping supply needed equipment to operate exports of oil refineries in Cuba.

But they see opportunities for Canadian firms in some fields to supply machinery and parts built to North American standards—if payment terms are right.

Four of Family Burned to Death Near Kingston

SELTON (CP)—A mother and her three children were burned to death early today when fire destroyed their home in this rural hamlet 20 miles east of Kingston.

Reginald Selton and his wife and children — the youngest a baby aged four — apparently were asleep when the fire of undetermined origin broke out in the farmhouse.

All in the building died.

Provincial police said Mrs. Sharie, James Shier, was found dead in the barn when he noticed the building was on fire at 5 a.m. But he could do nothing to save the occupants.

Mrs. Shire's husband was at work in the Steel Company of Canada's plant at Hamilton, 40 miles west of here.

The victims included Brian, 3, Janice, 3, and the three-weeks-old baby, whose name was not available immediately.

The fire department from Kingston answered a call but the house too late to save the building. It did prevent the fire from the wreckage of the home at 11 a.m.

TURN DOWN BID TO LICENSE POWER BOATS

Motion Defeated By 39-28 Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—Juveniles who race dangerously about quiet summer resort lakes should be taken into the woodshed and have their backsides tanned, a leading motorboat authority said here Monday.

Robert Pinkney, editor of Canadian Boating Magazine and a representative of the Canadian Boating Federation, made the statement in the concluding stages of a one-day meeting on small boat safety of the standing committee on fisheries.

The federal transport department.

The meeting spent the day struggling with the question of whether the federal government should, alternatively, some of the provinces should undertake some administrative task of licensing motorboat operators in the areas way automobile drivers are licensed. The idea behind the licensing fell as alarming.

OPPOSED

The opponents were boat and motor manufacturers, tourist interests, marinas and yachtsmen who feared the licensing procedure would be too restrictive and damage the small boat industry.

A proposal was put to the meeting by the department of transport, as the result of voluntary conferences that involveles particularly should be licensed, or barred from manning outboard motors, by the age division.

Capt. Thomas Mackie of RCMP headquarters said that it seemed impossible to set up machinery arbitrarily for an age limit on motorboat operators, under existing laws. Parents would be held responsible for the misdemeanors of their teenage offspring.

NIXON ARRIVES

Eisenhower in Washington had plugged hard for the Nixon-Lodge ticket.

Disregarding polls and analyses which gave Kennedy a slight edge on election eve, Nixon told his audiences Monday that a great Republican tide had begun to run and that there was victory in the air.

Among his campaign aides, the gloom of two weeks ago gave way to have been supplanted by hopeful confidence that the tide was running at the end to their men. But there was no boastful cockiness.

Nixon arranged to vote in his home town of Whittier, Calif., but no definite time was announced in advance.

After voting, the vice-president planned to return to his Ambassador Hotel suite in Los Angeles and there await—with his family and a few friends—the decision of the voters.

Extra Holiday This Christmas Not Observed

Citizens of Belleville are not going to get an extra holiday this Yuletide even though Christmas Day falls on a Sunday.

Yesterday city council passed a recommendation calling for Monday, December 26th, to be observed as Boxing Day. Christmas Day falls on Sunday and in the words of Mayor A. M. Haig, "We cannot do anything about that."

It appears that a number of the retail merchants wanted Tuesday, December 27th, also to be declared as a holiday, but a Chamber of Commerce poll indicated industry in the city would be closed only on the Monday. Banks also will close only on December 26.

No council decided in favor of having just one Boxing Day and the holiday will be proclaimed by Mayor Haig.

Color TV Toronto Plant Completed

Early in 1961 color television station CFTO will take to the air in Toronto as the first colour television outlet in a metropolitan area, already served by a CTV station. The licence for operating CFTO was granted to the Baton-Aldred-Rogers Broadcasting Company, Limited, following the recommendations by the Board of Broadcast Governors (BBG) in Toronto, May 4 evening. Mr. Don Williamson, who is responsible for the design and engineering of the CFTO station, the Quinte Chapter of the Radio Electronics Technicians' Association (RETA) and described the new broadcasting plant in detail.

He pointed out that the CFTO facilities are capable of transmitting the highest colour programs as well as black and white entertainment. Mr. Williams estimated that the Belleville area would fall in the secondary service area and be subjected to a few interference problems.

Other new statistics regarding this newest television station are of interest to the audience. Over 925 feet high and "is installed on ground which is over 1000 feet above the level of the city of Toronto. The CFTO facilities are the largest of its kind in North America, exceeding those of NBC-NYC in size.

The station includes: 15 live color camera chains. Studio lighting, microwave antennas over two megawatts of hydro electric power and approximately 230 engineers, technicians and clerical staff is required to operate the CFTO station. Mr. Williamson estimated the final cost of the station to be over $6,000,000.

Following the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. Williamson answered a flood of questions from the enthusiastic listeners. Of interest to the viewing public is the statement of how the CFTO plan to telecast in color while the BBG insists that no colour telecasts will be authorized in Canada. Mr. Williamson replied by saying that several hundred thousand additional dollars spent on CFTO to equip it for colour broadcasting was not spent without the knowledge that this use would be permitted at an early date. He said that the BBG is now about to consider a reversal of its recent ruling prohibiting color telecasting and that early in 1961 Canada would have color TV.

City Hunters Set Record? Opening Day Generally Poor

What could be something of a record was set yesterday by four Belleville deer hunters.

They marked the opening day of the season with a crack of dawn appearance on the run-ways. Two hours or so later they had a deer and two hours later the three were back in the city.

Gerry McEvoy, Ted Mara, Murray Reid and Lee Coughlan did not wander too far from home. They went into the Youth Camp on Crystal Lake in the Madoc neighborhood and got a handsome doe.

Ted Mara was the marksman. Two of the party had scouted the area the day previous and sighted the deer. The quartet spotted two more yesterday morning before bringing down their kill.

Generally speaking, opening day was a poor one as far as deer yield was concerned.

A department of Lands and Forests official from Tweed district headquarters said storm-y weather affected the first day's hunt.

A quarter inch of snow fell on the Bancroft - Gilmour area.

One party hunting in the eastern side of Sheffield township did bag three specimens. However the majority of hunting parties, he said, reported no luck.

Department officials flew over the northern areas and stated that small lakes were frozen over but that the larger lakes and rivers as yet unshackled by frost.

They reported a heavy influx of hunters into the districts. Reports were that deer-seekers, especially in the Plevna-Cloyne area, are numerous. Many outside hunting camps had their quotas yesterday.

They were of the opinion that stormy weather previous to opening day had driven moose and deer back into the northern areas.

"Two camps we visited which were hunting with dogs stated they had not yet got a strike".

However they were of the opinion the overall picture looks good. There are plenty of hunters in the area and indications in serious areas stated there was plenty of deer.

The number of city hunters are in the northern areas, the majority of them at private camps.

One of the largest groups is that of fifteen headed by Don McEvoin and including Jim Arnott, Don McEvoin, Jr., Ken Bostic and Clare Faulkner. They left on hunting in the Millbridge district.

Don McEvoin Jr. expected to be back in the city tonight with it is hoped an antlered trophy of the chase.

Official Plan For the City Now in Mails

The long - awaited official draft plan for the city of Belleville is now in the mails from Urban Planning Consultants engaged to prepare a new zoning by-law for the city.

Alderman Dr. John Barlow, chairman of the city planning committee, yesterday told council that the plan was in the mail and was expected to be received today by City Planning Engineer Charles Metz.

The official plan would supersede the 1946 plan which in the freezing role was claimed in certain parts of the city to be discriminatory. Residents of the Hillcrest area particularly objected to the by-law, claiming that with the area zoned as industrial they were prevented from improving their properties.

Dr. Barlow said there would be a public meeting held to go over the new official plan. At this time citizens would be given the opportunity of voicing objections to the plan. Date of the meeting will be decided by the planning committee.

Traffic Board Paid Compliment By His Worship

The city traffic committee yesterday at council came in for compliments on the success of the one-way street system inaugurated in Belleville over the weekend.

Mayor Haig compliment the traffic committee on the apparent success of the one-way system, and Mayor A. M. Haig, "I have made several inquiries and so far there has been no adverse criticism and the police department is very pleased."

"Everything is apparently very satisfactory."

Mayor Haig had only one question in connection with the new system and that was why not ten. He wanted to know if any consideration had been given to angle parking.

Alderman Robert Temple as chairman of the traffic committee, said this had been considered but as this would narrow the roadway it was felt it should not be allowed.

Judo Club Performs Well In Tourney

A youthful team from the Belleville Hatashita YMCA Judo Club came up with a very creditable performance by the Selkirk annual Quebec judo tournament held in Montreal last Saturday.

The tournament, sponsored by Fredric Kevan Academy of Judo of Montreal was held before a packed house at the Montreal Forum. Competitors were attracted teams from as far east as Moncton, N.B. as far west as Niagara Falls, Ont.

Jim Driscoll of Belleville, one of the youngest entered, entered a young team consisting of team captain Ted Mara, Ken Bostic, Bob Robb, green belt; Ted MacDonald, green belt and David Blakely, green belt.

In both the individual and team competition the Belleville club did very well, eventually losing narrowly to the Selkirk-Kwan team from Montreal.

Frank Hatashita's teams from Toronto, coached by Jim Driscoll, won the championships in both team and individual competitions.

Driscoll paid special honor to Belleville's 16-year-old 150 pound David Blakely, just recently brought up from the children's club. Blakely was never defeated in the individual class but successfully eliminated himself by drawing with an opponent from Ottawa.

In the team competition, Blakely executed the picture throw of the evening to floor-throw against 220 - pound Don Tansal of Montreal. Blakely predicts a very bright future for Blakely in judo circles if he continues to put in the same type of improvement.

The club was very happy with his team in the dev's competition and claims he will have a very good club in a matter of few years.

The club's next tournament will be the Canadian Kodokan Black Belt Association Tournament to be held in Toronto on Saturday, November 19.

Anyone interested in Judo should attend the classes held at the YMCA on Monday evenings at eight o'clock.

Approve Idea Of Expanding Parking Areas

City council yesterday approved in principle the idea of expanding the present off-street parking facilities operated by the local parking authority.

Alderman Walter Elliott rolled the authority's request for asking council for the right to investigate the purchase of additional property with a view of increasing off-street parking facilities. If purchases of additional property was made, it was expected the cost would be gotten off-hand.

Also in connection with the parking authority Belleville merchants who several years ago loaned the city money to get off-street parking facilities underway soon expect to get their money back.

Parking Authority debentures are now due and payable and when the money is in the hands of the city treasurer he is authorized to repay the merchants who subscribed to the purchase of the present parking lots.

City Lighting Installation Now Progressing Favorably

The city of Belleville is going to be one of the best lit municipalities in this part of Ontario but it is going to take a bit of time before that distinction is achieved.

Alderman Robert Temple, chairman of the city traffic and city light committee, said last evening that the program of lighting installation is progressing favorably.

Last however, the aim was to properly light up the main travelled streets and highways entering into the city and also the more dangerous intersections. When this is done then annexed to traffic.

Industrial Development Bank Function Outlined to Rotary

The Industrial Development Bank will do all it can to match Canadians' enthusiasm to create new industry or expand existing ones in the province, to provide long term capital loans at reasonable interest rates, local Rotarians were told yesterday afternoon by W. Stuart Clark, bank's supervisor in its Ontario region.

Mr. Stuart, a native of Aurora, Ont., now living in Toronto, described the functions of the bank in assisting the development and expansion of industry in a field of financial assistance where it is pointed out banks do not normally operate, that is the long-term loan field.

He noted that the Industrial Development Bank (IDB) has completed 200 loans in its twelve years since its creation in 1944 as a subsidiary of the Bank of Canada, its field of endeavour has also proved successful as each year of operation has seen a small profit after allowing for the allocations of reserves against bad debts.

Loans, which are granted only to those carefully screened with industrial effort and development are made up to 20 to 80 per cent of the total cost of approved projects, the speaker noted. The money for the loans comes from debentures which are sold to the Bank of Canada rather than from direct monetary grants by Parliament that although the IDB was initially set up with a capitalization of $25 million-sing-song and the members observed a minute's silence. Rotarians Jack Creegan, Harold Legate and Glenn Reynolds.

The IDB does not have a loss-proof policy, Mr. Stuart explained, as loans are made following a thorough investigation of the circumstances and factors influencing the market or field in which the proposition involved is to be situated. Following investigation as to the soundness of the business proposition involved the bank will make loans of up to 10 years using the real estate involved as security with the interest rate being determined by the going rate in the chartter banks.

SMALL BRACKET

Just as many loans are made to the small business man as to large industry, the speaker explained. In fact the majority of loans are for $5,000 to $25,000 bracket.

Many of the loans made by the bank are to industries located in small centres with the bank's activity being to assist in concentrated in the major industrial centres of Canada.

The IDB looks upon its' customers as so many thousands of separate projects which it has participated, the same being but a reflection of the development of activity in local areas, Mr. Stuart concluded.

A vote of thanks was introduced by Rotarian "Jerry" Jarrett, manager of the local Bank of Montreal, with Rotarian Rube Freeman expressing the thanks of the club to president Bill Hurst presided over the meeting during the absence of Ernie Burnett due to a sing-song and the members observed a minute's silence.

Pine St. Residents Protest Bus Service Cut in Area

First public criticism of the Belleville Transit Commission's reversal of city bus service was heard Monday at city council when a delegation of Pine Street residents protested against their street being cut off from bus service.

Spokesman for the group, Mr. Thomas Finlay, said his group was getting sign asking that the West Hill-Victoria bus be rerouted to include Pine Street. Buses now run on this street for the past 20 years, it was stated.

Mr. Fluery noted that many retired people lived in the Pine Street area and many of these people had no other way of getting down town. Also there were four schools in the area.

He admitted people in the annexed areas might be entitled to bus service but not at the expense and inconvenience of taxpayers in the older part of the city.

WILL PRESENT REQUEST

The request of the Pine Street residents was to be presented to the Belleville Transit Commission today.

Mayor A. M. Haig felt certain that every consideration would be given the request of the delegation.

He said council was grateful to the Commission for its work in connection with the city owned bus system and noted that when bus routes were re-arranged it was realized there might be certain omissions. Taken into consideration at the time had been the wish to provide the best service for the most people with the present rolling stock.

The Commission has the responsibility of determining bus routes but changes must be approved by council.

Arena Sprinkler System Is Given OK by Council

Installation of a sprinkler system at the Belleville Memorial Arena at an estimated cost of $12,500 was approved by city council yesterday, but the method of financing will be left up to the council finance committee.

Alderman Don Whalen, chairman of the Arena committee, several times this year has advocated installation of the system which he said would result in a saving in insurance premiums of up to $4,000 per year.

Yesterday's recommendation called for the cost of the system to be raised in equal annual instalments payments through the general rate for the next three years.

Mayor Haig, however, suggested naming the method of financing was premature, and said there was no advantage in committing council to the principal of meeting the cost through the general rate.

Sponsors of the recommendation Alderman Whalen and McDougall, said what was actually wanted was permission to go ahead. Mr. McDougall said the saving would be substantial and there would actually be little increase in the general rate.

Alderman Whalen said the saving in insurance premiums would make the installation cost self-liquidating.

Non-Jury Court Will Be Opened Next Monday

Non-jury sittings of the Ontario Supreme Court scheduled to open in Belleville yesterday have been set back for one week.

County Sheriff Roscoe Robson said that Mr. Justice G. T. Walsh scheduled to sit on the Belleville court had been called to another centre to replace a Supreme Court judge, who had taken ill. Mr. Justice Walsh is now expected to open court here next Monday afternoon, November 14th.

Fourteen cases are listed on the local docket, including seven divorce action. Also scheduled for hearing is the action brought by the city of Belleville against the Donovan Construction Company. The city's claim is for damages due to breach of contract. Former City Solicitor H. A. Pringle is acting for the city.

Nursing School Cost City Less Than Expected

Construction of the new school for nurses at the Belleville General Hostial has cost less than $22,000 less than was originally expected.

This was revealed at city council last evening when a bylaw was approved for the borrowing of $60,000 in debentures to cover the cost of the new hospital building.

Mayor A. M. Haig noted that the $60,000 amount was actually $22,000 less than the amount of $82,000 originally pledged by the city. The difference was in construction costs, lower than estimated.

Hospital officials today said total cost of the new school of nursing was approximately $350,000. During construction the city had advanced the full $82,000 pledged and when construction costs were less than anticipated the $22,000 difference was refunded to the city.

The county of Hastings contributed $10,000 toward the cost of the new building.

The school of nursing is now entirely completed and is in full use.

Trailer Question Turned Over To Parks Board

Whether or not trailers are allowed to be occupied at the Belleville Fair Grounds from November 1st to May 1st will be the responsibility of the city parks board.

This was the action placed before city council yesterday but members declined to make a ruling indicating the decision should come from the parks board which owned the property.

Council was asked to approve that trailers be allowed to be parked to the trailers at a fee of $10 per month per trailer.

For the past several years trailers have been allowed at the fair grounds as living quarters for trainers of race horses being quartered at fairground stables.

However, there is a question of whether extended use of trailers contravenes a city bylaw.

Deplore Lack Of Interest In Red Cross

TRENTON — Council passed a resolution last night deploring the lack of interest locally in the work of the Red Cross Society and stating that council would do everything in its power to encourage the re-organization of a branch in Trenton.

John A. Partridge, president-elect of the Ontario division of the Red Cross Society and W. R. McAdam, assistant commissioner of the Ontario division, appeared before council with a request for official blessing on the formation of a branch in Trenton.

Mr. Partridge said that the Red Cross branch which flourished locally from 1939 to 1945 could well be proud of its record. Around $3,000 had been sent from his branch to the national association and many thousands of articles were sent to troops overseas. In 1947, the branch was disbanded and since then, little or no local interest has been taken, in the work.

This disinterest is particularly noticeable at the time Red Cross blood donor clinics are held. Trenton has a quota of 350 pints per clinic. Less than 200 pints of blood are donated each time the clinic is held. Nine months ago the free blood transfusion service went into effect all over Canada. Since that time 1,033 pints of blood have been sent from Trenton to hospitals in need.

Mr. Partridge said he was sure donations would increase if a local Red Cross unit was established and given the credit thought to the appointment of persons to form a branch.

Tribute was paid to the efforts of the Trenton branch of the Canadian Legion and the Women's Auxiliary of the hospital for their efforts to secure blood donations.

Tomorrow, a blood donor clinic will be held in the King St. United Church from 2 to 4.30 p.m. and from 6.30 to 9 p.m. said Mayor James MacDonald: "Trenton is a debtor town to the blood bank and to other cities".

Easing of Loan Restrictions Is Requested

TRENTON—A copy of a letter from several Trenton contractors to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation was read at last night's council meeting.

The letter requested that there be a relaxing in the requirements for speculative loans to contractors and that loans be made available for subdivisions where septic tanks must be utilized.

The contractors claim that a hardship is worked on them by the existing rules which allow only two speculative loans per contractor.

They said there is a continuing demand for certain types of housing in Trenton. Many air force personnel come into the area and ask for immediate accommodation. This the contractors cannot supply on short notice. They say that allied trades also suffer hardship because of loan restrictions. Many people moving to Belleville or other centres because of lack of accommodation in Trenton.

Council endorsed the request of the contractors.

"Nobody lacks one thing," said Councillor R. J. Whitley. "Tell the planning outfit to hold its restrictions and let the people build who can build."

Mr., Mrs. Cobley Observe 50th Anniversary

TRENTON — Mr. and Mrs. George Cobley, 153 Dundas St. W., celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday. On Saturday evening a family dinner was held at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Norman Armstrong, and on Sunday a number of family friends were entertained at the Cobley home. Mr. and Mrs. Cobley received many congratulatory cards and telegrams, as well as a number of gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Cobley were married Nov. 6, 1910, in St. Paul's Church, Caister in the Willows, Nottinghamshire, England. Mrs. Cobley was the former Constance Mary Brooks. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Arthur W. MacMichael.

The Cobleys have lived in Trenton for the past 40 years. For a number of years they made their home in Simcoe and later in Brockville. For more than 25 years Mr. Cobley conducted a furniture and undertaking business on Front St., in Trenton, but retired 10 years ago.

The couple have three daughters, Mrs. Jack Hewitt of Kingston and Mrs. Herman Chambers and Mrs. Norman Armstrong, both of Trenton. They have five grandchildren, Bryan Hewitt, Douglas George Chambers, David and Cathryn Vanluven.

Mr. and Mrs. Cobley are members of King Street United Church where Mrs. Cobley is a member of the Women's Missionary and the Women's Missionary Society. She is also a member of the Golden Star.

Mr. Cobley is a Mason and a former member of the Rotary Club and the Odd Fellows Lodge.

Mrs. Cobley received a congratulatory cable from her brother, Richard T. Brooks, Bournemouth, England.

Council Briefs

Council last night passed a resolution approving the area set out by surveyors hired by the town for proposed annexation in Murray and Sidney townships. A copy of the proposed annexation plans will be sent to the township councils. Councillor Fraser and McNair will consult with lawyers in Toronto about the feasibility of annexation.

Mrs. Charles Floud, Dundas St., appeared at council to clarify her request to be permitted to build an addition to her home at the rear to have driveway repaired. Council told her that the planning board would consider her request for the addition to her home and that action would be taken on the driveway.

A request from George (Barney) Ferguson that he be allowed to build a six-plex apartment on Queen St. or a four-plex apartment in North Trenton was referred to the planning board. Council then told Mr. Ferguson North Trenton area should possibly be rezoned to allow multi-unit dwellings such as the one proposed by Mr. Ferguson.

The Parking Committee asked that a Parking Authority be formed to have control over construction and maintenance of off-street parking facilities. The members may be paid a salary and would be permitted to fix parking rates. Council will form the town solicitor study the request.

Polling booths will be located at College Street Separate School, Senior school the Community Gardens, Peter's school, Dufferin school and North Trenton school for the Dec. 5 municipal elections. An advance poll will be held in the town hall Dec. 3.

Council voted to purchase 20 bells and bell masters and one single dual meter at a total cost of $2,464.25. These meters will be placed in the town parking lot on Front St. The older meters from The 1st will be placed on Quinte and Stewart Sts. and on the east side of Murphy St.

Fire Chief Cecil Ellis' report for October was presented later by Councillor C. V. Graham, chairman of the protection to persons and property committee. The department answered 20 calls during the month. Four of these were to Murray township and one to Sidney township. The report said that Fire Prevention Week had been successful.

Councillor Howard Aziz reported that 700 children had taken advantage of the skating facilities in the Community Gardens last Thursday and 450 last Sunday. He said that Wilson Hall, recreational director, reported that the swimming program this year was the largest in the seven years he has been director.

Mayor James MacDonald took issue with persons who said that parking restrictions were enforced only after 4 p.m. He said that "couriers" cards only were issued after 4 p.m. and the odd car, parked in an illegal place, was ticketed.

Walter Murray, town engineer, who represents the town in the local municipal employees' union, said the town and the union were working out an agreement concerning salaries, seniority, holidays and discrimination and that this agreement soon would be presented to council for approval.

Ice Control Dam and Bridge On College Street May Be Considered in One Project

The possibility of combining a proposed ice control dam in the Moira River in the vicinity of College Street with a new College Street vehicular bridge, will be given consideration before action on either project is undertaken.

The matter was brought up yesterday in city council after Alderman George Wishart, city councillor, and Ald. Frank Ketcheson, Belleville Conservation Authority, stated that cost-benefit studies on the proposed College Street ice control dam indicated construction of the dam would be good business in the light of possible damage from future springtime flooding.

It had been hoped that the federal government as well as the province would share in the cost of the structure along with the Moira Authority, but Ald. Wishart noted that present legislation does not permit town to be given assistance to a project the size of the proposed dam. Efforts were being made to have the legislation changed, he said.

BRIDGE INADEQUATE

Where federal assistance is granted on such projects, the Ottawa contribution is 37 1-2 per cent; the province 37 1-2 per cent with the remaining 25 per cent being paid by the local Authority. As Belleville would be the beneficiary of any reduction in the College Street dam project, the city would pay practically all the 25 per cent local share of the cost.

However in view of the present financial position, Alderman Wishart said he hesitated to approach the municipality with a definite request.

He warned, however, that unless the dam was built the would some day have a disastrous effect as never before experienced.

Alderman Jack Ellis asked about the possibility of combining the dam construction with the College Street Bridge, said the present College Bridge was "totally inadequate".

CLEARED UP POLLUTION

Speaking on the College Street dam, Alderman Wishart the same time filled council in with other projects of the Moira Authority.

He mentioned dam repairs currently being undertaken at Stoco Lake and also how Authority had acted in clearing up pollution in the Moira Lake above Belleville, Mr. Wishart told that fourteen city aldermen Bruce Smith had long taken keen interest in the work of the Authority.

And still on Authority matters, Mayor Haig read a letter from Hastings County Council in which it commended Conservation Authorities for having seen the Roscoe Vanderwater Conservation Area and also how Authority has acted in clearing up pollution in the Moira Lake above Belleville, Mr. Wishart told that fourteen city aldermen Bruce Smith had long taken keen interest in the work of the Authority.

A Day Of Decision

Today, south of our borders, millions of citizens the United States of America are making a decision ich may well determine the course of our lives, at so for the next four years. These citizens are choos- a president. Because the United States is the ghtiest country in the world, because it is by a ge- ral consent the most powerful member of the democratic up, the character of the man chosen as its chief cutive, and the nature of the policies he will follow of importance to all the world.

Yet only a very small portion of the people of world who have a vested interest in this choice able to share in making it. Because he no vote plaint regarding this fact, because there is ab- tely no feasible method by which people who are t citizens of the United States could be given an ective voice in the selection of a president. We ist, in this instance as so many others, trust the good intentions and good sense of our neighbors the south.

Few of us question their good intentions. More of sometimes have doubts about their good judgment. t in this election, surely, it must be evident that task is not an enviable one.

Rightly or wrongly, both of the two main candi- tes—there are others running besides Vice-President chard Nixon and Senator John Kennedy—believe that e temper of the electorate demands a "tough" policy wards Russia. Many Canadians may differ. There is greater tendency to embrace the British rspoint, which, to paraphrase a famous Canadian litical pronouncement on another controversial issue, pears to favor a policy of toughness if necessary t not necessarily toughness.

For Canadians who differ with this outlook, the choice tween Nixon and Kennedy may be made not so much the basis of their words, which differ little, as their aracters, which may differ greatly.

A Good Reception

Recent newspaper headlines across the province ve proclaimed a meeting of United States gangsters Ontario. Coupled with this is the story that the ntario police departments have been on the lookout them with the purpose of questioning them as to eir reasons for visiting our fair province.

Apparently the American gangsters are dubious holding their secret conclaves in their home country llowing the results of the notorious gangster convention in Appalachin, N.Y., three years ago. Almost ehind-if-not-all present were imprisoned and their ber being found guilty of concealing the true purpose the gathering.

Similar action on the part of Canadian authorities ould not at all be out of place in order to convince e parties concerned that Canadians have no use for s type of individual. If the Canadian authorities ave got these people on the run it is up to our own nforcement agencies to see that the race is continued ntil the contestants are run right out of the country into the ground.

Poor Timing

Even the most astute observers can make mistakes. 'e suppose there is no more well-informed newspaper- an than David Low, the eminent British cartoonist, ecently he provided a cartoon depicting a submarine anding at shore, the conning tower of a submarine ehind him and facing him a group of people carrying gns bearing the insignia of the U.S. Strategic Air ommand, obviously protesting against H-bomb carry- g planes being based on British soil. "Who wants our bases anyway?" asks the frogman from the olaris-launching submarine. The cartoon appeared n the Kingston Whig-Standard and the Peterborough xaminer last Tuesday. The same day Prime Min- ter Harold Macmillan announced that a U.S.-British greement had been reached whereby the U.S. will upply a mobile submarine tender and a floating dock o the Clyde Estuary in Scotland, to service Polaris- arrying submarines.

BCIVS H-S Holds Panel Discussion

The November meeting of the B.C.I.V.S. Home and School Association was held in the boys' gymnasium. Mr. R.M. Linscott presided, welcomed all present. Mrs. A. V. Barkley presided at the piano and Mrs. B. Stinson gave the secretary's report.

Mr. Linscott reported in the absence of the treasurer. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Beattie, read a letter of thanks from Mr. Orr in appreciation of help extended at the graduation exercises in the Home and School executive. The Association was reminded that this is 'Education Week' all over Ontario.

The meeting was turned over to the panel consisting of Mr. R. Cass, lawyer; Mr. D. McKim, probation officer; Mr. Bruce Kerr, representative of the Children's Aid Society, and Mr. A. Wyman, a parent. Rev. Morgan McFarlane from Tabernacle United Church acted as moderator. The topic under discussion being, "Your Child And The Law". Subjects dealt with were: what legal responsibility do we have to our children? how is a child dealt with in a court of law? delinquent parents or delinquent children? what is parental neglect?

The meeting was most interesting, instructive, and enlightening. A juvenile, is any boy or girl under 16 years of age. Hastings County is a clean community with only one per cent juvenile delinquency, and not on the increase. At Hallowe'en there was only one case of violence. Sixteen definitions of a neglected child were introduced. Any child lacking in parental control is a neglected child; a child needing medical care and not getting it; an emotional child not being cared for; a child left on the street after nine o'clock, as well as children living in unfit homes. The Children's Aid does for a child mentally, spiritually and physically all that a good parent should do.

Broken homes, alcoholism, lack of faith, working mothers who leave no responsible person in charge of their children all contribute to juvenile delinquency. Everyone is under legal duty to provide for their children until the child is 18 years of age, moral responsibility as well as legal. As is often said charity begins at home; unfortunately occasionally so does delinquency. Parents can improve the situation of their child by paying the way to prevent them from becoming delinquent children. "If we wait until the age of 12, we have waited too long. We must be commenced immediately at the child's entering the family circle. Get to know your child by showing them interest, affection, and love; acquaint them with church and Sunday School, taking them not sending them. Stand behind your child's school and teacher; we place our children in their hands for knowledge and guidance.

A discussion period followed touching on television, the family car, as well as the topic of the evening.

Refreshments were served in the school cafeteria ending an outstanding presentation.

Keen Competition in Mixed Spiel Marks Opening of New Curling Season at Quinte Club

On beautifully painted ice in a newly-painted clubhouse with new furnishings the curling season of the Quinte Curling Club, was officially opened on Monday afternoon by Harry Trepanier, president of the club, who started the first bonspiel a mixed affair chained by Pete Acton and his committee of R. Smith, Ralph Graham, Ross Booth and Lloyd Sheppard on his way. Mr. Trepanier thanked every committee and especially the women for the pre-season work that is always done and predicted that the club would have another successful season. Mrs. Jessie White, president of the Women's Section of the club, also thanked her committees for the work accomplished.

There were 32 rinks entered in the spiel and they will play three draws a day until Saturday when the semi-finals will be played in the afternoon and the final game in the evening after which a social evening and dance will conclude the day. Each rink is guaranteed three games and the losers of the first draw drop down in the second event and "I" a loser in their first game there continue down in the Consolation, that is the end. If beaten in the first game of that event they can get behind the glass and skip from that position and certainly the best curlers seem to be behind the glass, although they have not had much practice from that point this season. They will get better as the winter advances.

EXCELLENT ICE

Despite the fact it was the first curling for the members the games were well completed and some looked as if they had been curling—all summer. Steve Flintoff, the ice chairman, had the best sheet of ice ready for play the club has enjoyed since it was opened. A lot of hard work has gone into this effort but the runs, the humps and other causes of protest have been ironed out and y' his wife, came up with an eight-ender against Don McKinnon. It is said that Don helped their cause when he took out his only rocks and Hugh only had to make a soft draw to the rinks to count his eight. It was the first perfect end that has been made in competitive curling since the club opened and this should be another first' to put up on the board.

Growth of Elementary Public Schools in Past Ten Years

By J. M. COUSINS, B.A.
Inspector Belleville Public Schools

Belleville, that dignified old lady at the mouth of the Moira River, has experienced severe growing pains with respect to the Elementary Public Schools during the past ten years. In 1948 the total public school enrolment of the city was 1,562 pupils, housed in four schools, King George, Queen Alexandra, Queen Mary and Queen Victoria. These schools were staffed by fifty-five teachers.

It is interesting to note that 1948 was the beginning of the rapid growth period of our Public School population. The total capacity of the four schools was supposed to be 1,797 pupils. This meant that some 142 pupils had to be crowded in every available space. The time had come to plan expansion.

As early as 1948, Superintendent L. A. Kells began to plan ahead to provide for the future growth in enrolment. At that time many interested people thought that his plans were rather extreme. However, the past ten years have proved that his calculations were very accurate and quite conservative in nature.

In 1949, Prince Edward School of six classrooms was constructed and opened in the spring of 1950 with some two hundred children enrolled. In 1953, it was evident that additional accommodation was necessary to meet the needs of that district. Six new classrooms were added to Prince Charles School in 1954.

BIG DEVELOPMENT

Due to the new housing developments in Parkwood Heights, Churchill Heights and Bayview, the eastern section of the city soon began to outstrip the west side in school accommodation. In 1957 Queen Elizabeth School opened with thirteen classrooms and an enrolment of 490, providing a little temporary relief from crowding on the east side of the city, but not for long.

In 1954, Sir Winston Churchill School was constructed with 7 classrooms to accommodate some 240 children. On the following year a six-room addition was built to handle the 350 children then living in that section.

During the period between 1949 and 1957, the public school population had grown from 1,562 to 2,818 pupils and the public school staff increased from 55 to 89 teachers.

The year 1955 to 1956 was a time of slow but steady increase in public school population. The schools were nearing capacity load by the end of 1958.

Annexation in January 1956 brought four new schools, Avondale, Bayview, Hillcrest, and Prince of Wales into the city system. The enrolment jumped by 4,292 pupils in the year of 1959. The city now had 120 classrooms in the public schools and there was an indication that more space would be needed in the near future.

Planning had begun in 1952 for a new senior school at the eastern end of the city where the most increased enrolment was the most rapid. It seems very fitting that the Public School Board should name the new building the Harry J. Clarke School in honor of the late H. J. Clarke, who served this city so well both in the field of education and in the service of the City Council.

New additions of two rooms each were planned for Prince Charles and King George schools to take care of the west side growth.

4,500 CHILDREN ENROLLED

At present there are some 4,500 children enrolled in 130 rooms of our Belleville Public Schools. Every possible space is being used to house these pupils until the new school is completed.

An interesting point in connection with our public schools is the comparison in the growth in population and assessment for public school purposes to the growth in school enrolment. In 1951 the population of Belleville was 19,200. The assessment for public school purposes was $15,145,900. The school enrolment was 2,410 pupils. In 1959 the population was 20,032, the assessment for public school purposes was $23,203,316 and the enrolment was 4,292 pupils. The assessment for public schools had increased less then 60 per cent in that period while the school population had increased about 80 per cent.

The members of the Public School Board may well be proud of this record over the past ten years. In the face of rising costs for labor and materials, they have not only built new schools to handle the rapidly growing population, but they have also renovated the older original schools to keep them in line with the times of modern buildings, and thus protecting their span of usefulness. Careful planning on this part has produced the maximum value received for public money spent.

Damage Writ Against Three Officers Issued

A writ claiming $10,000 damages has been issued here against three city police constables charging assault by shooting in connection with the arrest of a Belleville man several weeks ago.

Thomas Woodward, 24, is named as the plaintiff. He was recently convicted of trespassing at night and was sentenced to 14 days in jail.

Woodward was arrested after a chase across an open field in the west end of the city. Several shots were said fired in the chase and Woodward was taken to hospital with a leg injury.

City police officers named in the writ taken out by Belleville solicitor Robert Temple on behalf of his client are Constables Dale Ashby, Donald Vanderburgh and Robert Beglie.

One of the writs was served yesterday, another is expected to be served today while the third will have to wait until the constable returns from a hunting trip in the north.

Schools to take care of the west side growth.

REV. H. N. ROBINSON.

Will Preach At Wesleyan Methodist

At a meeting of the Board of Stewards of Wesleyan Methodist Church, plans were completed for the coming of Rev. Harvey H. Robinson of Marion, Ind., to conduct evangelistic services here Nov. 9-20.

Canadian-born Mr. Robinson, after his college work at Houghton, N.Y., returned to pastor churches in the Ottawa Valley. Later he moved to the U.S. where he served as pastor, conference president and evangelist. With a wide and varied experience in church work, Mr. Robinson has been called to Wesleyan Methodist Church for the first time.

The church song director, Carl Green, well known in the city and district, was appointed by the board to direct the singing. Mr. Green will be assisted by members of the choir rendering duet, trio and quartet numbers.

Civic Election Pot Showing Little Action

With nomination little more than two weeks away and election day slated for December 8th, the Belleville civic election pot has not yet even commenced to simmer with nary a candidate so far having officially announced himself.

Seven of this year's 14 aldermen are completing their one year terms and if their municipal careers are to continue they must seek re-election.

The office of mayor is also to be filled but so far only rumors have been heard as to possible candidates in the field. Alderman A. M. Haig has not yet announced his intentions but rumors are to seek re-election for another term.

The seven aldermen serving one year terms in council are Jack Ireland, Fred Harrison, George Wishart, Robert Temple, Don Wrenn, Rose Bailey and William Jarvah.

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Tuesday, November 8, 1960

Many Residents Have Already Paid Special Levy in Full

The final chapter in the repayment of Belleville's acnloc hockey losses and floating indebtedness caused by deficit financing is now being written for local taxpayers.

Special tax bills covering repayment of the close to $400,000 indebtedness are going out in the mails and taxpayers have until December 1st to pay the first of five instalments, or to pay the entire levy.

Already numbers of city residents have paid the full special levy, thus taking advantage of the 12 per cent discount offered for full payment with the first instalment.

The special levy rate for property owners in the old city is 18.74 mills, and in the annexed area 5.74 mills.

At city council yesterday Aldermen Ben Corke noted already there had been a favorable response in payment of the special levy. He hoped that ratepayers would take advantage of t'e 12 per cent discount offered for payment of the entire levy before December 1st.

And speaking briefly on another matter, Alderman Corke noted that $491,000 in city debentures had recently been sold at an interest rate of 3½ per cent, the price received being 97.76. He said the finance committee was highly pleased with the result of the debenture sale.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said the debentures sold covered the cost of one new public school; two public school additions along with debenture costs of the new high school administration building, and the city's share of the cost of the new hospital school of nursing.

Early Church Growth Traced At WMS Meet

The regular November meeting of Melrose W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. R. MacFarlane with a small attendance due to the inclement weather. The president, Mrs. J. Milligan, presided and conducted the devotional service, the theme of which was "Thanksgiving". The order of service in the Missionary Monthly was followed which included the hymn "Praise Ye the Lord for It Is Good."

The Scripture lessons were read by Mrs. E. Embury, L. Wecse and R. Badgley and prayer was given by the president.

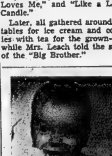
A meditation on "Thanksgiving" was most inspiring and was read by Mrs. C. Bates. A reading, "A Prayer for the Day" was given by Mrs. R. MacFarlane, and another one, "The Neighborhood Theatre," was read by Mrs. Badgley, both of which contained much food for thought.

Miss M. Bailey had charge of the Study Book and in a most interesting manner she summarized two chapters, "The Vision Lost" and "The Church Recovered." She reviewed the theme of the Study Book, which is, "Into All the World Together," and hence all are to have a world-wide vision of Christianity and members of WMS have a double incentive to work for foreign missions. The church in the New Testament had fellowship which bound together all who believed in Christ.

She traced the various stages of growth in the early church, mentioning the different men who with which developed between the eastern and western parts of the Roman Empire and finally the new spiritual life which followed the Reformation whose intentions were to reform the church, but denomination-alism was the result due to difference in creed. The vision of the early church is again dreamed and all must strive to make this dream a reality.

VOCAL SOLOS

The first missionaries were seekers of souls and in 1795 the London Missionary Society was formed on an undenominational basis — the British and Foreign Bible Society and the Religious Tract Society, the YMCA, and many other societies united to the Ecumenical story. Many protests were made against the numerous divisions as they proved a hindrance to missions. As one follows the long story that opens with a recall to personal faith, one must claim as part of her spiritual heritage the English Puritans, Wesley and Calvin, and to be among the founders of the United Church and we must learn to share as equal and to receive together from God.



The president closed the meeting with prayer and a social hour followed as the hostess served lunch.

St. Thomas' Sr. W.A. Entertains 'Little Helpers'

The Senior W.A. of St. Thomas' Church entertained the "Little Helpers" and their parents at the parish house on Sunday afternoon.

Canon A. S. McConnell conducted a brief service at which the children repeated the Little Helpers' prayer and sang "Jesus Loves Me," and "Like a Little Candle."

Later, all gathered around big tables for ice cream and cookies with tea for the grown-ups, while Mrs. Leach told the story of the "Big Brother."

Kiwanis L.A. Hears Talk On Cancer

Another enjoyable evening for the ladies of the Kiwanis Auxiliary was held at their regular monthly meeting.

Three new members: — Joan Pennington, Helen MacDonald and Marjorie O'Rourke were welcomed to the club.

Carm Mott gave a report on the "Bridge Marathon" which is being planned for the new year.

Plans were discussed and it was decided to invite the ladies of the Kingston West club to join in their annual Christmas potluck supper in December. .

The birthday draw was won by Mary Denton who also won a lucky number along with Vera Slade and Nancy Foxard.

The speaker of the evening, Miss Rosemary McNaughton, was introduced by President Reta. Miss McNaughton is with the Cancer Society and her educational talk on the disease and the society was most interesting and enlightening to everyone.

The film she showed was in travelogue form.

Heartfelt thanks were conveyed to the Cancer Society for arranging such a worthwhile evening's entertainment.

Refreshments were served by Eva Wooten and her committee.

Former Local Artist Exhibits In Hamilton

Winnifred Mitchell, wife of Sergeant Mitchell of the RCAF, who was stationed at Trenton for the last four years until last May, will be exhibiting in Hamilton at the Westdale Gallery, 9 Sterling Street, for three weeks in November, from the 5th until the 25th. The family of three are now established at Number 6 R.D. Detachment, Bamville, Ontario.

Mrs. Mitchell, who instructed in oil painting for the Trenton Recreation Commission and designed sets for the Trenton Drama Club, has had her pictures on exhibition at the Quinte Hotel here in Belleville with the Trenton Art Group. Her many friends in the district will be wishing her success in her latest venture.

Never a Dull Moment For Wife of Jazz Artist

VANCOUVER (CP) — Day in and day out there hasn't been a dull moment for Gladys Hampton since she married the famous American jazz musician in the middle of the night at the California - Arizona border 25 years ago.

Today she's Lionel's No. 1 fan, manager, investment counselor and cook. As with any other couple, times were not always good. During the early days there were many missed meals, long tedious hours on buses and seldom time at one stop to relax from the gruelling pace of a musician's life.

"Ma didn't think too much of me giving up my sewing for a drummer boy back in '36," said Gladys during a visit here. But since then the drummer boy has become one of the greats of jazz and a musician admired and respected around the world.

While preparing Lionel's breakfast in a motel here she arranged for accommodation at the next stop. Not only does she solicit spoken native of Yuma, Ariz., look out for her husband, but she organizes the affairs of his 14-piece band.

This includes bookings, payrolls, tax and social security deductions, accommodations, transportation and public relations.

The Hamptons, who have toured Europe five times, call Israel home.

"That just seems to be where we belong the most," said Mrs. Hampton. "I felt like I was comin' home to the land of David."

"We first went there for a 10-day engagement, but stayed five weeks. We played to about 90 per cent of the population during that time."

ASKS BIRTH DEBATE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Sweden served notice Monday it wants the United Nations to consider next year the question of birth control. Speaking in the assembly's economic committee, Sweden's delegate Ulla Lindstrom said: "If nothing happens in the population . . . there will be only standing room left for mankind."

G.I.A. Sponsors Dainty Tea, Successful Bazaar

Cerise and yellow were the keynote colors of the G.I.A. bazaar held on Saturday in the Edgesers' Hall on Pine Street, which was well attended and most successful, under the convenership of Mrs. L. E. Grey and Mrs. Allie Vanalstine.

Receiving at the door was the president, Mrs. Jack Avery, and taking tickets, Mrs. W. Morgan, Mrs. D. Weber, Mrs. T. Crozier and Mrs. W. Spring.

A white linen cloth centred by yellow and white 'mums and flanked by yellow candles in silver candlesticks, with silver services adorning each end, made an attractive tea table. Presiding were Mrs. R. P. Orne and Mrs. Rob Muirhead Sr., Mrs. B. Clarke and Mrs. P. Kerr; while replenishing the tea table, Mrs. T. Collier Sr., Mrs. Vanalstine, Mrs. A. Buck, Mrs. B. Batchelor, and making the delicious tea, Mrs. N. Cathery.

Serving in the tea room, Mrs. N. Pringle, Mrs. Bill Hutchison, Mrs. J. McCormick and Mrs. E. Goodman.

The various booths with their pretty cerise and yellow garlands made a pretty autumn picture. The homecooking, convened by Mrs. E. Jerome and Mrs. J. Cunningham, assisted by Mrs. E. J. Kerr and Mrs. R. Fortin, had an alluring display of delicious pies, cakes, tarts, of many varieties, and other dainty mouth-watering confections.

At usual the apron table was well patronized for useful Christmas gifts, and what is nicer to have than a colorful apron when unexpected guests drop in for tea or dinner. In charge of these were Mrs. P. Kerr and Mrs. R. P. Orne, assisted by Mrs. A. Jordoe, and Mrs. R. Turner.

The variety table, as the name implies, is always an interesting place for Christmas gifts, and one could find many dainty handmade articles, as well as costume jewellery, and a large assortment of other articles. Convening these were Mrs. E. Pigden, Mrs. C. Henley, assisted by Mrs. G. Culver, Mrs. M. Boyd, Mrs. M. Petty and Mrs. J. Gallagher.

The candy table, a Mecca for the sweet-toothed ones, had delicious made mints, chocolate fudges, all prettily packaged in cups, and cellophane bags, all in charge of Mrs. J. Young, Mrs. N. Noble and Mrs. D. Moran.

The conveners wish to extend their appreciative thanks to all who assisted in making this annual event so successful and friendly.

WILL OPEN ART SHOW

OTTAWA (CP)—An exhibition of the works of the Dutch artist Van Gogh will be opened at the National Gallery here Nov. 17 by Dr. A. H. J. Lovink, Netherlands ambassador to Canada. The exhibition of 79 paintings and 61 drawings has been on display in Montreal. It will be displayed at the Toronto Art Gallery Feb. 10 to March 12.

C.A.R.S. L.A. Plans Yuletide Party

The Auxiliary to the Quinte Branch of C.A.R.S. met at the home of Mrs. S. Noble on Nov. 3rd with Mrs. J. A. Jarvis presiding.

Miss Betty Dreyup, regional superior and part-time physiotherapist to the Quinte Branch was a guest at the meeting and spoke in glowing terms of the importance of Women's Auxiliaries and made some suggestions for further useful work.

It was noted that roses and cards had been sent to patients in the hospital.

Mrs. David — convener of Patient Relations, reported a contact made to get some typing for a patient and a need for aluminum for another.

It was also planned to send Christmas boxes to shut-in patients and to give a Christmas party for patients on December 14th under the direction of Mrs. Wamboldt, social convener. Considerable time was spent organizing and planning the latter.

After the meeting adjourned, the social period with Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Wamboldt, took the form of a "box voyage" party for Mrs. Gemmell, who is leaving for Scotland.

Wife Preservers

When cooking home-canned goods, be sure to let air out of all sides of the jars or lids. Never set hot jars on a cold surface nor on a rack or folded cloth.

Young Couple Feted by Open House

On Saturday afternoon an 'open house' reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dancy, 30 Stanley Park Drive, in honor of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Grandaime, of Toronto, who were recently married.

Approximately 50 guests were received at the door by the bride and bridegroom and the bride's mother, Mrs. D. Bacon, and in the reception hall by Mr. William Arvak and the bride's father, Mr. D. Bacon, who escorted them to the guest room.

The rooms were a bower of beauty with a profusion of white, yellow and bronze 'mums

OSD Teaching Methods Shown at W.I.

The regular meeting of Bethel-Zion W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Doug Sills with an attendance of 15 members. The president, Mrs. Don Sills, presided and opened the meeting.

A short business period followed. It was decided to have a pot-luck supper in the hall on November 11 at 7 p.m. Each family is asked to bring four items for supper.

The motto, "The Life You Live Is the Lesson You Teach," was prepared by Mrs. Earle Ray and read by Mrs. Floyd Ray.

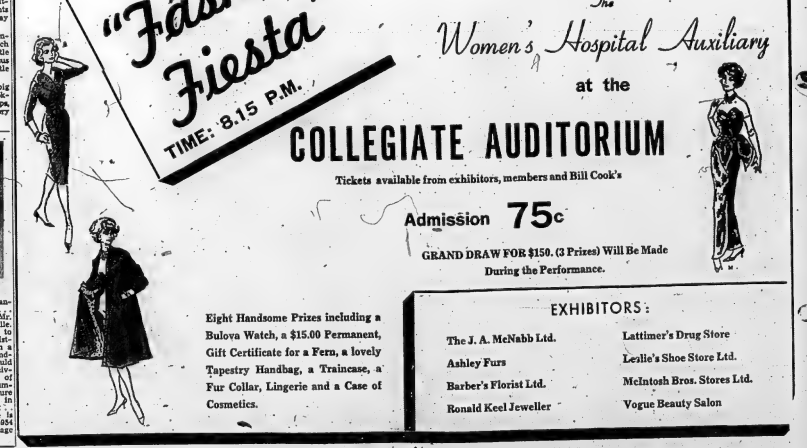
A duet, "How Deep Is the Ocean," by Mrs. Floyd Ray and Mrs. Doug Sills was much enjoyed.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Don Sills introduced the guest speaker Mrs. J. G. Somers, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville. Mr. Demens said the school had recently celebrated its 90th anniversary with a tree planting ceremony on the campus. He also showed slides of the school, the school rooms and told of the methods of teaching used in the school.

Mrs. Percy Ray thanked Mr. Demens for his interesting address.

The meeting closed and a social hour followed.



and the tea table daintily appointed with a white Madeira cloth, centred by lovely pink and white 'mums, flanked by white candles and the silver and crystal setting.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Gina C. — They make me babysit no matter what I've got planned.

Mrs. T. C. — She should be glad to see us go out for a change.

Gina C — I'm 13 and my parents make me babysit for my kid sister any time they get it into their heads to step out. It never occurs to them that I might have some plans.

They never ask me if I'll stay in and mind Margie. They just tell me, "Take care of Margie. We're going out." Margie is 6 and we have lots of fun when I'm in the mood.

Believe me, I wasn't in the mood the other night and I took it out on Margie. I was furious. I was supposed to meet my girl friend and go to the "Y" for folk-dancing. But of a clear sky, my mother said, "Dad's waiting for me downtown. He has a pass for the movies. Put Margie to bed and finish the kitchen."

My girl friend almost disappointed too. She wanted to stay with me but I told her to go ahead and tell me all about it later. I was tempted to dress Margie again and tell her she's dead. That's how badly I wanted to go. Instead, I dumped Margie into bed and didn't even read to her the way I always do.

They'll have to learn,if I have some feelings too.

Mrs. T. C. — Gina knows we don't have money to spend on babysitters. For years my husband and I stayed home to take care of her and her baby sister. She was so proud the first time we left her in charge of Margie. She was a real little mother to that child.

Suddenly she is sulking about minding Margie. She only wants to get away. It's such a change because she is always a devoted baby. There's seven years between them and from the beginning, Gina said Margie was her baby, ours. She played with her for hours.

What does she expect me to do, pay them the four dollars every time we go out? We give them a fair allowance and why shouldn't she do her share and earn it?

Now that she has a chance to give us a little freedom, you'd think she'd be happy about it. Instead she seems to begrudge us our evenings off.

The Council: Beneath the surface of this argument, we see the fabric of a devoted family which can surely work out this problem of the fair apportionment of time off.

Evidently the C's haven't yet moved along to see Gina as an individual in her own right, not just as a daughter and sister. She can no longer be "assigned" as a possession or inanimate thing. While Gina respects her parents' wishes and orders, the missing ingredient here seems to be the parents' respect for her growing maturity.

Gina's plans are important. She has a right to some time for recreation. Tackled as a family problem, without disruption, Gina's home with Margie can be recovered with some loving flexibility.

Incidentally, Mrs. C. mentions allowance and implies that Gina is paid for her baby sitting for her parents. This puts a rather crass face on what should be a labor of love and contribution to family solidarity. Salary or allowance is one thing and it can come from any member of the family for any matter and is tangible evidence of a child's share in the family's affairs and of faith in his ability to handle money. As a usual practice, there is something demeaning in paying a member to babysit for her own sister.

Yes, Gina now has new plans. Mrs. C. mentions that she admits — and new feelings about her family. When with understanding and a sense of humor, these can be resolved and from the best thing. She needs the ties, but she's asking that they change from ribbon to elastic.

Nights out for all! Of course, but with Gina's parents still in charge, only glad to meet Gina halfway most of the time.

These Quintuplets Are Still Bundles of Joy

Franco Dilligenti was stunned when his wife gave birth to quintuplets on July 15, 1943, but he knew what to do. He remembered "the tragedy of the Dionne quints," all the commercial exploitation and arguments between parents and doctors, and decided that his quints should be brought up as ordinary children, not biological freaks. So until today a wall of secrecy has surrounded the lives of the Dilligenti quints of Argentina.

But now that they are 17, Franco has broken his silence to reveal the fascinating story of how the world's only living quintuplets have grown up to be unspoiled and happy teenagers.

By RAY KERRISON

The father of the world's only living quintuplets broke 17 years of silence to reveal how he brought them up to be normal, happy children.

"I did it," said Franco Dilligenti, "with a policy of maximum secrecy and minimum togetherness."

The Dilligenti quints—three girls and two boys—celebrated their 17th birthday in Buenos Aires recently. The most precious gift they received was the fact that today, thanks to the wisdom of their parents, they are regarded as ordinary children instead of biological freaks.

They are only the second set of quints in medical history to survive infancy. The famous Dionne quints, of Canada, were the first born nine years before the Dilligenti quints.

Franco and his wife, Vallota, admit they learned their best lesson in how to raise children from what they call the "tragedy of the Dionnes."

"We read in a French magazine what happened to the Dionnes, and when ours arrived we were determined it would not happen to them," said Dilligenti, a wealthy textile merchant.

The quints, all girls, were stillborn. The human problem confronted by parents and doctors reared its ugly head when, as revealed at by the curious, and subjected to intense commercial exploitation. On turning 21, they inherited a one-million-dollar trust fund — and a legacy of heartbreak. One of the girls, Emilie, died in 1954.

FAIR TREATMENT DENIED

When Vallota Dilligenti, then 42, gave birth to Franco, Carlos, Alicia, Elena, Esther, Hugo, Christina and Maria Fernanda on July 15, 1943, both mother and father knew the problems.

"The doctor," said Franco, "after examining with his stethoscope, said he heard a 'symphonony' of heartbeats, but the most we expected was two or three."

But Franco was not so stunned that he did not know what to do. He immediately hung up a near-impregnable curtain of secrecy, which lasted to this day.

He swore the midwife, who attended Vallota, to secrecy. He recorded the births at different registries on different days. He told his job as well that the quints were eight months old before Argentina, and the rest of the world, knew of their arrival.

When reporters finally started to get the story, they were met at the Dilligenti household by armed guards.

Commercial offers began flooding in, but Franco and Vallota resisted all of them, including one which offered them $250,000.

"It was a lot of saying 'no,' the offers stopped coming," Franco said.

With the first wave of publicity successfully turned aside, the Dilligentis launched the second part of their plan — giving each child a chance to develop his or her own personality.

"We knew they could not live all their lives together," said Franco. "We decided that if they were to get along all right they had to learn to stand on their own two feet."

He sent them out individually, a very unusual act on Argentinian hood errands, not all together, and also to get them to do something by themselves, not all together, and also to accustom the neighbors to them, so they would stop being a rarity.

"It worked pretty well. After a while everyone got used to seeing them around, and they were not a curiosity any more."

PLAN NOT SATISFACTORY

Within the house, however, the plan did not work well. The Dilligentis had the help of five nurses, but the children were psychologically fusing together.

When one developed an illness, neurotic "sympathy" illnesses would strike the other. To add still, their "team spirit," although a wonderful thing, in most cases, became too much for their parents and nurses.

Their separation was meant that they defied discipline and any corrective influence", said Franco.

"If we had something new for dinner and one said he did not like it, all the others immediately said they did not like it. If one went out somewhere, all the others wanted to trail along".

His solution was to send the quints to five different Buenos Aires boarding schools in Argentina, when they were eight years of age. From then on — and even today — they saw one another only from time to time.

"They all had different weekends off, so sometimes it was months before all five got together", explained Vallota. "Of course, we took holidays together, and had special family parties, but most of the time the children lived individual lives.

Soon, the parents discovered that the quints were disagreeing with one another. They argued about which school was best and the boys played rugby against each other. At the beach the summer holidays the girls would seek out and make his sisters' lives miserable.

"They managed to grow up with a normal brother-sister relationship, without thinking they were freaks or always an inspiration," Franco said happily.

LIVED IN LUXARY HOME

The quints were raised in the Dilligenti mansion with a private swimming pool, large grounds in which to play, an outdoor dance pavillion, and a big city house separated from the home. A full-time nurse, without thinking, and a full-time language teacher were provided at an early age.

Franco's wealth played a major part in helping him rear the children like normal. Born in Italy, he emigrated at 22 to Argentina to seek his fortune. He managed to raise enough money to build a textile factory, then married and raised a family.

Till he had ten factories manufacturing different products. By the time the quints arrived, he was a millionaire, and in a position to send them to private boarding schools.

At schools the quints were bright and athletic. Before they were in grade school, they spoke Italian, French, Spanish, German and Italian.

One of the three girls is already married, and one of the boys goes to school in Vancouver, Canada. The other boy will go to a different school in Vancouver in September. The remaining two girls study at separate schools in Buenos Aires.

The quints are still close to one another and carry on voluminous correspondence which is cleared through the family home in Belgrano, an upper-class section of Buenos Aires.

Their favorite sister, Alicia Christina and Franco Jr. have their mother's dark eyes and dark and sharp features. Carlos and Esther, with blonde, hair and features resemble another brother, Maria Fernanda is a blend of both parents.

A U.S. correspondent who visited them found them "bright, unspoiled, happy teenagers". He reported that "they like jazz, rock'n'roll, the movies and ballet".

Their proud father says: "Each alone is an angel, but when they are home together, they make this house a hell."

RELIABLE BACHELORS

TORONTO (CP)—Single men make just as reliable firemen as do married men, suburban Scarborough council decided, dropping their preference previously given to married men as recruits. The township personnel director reported that married status does not affect attitudes while on the job or permanency, as had been supposed.

Contemporary Cloche

BY ALICE ALDEN

We're getting clipped and enjoying it!

We refer, of course, to the short cap-coiffure that is the fashionable hair-do just now on both sides of the Atlantic. And of course the milliners have gone along with it, creating head-hugging cloche hats for chapeau and coiffure togetherness.

Here is one such hat, a charming re-echo of the thirties done with a contemporary freshness. Of pink felt, the band is of black grosgrain.

Old-Fashioned Creamy Rice Pudding

By Mary Moore

Often there are letters from patient readers who ask for simple recipes for old favorites like scalloped potatoes or Swiss steak or rice pudding or the like. They seldom come right out and say: "Please bake, Mary, pause in that fancy cooking of yours and give us old-time plain stuff".

So — it's Baked Rice Pudding today — baked a long time and unwilling in a rich, creamy texture impossible to achieve any other way.

rice, 2 1-2 cups milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Wash rice; cook with milk in double boiler until tender — about 1 hour; add salt and sugar; chill. Fold in whipped cream and vanilla. Serve cold.

Variations: 1) Add 1-3 cup crushed canned pineapple and juice or chopped drained apricots which have been soaked. 2) Add 1-3 cup plumped raisins or 2 tablespoons chopped candied ginger. 3) Rice Banana: ian may be made a little more elegant for guests by sprinkling with shaved maple sugar.

BAKED RICE PUDDING:

(Do eyes)

1-3 cup rice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup sugar, shake of nutmeg, 1-3 teaspoon vanilla, 3 cups milk.

Wash rice and boil in water for 10 minutes. Drain and add remaining ingredients. Pour into greased baking dish; place in pan of hot water and bake 1 to 3 hours in a slow oven. Stir frequently until pudding is nearly cooked then brown slightly.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Broiled Minced Lamb Patties; Mint Jelly; Creamed Onions; Green Peas; Cabbage and Pineapple Slaw with Boiled Dressing; Mincemeat Tarts with Whipped Cream; Tea.

CREAMY BAKED RICE PUDDING:

3-4 cup long grain, long-cooking rice, 1 cup water, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk, 2 eggs, 1-3 cup sugar, 1-4 cup light Sultana raisins, 2 tablespoons finely chopped candied ginger, rice boiled.

Note re ginger; I added the ginger unwittingly because we like it. The milk dilutes the stingy ginger flavor and leaves rich-flavored chewy bits.

Add the water to the rice and bring to hard boil, covered with tight lid. Turn off heat for 5 minutes. Turn heat to "simmer" and cook until water is absorbed — about 15 minutes. Beat eggs a little, with the sugar, add all remaining ingredients and cooked rice and turn into deep casserole or baking dish. Stand dish of rice in pan of water and bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours or until softly set and top is lightly tinged with gold. Serve warm with pouring cream or milk.

Following is a simpler rice pudding.

United Church W.A. Holds Fine Tea, Bazaar

FRANKFORD — On October 20th, the members of Frankford United Church W.A. held their annual tea and bazaar in Rose Lowrey hall.

The minister, the Rev. C. Judd, opened the bazaar.

The hall was decorated prettily with autumn flowers. The tea table was centre with pink roses, flanked by cr. tal candelabra, holding white candles. Silver tea services completed the setting.

Around the room were the various booths of wares for sale. The home cooking table, neatly displayed pies, cakes, buns, cookies and many other delicious confections, was well patronized.

The apron table displayed various aprons, large and small, plain and fancy, also children's clothes and nighties.

The home produce table had an abundance of plants, vegetables and jams and jellies.

The fancy work table included knitted socks, doll clothes, crochet work, just to mention a few things.

The touch-n'-take table did a rushing business as well as the children's table.

The candy table was covered by Mrs. Preston Chase and Mrs. Gilmour, leaders of the Mission Band.

The tea tables, daintily set up in the centre of the hall, were each centred with a serving plate with a bouquet of red and bronze 'mums.

The many ladies who assisted at the tea in various capacities are listed as follows:

Receiving the guests were Mrs. C. Judd and Mrs. A. Stickle; pouring tea, Mesdames E. Bonisteel, H. M. Sands, C. Charlesworth, J. A. Lott and W. Scott.

Tea table hostesses, Mesdames L. Reid, Z. Blair, M. Mallory, W. Morrow, W. Pollard, F. Howe, E. Wallace, L. Way and B. Stickle.

Apron table conveners: Mesdam S. Bonisteel, E. Gainforth and L. Hanna.

Fancy work table, Mrs. G. Montgomery and Mrs. B. Fenn.

Home produce table conveners, Mrs. F. Morris and Mrs. H. Bonisteel.

Touch and take table and children's table were in charge of Mrs. Sid Marthi, and the home cooking table was convened by Mesdames F. Rabel, J. Whitmore, A. Patrick and H. Bleecker.

Replenishing in the kitchen were Mesdames G. McLay, H. Abbott and G. Harrington; and those making tea, Mrs. W. Scott and Mrs. E. Bonisteel. Replenishing tea, were: Mrs. M. Grills and Mrs. W. Scott.

Acting as treasurer for the tea was Mrs. B. Servos, treasurer of the W.A.

Sincere appreciation is extended to all who helped make this tea and bazaar a success.

QUESTION BOX

Several months ago I changed the format of this column a n d I had received when making a change in a woman's column. I had an interesting question period at another luncheon the other day. Here are a few of the questions:

Question: At a dinner that is being given in honor of a bride are observing their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, how do you seat the guests of honor at the dinner table? Are they placed on the right side of the host and at each end of the table?

Answer: In this case they are not. They should be seated together at the table from which they were bride and bridegroom. The hosts sit on either side of them, and the guests are seated as usual.

Question: How do you tell a court teen-ager, or young adult, calling elder folks by their first names that they should not, even if the older person asks them to?

Answer: I think the older person is asking a favor when he asks them to do so in the first place! Usually there is a definite reason as the old saying goes, and there is no reason why this is more apparent than when young people are allowed to "Mary" and "John" the friends of their parents. In my day, if a person was a family friend of the family, we were permitted to call her "Aunt Mary", giving her the courtesy title, but woe betide us if we dared omit the "Aunt." I think the procedure should be followed today, if the following be the older close.

Question: What are the proper deadlines for arrival and departure when you go to a six to eight o'clock cocktail?

Answer: Don't arrive before the hour, but arrive shortly after that time, stay no longer than an hour, even if you are having a dinner party. Hosts are expected for late arrivals, if you are a straggler, never stay longer than a half hour over the deadline set. Too often the last guest straggles out at eleven o'clock, which is a definite imposition on the hosts, and inexcusable.

DUBLIN (CP)—The Irish have developed into a people with a thirst for industry and export trade.

This is not surprising, for in the Republic of Ireland the government is giving the greatest emphasis to a development drive aimed at stemming the still alarmingly high flow of emigrants and boosting low social services and wage levels.

The program is beginning to bear fruit. Irishmen are beginning to talk more confidently about better times ahead — although they realize they still face a long struggle.

There are signs that the economy is reaching a take-off point towards self-sustaining growth. Senior officials and economists feel the nation is on the verge of a "considerable wave" of industrial expansion that could continue for at least a decade.

CAPITAL INVESTMENT UP

Foreign investment that was a trickle over the years has swollen into a stream. Since 1955 almost $19,000,000 has been pumped into factory construction and various development programs.

By the end of this year it is expected that the number of new factories may be double that for each of the two previous years. This would push to more than 100 the number of new plants since 1952.

Their success is reflected in steadily rising overseas sales. During the first half of 1960 exports totalled $191,000,000, up more than $22,000,000 from the same period a year ago.

The most striking sales increases are in manufactured and processed goods, oils, furs, textiles, chemicals and perfumes —new fields for a nation that in the past was largely an exporter of farm products and livestock.

ECONOMY SURVEYED

The 1958 Economic Survey, a general statement of aims for five-year period, outlined a program designed to "release the dynamic of progress" by stimulating capital growth.

Government spending is being diverted as much as possible from social needs to productive projects. The plan lays great stress on the achievement of higher productivity in farming, fishing and forestry.

But to increase employment more directly the main emphasis is to be on the development of industry and exports, and on attracting more foreign investment.

"We are particularly interested in attracting Canadian and American investment," says Prime Minister Sean Lemass, who as industry and commerce minister piloted the nation's economic programs for almost a quarter of a century.

ADVANTAGES OFFERED

"We think we have many advantages to offer. We have similar ways of life and there is no language problem."

The attractions of Ireland as a site for industry include generous government grants, tax-free export profits, a plentiful supply of industrious labor and a chance for a stake in both the emerging European trading blocs and the Commonwealth — where Ireland enjoys preferential trading arrangements.

Lemass noted that one Canadian mining company has been producing a steady flow of copper — all for export — from a deposit south of Dublin. Other Canadian companies are doing exploratory or preliminary development work in a number of areas with indications of mineral deposits.

The feeling in Irish trade circles is that there is plenty of room for trade expansion between Ireland and Canada. They have been doing business under the same trade agreement since 1933—an indication of the good relations between the two countries.

"There is no doubt that the trade agreement is a great advantage to us," the prime minister said.

CANADA BENEFITS MORE

But actual trade between the two countries is very much in Canada's favor. Last year the Canadians sold the Irish roughly $18,000,000 worth of goods and bought about $5,600,000 from them. Ireland's exports to Canada have been rising steadily over the years, however. The 1959 figure is more than double that of 1956.

This drive for industry and exports is aimed at providing jobs for the Irish at home. Through emigration the republic loses 35,000 people a year, mostly to Britain, but some to Canada and the U.S. A natural increase of 25,000 annually. The population now is about 2,830,000.

Most of the emigrants are young and the reasons they give talk of becoming a nation of old people.

Unemployment is a chronic problem. Current estimates are that almost seven per cent of the labor force of 1,200,000 is unemployed.

MORE

But the tide appears to be turning. One of the projects helping to accomplish this is the Shannon Development Authority. This was launched when the $35,000,000 airport and its 1,900 employees were faced with the fact that the newer transatlantic aircraft no longer have to stop there to refuel.

EIGHT FACTORIES BUILT

Behind the runways of this duty-free airport eight new factories have been established by manufacturers from the United States, Holland, Britain, Japan and West Germany. Bids for 18 other factories, being built or already built by the Authority, have also been received.

Light industries import parts by air and export products by air and are doing it successfully. Irish radios ranging from the pocket radios being shipped to Canada to floor polishers and pianos. A housing project has been started to provide accommodation for a population expected to reach 6,000 within five years.

To entice investors, the Republic of Ireland offers ready-built factories, gifts of money to cover half the cost of plant and machinery, help with cost of staff training, tax exemption for 25 years on export profits and partial exemption from local taxation.

A state sponsored industrial credit company has also been set up to help those who worthwhile project is killed by a lack of cash.

Elsewhere in the republic 90 projects have been launched since grants were introduced in 1952, most within the last four or five years. The $12,000,000 of government funds invested in grants and other assistance has created between 4,000 and 5,000 new jobs.

"A great deal remains to be done, but there is a common will to do it," said Prime Minister Lemass.

Rookie Fireman Presumed Dead In Toronto Fire

TORONTO (CP)—Robert Lodelow, 21, rookie fireman married less than a month, was missing and presumed dead Monday in a $500,000 blaze.

Fireman George Walford, 24, a veteran who accompanied Lodelow into the blazing basement of a south end supermarket and lost him in the smoke, was taken to hospital suffering from the effects of smoke inhalation.

Hours after the fire erupted at Lodelow store, the ruins were too hot to enter. Firemen had to abandon their search for Lodelow when the roof collapsed. The body was not expected, to be recovered until late today.

Six firemen in addition to Walford were treated for minor injuries at the scene.

STEAL TUT GOLD

CAIRO (AP)—Dr. Selim Hassan, Egyptian archaeologist, was quoted as saying 400 rare objects from the King Tut-Ank-Amen gold chamber are missing from the Egyptian museum. The missing objects included 65 pieces of gold.

CAMPBELLFORD

Ray McKinnon Re-Elected Head Of Boy Scouts DC

CAMPBELLFORD — Ray McKinnon of Campbellford was re-elected president of the Trent Valley District Council of the Boy Scouts Association at the annual meeting of the council here.

More than 50 representatives of the Association attended the meeting in the parish hall to elect officers for 1960-61, and to hear an address by Larry Wilcox, Provincial Field Commissioner of the Boy Scouts Association.

In his address Mr. Wilcox told the group that Scouting had been a successful movement among the youth of the world for more than 50 years and was a "thing of the moment." He said that he would be more pleased if parents who are leaders in the Scout movement would realize that Scouting is a continuing thing, and not limit their leadership to the period during which their own boys were members. "Scouting is a thing of the past, the present and the future," he said.

He explained that no one could see Scouting in that light, the turnover in leadership would not be so great and a better contribution could be made by the individual. He stated that the aims of Scouting are exactly the same as when Lord Robert Baden Powell devised scouting, but that the methods of teaching and carrying out the aims of Scouting have changed, and must continue to do so as the conditions of the times necessitated.

SCOUTING AIMS

He said the aims and objects of Scouting could be likened to the five quotations in the every journalist: who, what, why, when and where. He went on to outline what each of these words meant to Scouting and end with Scouting. Mr. Wilcox said that youth was Canada's most valuable resource, and that it was the duty of the Scout leaders to lead the youth in the direction of Abraham Lincoln's high resolves. Mr. Wilcox concluded "Scouting is a worthwhile cause."

Speaking of Scout as a long term friend, he said that in 100 years from now, no one would be concerned with what bank account one as an individual had built up today, but what would be most important was type of world one would be living in. He said that the type of world could depend on the youth of today and that Scouting was one of the contributions to mankind.

DELEGATES PRESENT

Delegates attended the annual meeting from Hastings, Norwood, Warkworth, Brighton and Campbellford. Although the village of Havelock is a member of the council, they had no representative at the meeting.

President Ray McKinnon welcomed the delegates and presided at the annual meeting. The members accepted a proposed budget for 1960-61 of more $1[illegible] to be split up among the six member municipalities. Field Commissioner Larry Wilcox said that the budget meant a per capita expenditure of only about 14 cents per uniformed member of the six hundred municipalities and congratulated the group on working on such a low budget. He said some groups operate on a per capita expenditure of more than $10.

COLORS PRESENTED

Donald D. Bennett, chairman of the Campbellford group, presented new Troop colors to Troop B of Campbellford. These were received by Scoutmaster Martin Bird and Assistant Scout Master Scotty Ingram. The colors were turned over to the group by Graydon Lee, secretary of the Campbellford Group committee.

District Commissioner Art Watkins, or Norwood, thanked the various groups for their support and said that the organization had accomplished all it had set out to do in its first year of operation.

1960-61 OFFICERS

Larry Wilcox presided for the election of officers, which saw Ray McKinnon returned as president, Lorne Rayfield of Hastings was named vice-president and Tom Smith of Campbellford was named secretary-treasurer. The nominating committee suggested the slate of officers which was unanimously accepted by the membership.

The nominating committee consisted of Art Watkins, Francis Parker and Gordon Oder, last year's secretary and manager of the Bank of Montreal in Campbellford.

Art Watkins was re-named executive's choice for District Commissioner. His appointment remains to be ratified by the Provincial command.

Mayor F. M. Rutherford extended his official welcome to delegates on behalf of the town and wished each one of them a safe journey home.

The Rev. Owen G. Barrow, of Campbellford, said he was always tremendously interested in Scouting and congratulated the committee and leaders in their work.

Father J. C. Moloney also spoke briefly saying that the Scout leaders were an important part of the community and performing a much needed service.

GREAT COMPOSER

Among other works, the composer Johann Sebastian Bach who died in 1750 wrote some 300 sacred cantatas.

RIVER PROJECT — Canadian-American agreement has been reached on a $458,000,000 three-dam water storage system to control flood waters from the Columbia River basin of British Columbia.

The 10-year project, which may be started in 1961, will bring B.C. 1,675,000 horsepower in power turned out at United States generators from Canadian-stored water.

The U.S. also will pay $85,000,000 as half the flood-damage saving made possible by the dams.

Costliest of the three dams (circled on map) will be a $277,000,000 Mica Creek installation on the Upper Columbia. The High Arrow dam 39 miles from the International boundary near Trail will cost $153,000,000 and the third, on Duncan Lake, which drains into the Kootenay River, will cost $28,000,000. White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Bayside Brownie Pack held its regular meeting recently in the form of a Hallowe'en party, at Quinte View School.

While the Brownies and Tweenies were preparing for their grand entrance into the meeting room, Brown Owl, Tawny Owl and Snowy Owl decorated the room with witches, skeletons, big black cats, and a big pumpkin which sat on the table, beaming with pride, happy to be taking part in the fun.

When everything was ready, Brown Owl called the Brownies and Tweenies to joint the party. There were ladies with long dresses trimmed with fur, angels, rabbits, a Japanese lady and clowns. All the characters paraded around the room. Tawny Owl and Snow Owl acted as judges.

Brownie Dana Glydon carried off first prize, dressed as a Japanese lady. Comic prize went to Brownie Joan Moase, as Peter Rabbit. All others received balloons.

The program consisted of candy hunts, games, peanut scramble, and ducking for apples. Hallowe'en candies were passed out to all and the program closed with the Brownies giving the leaders the grand howl and singing 'Goodnight Brownies.'

Pellet Food Stocks Fish Growth

Our hatchery managers today achieve a yearly increase in putting poundage on trout than they did 25 or 30 years ago. Then the standard hatchery food consisted mostly of refuse from the slaughter-house. This made poor fodder. The trout grew slowly and they simply were not fit to pet on the table until they had had the opportunity of living on natural food, once they had been stocked in our lakes and streams.

The next step was to feed sea food at the hatcheries — frozen mosshunker and menhaden, mostly — but this did produce a superior brand of hatchery trout. The minerals in sea food, notably iodine, seemed to give us more vigorous, colorful fish. Also, on this diet the ratio of pounds of food to pounds of trout became much more favorable than in former years.

Now the hatchery men have taken to using "pellet feed," an artificial preparation that contains all the minerals, proteins, fats, etc., that a trout needs on which to wax and grow fat. Under the old system of feeding liver, hatchery refuse and grain mash, it took 4½ pounds of food to grow one pound of trout. Today, using pellet food, young rainbow trout can put on a pound of weight by eating 1.8 pounds of food.

Because of this far more nutritious food, trout can now be grown from egg to ten inches in one year. It used to take two years to achieve the same growth. Well, in these days of put-and-take trout fishing, it is a fortunate thing for the nation's anglers that fish can be grown so rapidly. What with the rod pressure on our streams mushrooming annually, the hatcheries are hard-pushed to meet the demand, even with this marked improvement in feeding grounds.

WATER POLLUTION

Preservation of our national water supply is becoming more and more of a problem as the years pass. For some reason, all too many people regard a flowing stream as a Heaven-sent means of refuse disposal. Waste materials, both solids and liquids, are constantly dumped into streams, regardless of consequences. Their nature and high water are supposed to take over. Damaging results of such disposal methods rarely are noted until the perpetrators are taken to task by the powers that be.

Time was when we had plenty of pure water for everybody. Pollution of a few streams here and there, while deplored by some, generally was accepted as a sorry by-product of man's economy and that was all. But as the nation grew, so did the demand for pure water. Gradually anti-pollution laws came into being.

During the past 1¾ or 30 years there has been a tremendous nation-wide upsurge in water usage. The country as a whole has become definitely outdoor-minded — witness the mushrooming of boat and motor sales of late. Thus, recreational use of water is now a definite problem in that public health is very much involved.

As time goes on and manufacturing methods become more complicated and advanced, the pollution problem grows more complex. Synthetic chemicals, viruses, etc., must be considered and dealt with. Radioactive wastes in this new atomic age set up a disposal problem which has yet to be solved satisfactorily.

WILL INSECTS TAKE OVER

Many years ago some wise men predicted that in future years the insects would take over and control the earth. Somehow, as time goes on and we, who spend a great deal of time in the outdoors, watch the trend of outdoor affairs, it seems that this prediction can, in a sense, be true. Insects today threaten to seem to be more vicious than I remember them to be when I was a boy.

As you know, our climate is changing. Now, right here in Pennsylvania the average daily temperature is quite a few degrees higher than it was years ago. Many of our southern insects could not tolerate the chilly winter temperatures of former years. Thus, they stayed in the warmer latitudes and were not here to torture and annoy us.

Until ten years ago, such a thing as chigger or "red bug" was unknown to us here. Not so today. Our home is located in a sandy-loam plot in an area largely generally as Sand Hill. Here and there on the property is an outcropping of silica sand and about the only things that will grow on these places are huckleberry bushes and what we call "rough grass." The latter dies rather quickly in the hot summer months and turns brown.

If you are acquainted with chiggers, you know that dead vegetation is preferred as a place to live. The result is that our patches of bunch grass are alive with chiggers. Now that lush growth of huckleberries is there for anybody who wants it. One complication with those guardian chiggers was enough.

On the golf course the story is much the same. Twenty years ago we played golf in pants. Short sleeves, openwork shirts and shorts presented no problems. Not so now. About ten years ago a little gnat, similar to the northwoods black fly, appeared in swarms. The biologists tell us that this pest actually is a southern version of the black fly's second cousin of sorts. They burr around your head, getting into ears and eyes, and their bite is irritating and painful. Insect repellent is now an integral part of my golfing equipment.

Only this year two new biting pests have been added to our golf-course troubles — a tiny black beetle-type thing and a jet-black fly, similar to a house fly about one-third the size. Both of these blood-thirsty little devils and their bite is even worse than that of the black fly-gnat mentioned above.

So all hail the Imports, such as the Japanese beetle and Dutchmaid these can do. Being in no sense an entomologist, I can set comment on these, but reports and talks with farmers indicate that new insect pests are serving to make agriculture more complicated than it used to be.

OTTAWA (CP) — A one-time jockey makes sure that Canadians, who bet more than $100,000,000 on race horses last year, get a run for their money.

J. D. (Jim) Higginson, 63-year-old turf veteran who has traded his stable for a desk chair, became the federal government's race track betting supervisor in 1934.

He and two assistants, eight mathematically-minded girls and 75 specially-trained RCMP officers watch every penny risked at 36 tracks in every province except Quebec.

Science, in the form of special chemical tests and photography, has helped them police the tracks so well that the only trouble they have these days comes from patrons.

"These are only minor infractions like trying to mutilate a ticket to defraud the race track," the native of Ottawa said in an interview. "And there's very little of that.

"No race tracks in the world have the close supervision that we have and it's likely that the big tracks wouldn't want to operate without it now. We protect them as well as the public."

The federal protection, called for under the Criminal Code, also has an indirect benefit to the track owner. It increases the public's confidence and the betfor risks more, said Mr. Higginson who travels to each park at least once a year to make sure that this confidence is well placed.

"We very rarely get a complaint."

Race track betting—both harness and thoroughbred—is big business and the investors "must get their money's worth."

RECORD WAGERS

The "business" has climbed from $25,137,598 bet in the depression year of 1933 to $120,689,582 in 1959. This year the figure will be even higher. In Ontario, for example, betting is already up about $3,000,000 over 1959.

Harness racing came under supervision in 1931 and by 1934 fans had bet $7,857,826 in 226 days. Today there are more harness raceways than there are thoroughbred race tracks — 65 against 18—and last year in 459 days wagers totalled $13,556,358.

Of every $2 wagered on races goes towards cost of the protection supervised by Mr. Higginson and his two ex-RCMP assistants, S. B. (Sid) Pratt, 40-year-old native of Moose Jaw, Sask., and British-born Brian Middleton, 29.

All three men split up on inspection trips, fanning out across the country throughout the racing season to help the 75 specially-selected RCMP officers always at the tracks.

REPORT TO OTTAWA

The track officers, from three to seven plainclothesmen at each track depending on its size, check parimutuel betting and send in reports after every race to the Ottawa headquarters for daily rechecking by the crew of girls.

All have to be good at mathematics and the men are handpicked for their ability not only in handling people and figures but in making snap decisions. It's up to the men on the job to decide quickly whether there has been a mistake and who is in wrong.

"There is very little possibility of an infraction" as photography and chemical tests round out the work of the men to give the public "every protection."

Every race is filmed throughout and all major tracks have a projection room—some of them overlooking the paddock and betwheels—where the judges can review a contentious race. Still photos are taken of every race finish.

Qualified chemists analyze urine and saliva tests taken of every winner—after each race—and any other horse the judges decide to take" to make certain that drugs haven't been used to stimulate or retard a contestant.

All equipment and betting innovations have to be approved by the service, part of the agricultural department.

Joe Hogan Of Galt Broke Ankle

GALT (CP)—Galt Terriers of the Ontario Hockey Association eastern division have lost centreman Joe Hogan for an undetermined period.

Hogan suffered a broken right ankle in the Terriers' 4-3 win in Belleville last Friday. The ankle will be in a cast for at least five weeks and he isn't expected to play until the new year.

Terriers lead the eastern circuit with four wins in as many games.
